Instant Dismissal Of Hospital Supt. Is Recommended

Judge Condems Action Of Atkin at Detroit Party

Windsor, June 1 (CP)— Immediate dismissal of Horace Atkin as business superintendent of Metropolitan General Hospital was recommended today by Judge Eric Cross as evidence in a Royal Commission probe into affairs of the hospital concluded.

Actions of Mr. Atkin at a ball in Detroit Feb. 18 "reflected unfavorably" and "I cannot condemn him too strongly" Judge Cross said.

Judge Cross' blast at Mr. Atkin came as a surprise. It was previously announced by commission counsel George Mitchell that hearings would be adjourned today until possibly the middle of this month during which time written testimony would be considered. Formal recommendations were expected at that time.

Mr. Atkin has been under fire during the nine days of evidence 30 witnesses gave before Judge Cross, one-man Ontario Royal Commission.

Hearings were adjourned until written reports of testimony have been studied and presented to counsels. Judge Cross indicated resumption might be ordered the third or fourth week of June.

Nurses testified Mr. Atkin and other prominent Windsor men accompanied them to a press photographers' ball in Detroit. Other nurses said Mr. Atkin tried to date them on numerous occasions.

Detroit Party

Establishment of facts that there was a party in Detroit to which Mr. Atkin had invited nurses led Judge Cross to make his dismissal recommendation.

"It is evident that Mr. Atkin invited four nurses to accompany him and certain others to a press photographers' ball in Detroit, he said.

"These nurses were invited to go unchaperoned with married men. According to evidence they went to a bedroom and later to a hotel suite from which they made frequent excursions to and from the ballroom."

Judge Cross said the evidence failed to disclose any improper conduct.

Nurses identified (on a Royal Commission ruling) has Miss D,F,F, and testified Atkin asked them for dates at various times.

"This was denied by Mr. Atkin but his denial lacked conviction." Judge Cross said. "On the other hand I am bound to say the evidence of these nurses had the ring of truth."

STOCKS STEADY AND SOME SHOW SLIGHT RECOVERY

Activity Was Brisk at Opening of Exchange, Then Tended to Slacken

Toronto, June 1—(CP)—Stock prices steadied as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Some opening losses were wiped out and many issues began a slow recovery movement in mid - session from yesterday's sharp setback.

Activity was brisk at the opening and then tended to slacken. A wide list of industrial issues continued to show slightly lower prices but some of the gains, especially in paper stocks, were strong.

Mining issues showed some good advances. Junior gold producers began their recovery movement shortly after a weak opening. Some base metal stocks climbed slowly into the gain column.

Western oil issues made the best recovery of the four major lists. Leaders climbed strongly on steady buying.

A few new lows appeared on the central board in the opening burst.

Yesterday's selling wave that gave the market its hardest blow since March 16, 1948, was general. At Montreal stocks hit new lows and the New York market slumped in the face of a selling drive.

In Toronto, 141 stocks sold at new lows for the year, the largest total of new lows for any day in 1949. The 399 individual issues which appeared on the ticker tape during the day marked the broadest market here for many months.

The average loss, as measured by the Toronto Stock Exchange index, was the widest since March 16, 1948, and the six-day break in prices has been unequalled since the darkest days of the North African campaign in 1942.

Basic reasons were advanced yesterday by brokers for the slump in the base metal stocks. Prices for lead, zinc and copper have tumbled anywhere from 35 to 45 per cent within the space of two months. While most Canadian base metal producers in the first quarter of this year, prospects for the balance of the year have been dimmed by the fact that even at the current lower metal prices, buyers are still remaining on the sidelines.

Industrially, brokers could only point to the excellent reports which have been made by the great majority of companies on first quarter earnings and were at a loss to account for the sharp reaction in these stocks.

Canada's wholesale business in the first quarter of the year was 3 per cent above the 1948 total, while retail sales gained 4 per cent according to the Bureau of Statistics. Almost every industry reported increased shipments up to April and manufacturers reported lower inventories for March.

April department store sales were 15 percent higher than a year ago, the largest gains being in the agricultural areas.

Employment in eight leading industries has made gains each month over a year ago and average weekly earnings of hourly wage-earners set a new peak in March. National income in Canada this year, it has been estimated will be nearly $1,000,000,000 more than the $15,514,000,000 record established in 1948.

Brokers did view the lightness of trading on the decline as a healthy sign, saying the break has been far from a panic.

Asks Approval To Give Bonus Of $20,000,000

Detroit, June 1 — (AP)—The Detroit Free Press says today General Motors Corporation has asked the Securities and Exchange Commission to approve a $20,000,000 bonus for 550 officers and employees.

In a Washington dispatch, the newspaper reports the bonus will be paid partly in stock, with a market value of $55 a share, and partly in five annual cash payments. The bonus is for 1948. In that year General Motors did $4,738,000,000 in gross volume of business and had net income of $440,447,000.

AID FOR FISHERMEN

New Hormone Treatment Successful In Worst Arthritis Cases Doctors Told

New York, June 1 — (AP) — The first good remedy for the worst form of arthritis was reported to the International Congress of Rheumatic Diseases now in session here.

However, there is not more than enough to treat 20 persons at present.

The remedy is a new hormone, called Compound E, from adrenal glands in your back. The big handicap now is that Compound E is difficult to make.

Only 29 patients have so far been treated with the new medicine, Dr. Philip S. Hench of the Mayo Clinic, New York, said.

Compound E, which has no relation to Vitamin E, has worked on every case of rheumatoid arthritis, the form that bows the shoulders of young men and leaves them permanently bent like old men and turns women's fingers into claws.

In every case patients got better. Improvement stopped, or dropped, when Compound E was no longer given.

A woman at the Mayo Clinic, who could not get out of bed, was downtown shopping a week after she started this medicine. A physician got out of bed after a few days and danced a jig.

Present prospect, said Dr. Hench, is that people will have to keep on taking Compound E. How often they must repeat is not known.

Nor are some possible complications known. One or more of the women got a few silky whiskers on their cheeks. Some patients became excessively happy after taking the compound, but later became depressed.

COARSE GRAINS TO BE MARKETED BY WHEAT BOARD

New Regulations Commence on Aug. 1

Ottawa, June 1 — (CP) — The Trade Department today announced the marketing of oats and barley will be undertaken by the Canadian Wheat Board Aug. 1, a move which may eventually eliminate speculation in the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

An agricultural official said that the entry of the board into the business of buying and selling coarse grains is expected to have a "stabilizing" effect on prices which may help the farmer obtain greater security.

There was no immediate indication how the wheat board will go about marketing arrangements. An official said it may either take over complete handling of coarse grains or may simply enter into the business of buying and selling, along with the exchange.

If the marketing of coarse grains is taken away from the exchange, it will mean that the men in the pits will be able to trade only in rye and flaxseed — two commodities already in surplus.

Established in 1935

The wheat board was established in 1935, when it started buying and selling wheat along with the grain exchange. In 1943, when the price of wheat was frozen by the government, the board took over the complete marketing and the exchange found its business diminishing.

The price the board will pay for oats and barley may swing the marketing wheel one way or the other. This may not be announced until the board starts marketing Aug. 1, start of the 1949-50 crop year.

The department said in a statement that marketing of western-grown oats and barley will come under the jurisdiction of the board on all deliveries during the 1949-50 crop year which starts Aug. 1.

This policy of authorizing the Wheat Board to take over coarse grain sales previously carried out by the Winnipeg Grain Exchange came by way of an amendment to the Canadian Wheat Board Act, passed by parliament in 1948.

Both in sessions of parliament in 1948 and 1949 Trade Minister Howe indicated that Wheat Board authorization to undertake coarse-grain marketings would begin whenever the Prairie Provinces passed complementary legislation.

All three provinces now have passed complementary legislation. The Saskatchewan government was the first to make the move by passing an act in 1948. Alberta and Manitoba legislatures completed legislation a few months ago.

Cormorant Eggs Being Poisoned

Sudbury, June 1 — (CP) — In a war on cormorant eggs along the north shore of Georgian Bay, 400 eggs were poisoned by hypodermic acid injection, wildlife specialist Charles Bibby of the Ontario Lands and Forests Department, announced today.

The cormorants have been causing considerable annoyance to commercial fishermen by diving into pound nets and killing fish and wildlife overseers went to the area to treat the eggs. Poor weather is credited with reducing the number of eggs usually laid by these birds at this time of the year. Overseers will return to the north shore in about three weeks to check on the poisoned eggs.

Hardly Any Interval Between Shots Says Girl as Man Committed on Murder Charge

Welland, June 1 (CP)—George J. Szendrey, 28, of Humberstone village today was committed for trial on a charge of murder.

Szendrey is charged with the wiener roast murder of 18-year-old Harold Sneztsky, Buffalo high school student at Pleasant Beach last May 15. Sneztsky, Richard Joseph, 19, and two girl companions were accosted by an armed man who said he wanted the girls. Joseph was wounded in the shooting that followed.

First witnesses was Dr. Lorne Whitaker, St. Catharines pathologist, who said Sneztsky died of a large wound in his right forhead.

Girl Gives Evidence

Geraldine Firolto, 18, Buffalo, said the group arrived at Pleasant Beach around 11 p.m. May 14 in a car owned by Joseph. They stayed about an hour and 12.15 started towards the car.

"Dick Joseph and I were walking ahead of Lydia Luisi and Harold Sneztsky. I started around the back of car and I looked up and saw this man leaning against the lodge gate. I went back to Dick Joseph and told him a man was there. Dick said not to get excited. We didn't say anything and the man didn't either."

"I was putting the radio in the car and I saw something long and glittering in his right hand. I thought it was a knife. I got off the running board and told Dick Joseph 'he has something in his hand."

"The man came over and stood within two feet of Harold. The man raised his arm and shot. I saw flashes. Harold fell. He shot again. Dick shoved me behind the door. Lydia hid beneath the car. The man shot again and Dick fell. Three shots were fired in all. The third one hit Dick. There was hardly any interval between shots."

Fell To Ground

"The man ran from where he was standing around the car to where I was hiding behind the door. I saw his shoes and felt something cold against my forehead. I though it was a gun. I thought he was going to shoot me and I fell to the ground.

"Lydia got over to where Dick was lying and she was crying for Harold. The man walked around to where Lydia and Dick were. The man said 'come with me' and Dick Joseph said 'no, leave her alone. We didn't do anything. Let us go. Why did you do it.'

"The man said again: 'Come with me.' I walked over. We asked him if we could go for a doctor. He said 'no.'

"I had a flashlight and saw Harold bleeding profusely.

"Dick asked the man if he would leave us alone. The man said no. He was in too much trouble already.

"I asked him if he knew how old Harold was. I said he's just 18 and you're letting him lie there and die. Harold was making a terrible sound. I convinced him he should let me see Harold.

Going To Hit Him

"I got behind the man and was going to hit him with the flash light when he turned. He told Lydia and I to come with him to the lodge. Dick insisted on coming and Lydia and I on either side of Dick. Dick kept putting his weight on us so we couldn't walk too fast.

"We came to a fence and asked the man if he would lift the cable. As he did this, Dick grabbed the gun and shot twice. The man ran over a sand dune.

"We got to the car. Dick was trying to steer with one hand, holding the gun in his right hand. I took the gun and tried to shoot but the gun wouldn't work. When I turned the flashlight on Harold I flashed it across the man's face. He was that man sitting there.

She pointed to Szendrey and said there was no doubt he was the man.

"I had the gun in the car as we drove up the road. We got to a farmhouse and knocked on the door. The farme (Claude Sider) took the gun out of my hand and put it on a shelf. He helped Dick from the car and called police.

Dr. E. A. Mackenzie, Port Colborne, said he was called to Sider farmhouse at Pleasant Beach around 2.30 a.m. He picked up the two girls and a provincial police officer, and drove to the beach. Snezisky was unconscious with a bad wound in the head. "He was doomed from the moment he was shot," the doctor said. He died around 5 a.m.

3 Union Officials Ordered To Stand Trial, Judge Asks Three Other Charges be Laid

Sherbrooke, Que., June 1. (CP)—The preliminary hearing of three Asbestos Union officials ended today and Judge Irene Lagarde of Montreal, commented that he had "never presided at such a revolting hearing as this one."

The three were ordered to stand trial at the next fall assizes of court of King's Bench. The judge also ordered three additional charges laid in addition to those of conspiring to incite illegal assembly and of resisting police.

Judge Lagarde fixed property bail at $10,000 for Rene Roch of Montreal, a union organizer. Bail of $2,000 each was continued for Rodolphe Hamel, president of the Federation of Asbestos Workers, and Armand Larivee, head of the Miners' Syndicate in Asbestos, Que., scene of a riotous outbreak early in May in connection with the strike of 5,000 Asbestos workers.

Judge Lagarde said the evidence heard was sufficient to send the men to trial on these additional charges, which he formally ordered laid:

Conspiracy to intimidate, assault on the persons of officers, carrying illegal weapons which could become dangerous to the public.

"The violence which flared was directed not only against the laws of the province but was also in defiance of the Federal law, Judge Lagarde said.

Not only were representatives of authority molested and disarmed but they were beaten and imprisoned in a manner which is completely revolting."

Judge Lagarde complimented provincial police on their conduct at Asbestos.

"These men were wise in not resisting and in not using their arms during this rebellion. If, as they had a right to do they had made use of their weapons, what would have happened? There might have been bloodshed and sad consequences for many, particularly the little man who sometimes suffers for those who are behind the scenes pushing him on.

"In addition to the criminal law which says picketing should be peaceful, there is also the declaration of the rights of man, which says that every man is free to work when and where he wishes. This law exists not only here but in all peaceful countries and those who brought about this present situation have done a very sorry piece of work."

Negotiations For Release of Sloop Bog Down

Shanghai, June 1 (AP)—British naval sources said today negotiations for the release of the sloop Amethyst from Communist-held Yangtze river water had bogged down.

The sloop was damaged last month in a two-day battle with Chinese Communist shore guns between Shanghai and Nanking. Some 44 British sailors board the Amethyst and three other British ships, including the cruiser London, were killed in the running battle.

The Amethyst, her captain killed and many of her crew of 150 wounded, went aground about 60 miles east of Nanking. Sixty of the Amethyst's crew are still aboard.

It was not known here whether the Communists near the grounded sloop had authority to release her. British sources said Communists in the area had been demanding reparations on behalf of the families of 254 Red casualties of the battle. The Reds claim the British fired first.

STEEL SCARCITY THING OF PAST IN DOMINION

Fabricators Can Get All Steel Requested

Ottawa, June 1 (CP)—The steel scarcity in Canada is over.

Trade officials said today steel bottlenecks, which held up home construction, shipbuilding and hydro development, are a thing of the past.

For the first time in the post-war period, Canadian fabricators can get all the steel they need — without permits.

The break came as a surprise to Canada where stringent control has been kept over the flow of steel from the United States and allocation to Canadian industry.

It started with a softening in demand in the U.S. and trickling indications came more than a month ago that Canada could get as much steel from the U.S. as she wanted.

Now American steel is flowing into Canada at the rate of about 100,000 tons a month. Canadian producers, however, still are working at peak capacity.

There is no slide expected in the Canadian steel price picture, this year at least. Canada still is producing her 3,200,000 ingot tons a year.

May Prove Indicator

But across the border the picture is not as bright and trade officials believe that it may prove an indicator to the Canadian price level within the next 12 months.

While demand in the U.S. is slackening, it is still keeping up in Canada. Many fabricators still are working on a backlog of orders. Hydro and petroleum development is continuing at a high level and such developments mean continual orders for more steel.

However, shipbuilding and rolling stock for railways appear to be falling off. Railways are looking for another boost in freight rates before they put more money into new equipment.

Should a slight falling-off of Canadian demand develop, all Canada would have to do is stop buying American steel, while the chimneys of Canadian mills still would be puffing some.

Canada, too, is importing steel from the United Kingdom—about 90,000 tons in 1949. That's about three times the amount she bought from the U.K. in 1948.

Model Industrial City Being Planned For Ajax District

Ajax, Ont., June 1 (CP) — A community planned as a model industrial city of 30,000 persons is rising here on the site of a wartime munitions-making town which for the last few years has housed a division of the University of Toronto.

The new town will be built in about five residential areas, each with 1,000 homes, shopping districts and schools.

Radio and television sets will soon be produced by Pye, Canada, Ltd, a subsidiary of Pye Radio of Cambridge, England, one of the first industries to start operations here.

London "Bobby" Has Hard Time Keeping Kids From Bathing in River

London, June 1 — (CP)—One of the toughest jobs in London is that of the policeman on duty at the Lido, Hyde Park. In fact, anyone less tenacious than a London "bobby" would probably give it up as hopeless.

The job is to stop youngsters from bathing in the Serpentine. Why? Because the Ministry of Works says bathing in the river is not allowed before the official start of the summer season.

The fun begins any sunny morning around 10 a. m. As fast as the policeman calls one boy out of the water, another sneaks in. And if he turns his back for two minutes he'll find the water full of bobbing heads and splashing arms. Then . . .

"Come out of there, the lot of you," cries the Bobby with commanding gestures. Immediately there is a great commotion and shouting and the youngsters rush out of the water like Commandos; for most London children still have an awesome respect for the law.

"It's one long headache all day," sighed P. C. A/176. "Y'see the real trouble is there are no boats or life - saving apparatus around here. Which means that if one of them got into difficulties I'd have to go in myself — uniform and all.

"That's happened, too, before now. Two years ago a pal of mine in the force jumped in after a boy who couldn't swim and had the nerve to get himself into deep water. And all he got for his pains was a black eye from the boy's foot. The kid kicked like mad."

During holidays the situation gets completely out of hand and it would require a whole division of police and the Thames River patrol as well to enforce the "no bathing" rule.

"What is worse," P. C. A/176 said, "some of the young varmints use my patrol hut as a dressing room. One time they even bust the lock in order to use it."

As he was talking P. C. A/176 looked up at some clouds blowing in the direction of the party.

"Thank goodness," he said, "it's going to rain again."

Father, Daughter Burned to Death In House Blaze

Two Sons Severely Burned, Mother, Baby Escape Unhurt

Dixie, Ont., June 1 — (CP)— William Belford, 26, and his four-year-old daughter Sharon were burned to death Tuesday when fire destroyed their home here, 10 miles west of Toronto. Belford's two sons, Ronald and Melville were severely burned but Mrs. Belford and the baby, Nancy, three weeks, escaped unhurt.

The boys were taken to hospital and operated upon today. Ronald, the most seriously injured, is almost completely encased in bandages. Doctors used the new 'aluminum foil" treatment on his burns. Melville, burned about the arms and head is reported able to sit up.

Firemen fought the blaze for more than two hours before they were able to look for the bodies. Belford was burned to death when he ran back into the flaming house to rescue his daughter Sharon. Their bodies were found in the kitchen.

Firemen said they were hampered in fighting the fire by lack of water. The well they were using went dry shortly after they arrived necessitating trips to a hydrant about a quarter of a mile away.

Roaring Fire Burns 500,000 Gallons of Oil

Omaha, June 1 — (AP) — A roaring fire which had burned 500,000 gallons of oil today threatened to destroy still more at the Searle Petroleum Company here.

The fire started Tuesday afternoon when a blast of undetermined origin rocked the distribution and refining plant and sent a huge tank rocketing 50 feet in tht air.

Explosions wrecked other tanks and made an inferno of the company's storage yard. The 12th of 33 tanks in the yard began to blaze early today.

Weary, oil-blackened firemen abandoned efforts to control the fire in smaller tanks in the yard and concentrated on trying to keep the blaze from spreading to a huge 500,000 gallon tank.

H. A. Searle, head of he petroleum firm, estimated that from 500,000 to 675,000 gallons of oil had gone up in smoke.

Lee Huff, Omaha municipal airport manager, who was flying over when one of the tanks exploded, said flames leaped to the level of his plane at 1,200 feet.

MANY FACE EVICTIONS

Toronto, June 1 — (CP)—From 300 to 350 families in suburban York township face eviction this month, Welfare Officer John Smith said today. This is a large drop from the 500 which officials in February expected would be evicted this month.

Reeve W. Beech said today the housing situation had been eased somewhat by a few industries whose owners had bought houses for their employees.

FATHER KIDNAPS BABY DAUGHTER FROM WIFE'S HOME

Threatens to Kill Child if Police Try to Enter One-Room Flat

Montreal, June 1 — (CP) — Gordon Holden, 28, was taken to police cells Tuesday night after he kidnapped his 17-month-old baby from his estranged wife's home and threatened to kill the child with a dagger if police attempted to enter his one-room flat.

He faces arraignment on charges of disturbing the peace and threatening police with a dagger and an open-razor.

Police reported Holden and his 26-year-old wife, who has been living with her parents in suburban Verdun since they separated two years ago, were not legally separated. No charge of kidnapping is expected to be laid against him.

Police said Holden visited his wife's home Tuesday night and asked to take the baby, Wayne, in his arms.

Then he suddenly ran out of the house and escaped in a waiting taxicab, taking the child with him.

Police found him locked up in his rooming house and said he refused to allow them to enter.

When police pounded on the door, he is reported to have yelled: "If you come in here, I'll kill this baby and use the razor and this dagger on you too."

Police entered the room with a pass-key.

The razor was found on the top of a bureau while the dagger was found planted in the door.

The baby, who slept through it all, was returned to his mother.

Won't Contravene Will by Entering Into Contract

Toronto, June 1 — (CP)—Mr. Justice G. A. Gale ruled Tuesday that the Sick Children's Hospital here could enter into a contract with Toronto General Hospital without contravening the will of the late John Ross Robertson.

Mr. Robertson, founder of the Telegram, left most of his estate to the hospital with the stipulation that the institution be kept clear of domination by other establishments. The hospital asked to enter into a contract with General Hospital for a supply of heat from a co-operative heating plant.

The heating plant, which supplies four Toronto hospitals, is expected to cut the annual fuel bill of the institutions by $70,000.

WHEREABOUTS OF MAN BEING SOUGHT

The whereabouts of Ernest Neeley Phillips, believed to be living in Belleville or Belleville district, is being sought by city hall officials who have received a request from relatives in the United States.

The letter was received from a niece, of Mr. Phillips, who during the war married an American serviceman in England. Her father still resides in England. Anyone knowing of the whereabouts of Mr. Phillips is asked to write or call the city clerk's office at Belleville.

Greater Safety Measures Urged By Police Chief

"If Belleville motorists would pay as much attention to local 'stop signs', speed limits and traffic warning signals, as they do when visiting a strange town this city would be a lot safer for drivers and pedestrians alike."

This was stated today by Police Chief Walter Probert in an appeal for greater safety measures on city streets.

"When a person travels the same streets every day and sees the same trees and buildings he becomes so familiar that he fails to notice them," the chief continued. "The same thing is true of traffic signs."

"They say familiarity breeds contempt but in the case of traffic signs it breeds accidents as well. When a motorist stops noticing "stop" signs at his home corner, the warning sign at the school or playground, or the cross-arm sign at the railway crossing, he is simply headed for trouble."

The chief went on to say there had been a considerable number of traffic accidents on city streets this year in fact slightly more than in the same period last year. Stopping the summer increase in accidents will take a lot of effort by everyone and the least motorists can do is to pay a little more attention to familiar signs, that have been erected to warn of potential danger.

"Where complacency becomes dangerous, as it does with people in this matter of traffic safety signals, the only safe thing to do is to look at every familiar signal as though it were a complete stranger," stated the chief.

Fraternal Visit Montreal Lodge Enjoyable Affair

A special event of interest to Masons in the district was a fraternal visit of St. Andrew's Lodge A.F. & A.M. No. 53, G.R.2, of Montreal to The Belleville Lodge A.F. & A.M. No. 123, G.R.C. on Saturday evening. The visiting lodge, whose membership includes many employees of the Northern Electric Co., in Montreal and of this city, was well represented. Wor. Bro. Lloyd Whelan, W.M., of St. Andrew's Lodge was accompanied by a number of his officers who assisted him in presenting a feature of Masonic education that will long be remembered by a large number of Belleville District Masons.

Wor. Bro. Raymond Gunsolus presided at the banquet. The brethren joined in a rousing singsong led by Bro James Bankier with Bro. Leo Riggs at the piano. Later an attentive audience had the pleasure of hearing Bro. Bankier sing two beautiful ballads, and of hearing Bro. Leo. Riggs render a piano solo.

Many Toasts Given

Thee toasts included that to the visiting brethren proposed by Wor. Bro. Gordon Anderson. Wor. Bro. Lloyd Whelan very capably responded to the toast and spoke appreciatively of the opportunity of coming to The Belleville Lodge and of the welcome he and his party had received. He also extended an invitation to the members of The Belleville Lodge to visit St. Andrew's Lodge in Montreal.

Of special interest was the response of V. Wor. Bro. J. Blackie, of Montreal who is celebrating his sixtieth year in Masonry, while eighty-four years of age, V. Wor. Bro. J. Blackie delighted the audience with a couple of comic songs accompanied by Bro. Leo Riggs. V. Wor. Bro. J. Blackie is the father of Bro. S G. Blackie, Secretary of St. Andrew's Lodge, who was also present and responded. Another visitor from Montreal in the person of W. Bro. Geo. Richards entertained the gathering with a number of songs. His son too was among the visitors. The attention of those present was drawn to the fact that Bro. George Foster who has lived in Belleville for thirty-eight years is a member of St. Andrew's Lodge, Montreal.

Instructive Address

The feature event of the evening was an address by Stuart C. Richardson of the staff of the Public Relations Branch of the Northern Electric Co., who was appropriately introduced by W. Bro. P. L. Alcorn of this city. The subject of the address was "The Symbols of Freedom", the Thistle, the Shamrock, the Rose, and the Fleur-de-Lis. Mr. Richardson cleverly illustrated how the people of the nations which these respective symbols represent found their ways to Canada in search of freedom and of plenty and how they have become bound together by certain common aims and interests.

Wor. Bro. L. A. Kells rose to move a vote of thanks to those who had contributed toward making the fraternal visit one long to be remembered.

Plans of New Masonic Temple Laid Before Members of Order

Proposals for a new Masonic Temple for the Masons of this community were placed before a large gathering of members of the order at a meeting held in the Collegiate auditorium on Tuesday evening. Wor. Bro. Everett Wood was chairman and Wor. Bro. J. E. Marsh, chairman of the building committee gave a comprehensive outline of the projected undertaking. The plans call for a thoroughly modern structure to meet the needs of the membership and the site chosen is on Foster Avenue on a lot sufficiently large to accommodate the temple and to provide for parking and other facilities necessary in this day and age.

The proposed temple will have three floors, the ground or basement floor, the main floor and an upper floor. On the lower floor will be a large hall, provision for an Eastern Star lodgeroom, kitchen, banquet hall and janitor's quarters. The main floor will be the impressive entrance to the temple. Here there will be an auditorium of approximately 3,300 square feet and other rooms. On the upper floor will be the lodgeroom, 44 feet by 52 feet, preparation rooms, a large recreation room and library.

Wor. Bro. Percy W. Geen, chairman of finance in the Masonic Temple Corporation, outlined to the brethren the campaign to raise the funds for the new home and headquarters of local Freemasonry.

Brilliant Address

Bro. Capt. the Rev. Norman Rawson of Hamilton, introduced as guest speaker by Bro. the Ven. Archdeacon Smith, was in his happiest mood in a brilliant address to the assembly. He referred to the fact that the communion service in his church was loyally attended by the members of his congregation and gave as the reason for it the symbolism of our Lord's suffering. He spoke of the glory of the Book of Common Prayer. In the Communion Service there is satisfied the longing of the human soul expressed in symbolism that is adequate. He added that things worth while have to have a symbol for expression. He called on the Masons to "erect a temple that will express the deep and spiritual longing" of man. "Why a Masonic Temple?" he asked and noted that there are forces out to undermine the life of the people. He closed by urging the necessity of satisfying the need of today and said "in Masonry is truth."

Musical Program

The musical portion of the program was of great interest. Miss Helen Grant displayed her brilliant gifts as xylophonist, accompanied at the piano by her mother Mrs. W. G. Grant. Miss Grant played a number of selections and won the round after round of applause on her fine performance. She can look to a brilliant future in her command of this instrument of her choice.

Bro. James D. Bankier sang a number of selections and won unstinted praise on his choice of numbers and the excellence of his rendition. Bro. Leo B. Riggs was pianist and accompanist, the numbers he contributed before the meeting opened being rendered with all the skill of the true artist.

Appreciation of the address by the speaker and the artists was expressed by Wor. Bro. Gerald Anderson and Wor. Bro. Cliff Baragar and carried.

The address system was supplied by the Northern Electric Corporation.

Smaller Children To Have Park In Foster Ward

The smaller children of Foster Ward are to have a playground for the summer according to Art Keegan, Commissioner of the Parks Board. With H. N. Becker, another Commissioner of the Board, the two will form a committee to survey and investigate places in the city that can be used for small parks so that little children will have a chance to play. It is hoped said Mr. Keegan, that interested citizens will take a part by assisting to buy equipment for these playgrounds and also donate property if available.

It is the intention of the Parks Board to close the park at the head of John Street and landscape same so that it can be used as a rest place in that district of the city. Chairs will be placed throughout the grounds.

Harry Smith, who has continually resided in Foster Ward, has kindly donated a large lot at the corner of St. Paul Street and Church Street and this ground will be used. Swings, sand boxes slides and teeter-totters will be placed for the use of the children and it is hoped to have the playground opened by June 15.

CELEBRATING PENSION RATE

Toronto, June 1 (CP)—Responding to an alarm today, city firemen wheeled up to a downtown rooming house to find more fire-water than fire.

The firemen interrupted an oldsters wine party to throw a burning mattress out into the back yard where it was doused with water.

The oldsters were apparently celebrating their new pension rate when firemen arrived.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, June 1 — (CP)—Firming tendencies appeared as the session progressed here today. Activity tended to slacken as many issues began a slow recovery movement. Industrials continued to show a slight easier tone while junior gold producers made the best recovery. Base metals were lighter.

Industrials opened on a continuation of Tuesday's sharp break but firmed as buying support slowly entered the market. Many early fractional losses were reduced and gains began to appear, especially in the paper list. Several issues touched new lows at the opening.

Today's slight firmness halted the six successive sessions of declining prices. Changes were held to fractions in the industrial board.

Gains in junior producers ranged up to about 15 cents while senior golds were quiet.

Consolidated Smelters, an early loser in base metals, climbed upwards in mid - session to show a mild gain. Waite Amulet was strongly ahead and Labrador, Pend Oreille and East Sullivan advanced.

Eastman, Que., June 1 — (CP) — A R. C. M. P. bloodhound was brought here early today to help in the search for six-year-old Michel Fontaine, who disappeared Monday night after he had gone for his father's cows.

Hope of finding him alive was dimming after Tuesday night's cold and rain.

Hundreds of searchers set out Tuesday night combing the woods and fields near this village, 25 miles from Sherbrooke, Que.

The boy was last seen when he and an older brother went to a pasture. The brother, fearing the child might become lost, sent him home. Apparently Michel became lost on the way home.

Next 25 Years 'Most Crucial In History'

Sarnia, Ont., June 1 — (CP)— "There is a real upsurge of interest noted in the work of United Church of Canada across the Dominion," said the Rev. G. A. Williams, field secretary of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund of the church in an address today to the members of the London Conference.

"As we go forward to the 25th anniversary of union, which will be celebrated next year, I believe that God is preparing the great United Church for some outstanding task," he said.

Mr. Williams said that in recent years progress had been noted in every area of the work of the church. Local debts had been retired in a great number of instances and thanks to a special effort, the general church indebtedness of $1,750,000 had been liquidated. The action of the laymen of the church in placing the pension fund on a live basis had acted as a blood transfusion to the life of the church, and there was real hope that the year of jubilee givings would for the first time reach the figure of $3,000,000.

The coming 25 years may be the most crucial point in the history of the world, he said, and it is evident the church's resources must be mobilized to meet the challenge.

Churchill Says Third World War May be Averted

London, June 1 (AP)— Winston Churchill said today he has a growing hope that "we may avert forever the horrible vision of a third world war."

"There was a time in 1933 and 1936 when I used to hear —in the famous lines—'ancestral voices prophesying war,'" said the wartime Prime Minister.

"But now I am thankful to say I do not hear those voices."

Churchill spoke at a ceremony in which he was made a freeman of the borough of Kensington.

Churchill said:

"I have the growing hope that by the strength of a united civilization and by our readiness and preparedness to defend our freedom with out lives we may avert forever the horrible vision of a third world war."

Churchill also expressed the belief that "no United Europe can arise without the loyal aid of the German race."

He said he appeals "to our dear friends and allies, France, to stretch the hand of reconciliation" (to Germany).

PUPILS ON STRIKE

AUSSIE SETTLERS

Canberra — (CP) — April saw a record number of 25,000 migrants on their way to settle in Australia. The number even exceeds migrants who came to Australia during the gold rushes of the 1850s. British migrants number 12,772 and 11,229 are displaced persons from Europe.

Commuting Ball Players Warned By Executive

Galt, June 1 — (CP) — The inter-county executive at a meeting here Tuesday night issued another stern warning about commuting ball - players, threatening to toss out all winning games in which these players participated and also to fine the guilty clubs.

The purpose of the meeting was to hear a representative of the Umpire's Association plea for increased fees. Finally after considerable discussion it was decided to pay senior umpires $14 at the plate, $12 on the bases and if a third official is requested by the home club he will be paid $10. Rates in other series are intermediate $6-$5; inter-C $6-$4 and junior A $5-$4. The umpires agreed to accept these rates.

It was decided to follow National League rules calling for the catcher maintaining his normal position behind the bat until the ball leaves the pitcher's hand or a balk will be called. This is to avoid the intentional pass.

Each club will be required to provide a typed set of ground rules which apply in their park and to provide the line - up of team five minutes before game time. Umpires were instructed to insist on this regulation being carried out.

Umpires were also instructed to throw players out of the game when they insist on converging at the mound when their pitcher is in difficulty. This does not apply when a pitcher is being removed.

Another decision requires a minimum of three police officers in attendance at each series game.

Two player cases came up for decision. Player Early Boyd of London, property of Stratford, who had been kept out of baseball last year, was made the property of the London Club.

Pitcher Lefty McKenna of Guelph who was traded to Galt for Bill Yorston, was declared the property of the Galt club, until such time as he is released by Galt.

PROBE SHIPWRECK

London, June 1 (Reuters) — Transport Minister Alred Barnes has decided to order a formal investigation into the wreck of the 17,457 ton Royal mail liner Magdalena, which broke in half April 25 after grounding on rocks off Rio de Janeiro.

Orange-Colored Puck May be Used in N.H.L.

Montreal, June 1 (CP)— The National Hockey League annual meeting today considered orange colored pucks.

Three samples were on hand. One had a large orange circle on both sides, another had half-inch cross bars in orange and the third an orange centre and orange rim.

Although the present black puck can be seen plainly on the ice, orange was said to provide better visibility when the puck is in the air.

There was corridor gossip that to fit in with the visibility idea the present blue lines on the ice should be changed to red and the centre red line made blue. Proponents said offsides could be called better at the defence red lines.

One rule-change suggestion was that the penalty shot imposed when a goalie is guilty of a serious infraction of the rules be replaced with a major penalty to one of his teammates.

Bomb Explodes During Franco's Barcelona Visit

Brothers, Sisters Thought Him Dead, Chance 'Phone Call Reunites Them

Harrow, Middlesex, England, June 1 (CP)—Charles Milan, 55, made a chance telephone call and found his two brothers and two sisters, who thought he died 30 years ago.

When their mother died at Charles' birth, the children were scattered to live with relations throughout England. Charles went to an aunt who lost touch with his family. They subsequently thought he died in the First World War.

His brother John Millan, 66, said.

"A colleague of mine who met an official at the Natural History Museum told me casually last week he had met a namesake of mine there.

"Thinking it might be a distant relative, I told my colleague to ask the man to phone me. Shortly afterwards the telephone rang, and the Mr. Millan on the 'phone turned out to be my brother Charles."

Police Searching Hoodlum Haunts In Detroit

Detroit, June 1 (AP)— Police sieved through the hoodlum haunts of Detroit today in an unprecedented hunt for clues to the Victor Reuther shooting.

Less than a day after a series of orders went out throwing a 4,000 man law enforcement force into action, a total of 247 frequenters of the underworld had been picked up for questioning.

Police said all were being questioned on their recent activities in hopes that some might throw light on the shooting of the official of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.).

The sudden order was issued late Tuesday. Last night 130 men were in jail after raids on gambling and hoodum hangouts.

One theory in the investigation is that gambling interests conspired against the lives of both Victor Reuther and his brother Walter.

A gunman shot Victor through a window of his home the night of May 24. Walter was shot similarly the night of April 20 last year. Victor lost the sight of one eye.

Walter, president of the U.A.W. and Victor the union's educational director, both have energetically opposed gambling in auto plants.

At one time the numbers and policy rackets were said to have flourished in the factories. Race track bookies were also active along with lotteries.

Has Worked For 81 Years On Same Farm

Limpenhoe, Norfolk, England, June 1 (CP)—Jack Sales, 89, has worked longer than anyone in England on the same farm.

On Hill House Farm here he's worked 81 years.

But he won't be going to the Royal Show at Shrewsbury, Shropshire, in July to collect the long service medal and certificate awarded him by the Royal Agricultural Society of England. He will be too busy.

Jack won his first long-service award in 1919 when the Royal Show was held at Norwich and another at the Royal Norfolk Show in 1946.

He is a farm steward and has eight men working under him, including "young" Ben Turner, who has been there a mere 48 years.

ROAD BUILDING WORLDWIDE

Roads have always been important and no age has found them of as great importance as the present. In all parts of the world this development is one of the signs of the times.

The Romans were among the great builders of highways and roads of antiquity and there are stretches of the roads two thousand years old which can bear the weight and speed of modern travel. The Romans are not the only builders for a great part of the world today is road conscious. Development of modern conveyances and the influence of two wars have been factors riveting attention on the importance of roads in times of peace and in times of stringency or of war. What with the expansion of railway lines, of shipping by sea, by the development of the highways over which trade is borne in immense trucks or transports, roads still hold the centre of interest of councils, urban and rural, as well as of state or provincial highways departments.

Norway for instance is making an effort to catch up on the building of highways and roads which had been retarded by the five years of war and occupation. So much is the case that there are plans for more than doubling the number of public ways. The country has 28,000 miles of them and needs 25,000 more which will cost over a billion dollars. That country is one of those lands which finds such construction very costly, some districts will find building costs per mile the highest in the world.

Like other nations, like the people everywhere, the Norwegians attach keen interest to the surfacing of the present roads and highways. At present only about 1,100 miles of Norwegian roads are permanently surfaced. By increasing the mileage of the roads, it is hoped to cut sharply the maintenance of highways and roads which cost more than 14 millions dollars a year.

Norway should prove a spark to fire other nations to make the most of their opportunity to get their roads in order for to many others the costs will not be anything like what they will cost the Norse people. Yet these latter see the absolute need of the best possible roads. In Canada and the United States for instance roads are one of the primal essentials. Ontario has done well down the years in her construction of the ways of travel and the cities and towns and the county councils have gone far in joining in this effort to make every part of the country thoroughly accessible.

LOOKING TO FUTURE

From colleges and universities are now being graduated those who have completed their courses of study and are looking forward to their future in the destined path they have chosen. It is a happy occasion when these young men and women receive their diplomas and go out into the wide world to make their living and to serve their fellowmen.

Parents whose care has been the raising of these young people are proud at this time as their sons and daughters prove their appreciation of what has been done for them by having done their best to achieve the goal. Brothers and sisters and all their friends are in that throng who wish them well.

All coming graduates stand tiptoe with expectancy and hope as they move in the world for which they have striven to fit themselves, by study and in development in every possible way to the fullness of the opportunity which has been theirs.

What the world will owe to those who have made possible the training of these young people and to those who have dedicated themselves to preparation for service in many callings cannot of course be exactly weighed. But that the debt to these is great is realized.

RECONSTRUCTION

Britain's vitality which had no small part in saving the entire world from the ravage of Nazism not only showed itself in downing tyranny. It has now achieved magnificently in repairing most of the damage inflicted on the Port of London during the Second World War. Forty-four miles of quays have been cleared, the docks restored to working order, countless warehouses and sheds entirely rebuilt. Seven and a half million tons of shipping during the last year brought into the Port of London freight almost up to the level of 1939. One hundred ships a day are now using the port.

This is the law of benefits between men; the one ought to forget at once what he has given, and the other ought never to forget what he has received.—Seneca.

FEMININE DESIRE

"Life would go very well, I think,
Had I a white enamel sink
And pretty glass and chinaware,
With those I love the work to share.

"I could be happy were I sure
The home established would endure.
It would be fun at times to make
The children's favorite chocolate cake.

"I'd like to stand beside a bed
At evening when the prayers are said;
To tuck them in and dim the light
And kiss them as they say: 'Good night'."

This dream has every woman known:
Tables and chairs to call her own;
A man's devotion, and a roof
Kept bitterness and rancor proof.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

New England And Nova Scotia

Now that the beautiful Summer days are upon us, and vacations are in vogue, I can think of no better territory to visit than New England and Nova Scotia. Here it was that the beginnings of a great continent centred. Studying American history without a thorough knowledge of the early history of New England would be like omitting Hamlet from Shakespeare.

Many a drive I have taken through the beautiful villages, cities, and hills of New England. Here are to be found an endless number of rivers, lakes, and seaside resorts that challenge any in the world. From Cape Cod to the great woods of Maine, there are interest and beauty. And it is all seeped in historic lore. There are mountains, peaceful valleys, delightful farming scenes, and a climate to suit the most exacting. It is the vacation land that millions enjoy.

From northern Maine you cross the border into New Brunswick, with its marvelous hills and unspoiled country-sides, and through a farming and dairy valley that is inspiring—and with wonderful fishing retreats. But my favorite land for years has been Nova Scotia, where I am located on a small group of islands on Grand Lakes, just 22 miles out from Halifax.

Both northern and southern shores of Nova Scotia are imbedded with interest, peaceful little villages and quaint spots that give peace to the soul. In this territory many nations fought for the control of their lands. Here were initiated the beginnings of America. Here you will visit the famous Evangeline country, the early French settlements, and historic Grand Pre, Cape Breton Island, and that beautiful south shore, with its Peggy's Cove, Chester basin and White Point Beach. Out from Chester on the south shore is the famous Oak Island, where for nearly 150 years men have been digging for Captain Kidd's buried treasure—without success!

There are no more friendly and hospitable folks in all the world than those you will meet in Canada. They are our kind, and I have traveled and met them from ocean to ocean. My favorite retreat, however, is Nova Scotia. It's my second home. Halifax, this summer, celebrates its two hundredth anniversary. There's a Welcome mat before its door!

Mackenzie's Column: Countries Enter A New Phase Of Cold War

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

The big four Foreign Ministers' Council meeting in Paris seems no closer to substantial agreement between Russia and the western powers than it was when it started 10 days ago. In fact the conference has lost much of the atmosphere of amiability in which it opened.

The only worthwhile possibility that appears at the moment is some sort of economic unity between the eastern and western zones of Germany.

Foreign Minister Vishinsky of Russia last week gave his customary "no" to the proposal by Britain, the United States and France that the Russian zone of Germany form a political union with the new federal Republic comprising the three western theatres. Then Tuesday he proposed that the Foreign Ministers' Council invite a delegation from the Communist-dominated "German People's Congress" of the Soviet zone to appear before it.

The three western powers voted down Vishinsky's proposal. They contended the People's Congress isn't really representative of all Germany, as it claims to be.

Union Moscow's Aim

This projected eastern zone republic is to be a totalitarian regime like those of the other satellite states. Should there be a union between the communized "German Democratic Republic" and the Federal Republic of the western area, the Red zone would provide the spear-head for the attempted communization of the other three zones.

Economic Unity

While the chances of any political unity between east and west are slim indeed, authoritative sources in Paris say the western powers will try to salvage some form of economic unity for Germany from the council meeting. There may be a chance of success here, for there is small doubt that Russia itself is anxious to get an agreement which will open up trade between eastern and western Europe.

Thus a revival of economic relations seems to offer the only likely ground for agreement. In any event, that ground probably will be surveyed.

"But," somebody asks, "doesn't all this mean a continuation of the cold war?"

It certainly does! We are just entering a new phase of it, that's all.

Failed to Register Dog, Fined $8.50

Found guilty on a charge under the Vicious Dog Act and of failing to register a dog, Joseph Travers, Burton Street, was assessed a total of $8.50 in city magistrate's court Tuesday morning. Travers was assessed $4 under the Vicious Dog Act and a total of $4.50 for failing to register the dog.

Travers appeared in court last week on the two charges and at that time claimed he was not the owner of the dog. The case was then enlarged to permit the accused to obtain counsel. Charges were laid by city dog catcher Thomas Thorne.

Letter to the Editor

Editor
Ontario Intelligencer

We are always interested in what is doing in our city. For many years we have read about our city council debating about what to do with Zwick's Island. Much has been said about it, planned about it, and spent on it during the depression to find work for the unemployed. And what does it all amount to? The latest suggestion is to put the incinerator there. What we have all along the water front in Belleville is not very grand but Zwick's Island could be made into a beauty spot for a park and recreation ground. Where can our young people find outdoor sport and swimming in Belleville.

It certainly would be a shame if the city does not take this up at an early date. The increasing population and expansion of the city demands that a park be made of this natural island before it is too late. In the future we may have to be seeking land elsewhere to provide for outdoor recreation, swimming, sports etc., for our young people and a place where citizens can enjoy a picnic.

Belleville is growing and needs this land for enjoyment.

Eight Arrested For Conspiring To Peddle Drugs

Vancouver, June 1 (CP) — The R.C.M.P. said Tuesday night it has carried out its most extensive crackdown on illicit narcotics combines and has made five arrests in Vancouver and three in eastern Canada.

A statement said six months' investigation was climaxed Tuesday with surprise raids here and in Toronto and Hamilton. At least three more arrests are expected in Vancouver.

The R.C.M.P. said all eight arrested Tuesday have been charged with conspiring, combining and confederating to distribute heroin to persons unknown.

Charged in Vancouver in the widespread investigation led by Cpl. Joe Atherton are: Mike Cushman, Benny Ugar, Nick Agostino, John Smokler and Harry Pearl. The latter two are serving prison sentences for narcotics convictions.

Cpl. Atherton said Frank Smokler and Carman Chiovitte were arrested and similarly charged Tuesday in Toronto. The eighth man, Dan Gasbarini was arrested in Hamilton.

Seizures of narcotics also were made but their quantities were not unusually large.

At Toronto, Smokler, Chiovitte and Gasbarani were taken by air Tuesday night to Vancouver where they will be tried on charges of conspiracy to distribute narcotics from Vancouver to Montreal.

BEARDED CRICKETERS

Kew, Middlesex, England (CP) — Twenty - three cricketers donned false beards to play a "period piece" match on nearby Richmond Green in celebration of St. Luke's Church 60th anniversary. Onlookers were kept busy retrieving the beards whipped away by a strong wind. The 24th beard belonged to the vicar. It's real.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

Fountain of Life

In ancient times there ran near the Roman Forum a little brooklet called the Girl's Fountain. For many centuries, however, it seemed to disappear; but this was due, not to the fact that the water supply had given out, but that the stream had been covered with debris. In recent years this debris was removed; and when it was, the little brooklet began to sing merrily again as it went on its way.

Jesus said on one occasion that if a man would drink of the water. He gave him, the same would become in him a fountain springing up unto everlasting life. There is never anything the matter with this divine source of refreshment. It is always bubbling up ready to make the heart glad. But so often we cover it with debris—anxiety, care, unhallowed desire, greed, false ambition, pride, selfishness.

When men repent—that is, change their minds with reference to life's values—they drag the debris out of their lives and cast it away. Then the fountain which springs up into everlasting life bubbles and goes on its sparkling course of refreshment.

The picture in the window is by WILLIAM A. WINTER, A.R.C.A., O.S.A., of Toronto, member of the Canadian Group of Painters and the Canadian Society of Painters in Water Color. The scene depicts a country store. Mr. Winter was born in Winnipeg in 1909 and is increasingly interested in genre painting with a firm belief in painting the quite ordinary everyday situations of Canadians. His paintings hang in the Vancouver and Toronto Art Galleries as well as a number of private collections.

The cover of MacLean's May magazine was designed by Mr. Winter and in the July issue will appear an illustrated article on how his paintings are produced.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

(Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis or treatment will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letter should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.)

MANY FACES SHOULD BE RED ABOUT THIS

A newspaper item tells of the death of a patient in a dentist's office—through some error the inhalator squad from the firehouse arrived too late to revive the victim.

Another item says that a deputy inspector of the police department took umbrage at an article in which Dr. William Brady recommended that none but doctors be permitted to administer oxygen or carboxygen (mixture of 7 parts carbon dioxide with 93 parts oxygen) by means of inhalators. The inspector declared, and I, Brady, think he was right about this, that "the medical profession doesn't provide sufficient knowledge for its members on the subject of resuscitation." For that reason, the inspector said, laymen, firemen, policemen are compelled to step into the breach of asphyxia cases.

In one of his communications to me on the subject of resuscitation Professor Yandell Henderson, who with his colleague, Dr. Howard W. Haggard, introduced the inhalator, said.

"It is really rather ludicrous that all over the country today, a doctor who has on his hands a non-breathing newborn child has no better recourse than to telephone the fire department and to have one of their rescue crews come clanging up to the door . . . As an inhalator is not an artificial respiration apparatus, knowledge that it is available does not interfere, but rather promotes, the general training in the prone pressure method."

As Prof. Henderson so well established, Schafer's manual prone-pressure respiration plus inhalations of about 7 parts carbon dioxide with 93 parts oxygen, is the best possible treatment for carbon monoxide asphyxia, as well as asphyxia from submersion.

The inhalator should not be confused with the now virtually extinct "pulmotor" or any other kind of artificial respiration apparatus. It is merely a pair of small tanks holding compressed carbon dioxide and compressed oxygen respectively, with valves and meters for controlling the mixture of these gases and an inflatabe bag to hold the mixed gases over the subject's nose and mouth while the Schafer prone-pressure is carried on just as though only air were available for breathing.

It is not only ludicrous that a physician should defer to the police, firemen or any other laymen in such emergencies. It is a sad commentary on medical education or training in the United States that things happen.

In the case where the patient's death in the dentist's office was ascribed to delay in the arrival of the inhalator squad, the item does not say whether the dentist applied Schafer's manual prone-pressure at the time it would do some good, or just fiddled around like a—well, like a typical bystander, while waiting for the inhalator. But if no such first aid was vouchsafed the victim, waiting for an inhalator to arrive was, I should say, actionable negligence.

How about you, reader? If some one dear to you is rescued from submersion or from asphyxiation are you prepared to give the kind of first aid that may revive the spark of life? Or would you just wring your useless hands and wonder why the firemen don't come?

QUESTIONS ANSWERS

Hardening of the Arteries

Kindly explain hardening of the arteries in old age. Is severe head pain a symptom? Is there any cure for it. If so, what? (A. C. E.)

Bitter Wood

Fifty years ago when we were kids in Scotland and would look a bit off color grandma would fill a pint size wooden cup with hot water let stand over night, and give it to us first thing in the morning as a laxative and tonic. It had a horrible taste. Could you possibly tell me what kind of wood the cup was made of? (W. A. B.)

Answer—Quassia, commonly called bitter wood. Aside from the bitter taste it has little if any remedial value, although an infusion of two ounces of quassia chips in a pint of water is an old and safe injection for pinworms.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Judge Hawley Mott is probably the dean of Canadian juvenile court judges. Here is how he handles a case. Two mid-teen age boys were brought before him on a charge of stealing some wire from a railway freight yard. The railroad laid a charge of trespass only; the local police laid the more serious charge of theft.

It was not much wire they took; just enough to construct a kennel run for a new pup they had acquired by honest means.

"Now," said Judge Mott, after the fact had been presented, "what did you leave in its place when you took that wire."

The boys pondered this a moment and then replied—"Nothing."

"Oh, yes you did!" corrected the judge with accent on the did. "I want to tell you something your parents and your teachers have apparently failed to explain to you. In this world, you can't take anything, from anywhere, without leaving something behind. Usually, you leave money; or perhaps some goods of equal value; or possibly some work you do, in exchange. But in this case, boys, you left behind something vastly more valuable than the wire you took. You left behind, don't you see, your good name, your reputation for honesty, your right to the respect of other people and your self-respect. For that bit of wire, you traded something of immense value. Maybe you don't realize its value now. But in a little while you will be men; and then your most valuable possession will be your reputation as an honest, square-shooting man. Do you see what I'm getting at?"

The boys obviously did.

"Make that a rule," recommended the judge. "Never take anything from anybody without leaving equal value in exchange, and life will be no problem to you at all. It's as simple as that. In this case, you paid far too much for that wire. It's going to take you quite a while no wto regain what quite a while now to regain what

Then he let them go.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

GET TO ROOT OF ROOT TROUBLE

Are you planning to build this year? Or making property improvement such as an underground sewer line? If so, make sure you buy a sewer pipe that has tight joints. If the joints aren't tight, tree roots may force their way into the pipe and clog it.

Johns - Manville Transite House Connection Pipe was specially designed to avoid this trouble. It has a factory-made 'Taper-Tite' joint which keeps roots out. Made of asbestos and cement, Transite is tough and strong — yet light and easy-to-handle. Long ten-foot lengths make it easy to lay — with minimum disturbance to property. For complete facts on Transite House Connection Pipe, write Johns-Manville, 199 Bay St., Toronto. or see your nearest J-M dealer.

Nationalization Biggest Subject In Great Britain

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London June 1 (CP)— Nationalization is in the news again. On almost every political front people are asking about state ownership of industry.

Newspapers run column-length editorials about it. A truck from Britain's biggest sugar company carries a revamped slogan as a protest against proposed nationalization of sugar:

"Out of the strong comes forth sweetness," says the poster. "What will come out of the state?"

While Conservatives train their big guns on Labor's proposal to nationalize iron and steel the socialists themselves admit to some misgivings. Elements within the party say privately that state control has not always worked out as well as expected.

These officials are not by any means shaken in their faith. In acknowledging that difficulties have been encountered, they say they are confident things will work out as time consolidates the socialist experiment.

Try to Strengthen Link

One of the biggest problems, Labor sources say, is how to strengthen the link between the workers and white collar men on the boards which run the nationalized industries. There have been frequent complaints from wage earners that board officials are paid too much.

The administration is understood to be sympathetic to this feeling, but it says there is another side of the question: How can you obtain the right type of officials for responsible jobs on state boards without paying them well?

The stirrings of unrest among some sections of labor may become more manifest during the next few months. Resolutions proposed for the July Conference of the National Union of Mineworkers suggest not all Britain's coal miners are satisfied with the results of Nationalization.

There also have been signs of a rift between the Labor party and the co-operative party. The co-operatives, which have allied themselves with Labor, and claim affiliated membership of more than 8,000,000 are believed to be concerned over Labor's plan to Nationalize Industrial Insurance.

Maternity Hospital Offers Beauty Care

Sydney, Australia— (CP) — Beauty treatments are to be given to patients in a Sydney maternity hospital, to help their morale.

Matron Edna Shaw of Crown Street Women's Hospital, the largest public hospital for women in New South Wales, introduced the idea recently when she arranged a hair set and facial massage for Mrs. Doreen Myers, an expectant mother.

Mrs. Myers, an attractive blonde, said that she felt 100 per cent better after the beauty treatment.

Mrs. G. Wilson Named Pres. Liberal Women

On Monday evening, an enthusiastic meeting of the Liberal ladies of the City of Belleville, was held in Engineers' Hall on Pine Street.

All parts of the city were represented. About 100 ladies attended and plenty of interest and enthusiasm shown.

The meeting was opened by a talk given by Mrs. Herbert McCabe, regional president of Central Ontario Women's Liberal Association. She explained the object of this meeting was to form a Belleville Women's Liberal Association. She expressed her pleasure at seeing such a large attendance, all being ready to assist in coming election campaign..

A message was read from Mr. Follwell, regretting his absence from the meeting.

After some discussion the following slate of officers were elected: President, Mrs. George Wilson, 1st Vice President, Mrs. Herbert McCabe; 2nd Vice President, Miss Loretta Woodcock, 3rd Vice President, Mrs. A. A. Simmie; Recording Secretary, Miss Mary McLellan; Assistant Recording Secretary, Mrs. T. C. Young; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Ben Burley; Assistant Corresponding Secretary, Miss Margaret Fairbairn, Treasurer, Mrs. T. A. Tucker, Press Secretary, Miss Margaret McAvoy; Social Convener, Mrs. J. J. O'Connor; Membership Convener, Mrs. William Gardiner.

Kindly Offers Home

The meeting was honored by the presence of Mrs. C. Doran, of Oshawa, treasurer of Women's Liberal Club, in that city. Mrs. Doran gave an informative and inspiring address.

Mrs. E. E. Follwell, 269 George Street, kindly offered her home for a tea to be held on Friday, June 17.

The outstanding event of the evening was a talk given by Miss Margaret McAvoy. She chose as her subject, Hon. Louis St. Laurent, Democracy and True Liberalism, which she termed as "three in one".

The speaker stated that Mr. St. Laurent is a man of outstanding ability and personality. Until the age of fifty-nine he had no thought of public life. After death of Hon. H. Ernest La Pointe, a strong man was needed to take his place, so following an invitation from Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King he entered the cabinet, as a war-time service to his country and remained two years after termination of the war.

Allowed Name to Stand

Last summer after many requests from personal and political friends he allowed his name to go before the convention, where he was chosen as leader of the Liberal party.

Since becoming leader, he has proved himself very worthy and a fine parliamentarian. His many fine characteristics are no doubt the result of a fine upbringing in a modest home. He is a Canadian in a large way by conviction, as well as birth and adds dignity to office of prime minister of Canada.

The Hon. Mackenzie King said recently, "No man is better qualified as a leader".

"We, Canadians, are envied by millions of people by our ability to go to polls and choose freely between nominated candidates, so we should use our ballot in a spirit of gratitude, sober responsibility and reverent care", said the speaker.

"Democracy is best suited to full development of men at free and responsive creatures and is built on faith. Faith in existence of God and His laws and faith in man as a creature endowed with individual freedom, responsibility and dignity.

"Women should study and work for their party and candidate. If you are voting Liberal, be able to explain why you are voting that way.

"Our Liberal candidate has taken on a great task and responsibility. It will take plenty of work and co-operation in order to elect him (which I am sure he will be) on June 27, to take his place along with Premier, the Hon. Louis St. Laurent, in successfully guiding the destinies of this Canada of ours, of which we are so justly proud."

A social hour followed. The winners in euchre, were 1st prize Miss Irene Bean; 2nd prize, Mrs. T. Mallette consolation, Mrs. Hopkins. Refreshments were served.

Lady Lloyd George Marks 20th Year As Liberal Member

London, June 1 (CP)— Lady Megan Lloyd George is 47 — but only 20 candles burned on her "birthday" cake at a novel parliamentary party today.

Today marked her 20th anniversary as Liberal Member of Parliament for Anglesey. To celebrate the occasion, the other 21 women members gave a tea party and presented her with a hand written volume bearing the Arms of the House of Commons.

Inside was a tribute describing Lady Megan, deputy leader of the Liberal party as "true daughter of the Welsh Wizard." Her father, David Lloyd George, was Britain's Liberal Prime Minister from 1916 to 1922. He died in 1944.

At the tea party the women parliamentarians — 19 Labor members and two Conservatives —acknowledged Lady Megan's seniority and her right to the title of "Mother" of the Commons. "Lloyd George's little girl," as she was known when she made her maiden speech April 7, 1930 has been a member of the House continuously since 1929, considerably longer than any other woman member.

The volume presented to her lists the 49 women who have been members during her 20 year tenure, and contains extracts of her parliamentary speeches. The presentation was made by Edith Summerskill, parliamentary secretary to the Food Ministry and only woman member of the government.

Canadians Like Bright Colors, Many Designs

Toronto, June 1 (CP)— Attractive design and good color are the primary considerations when the Canadian housewife goes buying cotton goods.

At least that is how many British manufacturers have sized up the Canadian market. Textile exhibitors at the Canadian International Trade Fair have found by experience that Canadians on the whole like bright colors and "different" designs.

Some makers of cotton goods are developing lines to appeal especially to Canadian buyers, in both dress goods and drapery and upholstery materials. In general, designs are larger and farther spaced on the material than designs popular in Britain.

But finding that Canadian market is different from the home market adds only another facet to the British textile trade. South Africa has its preferences; people there like brighter colors and closer designs than Canadians. Australia goes for British home-approved designs, while the native trade in Africa and the Pacific is another thing again.

Printed linens in a popular price range from slip covers and draperies are taking well in the United States just now. And Hill Brown Limited of London and New York expect printed linens to be a popular trend in interior decorating.

They have found that pleasing designs and clear colors are even more important than quality in attracting sales.

Music Judge Brings Relief to Johnnie

Regina, (CP)—If nine-year-old Johnnie says "Ah shucks, I don't want to practise, I want to play with the gang," by all means let him go.

At least, that's the advice of musical festival adjudicator Helen Henschel, who in private life is Lady Claughton, wife of Sir Harold Claughton, former principal of London University.

"A young child should never be made to practise," she stresses. "It will just put him off. Let him get it a little bit at a time. If he is really talented he'll develop."

Honored Prior To Marriage

The Intermediate Girls' Class of Springbrook Sunday School were hostesses at a delightfully arranged crystal and linen shower at the home of Mrs. Percy Mumby on the evening of May 20th in honor of Miss Norma Mason popular young bride-to-be.

Miss Ruth Leonard very capably performed the duties of mistress of ceremonies for a program of community singing, readings, games and contests.

Norma was invited to the bride's chair which was artistically decorated in pink and white and she was presented with a corsage of balloons of varied hues. As she picked each one with a pin she was showered with confetti and a note telling her where to find a hidden gift.

An address was read by Miss Audrey Brown to which Norma replied expressing her most heartfelt thanks.

A lovely lunch served by the girls brought a pleasant evening to a close.

EXPERT'S CLINIC DOES WONDERS FOR THE HARD-OF-HEARING!

Belleville, June 1 — Having seen the Free Hearing Clinics advertised .. we decided to interview the hearing specialist conducting these tests.

Mr. H. Ellis' reply to our opening remark, "How's business?" ..was quite unexpected. In fact, he revealed our ignorance of the remarkable service Acousticon renders without charge or obligation to the hard-of-hearing.

"Like many others, I'm afraid you have the wrong impression of us. We are not salesmen .. and, don't pretend to be. We are hearing specialists, primarily interested in doing everything humanly possible to help those with a hearing loss regain a rich, active, normal life.

"The modern Acousticon makes this possible, yes .. but, it's important that people realize the need of a specialist to ensure the correct fitting. That's the reason for our clinics .. we want to see those people who now wear a hearing aid, regardless of make .. as much as we do those who need one.

"You see, there are many different causes of deafness .. and, each requires a different hearing aid fitting. Because of an efficient "speech-hearing" analysis, I can ensure your obtaining the one fitting that will return your hearing as close as possible to normal. Our main objective is to have you benefit from our experience, knowledge, and the sympathetic understanding we give each individual hearing problem.

"Examine for yourself these new Constellations .. notice that there are 36 different models. Acousticon engineers and scientists spent seven years and over a half-million dollars to achieve "Balanced Hearing" .. a factor which is so vital to your health and happiness.

H. ELLIS

Then, too, there's our new "Invisible Hearing" which allows you to hear the way people with no impairment do .. in a way that's so completely unnoticeable that even your closest friend can't spot it."

We certainly urge you to spend a few minutes with Mr. Ellis, and, our hat's off to Acousticon who provide this nation-wide service to help the hard-of-hearing come out of their world of silence.

Man of 97 Saved From Death By 17-Year Boy

Sudbury, June 1 — (CP)—One of the oldest residents of Azilda, a village 10 miles from here, George Marier, aged about 94, almost lost his life in a fire which destroyed his farm home Tuesday afternoon. A 17-year-old boy is credited with getting the aged farmer out of his upstairs bedroom before the log house collapsed.

The boy, Norman Gauthier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Gauthier, operators of a general store at Azilda, was playing in the yard at St. Mary's separate school, several hundred feet from the farm house, when he noticed the building on fire.

Accompanied by his teacher, Tyne Castonguary, and other students, he rushed to the house and went upstairs for Marier. He helped him out of his room and down the stairs. With the assistance of the teacher, they managed to get the badly frightened man out of his burning home. Marier suffered burns to his forehead and cheek.

Marier's son Palma, and a daughter, Eva, were downstairs when the fire started. Both in ill health they also were assisted out of the building.

The students were able to get some of the furniture out before the roof caved in. The house, built about 35 years ago, was a total loss. The fire is believed to have started upstairs from overheated stove pipes.

DODDS KIDNEY PILLS

'New Fish' Has Row of Portholes On Each Side

Ridgewood, N.J., June 1 — (AP)— A fisherman on the Saddle River here pulled in something out of this world last night.

The beast is about 16 inches long, vaguely resembles an eel and has a row of port holes on each side, like a new automobile.

It has a hole on top of its head, too, and spouts water. The mouth is vertical, shaped like a buttonhole, and opens like the pages of a book, to each side.

To prove his fish story, navy veteran Robert Durrenberger has the thing contentedly and phlegmatically swimming around in a tub of water at home.

Local salt and fresh water fishing experts examined the "eel" and declared it genuine, if heretofore unknown to them. Attempts to reach an expert at New York Bronx Zoo were unsuccessful. A perusal of all available books on fishing failed to turn up anything remotely resembling the animal.

TERRIER HALTS RECESS

London — (CP) — After a dog nipped a child's hand in a school playground in North Lond, play was cancelled, 300 infants were confined to classrooms and two policemen in protective clothing were called to catch the "mad dog." The culprit proved to be a docile, 14-inch-long terrier.

PICTON

Transportation Subject of Talk

Picton — Prince Edward County Chamber of Commerce heard an interesting address on transportation at their meeting Monday night. The speaker was Prof. Lorne McDougall, of Queen's University. "This country is organized around its railways," the speaker said. "They are the fundamental means of transport, the backbone in peace and war of the whole economy. It cannot have escaped your attention that when the threat of a complete railway strike came to a head last summer it was suddenly discovered that the railways are utterly essential. Their competitors, the airlines and motor carriers were not only too small to carry the burden if the railways dropped out, they just could not operate at all unless the railways carried their fuel and other supplies too." Prof. McDougall made figures live through his graphic ability to describe basic factors of comparative costs of transporting freight as between waterborne freight, railways, motor trucks and air-borne freight.

"It is one of the wonders of the world that automatic loading and unloading arrangements permit iron ore to be moved from the head of the lakes to Cleveland and Buffalo on Lake Erie for one tenth of a cent per gross ton per mile," he said. When large masses of similar goods have to be transported long distances, with automatic loading and unloading, waterborne freight offers a great cost advantage.

"Then it is amazing to realize" that the average freight charge of the railways is 1.1 cents per ton mile, with wheat handled at half a cent per ton mile. Motor trucks will not think they can do the same job measured in ton miles, except for three or four cents, and airplanes require the truck rate to move one pound per mile," he said.

Refers to Upkeep

Referring to upkeep of highways and the need for four-mile highways, the speaker felt that truck operator are not paying anywhere near the amount of taxes which are involved in establishing and maintaining the highway for their use.

Prof. McDougall was sympathetic with the financial problems of the railway. Victim of much higher costs of an inflationary nature, due mainly to higher wages for employees, the railways nevertheless have been denied their great need for higher rates to cover these increased costs, he said.

He described the railway costs of operation since 1939 as well as the protracted hearing before the Board of Transport Commissioners, as a result of which the railways have not yet received the decision which they need, enabling them to raise rates to cover increased costs.

Picton May 31—First entry in Prince Edward County Chamber of Commerce Fishing contest was received yesterday from Harold Abbott of Bloomfield. The baseball star entered a Northern Pike which measured 34 inches in length and tipped the scales at 10 1-2 pounds. He landed it in West Lake, using a pikey minnow and silk line. Several members of the chamber have offered good prizes for the largest fish of various species taken from county waters during the season.

Picton — A donation of $500 to Prince Edward County by Mrs. Arthur McCrimmon, Picton, was announced yesterday by secretary R. B. Small. It will go towards the purchase of a portable x-ray equipment which is being purchased at a cost of about $5,000. Mrs. McCrimmon expressed the hope that the donation would encourage others to aid the fund started in order to purchase the needed equipment.

Trenton, N.J. — (AP)—Expectant fathers make poor jurors, Mercer county Judge Richard J. Hughes said Tuesday.

Hughes excused Albert T. Neubon, a salesman, from jury service after Neubon said his wife was keeping a date with the stork.

"I'm a family man myself and I know from experience that an expectant father cannot keep his mind on court matters."

Yeovil, England — (Reuters)— A worker in a sawmill near here hung up his jacket on a nail at the mill when he arrived to begin work.

Later he found a wren sitting on five eggs in a pocket of the coat.

The workman went home without his jacket and before starting work each day the employees at the mill gather round to see the progress of the family.

INQUIRING HUSBAND: "It's our first wedding anniversary and I want to have the gift in the correct tradition. Some friends say first anniversary is cotton, some say paper. Which is right? What gift would you suggest from a green husband?"
Tradition says first wedding anniversary is celebrated with paper gifts. For a practical wife, why not a kitchen roller which holds paper towels. Or a box of assorted napkins. Much enjoyed would be individual monogrammed note paper or magazine subscriptions.

DEVALUATION OF DOLLAR OPPOSED BY ST. LAURENT

Prime Minister Says it Would Increase Cost of Living

Cornwall, June 1 (CP)—A Liberal challenge to the Progressive Conservatives to make dollar devaluation the major issue of the June 27 election was public today. It was issued here Tuesday night in a CBC coast-to-coast broadcast and a public address before a boisterous audience by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

He campaigned in southwestern Ontario today after a day in eastern Ontario which saw him greeted both in a Roman Catholic church and by kilted Highland pipers. He appears in Guelph, Owen Sound and a number of smaller communities today. Tuesday he spoke in Casselman's Church, in Alexandria and Cornwall and six other towns and villages.

Tuesday night he told a capacity crowd that George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, has indicated he will try to expand Canadian markets in Britain by devaluation of the Canadian dollar.

Mr. St. Laurent said devaluation would "make it harder than ever for us to buy British goods, and it would be harder than ever for the British people to get dollars to pay for our farm products."

Devaluation would hurt the farmer, raise the general cost of living and aid these gold mines which need help the least. The Liberal party "would like nothing better than to have the Conservatives come out openly and make devaluation the main issue in this election."

Mr. St. Laurent noted that Mr. Drew had promised to promote the St. Lawrence seaway if his party formed a government. He said the Liberals have pressed Washington steadily for a joint navigation and power project and has even gone so far as to say it will back the power project alone if the dual program doesn't get Washington's approval.

Mr. St. Laurent said "the tax cuts contained in the recent budget—they were not passed before dissolution of parliament— "will be quickly approved" by the new parliament.

PAIN IN THE NECK

Wellington, NN. Z. — (CP) —A British frigate which New Zealand bought recently has been renamed the Pukaki, after a New Zealand lake. Now it has been discovered that pukaki is the Maori for "pain in the neck." But Defence Minister F. Jones says the name will not be changed. "If she ever goes into action," he says, "I feel sure she will be a pain in the neck to the enemy."

LIBERALS SHIRK RESPONSIBILITIES SAYS COLDWELL

Claims Ministers Evading Issues Developing in the Campaign

Toronto, June 1 (CP)— M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader charged Tuesday night that the Liberal party has "abdicated its responsibilities" and said that Liberal cabinet ministers are evading issues developing in the general election campaign.

Addressing two C.C.F. rallies in this city, he said Liberal promises are "not worth the paper they are written on" and accused Liberal candidates of making promises which contradicted each other.

He cited Liberal promises of consumer prices at 1941 rates, national health insurance, homes at $9.58 a month and old-age pensions at 65 without a means test, and said none of these promises has been fulfilled.

"Promises are being made once more," he added, "but in each case they are being made by someone who has no responsibility in the matter while the minister who is responsible hides his light under a bushel of constitutional difficulties."

Prime Minister St. Laurent recently was reported to have promised a bill of rights. That was something the C.C.F. had been urging for years, but each time it was suggested the Justice Minister said it could not be done under the constitution.

Then, too, Trade Minister Howe promised health insurance, but Health Minister Martin said the initiative would have to come from the provinces. Others had given assurance of subsidized low-renting housing, but government ministers said this could be done only by the provinces.

Mr. Coldwell predicted Progressive Conservative candidates would be defeated by C.C.F. candidates in the 13 Toronto area seats held by the Progressive Conservative party in the last house.

BOOSTS PIONEERING

Toronto (CP)— Mrs. Percival Hill of this city who pioneered with her husband 100 miles north west of Edmonton in 1910, still thinks pioneering is the job for young married people "if you're sure you're enough in love." She and her husband retired to the East for reasons of health.

Isolationism Dead Says Spokesman For U.S. Farmers

Guelph, June 1 —(CP)— A spokesman for United States Farmers' organizations said today that Isolationism is dead.

James G. Patton of Denver, Colo., president of the powerful National Farmers Union, told delegates to the third International Federation of Agricultural Producers' Conference here that aid already given the world by the United States is not enough.

He said America's four greatest farm organizations — the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Council of Farmer Co-operatives, the National Grange and his own body—would support still greater aid.

Earlier Sir James Turner, head of the National Farmers' Union of Great Britain and president of the I.F.A.P., warned that a difficult period for agriculture was approaching.

The buyers market has arrived Sir James said. If it should develop to the point where it undermines world economy, the effect on all trade and employment would be disastrous.

Mr. Patton said the program of the United States government for European Recovery "now seems to us to be far too limited."

It was necessary to supplement it increasingly by private capital and by other resources, perhaps including the International Bank.

Some observers interpreted the declaration to mean that any objections to E.C.A. off-shore purchases of Canadian wheat for Britain would be eliminated.

"To members from other nations who sometimes may be misled by sensational newspaper headlines in our country, or who may be puzzled by official actions, we say there is no doubt whatever that the rank and file of the American people are deeply committed to the ways of peace," he said.

"The United States has turned away from Isolationism for good and all," Mr. Patton declared. "It understands full well that it has acquired the responsibilities that go with its tremendous concentration of economic power."

P-C'S WILL NOT FORM COALITION WITH ANY PARTY

Drew Says He is Leading Fight for Return of Responsible Government

(By Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, June 1. (CP)—The Progressive Conservative Party will not coalesce with any political party if it fails to win a majority in the June 27th Federal election, George Drew said Tuesday night.

In an address at New Westminster, B.C., on the second day of his British Columbia campaign, the Progressive Conservative leader said he is leading a fight for return to responsible government and real democracy, and that "there is no compromise in that right."

At a Vancouver rally Tuesday night Mr. Drew called for free nations of the world to trade among themselves.

He deplored the fact that current exchange problems had led some free countries to trade with countries behind the iron curtain, and said:

"Canada is anxious to trade with all nations, but I think we should make it clear that we will deal with those countries. . . . when they are prepared not to undermine our economic strength."

He said the Liberal government had imposed restraints on trade "such as no party had dared impose in the past."

Canada had lost $67,000,000 worth of trade to Britain, while Britain has increased trade with Russia.

Mr. Drew reiterated his stand that a government under his make the dollar and the pound convertible, enabling Canada to regain lost markets and expand leadership would take steps to present ones.

Terms Campaign Against Premier Cheap, Revolting

Montreal, June 1 — (CP) — Terming the Progressive Conservative campaign in Quebec against Prime Minister St. Laurent "cheap and revolting," Jean-Paul Chauvin Tuesday withdrew as Progressive Conservative candidate in Montreal Hochelaga constituency in the June 27 general election.

He said in a statement that he was withdrawing because he disapproved of recent dealings between leaders of his party and Premier Duplessis' Union Nationale party.

Several other Progressive Conservative candidates in Quebec have withdrawn since the campaign got under way. Donat Potvin retired in Lotbiniere constituency in favor of J. Emile Rousseau and J. A. Marquis withdrew in Quebec west in favor of E. Paquette.

Progressive Conservative spokesmen said Mr. Potvin and Mr. Marquis never were official candidates and nominated themselves before the party's regular machinery was set up.

Albert Monette withdrew in Montreal St. Mary in favor of R. LaMarre, in order to enter party organizational work.

It was emphasized that there was no connection between these withdrawals and that of Mr. Chauvin.

Party headquarters here said last night Mr. Chauvin's action grew out of his active opposition to a Union Nationale candidate in last year's provincial election.

"When accepting nomination I expected to be the standard-bearer of true Conservatives," Mr. Chauvin's statement said. "I must today admit I was mistaken as to the real intentions of the party leaders in this province."

ABSOLVED OF BLAME

Toronto, June 1 (CP) —Ernest L Horton of Peterborough, was absolved of all blame in a traffic accident here and an action for $1,100 damages, sought by two persons who alleged they were knocked down by his automobile, was dismissed.

The Canadian Press erroneously reported May 27 that Mr. Horton was ordered to pay $1,100 damages.

Actually, a Supreme Court jury judged that the defendant was at fault in no way. The jury assessed the amount of damages, as required in event of appeal, but dismissed the action with costs to be paid by the plaintiffs.

OPTICAL ACCURACY

Each ophthalmic lens, whether finished or semi-finished, that leaves the Belleville plant of American Optical Company Canada Limited, bears upon its surface an extremely important black dot — a black dot that insures the accuracy of all subsequent work performed upon the lens.

The placing of this dot in the exact optical center of each lens is made possible by the precise instrument illustrated and by the sharp eyes and deft hands of skilled operators.

Each lens is held before a lighted screen and its center aligned with the precise cross lines of the illuminated target. When the operator is satisfied that the lens is in the one correct position she prints the dot that marks the optical center.

The accuracy of this vital marking operation may be the difference between aiding or impairing a person's vision. For an ophthalmic lens to be correct must be positioned before a patient's eye so that when looking straight ahead, the eye sees through the optical center of the lens. Measurements made by optical laboratory technicians in interpreting a doctor's prescription, are made from this all-important center dot.

Serving the cause of better vision in many ways — AO lens technicians may well be proud of the important tasks they perform.

Carl Furillo, Guy Durocher Said Couldn't Hit Righthanders, Making Old Boss Eat His Words

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Carl Furillo, the fellow Leo Durocher said couldn't hit righthanders, is making his old boss eat his words.

The Brooklyn rightfielder hit a 14th - inning home run off righthander Larry Jansen in the wee small hours this morning to win the "big game" of the young season for the onrushing Dodgers.

Furillo's second homer of the year, both off Jansen, enabled the Brooks to shade Leo's New York Giants, 6-4, in a three hour and 57 - minute marathon at the Polo Grounds.

As a result of the homer and a spectacular job of no - hit, no-run relief pitching of Jack Banta, former Montreal strikeout ace, the Dodgers entered June in a two-way tie with the Boston Braves for the National League lead.

The Giants, who were partners in a triple tie Tuesday morning, now are third.

It was a toughie for Jansen who faced four Dodger pitchers during the long evening. He blew an early 3-0 lead and another 4-3 advantage. Then in the 14th he dished up the homer to Furillo. A triple by Roy Campanella sent the tiring Giant ace to the showers. Dave Koslo yielded the extra score on Banta's single, his first hit of the season.

Second Within Week

Banta's top - drawer bullpen job was his second victory within a week. Only two men reached base against the lean righthander. One walked and the other was hit by a pitched ball. Both were erased as double plays.

Jansen was three outs from victory starting the ninth. Gil Hodges opened with a home run. Then they went into their long overtime duel.

Jack Lohrke started the Giants' scoring with a first - inning homer.

The big crowd of 43,922, best of the Polo Grounds night season, knew they were watching a battle for first place. The final of Boston's 7-6 afternoon victory over the Phillies was posted on the scoreboard.

Boston had to come from way back to take that one. Trailing 5-0 going into the fourth inning, the Braves finally pulled it out when reliefer Jim Konstanty walked Clint Conatser with the bases full in the ninth.

The Phils hung up a big five in the third, routing Johnny Sain. Seminick added the final score with a homer in the sixth.

Nels Potter, with two shutout relief innings, earned his fourth victory at Rowe's expense.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Quinte Tennis Club gradually flowering into the bloom of all out activity from the bud of conjecture is another concrete example of co-operation, co-ordination and spirit of one-for-all and all-for-one. With a membership that of all out activity from the bud of conjecture is another concrete example of co-operation, co-ordination and the spirit of one-for-all and all-for-one can do. With a membership that is increasing steadily, work being done on the courts and grounds in an effort to modernise the tennis set-up and a homey, comfortable club house, the club is rapidly assuming the proportions of one of the most popular athletic organizations in the city.

• • •

And the club appears to be headed for a banner season. Starting off with a district tournament that even the fury of the elements could not deter, club members made an auspicious entry into the 1949 season. The Invitation Tournament scheduled for the May 24th holiday, but laid over when partly finished due to the sudden intervention of Ole Jupe Pluvius attracted over 75 members of clubs of the district. Included were representatives of the Point Anne, Trenton, RCAF, Madoc, Tweed and St. Andrew's Church clubs and the whole went to make up one of the most enjoyable early-season tournaments ever staged here.

The event naturally simmered down to the survival of the fittest not the luckiest) and the finals match in the mens' doubles between Tommy Black, Belleville and Gordy Ault, RCAF and Hank Filion, Trenton and Thorold Horwood, Point Anne, had the rest of the competitors stretching on their toes, and hanging on to every shot. Ault, who is one of the RCAF hockey club aces, and Black won the first set 6-2; dropped the second 3-6 and then the foursome went all out in a rousing battle that went to 10-8 before the issue was finally decided for the Ault-Black combination.

Speaking of tennis, the executive of the Bay of Quinte League set the draw for the loop knockout competition at a special meeting held this week. The first round will be played during the week ending August 1st with the Quinte Team No. 1 meeting Quinte No. 2, the semi-final will be played for two weeks ending September 10th with Quinte 1 or Quinte 2 meeting Trenton and Holloway Street clashing with Point Anne. The final will be played after September 14th.

Here's what the Oshawa scribe saith anent the baseball game between the Merchants of this city and Batawa last Saturday: "The Merchants can and will have to play a peppier brand of ball than they showed here Saturday afternoon. There was a display of lethargy in base-running and throwins displayed by one outfielder that cost Oshawa one run and helped Batawa to one of their tallies. The local infield, almost to a man, went to sleep on an infield fly automatic out and when the Batawa runner, "ran at his own risk" to third, they played only the 3rd base, instead of tagging the runner and this runner crossed the plate later. And of Oshawa's total of 8 safe hits, only four players shared in them, with George Ticony getting three. The new Oshawa catcher made a real hit with the fan with his alert play and will-to-win. Bill Gingerich lost his second game in succession by a one-run margin and the defeat can be pinned chiefly on Ohawa's weakness at the plate. Too many of the players failed to get the ball out of the infield and this happened three times in the first eight innings—with a runner on 3rd base and only one out. The game wasn't bad by any means but the locals were not "sharp" and to that fact, they can blame their defeat."

• • •

"The work of Dick Bridgeman, at shortstop for the Shoemen, impressed us on Saturday afternoon. Don't know whether he can keep up that pace but he certainly held up his end. Fielding infield grounders or bouncers in the outfield, is tricky business at the Stadium and will be until the ground becomes harder and packed down more. Ken Peacock, who always hit well against Oshawa last year, pounded two on Saturday but one should have been an out, since we think the sun wasn't shining nearly as brightly as it was later when a catch was made in the same field. The local infield is shy on experience but this may be remedied after a few games. Certainly the local team has improved battery strength and if their hitting improves, they'll score their share of runs."

• • •

Last Friday's rip-snorting semi-final between Sandy O'Donnell and Sliding Billy Hansen has provided Manager Walter Gerow with his main bout for next Friday's mat program at the Arena. Both Hansen and O'Donnell expressed themselves as highly dissatisfied with the draw decision which was rendered by Referee Cliff Fox after thirty minutes of terrific action. O'Donnell in particular did a lot of beefing, calling for another bout and a different referee. Both men agreed to main bout conditions of two out of three falls or one hour time limit but O'Donnell insists on a different referee.

• • •

The semi-final bout on Friday's program is also likely to hit a high spot or two for it will be between the sensational Swede, Tug Carlsen and Sky-Hi Lee the Ozark Giant. Carlsen disposed of Frank Valois last week and showed himself a masterful performer. But the three hundred-pound Lee expects to 'e'at him up." In the first bout the colorful Al Krusher Korman meets popular Irish Tom Collins.

Merchants Hold Hastings Team To 12-all Tie

Frankford — The Frankford Merchants Softball Club got off to a fair start in the Trent Valley League Thursday night, as they played a home game against Hastings under the lights in Stirling. The game ended in a 12-all tie, being called on account of rain and cold weather, at the end of the regulation nine innings.

The inclement weather made it a poor night for softball, but the Frankford team made a good showing in their first game, against a team rated as one of the best in the league.

Bill Rankin pitched a steady game for Frankford, with Murphy behind the bat. Payne and Phillips were the batters for Hastings.

Highlight of the game was successive homers in the seventh by Herb Rankin and Preston Chase.

Frankford's next game will be on June 2nd, when they travel to Colborne for a league fixture.

Sammy Snead Rallies to Beat Johnny Palmer

Richmond, Va., June 1 (AP)—Samuel Jackson Snead — at 37—today is king of North America's professional golfers.

The slammer from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., earned that distinction Tuesday when he came from behind to defeat Johnny Palmer of Badin, N.C., 3 and 2, for the 1949 championship of the United States Professional Golfers Association.

Snead's brilliant victory over Palmer distinguished Sam as:

1. The only golfer in history ever the win the Masters Tournament and the P.G.A. crowns in one year.

2. The leading money winner in the United States for 1949. Sam has earned $12,610, $3,500 coming from Tuesday's triumph. Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago is second with $11,457 and Palmer third with $10,050.

3. A pretty fair country putter. Snead's putting had always been the subject of criticism. Folks said if Snead could putt like he can drive, he'd win tournaments. Since he began using a borrowed putter, Snead has won three in a row — —the Greensboro Open, the Masters and the P.G.A.

Snead moved around the 6,677 yard Hermitage Country Club coursre Tuesday in six-under-par to best Palmer. In the morning round, Snead carved a 69 for the par 71 layout.

With two holes remaining in the morning round, Palmer was two up. Then Johnny had what Snead later termed as "a couple of little lapses" and Snead grabbed the 17th and 18th to square the battle.

The match was all Snead in the afternoon. They halved the first three holes before Snead pulled ahead on the fourth with a birdie two on the par three 22nd. The match was never even again although Palmer managed to slice Snead's margin to two holes by scoring a birdie four on the 27th. Snead went three up again with another birdie two on the short 31st.

This was Snead's second P.G.A. title. He won the first time in 1942 after being runner up on two previous occasions.

Batting, Carl Furillo, Dodgers—Hit homer in 14th inning to give Brooklyn 6-4 edge over New York Giants.

Sports Roundup

(By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.)

New York, June 1 — (AP) — Mr. Manager, how'd you like to have a ball club with seven regulars batting .300 or better and seven pitchers, the least of whom has a .750 won - lost record . . . that's the position Lee Groch, Wake Forest College coach is in as his team prepares for the National College baseball playoffs . . . Wake Forest, always a good baseball school, won 24 games and lost two this season, beating a couple of class-B professional teams on the way . . . only the pitchers and catcher Russell Batchelor failed to hit .300 and the averages ranged up to .402 for Wiley Warren, who bats seventh . . . Batchelor made up for his failure in his last time at bat during the regular season. He had gone 0 for 16 and the Deacons were tied with North Carolina State, the only college team to beat them this year. So Russ clouted one over the fence to win the game.

Sports Before Your Eyes

Mary Dagraent, who plays soft ball for La Salle, Ill., team socked four home runs, a double and a single in six times at bat the other night and struck out 20 while pitching a two - hit game against Spring Valley.

Call Me Spud

Johnny Murphy, Auburn backfield coach, likely will use an assumed name the next time he visits Birmingham, Ala. . . . Last fall Murphy was in that city when the phone rang and someone inquired "Johnny Murphy?" . . . "Yes," said Johnny and before he could utter another word, his ear was bent by a frantic plea for a couple of pitchers. If he didn't get a right - hander and a southpaw, he was sunk, the caller explained . . . this spring the same thing happened again and Johnny sadly explained it was the wrong Murphy . . .

Pro Writes New Record Into Golf Books

Detroit, June 1 — (AP)—Ray Maguire, smooth - stroking Birmingham, Mich., pro, wrote a new record into golf books Tuesday when he scored two holes-in-one in an 18-hole round.

The amazing performance of the 35-year-old Maguire came in the Michigan sectional qualifying play for the United States Open tournament.

Oddy enough, Maguire — despite his two aces — did not qualify for one of Michigan's 11 berths in the open but squeezed in as an alternate.

Maguire, who has been playing golf since he was 11, made the first hole-in-one of his career on the 205-yard fifth hole on his afternoon round.

He hit the ball with a No. 2 iron, but since he was heading into the sun, did not see it land on the green.

Less than an hour later, a caddy rushed back with word that Maguire had scored a second ace—this one on the 164-yard 14th hole.

"I hit that one with a No. 4 iron and I just sensed from the moment I hit it that it was going in," Maguire said.

Maguire had 76 - 71 — 147 for the 36-hole play.

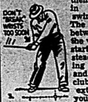
3. A reader asks what difference it makes whether or not you break your hands at the bottom of the swing, as pictured today, or at the top. Because, he reasons, you're going to break them somewhere in the backswing anyway. The difference between cocking the wrists as you start back instead of delaying the action and keeping the club shaft and extension of your straight left arm is this: If you cock your hands while your still virtually in the address position, you will find an irrestible temptation to start uncocking the wrists the instant you start down from the top. And if you uncock your wrists while the hands are high in the air the power the wrist-throw gives to the clubhead is spent in midair and none of that power ever reaches the golf ball. The result is that you sweep the ball away at impact instead of pouring into the shot all the forces, including the wrist throw, that should unite at impact thus giving you the greatest yardage you are capable of.



DON'T "BREAK" WRISTS TOO SOON

Jersey Giants Now 2½ Games Ahead in Loop

(By The Associated Press)

The folks back home in Hokendauqua, Pa., should be mighty proud today of pitcher Andy Tomasic of the Jersey City Giants.

Tomasic, a former football star, chalked up his second straight International League victory Tuesday night — a 1-0 shutout over Syracuse.

Tomasic's four - hit job dumped the Chiefs into the cellar and boosted the Little Giants' lead to 2½ games over the idle Buffalo Bisons. He struck out eight and walked only two.

It was the second victory for Tomasic since he was farmed to Jersey City by the parent New York Giants two weeks ago.

Steve Gerken's single, following Neal Watlington's double, produced the only run off Harry Perkowski in the sixth inning.

Johnny Maldovan came back to haunt Newark Bears, who sold him to Baltimore last winter, as he pitched the Orioles to a 4-3 decision over Newark. He allowed 10 hits but left 11 Bears stranded.

A homer by Ken Woods, down from the parent St. Louis Browns, won the game for Baltimore in the eighth, breaking a 3-3 tie. Newark held a 2-1 lead until Hank Arft's homer tied the score in the sixth. Lou Novikoff hit a 425-foot circuit smash to regain the lead for Newark but Bingo Binks of Baltimore again tied it up with his seventh-inning round tripper. Woods then won the game handing Bill Woop his fifth loss.

Other teams were not scheduled.

70-Game Schedule Will be Played In Hockey Loop

Montreal, June 1 — (CP) — The 70-game schedule, long a bitterly argued topic in National Hockey League circles, Tuesday was approved in principle by the owners of the six N. H. L. clubs.

But there still may be a few problems to iron out before the league actually increases regular season games by 10. Several clubs have arenas tightly booked with non - hockey dates and some owners are not in agreement on the issue.

A number of hockey men argue that the increased schedule would be too hard on the high - speed athletes who make up the teams. Others maintain that present day teams, with plenty of replacements, wouldn't have any trouble with the longer season.

The owners met before the league's annual meeting, which takes place today and will see coaches and other officials meeting with the owners and with N. H. L. officials.

The all - day meeting Tuesday also decided that the opening date next season will be Oct. 12, one day earlier than last year.

The all - star game against Toronto Maple Leafs, Stanley Cup winners this year, will be played Oct. 10 in Toronto with coach Tommy Ivan of Detroit Red Wings coaching the all-stars.

With most of the top N. H. L. brass in Montreal, along with many officials from clubs in other leagues, trade talk was flying but nothing official was announced.

Rumors that goalie Frankie Brimsek of Boston Bruins would be traded to Chicago Black Hawks were not immediately confirmed and President Bill Tobin of the Hawks insisted that "nobody wants to sell me any players."

JUNIOR LOOP FORMED

Toronto, June 1 — (CP)—Ontario lacrosse officials last night said arrangements had been completed for a four - team junior division with the possibility Brampton may round the league out to five clubs.

Owen Sound, Mimico, Weston and St. Catharines are listed as definite starters.

The opening game in the league begins when St. Catharines meets Weston June 15 and then Weston clashes with Mimico and Owen Sound plays St. Catharines June 17.

Left-fielder Tommy Warren and his Galt Terriers are making the most of their hits. They continued for 12 runs and 12 hits Tuesday night.

It was Warren who paced the Terriers with a home run in the fourth inning with the bases loaded as they downed the London Majors 12-9 in an Intercounty Baseball Association senior game at London.

In the Nickel Belt Senior League, the Creighton Cubs posted their third straight victory by defeating the Garson Greyhounds 11-4 while Copper Cliff Redmen bested Sudbury Shamrocks 5-4 at Sudbury.

In a Niagara District game, Welland Stokes went 11 innings to defeat the Niagara Falls Fords 4-3 at Welland.

At London, the Majors drove back with three runs in the ninth inning but found the lead too big to overcome. They managed to keep up to the Terriers in the first four innings, but Warren's homer broke it up.

The Terriers lost no time in chalking up their decision. They nipped opposing hurler Joe Ladensack for four hits—good for four runs—in the first inning. However, Ladensack steadied down a little and went the route for the Majors.

Two other home runs were registered in the slug fest. Connie Creedon got one for the Terriers in the first of the ninth and Bob Rose banged one for the Majors in the fourth.

Drive From Behind

At Sudbury, the Redmen drove from behind in the third inning with three runs and then added another in the fifth and one in the eighth. The Shamrocks tallied one in the second, one in the fourth and two in the seventh. Relief pitcher Don Stack was credited with the victory after relieving Fox Didone in the seventh frame. Hurler Tug Parri was charged with the loss.

The Cubs had little trouble defeating the last-place Greyhounds. They got one run in the second, three in the third, one in the fourth, one in the eighth and five in the last inning. The Greyhounds scored a run in the first and third innings and got two in the sixth. It was the Greyhounds' second loss in as many starts.

At Welland catcher Bob Milencoff led his Fords to victory when he singled to score Bill Kowalzki in the 11th inning. He tied the score in the ninth with a three-base hit.

The Stokes made a strong bid when Jack (Tip) Logan slammed a 385-foot, two-run homer in the sixth inning.

Four games are scheduled in the Intercounty League tonight. London travels to Galt, Kitchener moves to Stratford, Guelph plays Waterloo and St. Thomas meets Brantford.

In the Niagara District League, Niagara Falls Bugays clash with Welland Stokes.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By GRAHAM McQUILLAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, June 1 (CP)—There's at least one man who picks the British Walker Cup team to win this August. He is Percy Lucas, the golf team's captain.

The Americans have regularly trounced their opponents since the war but this time, says Lucas, the Britons will be the best-trained bunch of amateur golfers ever to travel to the United States.

"Everything that can be done to ensure success is being done," fair-haired, 33-year-old Lucas said, "and I think we stand a really good chance.

"One of the reasons we're second" in golf is that, in the past, we made an awfully lot of stupid mistakes. In 1936, when we played at Pine Valley, they sent us over in a boat which took 11 days. Of course, we lost our swing.

"In fact, we lost practically everything worthwhile and never stood a chance. We were beaten before we even began."

That will never happen again, says Lucas. The old "slap-happy days" are gone. Britain's Walker Cup side will sail for New York in the Queen Elizabeth in time for three weeks' "darned good feeding".

Another handicap to a British team is the equipment.

"I personally have yet to see a set of British clubs as good as their top-class American counterparts," says Lucas.

"Ours are not as well finished. In fact, if you take a look in the bags of many of our leading amateurs you'll find they are playing with American sets. No doubt several of my team picked to play at Winged Foot, N.Y., in August will use America-manufactured clubs."

Before every Coventry motorcycle speedway match—home or away—a nine-year-old boy, wearing miniature regulation leather and crash helmet, leads the team out to "The Entry of the Gladiators" march, then "roars" solo round the track on his specially-built bikt.

He is Ronnie Pope, mascot of the Coventry team (the Bees). And his theme song is "Wanna Be a Bee Boy? Yes, Please."

'He's a technical wizard and knows as much about motors as most of the riders," says Manager Charles Ochiltree.

"During the meeting he's my right-hand man as liaison between the pits and myself."

Ronnie first developed racing fever when his father took him to a grass-track meeting. Now he has two bikes built by his father, one for the cinder and one for grass racing.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 1 —(AP) — What was the greatest performance in the history of motion pictures?

This is a question that draws sharply divided opinion in Hollywood. I have asked more film stars for their verdicts, since they should be expert on the subject. Here are some of the latest answers:

Claudette Colbert — "I'll never forget Helen Hayes in 'The Sin of Madelon Claudet.' I cried and cried."

Robert Young — "John Barrymore was outstanding in anything... to name one 'Topaz.' And Laurence Olivier's job in 'Hamlet' was one of the best of all time."

Joan Bennett — "Vivien Leigh in 'Gone With the Wind.'"

Irene Dunn — "Diana Wynward in 'Cavalcade' stays in my memory as the best. She was fascinating."

Allan Ladd — "Clark Gable in 'Gone with the Wind.' That was the most perfect casting in history."

Jimmy Stewart — "I think maybe "Frederic March in 'Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde.' It was a frightening thing to watch."

Erich Von Stronheim — "This may sound like modesty, because I directed her; but I would pick Zasu Pitts in 'Greed.' A great tragedienne."

Gregory Peck — "Charlie Chaplin in everything; he's the greatest of actors. He can make you laugh one minute, cry the next. For the actress, Garbo — especially in 'Camille.'"

Maureen O'Hara (who didn't see a movie until she was 18) — "I'd select three: Bette Davis in 'Dark Victory,' Frederic March in 'Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde' and Charles Laughton in 'Mutiny on the Bounty.'"

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

With a choice of two trump suits, prefer to make trumps the one most evenly divided in the two hands. Why? On the unevenly divided suit can be sluffed losers that may not be saved in other ways.

We have been piecemealing this deal:

NORTH
♠Q 10
♥A 8 2
♦7 6 4 2
♣J 8 7 6

WEST
♠A K J 9
♥K 9 7 5
♦J 8 5
♣9 2

EAST
♠8 7 6 5 4 3 2
♥J 10 4
♦10 9
♣10

SOUTH
♠None
♥Q 6 2
♦A K Q 3
♣A K Q 5 4 3

The bidding at one table went like this:

South	North
2 C	3 C
3 D	4 D
4 NT	5 D
6 C	6 D

Opening with two in a suit, south had no fear that the bidding would stop short of game. Therefore, even after club support shown by north it was safe to reveal the biddable diamond suit.

In answer to four no-trump five diamonds is conventional signal for showing one ace and no kings. This told south that a grand slam was dangerous. Even small slam may be difficult to make.

Notice that north refused to let partner play it in clubs. He insisted on making diamonds the trump. There was a very good reason for his guiding the selection of their final trump suit.

Having bid clubs before diamonds, south said his clubs were longer. Thus did north know their diamonds were divided more equally than their clubs. He showed this preference.

West led spade king and declarer made small slam easily with the two dummy sluffs on south clubs. But in this duplicate match, some pairs ended at six clubs and got the same spade king lead.

With clubs as trumps, none of the dummy losers can be sluffed. Why? There are no long diamonds on which to sluff. But could you make six clubs? You should.

DEMURE GRANDMOTHER IS SENTENCED

Los Angeles, June 1 (AP)— A demure, gray-haired grandmother, long active in welfare work at nearby Burbank, was sentenced Tuesday to women's prison as a master forger who baffled police for 13 years. Mrs. Margaret Berman, 54, drew a term of one to 14 years after pleading guilty to one of 10 counts of forgery involving theft of $6,655 from markets and stores. Police charged she forged names on cheques sales slips and charge accounts.

AT THE BELLE — Gail Russell and John Lund are the romantic lovers of Paramount's mystery thriller, "Night Has a Thousand Eyes," which arrives today at the Belle Theatre. They are co-starred with Edward G. Robinson. In important roles are Virginia Bruce and William Demarest.

Admission Prices Will Not be Lifted for Games

(By The Canadian Press)

Conn Smythe, general manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs said Tuesday night in a telephone interview from Montreal that there would be no increase in admission prices to National Hockey League games following the adoption of the 70-game schedule. The schedule was increased by 10 games.

Smythe made the announcement a few minutes after league owners had decided on the schedule during a day-long meeting in Montreal.

Bill Holland's victory Monday in the 33rd annual 500-mile automobile race at Indianapolis was worth $51,575 to him and Lou Moore, owner of Holland's Blue Crown Special.

Tht only bigger winner in the Memorial Day race was Billy Arnold led in all but three laps of the race that year and a big chunk of his earnings was made up of lap prizes.

At Vancouver, Al Hardy, for 30 years associated with thoroughbred horse racing, Tuesday announced his retirement as managing director of the British Columbia Turf and Country Club. The Club operates Vancouver's Lansdowne track. Hardy said he plans to go into the Cariboo country, and may buy a weekly newspaper or a ranch. He is a former sports editor of the Vancouver Sun.

Toronto's Bobby Keane has been granted a probationary jockey's licence by the International Canadian Racing Association Committee, it was announced Tuesday at Toronto. He was set down in Florida and on the Quebec circuit and was refused a license earlier this season.

Henri Buser, former Swiss Davis Cup player, has entered the Ontario Tennis tournament, to be held the week of June 20 at the Toronto Lawn Tennis Club. The Ontario Tourney and the Quebec meet, which will be held in Montreal the following week.

Fishermen spend more money on equipment than do any other sportsmen in the United States.

So says the census bureau in Washington in a report Tuesday on its 1947 census of manufactures, it said the factory value of fishing tackle amounted to nearly $58,700,000, or more than one-quarter of the $210,000,000 worth of sporting and athletic goods of all kinds turned out.

At Fairmount Park, Ill., long shots ruled in the grand circuit before 3,035 harness racing fans Tuesday night. The heavy payoffs began in the third race as Guy Happy Thoughts, driven by J. Beasley, scored a two-length victory over General DeGaulle, paying $20.40. Vologda Dale paid backers $11.40 for first in the fourth race; Big Girl returned $21.80 in the sixth race and Joseph Johnson paid $19.60 for a seventh-race victory.

Manchester, England — Because the rent collector has not called at five houses in Emmett Street here for seven years the tenants agreed "We really ought to pay something to someone."

The houses are believed to be the property of two old Dublin women who cannot be traced.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was going to take me downtown to see about getting me a new suit, and I was in the bathroom washing my face and hands and fixing my hair by special request, and I thawt, Oh boy, I'll serprize her by fixing my hair so perfect she'll think I' msomebody elts.

Which I started to do, taking me about 10 minutes but the recults being worth it, and I went in ma's room and she was standing in frunt of her mirrer watching herself put her hat on, and I said, Here I am ma, all reddy alreddy. If you dont beleeve it look and see, I said.

That proves you can get yourself reddy promply just like normal people, so please let your own good example be a lesson to you, ma said.

And she gave her hat a small push, saying, Yes, I think it looks better tilted fallward, but I wish I was sure.

Maybe I can help you to decide rite, ma, I said.

And I stood alongside of her so she would notice my hair in the mirrer. Which she didn't, on account of being too intristed in her hat, so I got rite in frunt of her and she said, Is that what you call helping me for land sakes? You're rite smack directly in [illegible]. You're about as helpful as [illegible] thum. Oh my goodness [illegible] lands, she said.

Sounding serprized all rite, and I said, Do you meen my hair, ma? and she said, Is that hair? I thawt it was a painted wig, she said.

Meening on account of being under so mutch vazeline, and she made me go and wash it all off again, and I brushed my hair again as quick as lightning on account of having waisted too mutch time alreddy, and ma said, Woll, you dont exactly deserve the ferst prize for neetness, but at least you look like yourself.

Proving the best thing is to act naturel and you'll probably get along at least fair.

Corbys, C.N.R. Easily Win Softball Tilts

Some potent slugging, plus the three hit pitching of Keith Baldwin combined to give the Corby nine a convincing 11-2 win over the Energetic Club in the first half of a twin bill played last evening at the Alemite Field. In the nightcap the C.N.R. Nationals pounded out nine hits and took advantage of several errors to coast to a 13-2 victory over Howe and Hagerman.

Two four run innings were more than enough for the Corby squad to steamroller the Energetic nine, who counted their two runs in the fifth on two walks and two singles.

Corbys opened the scoring in the first scoring once on a walk and two errors and added four more in the second on a walk, a single, two errors and a home run. Two doubles and an error in the fifth counted two more for Corbys who completed their scoring in the seventh driving in four runs on homers by H. Reid and D. Sword.

Corbys threatened in the fourth putting two men on base with none away, but were unable to score. Two singles and an error loaded the bases for them in the sixth but smart fielding by the Energetic squad held them off without a run.

One Double Play

The only double play of the game came in the first frame when Energetic's third baseman McNevin, speared Reid's line drive and tagged Miller who had started down from second.

Energetic club used two pitchers Hopkins and Stickle, in rotation with Stickle being charged with the loss. Hopkins worked five frames giving up five runs on seven hits, while striking out two and walking three. In two frames Stickle walked one, struck out one, and gave up five hits for six runs.

Baldwin went the route for the winners walking six, striking out nine, and scattering three hits for two runs.

Lineups:

Corbys: Miller cf; Moon c; R. Reid rf; H. Reid 1b; R. Nolan ss; D Sword 2b; Hunter lf; Mills 3b; Baldwin p.

Energetic Club: D. White 2b; J. Orim lf; Hopkins p, rf; Townsend, replaced by O'Neil in 5th, 1b; McNevin 3b; Outindeyke c; McMullin cf; Scriven ss; Stickle rf, p.

The nattily-garbed CNR Nationals clubbed Howe and Hagerman hurler Al Adams for nine hits and took advantage of several plumber miscues to score a convincing 13-2 win under the lights.

The trainmen, although they played rather shoddy defensive ball at times, came up with the right answers in the right places to leave ten opposing base runners stranded.

The Nats teed off on Adams in the first inning counting three runs on two singles, a sacrifice and a double. Howe and Hagerman got one back in their end of the first as Cross scored on a single by Tomaso and an error to rightfielder Ike Bellis.

Both squads were kept scoreless until the fourth when a walk, two errors and two singles combined to give CNR three more runs. Howe and Hagerman tallied their final run in the fourth when Vince Murray came home on Adams double to right field.

An error and a double in the fifth gave CNR a single run. The railroaders finished their scoring in the seventh when two singles three errors and a home run resulted in six runs.

Both Hurlers Go Route

Both hurlers went the route with Adams being charged with the loss. He walked one, struck out four and gave up nine hits for 13 runs. H. Young coasted to his first victory for CNR walking one, striking out 4, and scattering six hits for two runs.

Best man at the plate was National shortstop Frank Murray, with a home run, a double and two singles in five trips.

Line Up

CNR Nationals: W. Bellis, c.; Rogers 2b; F. Murray ss; Hurrie 1b; Ronsky 3b; A. Bellis lf; G. Bellis, replaced by Nichol in 6th, rf; Carr cf; Young p.

Horse Players Flock to Epsom For the Derby

London June 1 (AP)— Horses and horse players flocked to the country town of Epsom for today's opening of a four-day meeting winding up on the weekend with the 170th running of the Derby.

Activities today through Friday at the Epsom Downs course amount to mere preliminaries leading up to Saturday's 1 1-2 mile classic for a $68,500 purse.

Thirty-three horses still are rated probable starters, including two American-owned colorbearers — Brown Rover, owned by New York banker William Woodward, and Gades, representing Ralph B. Strassburger. Gades, just sent over from France, is a 40 to 1 outsider, but Brown Rover is fourth choice at 100 to 8.

No American representative has won the Derby since Dunbar 2nd took the 1914 renewal at odds of 20 to 1.

Nimbus, second choice at 17 to 2, will attempt to repeat his 2,000 guineas triumph in the Derby — a feat not accomplished for a decade.

Lord Derby's Swallow Tail is third in demand at 9 to 1, then comes Brown Rover. The Aga Khan and his recently wed son, Prince Aly Khan, are pointing Hindostan, 100-6, and Iran 100-1 for the big event.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Edmonton, June 1—(CP)—The prairie spring racing season is under way here but the colorful Dennis (Dinny) O'Gorman, known and beloved by many turf veterans, will not be returning to the prairies.

One of the "old school" of the North American turf, O'Gorman died recently in California and from Edmonton to Caliente and eastwards from Bay Meadows to Saratoga, he will be missed.

Bob (Calgary Herald) Mamimi pays tribute to his passing by using Dinny's favorite track words: "It's only money."

However, let Bob take over from here:

"Dinny was well known on the Western Canadian racing scene. Well over four decades ago, he rode horses for the veteran Andy Robinson. Later, he returned to acquire the bookmaking concession on the Western Canada fairs before the days of pari-mutuels.

"With racing back in the west as the spring meeting ushered in the prairie season at Edmonton, there are many turf veterans who remember Dinny O'Gorman and regret the son of Erin will not be returning to the prairies."

Always Planned to Return

Bob says that veteran Lou Davies volunteers the information that Dinny was always planning to come back to the west once more but he never made it because he never quite completed his financial plan to do so.

"As Dinny said, all he had to do to get funds to come back to the prairies was to bet a 'fin' on a four-to-one shot, parley it back on an eight-to-one winner and then bet a couple of hundred on a good two-to-one victor.

"Strangely enough, in later years when he was rarely on a payroll, O'Gorman always managed to live as he always had—a fastidious dresser travelling in good company. Everything to him was "the finest" — whether it was a hamburger or a t-bone steak.

"That was understandable because the happy Irishman lived his life to the hilt and wanted all others to do the same. His favorite remark was, 'It's only money.' "

FRIENDLY PORKER

Slaidburn, Yorkshire, England—(CP) — Belinda, a pig, is embarrassing owner Rev. J. G. Byrnell. Belinda greets the rector with joyous grunts and follows him round the village. "It seems to have adopted me as a special friend," says Byrnell.

FRONTIER U.

By Oren Arnold

After half an hour more they were all but frantic.

The storm, instead of floating on off, seemed to have stuck here in southern Arizona. Clouds hung lower and blacker then ever before. The three youths dared not mention the danger they knew any airplane faced, but all felt an extra concern for an eastern girl supposedly flying to this rugged area alone. They stood together, almost in silence, waiting and hoping.

The tension broke when Ward's alert eyes saw something.

"Parachute!" he suddenly yelled. "Look!"

As if by magic a white 'chute had indeed materialized from one of the cloud formations. Moreover it was drifting in general toward the three young people here on the ground. They started running.

"If she hits on a cactus!" Ward cried. "Or even a mesquite tree!"

The 'chute struck the earth a mile away. Polly saw it billowing there. Ken and Ward quite outran her, then. Minutes, long tantalizing minutes, passed before she had threaded through the cactus and other desert growths of Paradise Valley and saw the boys coming toward her with a dripping grey haired woman. Polly saw at once she was almost hysterical.

"Where is Joy?" the woman kept crying. "I am Bettina Carlson. Joy made me jump but she was to follow. She promised. She had no fuel left. But I—I remember she usually flew alone. So now I don't think she had—had but the one parachute!"

Joy Boone had a matter of five seconds in which to make up her mind. Many a person would have frozen there in sheer terror. Joy, always quick and impulsive, moved the proper controls.

Her plane motor fairly deafened her when she nosed as straight up as she dared. "zoo-o-o-ooOO-OMM" it sounded, there in the box canyon. She saw the walls whizz by her, wall of rock.

She held her breath. Yonder was the end of the canyon hurtling at her now. It might be 1,000 or 10,000 feet high; clouds obscured the crest of it. There wasn't room to turn and go back out of the canyon. She'd have to gamble everything on this last desperate climb. Even if she made it there would hardly be enough fuel left to carry her two minutes more.

The phenomenon that saved her, she later realized, was the windstorm itself.

Wind had come driving behind her up that canyon. It, too, had to escape, and so it did what she did—zoomed upwards.

"I'll make it! I'll make it!" She verily screamed her elation there in the plane cabin, quite forgetting that Bettina Carlson had already bailed out.

At the end of the canyon the wind formed a terrific draft straight up. The force of it, plus her own motor drive, grabbed Joy's ship and literally threw it clear of the mountain.

"Oh!" Joy shrieked. "Oh-o-o-o-oh!" It was a long tremulous cry of exaltation, a thanks prayer in reality. She was in the clouds again and the same old problem of escaping them loomed ahead but at least she was not smashed to bits in some obscure canyon. For a sickening moment she had envisioned her plane a mass of wreckage back there, with her own mangled body somewhere underneath it. Now, though, her blue eyes were wide, her hair waving like a golden halo come alive.

She was still climbing rapidly. Her instruments told her just what angle upward her ship would stand. She staked everything on this now—up, up, up! Maybe — maybe! — the clouds would open and reveal an emergency spot to land. She had tried to circle to stay somewhere near Phoenix, if that white F and arrow were Phoenix. F, Phoenix; no that wouldn't be. F would be some other town, or—yes, why not? F for Frontier! Frontier University, where she was going. She and Bettina had wired for a servant to meet them at the college landing field. And, now, she remembered a picture in the college catalogue showing "F Mountain", a great rock mass near the campus on which students had painted their monogram.

Her thoughts gave her fresh hope. It was hard any time for Joy Boone to stay frightened long. She had high spirits always, and high self-confidence. She knew there was no second parachute—Bettina of course hadn't thought of that or she would never have jumped—but now she knew something would happen, something to save her. It always had!

For a long two or three minutes though, it appeared that this instance might be the exception. The old Boone luck seemed about to fail. The motor began its expected sputtering. A few fires, then a miss; a few more explosions, a spt-spt-spt, a longer miss, a few more "takes" then longer silence.

"The gas is all gone!" Joy whispered to herself. "Clouds, mountains, rocks, or whatever, I'm going back down. I'm going to strike land soon—somewhere!"

Ken Palmer had said that he would stay at The Flats, their hastily improvised airport, while Ward and Polly McMurray took Miss Carlson in. Poor Miss Carlson was all but insane. Polly had a task calming her.

"We'll leave her with the dormitory matron at school, or at the hospital maybe," Polly said as they rode away. "Then we'll rush on to the municipal airport and order planes to search for Miss Boone, Ken. Meantime, let's hope she checks in unharmed."

"Right. I'll stick here as long as there's a chance of her landing."

"We'll come back here as soon as we can."

With customary perversity, the wild Rocky Mountain rainstorm had decided now to go on about its business elsewhere, and so the late afternoon sun poked through tauntingly in just a little while. This built up hopes in Ken. With the others gone, he looked around in solitude. This desert was a strange, fantastic wilderness! He who had been reared and schooled east of the Hudson River has no knowledge of things out here. Not a house was in sight, nor a sign of life. Sahuaro cacti thirty feet tall with two to twenty arms, loomed menacingly around him. Even more thorny growths nipped at his ankles and legs. The Flats were a smooth, hard sand bed, mirrored with water now, but elsewhere rocks were tossed in hapless array. Some were pebbles, some boulders fifty feet high. Strange shrubby trees which Polly had called mesquite and palo verde dotted the terrain with brighter green. In truth it was all beautiful, but at present Ken felt it was a dangerous place to be. He shuddered to think what might happen to an airplane in trouble.

He walked out about 100 yards, constantly studying the sky, then cut back to his automobile. It was a sorry looking wet thing. No top. One fender gone. The kind of jaloppy a college student would have. But it ran well and Ken loved it. He looked at it now. Had rain shorted out the electrical system? He tested the horn—"BLAR-R-R-R!" That was okay. Just for sociability he blared it twice more. Then he started the motor, raced it, warmed it. Yep, everything was still okay, he told himself proudly. In emergency he could drive Miss Boone in. He hoped fervently she was okay.

He went back to studying the sky. Clouds were breaking but they showed no hint of any airplane. Inaction palled on him. Then he saw that The Flats were in a low area, naturally, so he decided to walk a half mile to a ground rise where he could see more. It would give him something to do anyway.

He had no more than topped the rise when he saw a man walking fast in his direction. The man saw him instantly too, then lifted a hand.

"HO!" the man yelled. "YOU COME!"

Ken rushed to meet him. He was not an ordinary man, but a dark, odd looking person. Ken finally realized it was an Indian in nondescript white man's clothes.

"What is it? What are you—?"

The Indian interrupted. "You come fast! White girl! You make car horn. I hear. White girl! You come now! Car horn. Big plane come down hard. White girl! Hah!"

He was as excited as an Indian can ever get, waving his arms, starting back. Ken already was following, hoping, piecing the man's jargon together as they ran.

The Indian set a fast pace but athletic Kenyon Palmer could match it. Together they jogged more than three miles. During the last half Ken saw what he had expected.

"It's an airplane, all right," he panted once. "Must be hers!"

"You come!"

"Sure, my friend. That's Miss Boone's. Did you see her? Was she hurt? Was she outside so that—?"

"You make car horn. I hear. Come fast, no talk."

That was good sense, Ken realized. Shut up and hurry! He began runing now. The gold and blue monoplane was tail up, its propeller buried in the ground.

Miss Joy Kathryn Boone came forward to greet them. She was unhurt. Even in this moment of excitement it was apparent to Ken that she was beautiful. The flying togs were molded for her—light blue, rich looking things. Her golden hair was flying; color in her face was high.

"Oh!" panted Ken. "O-o-o-o-oh!"

"Thanks," she smiled a bit. "I guess I am lucky at that. Few bruises only. All but scared your boy friend there to death!"

She indicated the Indian. He said nothing, but Ken spoke.

Defence Minister Alexander Touring Defences in East

Flying Visit Kept Secret Until Just Before Departure

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, June 2 (CP)— Defence Minister A. V. Alexander took off early today for Fayid, Egypt, on a tour of Commonwealth defence establishments in the Orient.

"I shall be visiting a number of places in the Near and Far East," Alexander told reporters. He did not specifically confirm or deny Wednesday night's report that he would visit Hong Kong.

Defence Ministry spokesmen declined to amplify Alexander's itinerary but said he is due back in London June 13.

Alexander's flying visit was a well kept secret until a few hours before he left. Although the visit has been contemplated for some time, Alexander did not leave until the government had received from Malcolm MacDonald, British Commissioner General in southeast Asia, an up-to-the-minute appreciation of the situation in Hong Kong and Malaya.

The defence minister's departure coincided with Wednesday's secret defence talk between Prime Minister Attlee and opposition leader Winston Churchill Though none of the details of this meeting have been disclosed, it is assumed that Hong Kong was one of the subjects raised.

The opposition has already criticized as inadequate the recent Far-East reinforcements announced by the government last month.

London newspapers said Alexander's tour was prompted by Communist advances in China. Advancing Communist armies are expected to launch a drive southward to Canton, new provision capital on the Chinese mainland. Hong Kong is about 100 miles south of Canton.

Commenting on the inspection trip, the Daily Graphic's political correspondent says:

"The visit also will have the full effect of underlining for the benefit of the local population the British determination to defend the island and associated territories on the (China) mainland against possible attack by the victorious Chinese Communists."

Alexander, in recent parliamentary debates, has been careful not to mention "defence" of the colony. But he has stated that Britain will "protect" Hong Kong.

Wednesday, 1,500 more troops sailed from Southampton to bolster the garrison there.

In all, about 8,000 troops have been dispatched in the last few weeks to strengthen the colony's defences, which would give the colony 12,000 first-line troops.

NEW MODERATOR OF PRESBYTERIANS REV. C. L. COWAN

Has Been Minister in Hamilton for Twenty - Four Years

Kitchener, June 2 (CP)— Rev. C. L. Cowan of Hamilton, Scottish-born churchman and author, is the new Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Dr. Cowan, for 24 years minister of St. Andrew's Church in Hamilton, was elected Wednesday night by the 75th Presbyterian General Assembly to succeed Rev. C. Ritchie Bell of Outremont, Que.

As Moderator, he presides at the General Assembly and is relieved of his own church duties during his one-year term of office so that he can visit Presbyterian congregations across Canada.

To reporters he said jocularly: "Don't ask me how old I am. I don't want my congregation to know."

The Lanarkshire-born Dr. Cowan came to Canada from Scotland at the age of 19. For some time he was editor of the weekly Fort Frances Times in northwestern Ontario and also contributed articles to a newspaper in British Columbia.

Studied Theology

He attended Manitoba College, Winnipeg, and studied theology at St. Andrew's College, Saskatoon. His doctorate was conferred three years ago by Knox College, Toronto.

While in Winnipeg, he married Marcia Waddell. His one son, Glen Keith Cowan, a McGill graduate who is a licentiate of the church, entitled to preach.

Dr. Cowan is president of the Hamilton Council of Churches, a 20-church group which he helped to found. He has twice served as Moderator of Hamilton Presbytery and is a former Moderator of the Synod of Hamilton and London.

When Dr. Cowan became minister of St. Andrew's Church in Hamilton, formation of the United Church of Canada had reduced the congregation from 800 to 400 members. Now St. Andrew's has 900 members and in recent years has always met its budget allocations.

Author of Two Novels

Dr. Cowan's interest in encouraging men to enter the ministry was praised by Rev. J. K. Lattimore of Smith Falls who nominated him for the Moderator's office Mr Lattimore said the church now is calling for new ministers and he added:

"Dr. Cowan has led nine men including myself, into the ministry in the last 12 years."

The new Moderator is the author of two novels, "Sandy's Son" set in the foothills of the Rockies, and "The Trail of The Sky Pilot" with a Northern Ontario setting Both were based on his experiences in the ministry.

In the non-fiction field, the book "The Parson Hits Back," written under the pen-name Roman Collar, is a defence of the ministry. A fourth book, "A Challenge to the Church," examines the attitude of the church toward war and labor through the centuries.

Under the Roman Collar pen-name, Dr. Cowan writes a column, "As I See It" in the United Church Observer. He is a contributing editor of the Presbyterian Record and some of his articles appear under the pen-name of The Watchman.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, June 2— (CP)—Synopsis: The weather continues warm and dry in all sections of the province. An extensive disturbance stretching from Northern Manitoba, through the central United States to Texas is moving eastward at a snail's pace. Scattered thundershowers occurring ahead of the disturbance will affect the White River region tonight and again late Friday.

Arthritic Victim Shows Improvement With New Hormone

Chicago, June 2 (AP)—A 61-year-old man, semi-crippled by arthritis for 10 years, Wednesday demonstrated dramatic improvement after 11 days of treatment with a new hormone. He was barely able to hobble with a cane [illegible] than two weeks ago, and stooped with constant pain. Wednesday, in a hospital room, he sat easily with his once-stiff legs crossed, then rose and walked erectly and easily out of the room.

Discover Way to Strip Bark Easily and Make Wood Lighter

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Lake Success, N.Y., June 2 — (CP)— Canadian scientists have discovered methods making it easy to strip bark from trees.

The tree doctoring saves considerable expense in manufacture of pulp and paper. A secondary effect of the treatment makes the wood lighter and thus easier to transport. All pulp trees must be "barked" first.

J. D. Hale and D. C. McIntosh of the Department of Mines and Resources, Ottawa, described the procedure in a scientific paper released by the United Nations. The report is one which will come before the scientific conference on the conservation and utilization of resources opening here Aug. 17.

The experiments were carried out "in eastern Canada" by the forests products laboratory.

The method is to treat the tree with arsenic applied in a paste mixed with flour in a narrow ring cut around the base of the tree. This usually is done in June or July when the sap is flowing in the thin layer of living matter called cambium, between bark and wood.

Trees are easily peeled, without treatment at this season.

The report says the pulp qualities are not harmed.

Arsenic is the best chemical for the treatment so far tried. But the scientists are looking for something equally effective since workmen get arsenic rashes on their skin if they are not particularly careful and animals are likely to suffer if they lick the paste.

UNITED NATIONS PRODUCE PLAN FOR ASSISTANCE

To Spend $85,000,000 On Backward Countries

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Lake Success, N.Y., June 2 (CP)—The United Nations today presented an $85,000,000 plan to boost economic development of backward countries.

The comprehensive plan is the U. N's answer to President Truman's call for a "bold new program" of technical assistance to underdeveloped areas of the world.

Trygve Lie, U.N. Secretary-General, released the plan in a 328-page document drawn up by U.N. officials, It must be approved by the Economic and Social Council and by the General Assembly before going into effect.

The financial planning involved covers the first two years of the program which could not be acted on until next year at the earliest. Officials estimate the first year would cost $35,862,576; the second, $50,179,807.

Only a Pattern

The report emphasized, however, that the present plan is only a pattern for further action.

The U.N. planners worked separately from United States officials in Washington who are reported working on a similar program. The Washington plan was said to take an estimated $125,000,000 to launch. Under that proposal Canada was expected to be asked to contribute about $10,000,000.

The U.N. plan would be financed by special contributions to the U.N. by the countries taking part in the development program.

The plan would be carried out by the U.N. itself and its specialized agencies as the International labor organization and the food and agriculture organization.

The technical assistance is intended to aid the under-developed countries to help themselves in developing their resources and productive capacity. They are also expected to contribute to the financing of the plan.

Holds Ticket On 3rd Favorite In Epsom Derby

Toronto, June 2 (CP)— Nels MacFarland of suburban Long Branch holds a ticket on Swallow Tail, third favorite in Saturday's Epsom Derby, in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes.

The Long Branch store operator is father of a four-year-old boy. He stands to win $100,000 if his horse wins.

Mary Fisher, 20-year-old machine operator of nearby Weston hopes to advance her wedding date from next September if Jaihind, the 14-to-one shot on which she has a ticket, comes in Ernie Cottrell, a mailing room employee with the Toronto Daily Star, drew Xerxes, a 66-to-1 long shot.

BAND MANAGER HONORED

Brantford, June 2 (CP)—William (Pop) Telfer, 76, President and Manager of the Brantford Boys' Band, 1933-47, can retire in comfort. The band and its executive this week presented him with an easy chair in recognition of his work. He will continue as an advisor to the band.

London Watches Nervously March of Events in Far East

London, June 2 (CP)—Chinese who pass by the Hong Kong and Shanghai bank on Hong Kong's Queen's Road linger often to touch the paws of its bronze British lions for luck.

They may need it. The island's perimeter is fast being approached by the Communist forces of Mao-Tse Tung.

London watches nervously. Will Mao-Tse's troops launch an outright assault on the island fortress, or depend on fifth column elements to deliver it? Or will the Communist general extend the hand of friendship, hoping for return favors?

The British government, while rushing troops and planes to the Crown colony where 555 Canadians died in 1942, hopes for a peaceful outcome. Perhaps British and American business men, with funds available for commercial and industrial development, will be more successful than soldiers and guns in maintaining this western stronghold in the Far East.

As a "protective" force presumably the garrison's duty would be to hold a preliminary attack until either help or evacuation could be effected, but mainly to keep order and quell insurrection.

Fifth column possibilities are enormous. Guerrilla - trained bandits, for instance, are known to be there.

An attack, if it comes, is not expected before the autumn because of the stifling summer monsoon season.

Mao-Tse Tung has been quoted as believing that Russia has no reserves to help him carry out the vast social and industrial reorganization of China he contemplates.

A rapprochement with the west enabling him to draw on its experience and financial resources, may suit him better.

Say Arrested Woman Tried To Strangle Self

Hamilton, June 2 — (CP) — A woman charged with auto theft after she had hitchhiked a ride on the outskirts of the city Wednesday was found nearly dead in her cell following arrest. Police said she had attempted to strangle herself.

Today in police court, Florence Chalifoux, 32, faced charges of auto theft and attempted suicide.

Police said the owner of the car, Vincent Bonduro, picked up the woman and gave her a ride to the city. When he stopped at a farm house, she drove off in the car. She was arrested shortly after walking down the main street of nearby Stoney Creek. The car was found in the ditch a short distance from where it was stolen.

Disappearance Of Chief Cook Will be Probed

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., June 2 (CP)—District Coroner Dr. J. E. Gimby indicated today that the members of the crew of the freighter Renvoyle would be questioned at Port Colborne concerning the disappearance of Mrs. Cora Dawes, 37, of Brantford.

Mrs. Dawes, chief cook on the vessel, was reported missing early Wednesday morning as the vessel headed downbound in Lake Superior. The coroner Dr. Gimby and provincial constable were asked to start an investigation and they informed authorities at Port Colborne when the freighter did not stop here Wednesday afternoon. The Renvoyle is expected to reach Port Colborne today.

Police-Sponsored Games Outlined

Toronto, June 2 (CP)— A program of police-sponsored games similar to those held last year at the Galt Training School for Boys, was outlined Wednesday by W. J. Eastaugh, superintendent of the Bowmanville Boys Training School.

Mr. Eastaugh said the Bowmanville version would be aimed at interesting older public school and early high school students in how citizenship should be taught. He added that the opportunity provided boys of the training schools and other lads in meeting and associating with members of the police force under harmonious conditions would be "thoroughly good medicine."

The meet would probably be held some time in September and would be open to boys 14 and over from countries surrounding the Bowmanville school.

Similar "junior police games" will be held again at Galt this year.

Royal Palaces Too Old-Fashioned, Rooms Too Large

London, June 2 — (Reuters) — Britain's Royal Palaces are too old - fashioned and their rooms are too big for modern requirements, the Ministry of Works says. The ministry has started gradually to modernize some of them — installing modern heating, electrical, water and sanitary services. Work has started at Buckingham Palace, London residence of the King.

Third Member Of Family Dies As Result of Fire

Toronto, June 2 — (CP)—The death toll rose to three today as result of a fire which destroyed a two - storey house at nearby Dixie Tuesday night.

Six - year - old Ronald Belford died in hospital this morning from burns suffered in the fire that also took the lives of his father, William Belford, and his three-year-old sister, Sharon.

His mother and a three-weeks-old sister escaped the burning building uninjured but William Belford was trapped in the blaze while attempting to rescue Sharon. He previously had pushed his two sons, Ronald and Melville, out of a second - storey window. Melville is reported in fair condition with burns about the head and arms.

Frosts, Cool Weather Retard Seeding in Ont.

Toronto, June 2 (CP)— Frosts and continuing cool weather during the past week have delayed crop growth and held up seeding operations generally throughout the province, the Ontario Department of Agriculture's weekly crop report said today.

In Northern Ontario seeding is at a standstill in some areas due to the cold spell, which brought snow to the Cochrane district.

Crop growth is also reported slow in eastern Ontario where cool weather and some heavy rains have been delaying corn planting.

In central Ontario the picture is a little brighter and new meadows are showing good growth. Frosts have been light.

No serious frost damage has been reported from Western and southern areas of the province but growth is at a standstill in some districts due to the chilly weather.

Court in Braille, Pair to Wed In England

Southampton, England, June 2 (AP)—A near-blind American girl walked off the liner Washington here today into the arms of a blind Briton who had courted her for a year by letters written in Braille.

She is 22-year-old Catherine Sloane of Chicago, a stencil operator in a cosmetics factory.

Her fiance is Frank Smith, 24, of Boultham, who went totally blind in 1945. He is a telephone operator in a Lincolnshire employment agency.

They plan to marry June 25.

The couple met in a training college for the blind at Oldbury Grange, Shropshire, last June. Catherine returned to the United States in August after the death of her father.

Toronto, June 2 (CP)—Housebreakers ransacked the Toronto home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baker Tuesday escaping with four diamond rings, four watches, a camera and a collection of old coins. Police said the thieves entered through a dining-room window.

The Bakers were at their summer home on Toronto Island.

COST-OF-LIVING INDEX WILL BE KNOWN THIS WEEK

Will Indicate Trend Of Price Ranges

Ottawa, June 2 (CP)—The latest move in Canada's fluctuating cost-of-living index will be known Friday or Saturday.

The index will be issued by the Bureau of Statistics and will indicate the trend of Canadian price ranges between April 1 and May 2 and perhaps show whether the living-cost barometer has settled on an even course.

The last report, issued May 4 and covering the period from March 1 to April 1, showed a gain of one-tenth of a point to 159.3 after two successive months of declines. At that reading, the index was 7.7 points above April 1 last year and three-tenths of a point below the all-time peak of 159.6 reached last October.

In the seven months since the index first touched 159.6, it has kept within seven-tenths of a point of that peak. In the same period, it has declined three times —in November, January and February—and has advanced twice—in December and March. The index is computed on the basis 1935-39 equals 100.

The March increase of one-tenth resulted from higher prices for clothing, home-furnishings and services, rents and miscellaneous items. Food prices had shown a further drop, but it was not enough to off-set the increases recorded.

The food sub-index slipped from 199.1 to 198.5 on a substantial drop in the price of butter and smaller declines in lard and shortening. Beef, pork, milk, bread and flour were a bit higher.

But gains in the other groups out-paced the foods. The clothing index rose from 182.7 to 183.2, home-furnishings and services from 167.9 to 168, miscellaneous goods and services from 128.1 to 126.4 and rents from 121.7 to 122.4. Fuel and light remained unchanged at 131.0.

Names Identical Of Attendants At Ceremony

Kitchener, June 2 (CP) — Two brother and sister combinations with identical names were the attendants at a wedding ceremony Wednesday in the Cedar Grove Amish Mennonite Church near Crosshill. Married by Bishop Moses Nafziger were Miss Laurene Zehr, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Zehr of nearby Crosshill and Norman Jantzi son of Menno Jantzi of Brunner and the late Mrs. Jantzi.

The two bridesmaids were Miss Katie Jantzi of Wellesley and Miss Katie Jantzi of Brunner and the bridegroom was attended by Aaron Jantzi of Wellesley, and Aaron Jantzi of Brunner. The Katie and Aaron of Wellesley cousins of the bride are brother and sister, and the Katie and Aaron Jantzi of Brunner are brother and sister of the bridegroom.

The couple will reside on the bridegroom's farm southwest of Wellesley.

BOY DIES IN SHOTGUN BLAST

Sarnia, June 2 (CP)—Jimmy Sisler, 10, of nearby Forest died in hospital Wednesday of injuries received in a shotgun blast Tuesday. Police reports indicated the Sisler boy and another lad, Alex Buchan, obtained a gun and loaded it. In a scuffle for possession it discharged.

Hundreds Search for Missing Boy Lost in Eastern Quebec Woodlands

Eastman, Que., June 2 (CP)—Hundreds of eastern townships villagers, hunting since Monday night for missing Michel Fontaine, were reinforced today as three truck loads of mill workers from nearby Magog joined in the search for the six-year-old boy.

The workers, given the day off as several eastern townships mills closed, joined a crowd of searchers who include the Eastman parish priest, police and all wardens in the district.

The hunt for the boy, who disappeared when he followed his brothers into an upland pasture near this Shefford County village, is the biggest in the history of the eastern townships.

The number of searchers who came in scores of cars and trucks rose to 600 Wednesday night but diminished today although several parties searched the barrens and woodlands until five o'clock this morning.

An R.C.M.P. dog, taken out of the search when the boy's tracks were covered up by the crowd of searchers, was brought back into the hunt today but without result.

Abbe Paul Tourigny, who broadcast prayers from a loud-speaker-equipped truck during the night, led one party of searchers. He held mass in the Eastman Roman Catholic Church this morning and blessed his parishioners as they left to join the search. To many of the searchers he handed out pictures of the sacred heart.

Meanwhile, hope waned that the lad, delicate and lightly-clothed, would be found alive after three nights in the cold and without food.

Failure Meets Attempts to End Asbestos Strike

Talks Between Mediator, Union, Company Fail

Quebec, June 2 (CP)— Negotiations between Labor Minister Antonio Barrette and Company and labor representatives aimed at settlement of Quebec's strike of 5,000 asbestos workers broke down today.

The strike for more pay began Feb. 13, has been marked by sporadic violence, and involves some 5,000 workers.

The rupture of talks between Mr. Barrette, Gerard Picard, president of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor, and Ivan Sabourin, K.C., legal adviser of Candian Johns-Manville Company, came about an hour and a half after they met at 11 a.m.

Eight Point Plan

Under Discussion at the time was an eight point settlement plan submitted by the labor minister as a compromise between settlement plans submitted individually by the company and the labor organization.

The company was prepared to accept all eight points of Mr. Barrette's plan. The C.C.C.L. refused clauses which covered rehiring of strikers involved in criminal proceedings and the form that arbitration would take.

Picard with whose labor organization are affiliated Catholic syndicates grouping the 5,000 striking Asbestos workers was the first to leave the conference. He offered no comment.

Mr. Barrette then told newspaper men that the Canadian Johns-Manville Company, largest of five Asbestos producers involved in the dispute, had submitted a settlement plan May 17.

Union Submitted Plan

He said the C.C.C.L. had presented a plan of its own a week later.

Neither plan had been acceptable to the other party, said the minister.

The Labor Minister said he regarded his settlement formula as a "happy medium".

When the conference concluded with the C.C.C.L. president's departure there was no indication that talks would be re-opened.

Paint Shop Fire Starts Two Blasts

London, Ont., June 2 (CP) — Fire starting in the paint shop of the London Concrete Machinery Company plant touched off two blasts Wednesday night that sent flames shooting high above the roof, and startled east side residents for blocks around.

The fire was brought under control within half an hour, with fire and water damage to the carpenter shop, shipping department as well as the paint shop. Loss has not been estimated.

Charred stands that had held two partially filled barrels of enamel thinner indicated to firemen that they had caused the blasts. Fire Chief R. C. McRonald said it is likely the barrels exploded as the result of the fire but cause of blaze itself was undetermined.

EXCURSION BOAT GUTTED BY FIRE $200,000 LOSS

35 Members of Crew Sent Scurrying to Safety in Night Attire

Port Dalhousie, June 2 (CP)—A dawn fire today gutted the excursion steamship Northumberland a day before the 1,255-ton vessel was to start its regular summer trips across Lake Ontario to Toronto. No one was injured.

Thirty-three crew members escaped in night attire to the pier where the ship was moored. They were awakened by stewardess Ann Buchholz, 23, who ran around banging on cabin doors.

Damage was officially estimated at $250,000 but replacement cost was estimated at $750,000.

J.R. Empringham, superintendent of the company which operates the vessel, said it is unlikely the ship can be rebuilt, because of its age. It was built in 1891 at Newcastle on Tyne, England, as an ocean-going vessel.

On Summer Schedule

For 30 years the Northumberland plied the 30 miles between Toronto and Port Dalhousie, carrying as many as 1,050 passengers and freight. Canadian National steamships operated it and another vessel, the Dalhousie City, on a summer schedule of several trips daily.

The Dalhousie City likely will have to carry on alone on the trips starting Friday until a replacement can be obtained.

The fire started in a men's washroom below decks. Firemen from Port Dalhousie and nearby St. Catharines poured tons of water into the ship, working from the pier alongside it.

Interior Gutted

The flames were extinguished within four hours but the interior was gutted. The ship's steel hull, though black and blistered kept on an even keel. Officials said the danger of the vessel rolling over had passed when they started pumping out water ballast at 10.30 a.m.

Miss Buchholz, the stewardess from Toronto who discovered the fire, said she didn't know "what made me wake up." She smelled smoke so went to investigate.

"At the men's washroom it seemed awfully hot and smoky and I went to wake the chief engineer," the 23-year-old stewardess said.

Napanee Farmer Fined $500 for Cruelty to Calves

Toronto, June 2 (CP)— Clair I. Russell, Napanee farmer and part-time drover, Wednesday was fined $500 and costs or three months for causing 122 calves unnecessary suffering last April. Similar charges were dismissed against Charles E. Scott of Belleville. Court was told the pair shipped the calves from Stratford to Napanee. During the trip the box-car broke down and the calves were diverted to Toronto where they were ordered destroyed because they were "emaciated and suffering from hunger."

City and District News

TOMATO PLANTS DAMAGED BY WEATHER

Severe damage to tomato plants resulting from recent cold weather is reported from various parts of the district especially Prince Edward County.

Some growers claim the plants were put out too soon. Slightly green the plants lacked the stamina to weather the cold wave. Hail during the weekend was also blamed for the loss in some places.

One grower reports the loss of a quarter million plants.

PROPERTY DAMAGE RESULT OF CRASH

Considerable property damage, but no injuries, resulted this morning in a two-car collision at the intersection of Dundas Street, West and the Bay Bridge Road

Thos. Hutchison, Boswell Street, was driving west on Dundas Street, and in turning south onto Bay Bridge Road collided with a northbound vehicle being driven by Gordon Cole of Picton. Bumper and grill damage resulted to both vehicles.

GENERAL SESSIONS TO START TUESDAY

The General Sessions of the Peace for Hastings county will commence on Tuesday, June 7th, instead of on June 6th, which normally would be the date. Reason for not starting until Tuesday is because of observance of the King's Birthday which falls on Monday.

County officials today reported a fairly heavy list of cases scheduled to be heard before his Honor Judge J. C. Anderson, Hastings county judge. There are ten non-jury cases and two jury cases.

MINISTER GOES ASTRAY?

Even a gentleman of the cloth can go wrong. Figuratively, that is.

Last Monday a car pulled up to the United Church at West Lake, Prince Edward County, its driver apparently puzzled.

He asked a nearby resident "Can this be the church where the United Church Conference is being held. My directions say that Picton is five miles from Bloomfield and I have come five miles."

The minister had made the wrong turn when arriving in Bloomfield driving towards West Lake instead of continuing on the highway to Picton.

Accused Guilty Selling Stocks Without Licence

Pleading guilty before Magistrate T. Y. Wills to a charge of unlawfully trading in securities contrary to the provisions of the Ontario Securities Act, A. W. Cockburn, Toronto, today was fined $100 and costs.

John V. Logan, inspector for the Ontario Securities Commission, told the court that Cockburn had sold debentures of Canada Chedworth Ltd., which ultimately had proven worthless.

However, there was no evidence to show that Mr. Cockburn knew the securities were worthless and he was fined for unlawfully trading in securities because he was not registered with the securities commission as a security salesman.

"There are various charges under the securities act which are much more serious than this," stated Magistrate Wills as he passed sentence on the accused. "This man has been charged only with selling securities without a licence."

In default of payment of the $100 fine Cockburn will spend three months in the county jail.

Cockburn was charged with selling something like $7,000 worth of securities over a period of more than a year. Two of the debentures sold, amounting to $1,500 were sold to an elderly Foxboro district spinster. The securities ultimately proved worthless.

Snap Election In UK Predicted By Lord Woolton

Filey, Yorkshire, England, June 2 (AP)—Lord Woolton, Conservative party chairman, has predicted the government "is very likely" to call a snap national election in late October—eight months ahead of schedule.

Woolton told a conference of 2,000 Young Conservatives that "the Socialists would be very wise to have an election at the earliest possible moment, for their economic sins are beginning to find them out."

The government's five-year term ends in July, 1950. Tentative date for the election is early June — after next year's Labor party conference which opens May 29, 1950.

Winston Churchill, Conservative leader in Commons, also warned last week against a snap election.

Output of Peas And Tomatoes To be Reduced

Picton, June 2—The output of tomatoes and peas in Prince Edward County will be greatly reduced this year, canners reported yesterday after making a survey. Rushing the season, many growers of tomato plants set the tender young seedlings in the fields before May 24. This was followed by several days of cold, windy weather and in some areas by a heavy fall of hail. As a result dozens of farmers are plowing fields of ruined plants under and seeding grain instead.

One canner estimated that thirty percent of all plants out in the fields in the county were damaged or ruined. One farmer planted 18,000 seedlings and following the unusual weather was forced to buy 5,000 to replace those damaged.

Growers of plants report that they are being besieged with farmers who wish to secure extra plants as a result of the damage done but that they are able to fill but a fraction of the demand.

Adding to the seriousness of the situation is the fact that the acreage in Prince Edward County, one of the largest tomato growing areas in Canada, was reduced by one-third this year.

Peas which were sown early did well as long as there was sunny weather but they have suffered greatly as a result of the cold spell which ended yesterday. They will be a smaller than normal crop, growers estimate.

Subsidized Housing Urged For Low Income Groups By Bay of Quinte Conference

Picton, June 2—Subsidized housing for low income groups was favored by the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada in session here yesterday. The conference endorsed a report on evangelism and social service presented by Dr. James Semple, Peterborough, which requests the Federal Government to increase its efforts to supply houses for the low-paid non-veteran group and suggested that one step to be taken should be subsidizing. It was noted there has been commendable effort to provide houses for veterans' families. The provinces and municipalities were urged to set aside their differences, wherein they are hindering the federal government from supplying the maximum number of low cost housing units.

Increase in Gambling

The increase in gambling was strongly condemned by the conference, as figures revealed gambling on the increase. The greatest gambling threat in Canada today is the possible introduction of dog racing, with efforts being made to establish a track near Toronto, it was stated. The conference petitioned the Federal Government to refuse the licensing of the business of dog racing and any extension of opportunities of gambling thereon. It called upon those responsible for enforcing the law to oppose the tendency to "ease up" in official attitude to gambling in all forms, and urged the Federal parliament to repeal that section of the Criminal Code which grants exemption for the conduct of lotteries and games of chance for religious and charitable purposes.

Local Option

The conference endorsed the report on temperance which protested against the "undemocratic regulations surrounding the present Local Option law whereby municipalities are prevented from taking a vote to protect themselves until such time as outlets are actually established, then after a lapse of time they may take steps to establish local option."

"Local option provisions were designed for horse and buggy days and are no longer adequate to our needs in the motorized age. We request that the local option provisions be extended to apply to counties as voting units.

We protest against the evident unfairness to some counties of the Province in withdrawing the protection of Provincial law to those counties under the C. T. A. It would appear that this action has been deliberately taken to try and break down the effectiveness of the C. T. A. and bring it into disrepute, the report stated. The work of Alcoholics Anonymous was commended.

On the matter of elections the report referred to the forthcoming Federal election, commenting it would seem that no matter which party we support the results may mean much to our Protestant faith and witness. We therefore urge our people to approach the ballot box in the spirit of prayer and Christian service.

Lord's Day Act Provisions Endorsed

Provisions of the Lord's Day Act were endorsed by the Conference, it being pointed out that the Act provides for much freedom for personal and family recreation but guards against professional sport and entertainment which would require more and more people to lose their weekly day of rest.

An intensified campaign of evangelism was favored by the gathering, with preaching missions, student gospel teams, visitation evangelism and family counselling advocated.

Rev. J. E. Anderson, Brighton, was elected president of the Conference for the following year. He succeeds Rev. V. McNeeley, Oshawa. Rev. H. C. Wolfraim, Almonte, was re-elected secretary with Rev. Alfred Poulter, Madoc as assistant; Dr. D. M. Smith, Campbellford, press secretary and Rev. John E. Glover, Elgin, treasurer.

Six Candidates Ordained

An ordination service held last night was attended by more than one thousand persons. Six candidates, recent graduates of Queen's were ordained with the Conference president in charge assisting Rev. G. A. Brown, Kingston, and Rev. H. C. Wolfraim, Almonte. The sermon was preached by the immediate past president, Rev. V. McNeeley, Oshawa. Those ordained were George W. Teskey, Kingston and Wellington; Charles Frederick Poulter, Madoc; Wilson L. Morden, Picton; Gordon More McKenzie, Cobourg; Harold Wesley Giffin, Sharbot Lake; Jack Hart McAvany, Brockville.

Doctors Decide Against Operating

Toronto, June 2 (CP)—Doctors decided on Wednesday against operating on an 11-month-old baby whose flight from Calgary was paid for by donations to a fund organized by a Calgary radio station. The baby suffers from congenital malformation of the heart.

The child, Lloyd Anderson, will be flown back to Calgary without the operation because it would not help him, doctors said.

The child arrived here Saturday.

Completely Furnished Home in New Housing Area Will be Exhibited

Affording the residents of the district the opportunity of inspecting first hand a completely furnished home in the recently developed Parkwood Heights housing district in the east end of the city, the Tatham Construction Company will hold "open house" this weekend when one of their fine new homes will be on exhibition.

From Friday afternoon until Sunday evening visitors will be welcomed and will be shown through the new one-and-a-half storey house by a courteous attendant, who will be prepared to answer any and all questions regarding the new housing area.

Little more than one year ago Parkwood Heights district was still open country familiar to golfing enthusiasts who were members of the Belleville Golf Club.

Great Transformation

Today a complete transformation has taken place. Streets have been built, water mains and sewers have been installed and upwards of 150 new homes have been constructed by three different construction companies. Tatham Brothers alone constructed 91 homes of four basic designs and all but 16 homes have been sold to proud new home owners.

Although the first homes were occupied only a matter of months ago, already pride of ownership is being demonstrated in graded and terraced lawns with grass in some instances showing. Others, in an effort to speed nature, have sodded their lawns.

Two months ago the entire area was a morass of axle deep mud. Today streets are dry with a liberal thickness of crushed rock having been applied. Later this month roadways will be brought up to grade with application of coarse and fine gravel and streets will be oiled. Later in the year sidewalks will be constructed.

The Tatham Construction Company home which this weekend will be thrown open for public inspection is a one-and-a-half storey, bevel-siding home situated on Fairway Ave. and facing northeast.

Completely Furnished

From curtains and drapes to floor rugs and electric stove in the kitchen the home will be completely furnished by Bibby's of Kingston through the courtesy of Goodman's Store for Men here.

Doors of the new home will be open at two o'clock Friday afternoon with "open house" to be held each afternoon and evening through Sunday. Visiting hours will be from two in the afternoon until eight-thirty in the evening.

Out of the 91 homes constructed in the Parkwood Heights area by Tatham Construction Company only 16, all of one-and-a-half storey type with exteriors of brick, wood bevel siding and stucco, remain unsold.

The construction company extends a cordial invitation over the weekend for city and district residents to visit the Parkwood Heights area to view the new housing area and to inspect their completely furnished home.

St. John's Church Bath, Appeals For Organ Funds

One hundred and sixty three years ago, the United Empire Loyalists hewing themselves a living out of the forest-fringed shores of the Bay of Quinte, near Bath, Ont., did not forget their God and their religion.

God-fearing families, each Sunday they worshipped under the guiding influence of a pioneer-minister, the Rev. John Langborne.

Under his ministry and other activities, the community flourished. The settlement grew — and with it the small outlying communities that formed the parish.

For years, the Rev. John Langborne catered to the spiritual and other needs of his flock. Then in 1793 so urgent had become the need for a central place of worship, that the present St. John's Anglican Church came into being.

Within its confines Mr. Langborne conducted his services, weddings and baptisms until 1813 when he was called to his final reward.

Since that time St. John's Church has served faithfully members of the parish.

In tribute to the memory of its first minister, and with the authority and approval of His Grace Archbishop Lyons, a fund has been started to install an electric organ in the well-known edifice.

It is felt that all those who have an interest in this historic church "on the hill" will welcome the opportunity to contribute to the fund which will not only keep the memory of the first minister of the parish fresh, but will beautify this house of God and help the choir and congregation to render a more dignified, attractive and pleasing service.

The present incumbent of the Bath parish is the Rev. L. G. Osborne-Walker.

Any contribution, large or small will be gratefully received. Kindly make all cheques and monies payable to the fund treasures. (Mrs.) Helena Miller, Bath, Ont.

EXCURSION BOAT

"Then I went back up and got some clothes on, and went down again and knocked on all the doors of the cabins to wake up the crew. When I turned around and tried to get back to my cabin I could hardly see for the smoke and flames, and I had to get out."

Crew members started to battle the fire with the ship's fire-fighting equipment. Within four minutes, they had to abandon ship. All escaped down the gangplank except James Young, 19, of Toronto, who shinnied down a rope with the help of Mitchell LeDuc, 21, of Guelph.

All Possessions Lost

Most of the crew lost all their possessions.

Captain W. Webb was at his home in St. Catharines when the fire started.

The fire was fed by new paint put on for the start of the summer trips. Though the vessel is owned by Canadian National Steamships, it was operated by Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway under contract.

Besides regular commuters, the Northumberland carried large crowds of excursionists going on holiday trips to Niagara peninsula area and to the picnic park at Port Dalhousie.

The Northumberland originally was built for the Charlottetown steam navigation company between the Prince Edward Island capital and cape Tormentine N.B. The Canadian government bought the ship in 1916 and she was chartered for Lake Ontario service after the First World War.

Crew Organized to Fight Fire

Chief Engineer G. T. Burton of Toronto organized the crew into a fire brigade but it soon became apparent they were fighting a losing battle.

Second Engineer W. F. Grant of Vancouver said "the mate and I were manning a hose near the stern but the deck burned out above and fell on us. We had to get out. The smoke was killing us."

Deckhand's quarters near the bow of the ship were unharmed by flames. Crew members later returned to the quarters and recovered many of their belongings drenched by water from the fire hoses.

Firemen prevented the flames spreading to the Dalhousie City, moored a few feet from the Northumberland along the same harbor wall.

Crew members paid tribute to the first mate, Neil Livingston, 40, of Collingwood, Ont., who stayed below to the last minute fighting the fire.

Hospital Supt. Denies Threats Made to Nurse

Windsor, Ont., June 2 (CP) — Horace E. Atkin, business superintendent of Metropolitan General Hospital whose dismissal was recommended by Judge Eric Cross Wednesday, today denied he made threats against Mildred Maybee, former superintendent of nurses at the hospital.

It was reported, and confirmed last night by Miss Maybee, that M. Atkin met Miss Maybee as he left the courtroom when hearings into the hospitals' administration were adjourned and threatened to "get her."

Mr. Atkin said today that he called Miss Maybee after he heard reports that he had threatened her.

"I assured her I had no intentions of getting her and wished her the very best for the future. She returned my well wishes. There is no bitterness or hatred between us."

Judge Cross, one-man Ontario Royal Commission conducting the probe into affairs of the city-owned hospital, recommended Mr. Atkin's "immediate dismissal" Wednesday as public hearings ended. He said he could not condemn the man too strongly for his actions at a Detroit party attended by Metropolitan nurses and prominent Windsor officials.

It was shortly after the party that Miss Maybee resigned. Both incidents led to the inquiry.

Miss Maybee confirmed last night that Mr. Atkin told her:

"Well, I guess you are happy now, Miss Maybee. You got what you wanted. We'll get you later."

She said she later heard reports he mentioned something about a council.

The threat was denied by Mr. Atkin.

"I remember saying I hoped she and the counsel of women were satisfied," he said. "I certainly did not mean city council."

Mr. Atkin said he would abide by the decision of his hospital board "and my resignation is ready any time." He said he would be willing to advise the board on matters of purchase pertaining to a new nurses home, soon to be opened.

London Dockers Meet to Consider Strike Action

London, June 2 (Reuters) — Five thousand dockers and stevedores met today to consider strike action over the Canadian seamen's dispute which has involved thousands of British dock workers in sympathy walkouts at the west-coast ports of Liverpool, Bristol and Avonmouth.

Strike leaders from Avonmouth and Liverpool were due to address the meeting.

Dockers at the west coast ports claim they have been locked out because they refused to work ships manned by crews belonging to the Seafarers' International Union (A.F.L.)—a rival of the Canadian Seamen's Union (T.L.C.).

Meanwhile, strike threats to Britain's weekend holiday traffic were being discussed today by a meeting of the executive of the National Union of railroad men.

The meeting was called after emergency talks last night between union leaders and ministry of labor officials to try and end the impending creeping paralysis which threatens the railroads.

Sir Robert Gould, the minister's chief conciliation officer, met union leaders to thrash out points at dispute in the unofficial "Sundays only" strike of Northeastern Railroad men against new schedules compelling them to spend nights away from home.

The union has disclaimed all responsibility for the strike.

While ministry and union officials tackled this problem a "go-slow" rail strike continued in London freight depots where 2,500 railroad men are "working to rule" in support of claims for wage increases of 10s ($2.00).

Sir Robert Gould said after last night's talks with trade union leaders that the union executive probably would ask British railroads to "exercise their discipline" against the rail strikers.

CAPTAIN VANCOUVER

Recently a ceremony took place of note and interest to Canada at Petersham, Surrey, when a name perpetuated in Canada in Vancouver Island and Vancouver City was honored in memory. It was the 121st anniversary of the death of Captain George Vancouver. At Petersham the grave of the explorer was covered with flowers laid by the Commonwealth representatives and the Canadian flag was flown from the mast in the churchyard.

Captain Vancouver was a great figure of note in his day. The occasion of the anniversary of his death was taken as the occasion to lay wild flowers on the grave, the flowers having been brought in ice from Western Australia.

The gallant captain who lived from 1758 to 1798 served with Captain Cook on two of his voyages and later led two exploring expeditions to Western Australia, New Zealand and the northwest coast of North America and circumnavigated the island later known as Vancouver Island.

Vancouver was one of the great explorers of the later age of discoveries and his name is assured of remembrance in many parts of the world. In 1790 he was appointed to the Discovery and named commander. It was then decided to dispatch an officer to Nootka Sound "to receive back in form the territory the Spaniards had seized," to make an accurate survey on the coastline and to learn if there was a northwest passage. He made a voyage and touched the Cape of Good Hope, surveyed the coasts of New Zealand and Australia, discovering and naming King George Sound, Mount Gardner, Cape Cod and other points. He went north and received the surrender of Nootka and spent the three summers of 1792-4 in surveying the American coast as far as Cook's Inlet. On his return he visited Spanish settlements in South America and reached England in 1795.

Canada has a noble record of discovery under the French regime and under British rule that the influence of the great figures who have helped to make this country should leave an influence on the people of this country for enterprise and high courage.

BAD PENNY VILLAGE

When Francis Bernard heard that an avenue of trees was being planted in an American town, was to be paid for with contributions of a nickel from all over the nation it gave him an idea. Why could not some badly damaged French area be rebuilt by such means? He carried his idea a step further by suggesting that French "bad pennies," old banknotes of small denominations which very quickly became extremely dirty, might be given to such a worthy cause, and in their last lease of life be used to build a village.

The Bank of France and the French broadcasting authorities approved of the idea and a ballot was held to decide which would be the lucky village. The choice fell on Eperon, a small village between the English Channel and Caen, where so much heavy fighting took place. Eperon soon became known as the Radio Village, as it was to rise from its ruin by means of money sent to the scheme's trustees at the French broadcasting headquarters.

Contributations poured in, not only from France but from Britain, Belgium, Switzerland and Canada. Some of the British and Canadian money which could not be sent direct was forwarded by French friends of the givers, some from ex-soldiers who remembered the village and the sacrifices it had made for the cause of French liberation. Theft in transit was prevented by all notes coming by post being marked in red pencil "For the Radio Village" and with money coming in at the rate of a million francs a month—about a thousand pounds—work on clearing the site has already started. The first foundation stone may be laid at any time now, provided that a certain amount of state reconstruction aid is available too. Ian McDougall told this heartening story in the BBC's "Radio Newsreel" and said that Eperon already has its town hall, of wooden planks with a corrugated iron roof but, as the mayor of the village had said to him, even that would not have been possible if the "bad pennies" had not turned up.

In whatever light so ever we regard the Bible, whether with reference to revelation, to history or to mortality, it is an invaluable and inexhaustible mine of knowledge and virtue.—John Quincey Adams.

Do not wait for extraordinary circumstances to do good actions; try to use ordinary situations.—Richter.

If poverty is the mother of crimes, want of sense is the father of them.—Bruyere.

WARNING TO MOTHER

Watch him, mother! Little eyes
Filled with wonder and surprise
Tempt his chubby hands to clutch
Trinkets that you treasure much.

On the table move that lamp
Further from the little scamp!
If to guard it you are slow,
Over on the floor 'twill go.

Now that he's begun to crawl,
Follow him through room and hall.
Figurines on shelves and stands
Are too frail for little hands.

Though you love him, watch with care.
Nothing's costly; nothing's rare!
Price and worth which grown-ups fret
He has not discovered yet.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Are You Catalogued?

The most important personal problem for any of us, is to see that we get set in the right place. In other words, have we got ourselves catalogued? "Blessed is that man," said Elbert Hubbard, "who has found his place."

This is a very short life, at its longest, so the sooner we get into the work that we can both love and do best, the happier and more useful we are sure to be. No one knows us better than we know ourselves, therefore the problem of choosing a program of life becomes our most important task. We should do that which best suits us and by which we can accomplish the most good and be happiest in doing.

Said St. Augustine: "Men go abroad to admire the heights of mountains, the mighty billows of the sea, the long courses of rivers, the vast compass of the ocean, and the circular motion of the stars, and yet pass themselves by."

Who is to take note of you, or of what you do, if you take no note of yourself? Socrates gave a great sermon to the world in two words: "Know Thyself!" You are your own best friend. Self consult. Self advise. Self examine. Get yourself catalogued so that you will know where you are, the route you are to take, and to what final objective.

It may take a little adventuring a little experimenting, and a great deal of weighing of abilities, before getting set aright, but never let go of the central idea. Decide to be a Somebody! Every human being has something to him that is unique. To search this out and make its discovery, is an event of the utmost importance.

H. G. Wells had one of his characters say this: "I did not want simply to live or simply to live happily or well; I wanted to serve and do and make—with some nobility." To make of yourself a useful figure in your community far outweighs any fame or wealth that you might acquire. Get yourself catalogued. Then spread out!

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

City of Twelve Gates

In his magnificent vision of things to come, Saint John in the Book of Revelation gives us a picture of the heavenly city, the consummation toward which the whole creation moves.

One of the most striking statements he makes is that this city has twelve gates. We wonder why there are twelve, or in fact why there is more than one. Practically every branch of the Christian Church insists that it alone points out the inevitable pathway of truth. So why the twelve gates to the Holy City? They all seem to lead right to the feet of God, and certainly we can imagine that on some distant day they all will be opened and that men will stream from all points to enter the twelve gates.

To hold such a position is not to maintain that all religions are equal, or that one religious interpretation is just as good as another. The Bible undoubtedly teaches us that no individual or any group of individuals has ever been able to comprehend the whole of divine truth. "We know in part and we prophesy in part, but when that which is perfect is come (when the twelve gates will be thrown open), then that which is in part shall be done away."

Let us rejoice in the pathway over which we proceed, but let us not regard with enmity those who walk along other pathways.

Mackenzie's Column:

Plenty of Signs Dangers of War Have Receded

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

President Truman says he believes "we are closer to world peace now than at any time in the last three years."

Winston Churchill says he has the growing hope "that we may avert forever the horrible vision of a third world war."

What justification is there for such optimism in view of the continued clashes between the Russians and the western democracies in Europe, and the sweeping victories of the Moscow inspired Communists.

I don't believe either of them has lost his cunning. There are plenty of signs that the dangers of world war have receded greatly in recent weeks. The chief reason is that the Communists drive westward across Europe has been topped by the power of the Democraties' counter-offensive. Not only has it been stopped but it has largely spent its force and is without the sinews for recovery.

Chinese Powder Keg

China certainly does present grave dangers, but at this stage they are more ideological than military. It is quite in the cards that Russia, even though dominating that vast country politically would find it a white elephant.

China, while potentially a great power, is backward and undeveloped. From the military aspect she not only wouldn't be any great asset to Russia, but on the contrary would involve heavy expenditures for development.

Putting China on her feet isn't a matter of years. It involves decades.

So at this juncture neither Europe nor the Orient hold threats of another world war in anything like the near future.

But this doesn't mean the struggle between Communism and democracy is drawing to a close. It will continue, but along ideological lines rather than as a "shooting war"— at least so long as the allies keep themselves militarily strong as a preventive.

Battle of Ideas

It therefore remains to be seen whether the democracies are as good with ideas as they are with guns.

In this war of ideologies the democracies must lay down programs which are concrete and practical. The average citizen wants something into which he can get his teeth.

'Mickey' McDonald Believed Dead By Toronto Police

Toronto, June 2 — (CP)—Police said Wednesday they are convinced Donald (Mickey) McDonald is dead because they believe his mother here has not heard from him for 13 months. McDonald, Ulysse Lauzon and Nick Minille escaped from Kingston penitentiary in August, 1947. Last year Lauzon's bullet - riddled body was found in Mississippi and Minille was returned to Kingston after his arrest in California.

Czech Ministry To Fill Vacancies In Priests' Posts

Prague, June 2 (CP)— The Czechoslovak Ministry of Education served notice Wednesday it will exercise control over filling vacancies in the posts of priests of the Roman Catholic Church and all other administrative and personnel changes.

In the second issue of the government official gazette for Roman Catholic Clergymen—which Archbishop Joseph Beran has told his priests to ignore—a decree of the school ministry was published saying that no announcement on administration or personnel would be valid legally unless published in the government gazette.

Church gazettes have been banned.

Another ordinance of the ministry requires that any vacancy of a clergyman's post must be reported to the regional national committee. These are the executive bodies which carry out the orders of the government in Prague throughout the country.

The Bishops complained that the stoppage of all Roman Catholic publications makes it impossible for them to communicate with their people except by pastoral letters read in churches.

The gazette carried an official decree that all lay teachers of religion from now on are state employees.

These orders, which ignore any authority held by Bishops, are a sequel to the breakdown of church-state negotiations.

Rudolf Bing New General Manager Of Metropolitan

London, June 2 — (CP)—Rudolf Bing has been appointed the new general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Association of New York it was announced Wednesday night. He succeeds Edward Johnson, a native of Guelph.

Pat Garrow, public relations officer for the Edinburgh festival, said Bing will assume his new duties in October.

Bing is artistic director of the Edinburgh International Festival of music and drama.

The appointment is for three years. Salary terms were not disclosed.

Bing, 47, began his career in opera management on the continent. He joined the Charlottenburg Opera in Berlin in 1930 and four years later returned to Britain as director and general manager of the Glyndebourne Opera. He became artistic director of the Edinburgh Festival in 1947 at an annual salary of $8,000.

The Board of Directors of the Metropolitan Opera Association announced last January that Johnson, 70, would retire as general manager at the end of the 1949 - 50 season.

A board statement at the time said that Johnson, who rose from a choir boy in Guelph churches to world - wide fame as a romantic tenor, had made repeated requests since 1945 to be relieved of his managerial duties. However, the statement said, Johnson will retain an active post as a member of the board.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

It's the fish that gets away that is most talked about.

We spend our lives avoiding misadventure. But it is the misadventures of our lives that make up not only the bulk of our memory but the clearest and best pictures in that mental album.

Last evening, a friend of mine recalled a canoe trip we took ten years ago. And it was with a sense of astonishment that I dug out my recollections of it the way you might grope in the dark for something in a cluttered drawer. I had not thought of that canoe trip once in the ten years past.

After reflecting, I have decided that the reason that trip has all but vanished from my ken is that it was a perfect canoe trip. The weather was sublime. We got fish without the slightest delay or trouble. All our plans were thorough, and everything went according to plan. We had a perfectly beautiful time. In other words, not a darn thing happened on that canoe trip. It was a complete dud. As far as my life is concerned, ten days of it were completely wasted.

In contrast, there is another canoe trip I made nearly thirty years ago. Every detail of it stands out like a painting. It belongs to me, every hour of it. The weather was awful. Every camp we pitched in the rain. Our food gave out. We got lost. All our plans miscarried. We were miserable, anxious and quarrelsome. But every one of the few fish we caught I can remember to the very color of its speckles. I can almost heft those fish in my hand. One got away — I bet he was five pounds if he was an ounce. Look: I even had my hand, like this, under his gills ......

It's a queer thing: to be precious, in memory, things have to go wrong.

DRINK MORE SEPARATOR MILK

In this column April 23 the eminent doctor said:

"From long observation, study and experience, I believe arteriosclerosis" (hardening of the arteries, if you can't handle eight-syllable words) "is a degeneration rather than a disease and that the chief cause of it is life-long nutritional deficiency—especially inadequate daily intake of iodine, calcium and phosphorus, thiamine (B1), riboflavin (B2 or G) and vitamin D.

"So far as calcium, phosphorus and riboflavin are concerned, the reason why most of us get insufficient daily quantities of these essentials is that we do not drink enough milk or eat enough milk products."

A real doctor tells me;

You may be proved right. You are right in pointing out that these essentials may be found in milk. You may be proved wrong, however, in recommending milk to combat the degeneration, for milk (whole milk and animal fats in general) is under suspicion today in some quarters as a precursor of cholesterol and perhaps etiologically involved in arteriosclerosis. I suggest that you specify skim milk or buttermilk (fat free milk) only in the future. You did mention them but included whole milk.

(Signed—— M. D.)

You see, it was this way, Doctor. Your suggestion is an excellent one, but when I was writing that, my wits were wandering—I was thinking of the Sunday afternoon we spent exploring the country south of Elmira last summer trying to find the farm on the hill a mile or two from what, as I remembered, was known as the Bulkhead road—where we, or at least I had enjoyed many a drink of milk fresh from the cow, through the courtesy of the farmer there. We failed to find the place. I never got a taste of the delectable stuff. When I breezed in and tried to wheedle a dipperful from the farmers here and there we found they were milking, I got nothing but suspicious looks—I realized later they suspected I was some sort of Nosy Parker from the Health Department.

One thing I failed to mention as very desirable in the everyday diet for the prevention of premature hardening of the arteries, is cottage cheese (made from skim milk or separator milk).

Mechnikoff's directions for preparing the Bulgarian beverage called for skimmed milk, boiled and then rapidly cooled and when cooled to about body temperature sowed with the (Bulgarian) lactic bacillus culture and allowed to ferment for several hours, at room temperature. The fermentation produces a sour curdled milk, pleasant to the taste and active in preventing intestinal putrefaction. This milk, taken daily in quantities of 300 to 500 cubic centimeters (I'm quoting from Metchnikoff's book — The Prolongation of Life, now out of print. A pint is equivalent to 500 cubic centimeters) — is what Metchnikoff recommended so highly.

Well, my stars, how did you get in here? Now that you are in, Metch, we'd like to know how come you turned up your toes at the comparatively early age of 71 years. Not right now, but later.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Carrying Measles

Son recovering from measles. Doctor told me it was all right to have company, as the company wouldn't carry measles to other children. Two women would not come because their doctors said they must not be in the house. But they invited me to their homes, so I gathered that they were afraid of germs in the air or on the furniture here. (Mrs. L. H.)

Answer—Prevention of spread of measles requires exclusion from school or gatherings of people or children, for two weeks, of all persons exposed, except those who have had measles. No one can catch measles from air, furniture or contact with a third person who is not coming down with or acutely ill of measles at the time.

Young Women's Guild

North Atlantic Treaty Necessary To Thwart Communist Menace

The meeting of the Young Women's Guild at the home of Miss Hazel Thompson, Bridge Street, on Monday evening, took the form of an informal discussion of the North Atlantic Treaty.

The worship service, conducted by Mrs. A. D. Archibald, stressed the fact that people need to be rededicated to their faith; that faith and Christian love are needed more than security.

The leaders of the political parties of Canada agree that the failure of the Security Council to give a sense of security and peace has necessitated the signing of a regional pact — the North Atlantic Treaty. They still hope for a return to a strong United Nations, but the attitude of Russia in using the veto, and the Communist aggression in such countries as Poland, Hungary, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia, have made a new alliance advisable.

More than an Alliance

Mr. St. Laurent says, "This treaty is far more than an old-fashioned military alliance. It is based on the determination of the Atlantic Nations to strengthen their free institutions, and to promote conditions of stability and well-being. He also says that our collective potential manpower, our collective natural resources, our collective industrial potential and "know-how" should make us a very formidable enemy for any aggressor to attack."

Mr. Drew claims that signing the pact does not ensure peace—it depends on the extent to which the agreeing nations are really prepared to carry out the declared intention of the pact — how they work together. He also traces the failure of former peace pacts and feels that had Germany realized before the last two wars that she would be faced by such an array of strength, she never would have ventured into them. He is very optimistic about the leadership of the United States in making the pact a reality and says that this is an event of historic significance for the whole world.

Mr. Coldwell stressed that the C. C. F. realized that while military alliance was necessary, economic recovery should be a primary objective. He mentioned the fact that Eastern Europe is a solid block under Russian domination and that communist parties have tried to prevent the success of the European recovery. The North Atlantic Treaty is not an alliance to destroy the Soviet Union but a defensive one hoping to arrive at a peaceful solution of existing problems.

Mr. Solon Low, speaking in favor of the pact, mentions Canada's obligations, and said that all the nations must act in good faith and live up to their promises. He believes that the first step is to clear up all those attitudes and passions and conditions that breed communism and encourage other countries to do the same.

While it may be realized that this pact is necessary, there are other viewpoints that might be observed. For instance the "Christian Century" claims that the North Atlantic Treaty will interfere with the achievements hoped for under the Marshall Plan. Members of the organization for European Economic Co-operation cannot meet their production goals if materials and manpower are switched into re-armament.

Another aspect to be considered is the financial burden of arming all of Western Europe.

Some Opposition

The "Christian Century" editorial writers also oppose the Alliance because they feel that the common man of Europe is not behind it; that he suspects United States is looking for strategic bases for a future war instead of being concerned with his welfare. However, other writers say that the people of Europe urge the implementing of the treaty, so that they can get on with their recovery program in security. Walter Millis, editorial writer for the New York Herald Tribune says, "The Marshall Plan must be backed by a promise of military strength from the United States since European powers are too weak to stand against communism."

Clarence Streit, author of "Union Now", urges that the nations go further than the pact and work out a real Atlantic Union. In speaking of such a union, Mathew Halton says, "In close alliance with North Americans we'd have a grand confederation whose strength would ensure temporary safety and whose prosperity in freedom would be the best defence against Communism."

The discussion was led by Mrs. J. A. Buchanan, Miss A. Heaseman, and Mrs. H. Mills.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by the hostess committee, Miss Thompson, Miss Heaseman and Miss F. Sullivan.

'Y' to Assume More Assistance For D.P's

Ottawa, June 2. (CP)— The spirit of World Fellowship, on Wednesday night sat in on a meeting of the Canadian Young Women's Christian Association.

It gained strength from greetings sent to the 'Y' by fellow organizations around the globe.

It grew in stature as delegates attending the National convention unanimously approved a recommendation that the Canadian "Y" assume greater responsibility for displaced persons in Europe.

The recommendation was one of three dealing with world affairs, approved by 350 delegates from "Y" organizations across the Dominion who are attending the week-long session.

Moved by Mrs. A. B. Colerick, of Toronto, Canadian representative of the World Council of the Y.W.C.A., it noted that large-scale immigration to Canada required continuous education both of the newcomers and of Canadians. It asked that the "Y" take a "continued and increased responsibility for displaced persons in Europe and for newcomers to Canada."

The second recommendation stressed the importance of international study and travel as a step toward development of world citizenship. It also asked that greater emphasis be placed on the inclusion of girls and younger women in delegations to World's Y.W.C.A. conferences.

Lastly a motion was carried that students and leaders from other countries be encourged to come to Canada for training, in preparation for Y.W.C.A. work.

It was a moving moment for delegates when visitors from China, India, New Zealand and Europe, took the platform to tell of "Y" work in their homelands.

Aino Pahkla of Estonia, who has been in Canada for the last 18 months, now is working as health education secretary in Brantford (Ont.) Y.W.C.A.

Estonia once had a well organized "Y", but with the coming of Soviet Union occupation it had disappeared.

"I pray that the day will come when there will again be a Y.W.C.A. in Estonia," she said.

Miscellaneous Shower For Rossmore Girl

Friends and neighbors gathered recently at the home of Miss Joan Empey in Rossmore to honor her with a miscellaneous shower.

The rooms were decorated with lilacs and the evening passed pleasantly in games, after which a basket delightfully decorated in pink, and filled with beautifully wrapped gifts was presented to Joan. The unwrapping revealed many lovely and useful gifts for which Joan graciously thanked her friends.

Later refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. L. Pollitt and Miss Shiela Empey.

Rev. H. Burgess was the officiating clergyman.

The church was artistically decorated with ferns and cut flowers and the pews used by the guests at the ceremony were tied at the ends with white ribbon. At the conclusion of the ceremony, Miss Elaine Taylor of Madoc, sang most acceptably "I'll Walk Beside You". The wedding music Lohengrin by Wagner, was played by Miss Marjory Simpson, of Belleville.

The bride, was gowned in white flowered marquisette over ice-blue satin and fashioned with Bertha collar and slight train with a tiara of seed pearls with finger-tip veil, and fingerless lace gloves. She carried a cascade of red roses and bouvardia. She was given in marriage by her father.

Graduation Exercises Held For Fifteen Student Nurses In Colorful Ceremony at B.C.I.

On the flower-decked platform of the Collegiate auditorium on Wednesday evening, the graduating class of fifteen nurses from the Belleville General Hospital received their diplomas culminating three years of successful training. Crisp and efficient-looking in their starched uniforms and glowing with youth, the girls entered in procession, each carrying an arm bouquet of red roses with red satin streamers, to the accompaniment of the processional march played on the organ by Mr. Clifford Templer.

The ceremonies were opened with an invocation by the Ven. Archdeacon F. A. Smith.

Mayor D. L. Storey congratulated the graduates and wished them success, stating that with their help Belleville would soon have one of the finest hospitals in Ontario.

Mrs. Alice M. MacDonald, Reg.N., superintendent of nurses, in presenting the school of nursing report, said "Our thoughts are full of hope tonight. We are looking to the future." She expressed appreciation to the many organizations that have assisted in the work of the hospital. The affiliation with the Ontario Hospital in Kingston, had provided an important course where the students took a three-months' course in psychiatry; also at the Children's Memorial Hospital in Montreal, where they specialized in diseases of children.

High Standards

The co-operation of the doctors in giving lectures was greatly appreciated. The days of illness among the student nurses had been very few due to health instructions. The profession had maintained the highest of standards with the ultimate aim of giving patients the best possible care. Mrs. MacDonald paid special tribute to Miss J. E. Ives, Reg.N., assistant superintendent at Toronto General Hospital, who was one of the five hundred and eight graduates from Belleville, who have gone forth to serve in the field of nursing.

The graduating class stood to repeat in unison with Miss Ives, the Florence Nightingale pledge, which promises loyalty and devotion in dedication to their calling.

On behalf of the medical staff, Dr. R. M. Anderson welcomed the young women to the professional ranks. He told them that the part played by the nurse is of unique and immense importance, the patient turns to the nurse for mental and moral support. A patient who is sick is sick mentally as well as physically, and one must be prepared to accept odd and sometimes annoying behavior. Skill, understanding and tolerance are needed. The nurse may be the means of bringing victory against what may appear unconquerable odds. He urged the nurses to take an active part in nurses' organizations.

Must Apply Knowledge

Dr. G. H. Stobie who delivered the graduation address stressed that the mere acquisition of knowledge was of little value. It was like coal in the coal bin, of no value if it is not used. This class had learned how to apply knowledge, they had received the finest education available from one of the oldest training schools in the province.

"Old methods and buildings have changed. In the nineteenth century hospitals were dirty and help was untrained. Most nursing was done in the home. People went to a hospital to die not to get well. The nursing profession has been raised to a dignified, intelligent profession. The greatest step towards modern hospitals was cleanliness. Opposition came from many sources. Personal aptitude and practical training are necessary for a successful nurse. The standards are as high as those of a university graduate after three years of training. In conclusion he asked them to "bring the best you have, whatever that is, to the work of God's world."

Awards Presented

The presentation of pins and diplomas was made by Mrs. Gilbert Scott, President of the Hospital Auxiliary.

The Gold Medal awarded by the Board of Governors for general proficiency was won by Patricia Anne Hagerman and presented by Mrs. D. L. Storey. The Silver Medal awarded by the medical staff for general proficiency was won by Carol Mildred Stanton, presented by Dr. R. W. Tennent. Prizes for highest standing in medical, surgical and obstetrical nursing awarded by the medical staff were won by Margaret Ann Taylor, Betty Doreen Grant and Isobel Fern Richardson respectively, and were given by Dr. Stobie, Dr. Tennent and Dr. Gibson.

Miss Georgina Fox was awarded the university scholarship which is given by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary. This is to the value of five hundred dollars and specifies that the recipient will return to the local hospital for a minimum of one year. Mrs. R. H. Wray made the presentation.

Career Beginning

Marion Alberta English was Valedictorian for her class, and expressed thoughts which the graduates felt in a sincere and charming speech. "We do not know," she said "what a choice may bring, but soon we see the consequence that looked so remote has now become a reality, and we realize that what has taken place has been so worthwhile, and the experiences and friendships so satisfactory." She reminisced over the early training days; the first day in the hospital when they were so afraid that a patient might ask for more than a drink of water; the first night duty; and the shared experiences. The inspiration and challenge they received when they got a vision of specialized nursing in their affiliated courses they would never forget. They were like a large family of sisters. While they felt happy and proud they must give credit to their parents and families for encouragement and help, and also acknowledge the assistance they received from the Superintendents and doctors. She closed with a quotation from Robert Browning, "Now seek the strength to use the strength which thou has gained."

Following the recessional the happy graduates received congratulations and gifts from families and friends, and then left to attend a reception prepared in a spacious tent erected for that purpose on the hospital grounds.

Annual Convention

Important Work Done by Smaller W.A. and L.A. Groups Stressed

Trenton (Special) — The importance of the endeavors and position of the smaller groups of ladies in the Dominion-wide organization was stressed in an address here recently by Mrs. J.A. Jewitt, Wainfleet, Ont., president of the Dominion Women's Association of the United Church of Canada.

Speaking to the seventeenth annual convention of the Women's Association and Ladies' Aid Societies of Prince Edward and Hastings Counties within the Belleville Presbytery in Grace United Church here, Mrs. Jewitt told the 400 delegates present "Don't think you are too small a W.A. to be important because you are. Large groups have no conception how some small groups have to work to carry on their church responsibilities."

Grown in Influence

"For so long" the speaker said, "we have been a body of women who have been doing all the worrying and working, but now we have grown to a large influential body, Dominion wide."

"A mother has to be interested in everything pertaining to her children's upbringing, just the same as the W.A."

She urged the delegates as W.A. women to do what they can to help the children and young people in the work of the church, such as Sunday School, Mission Bands and other groups.

The older people of the church should not be forgotten, Mrs. Jewitt pointed out. "Many of them have been great workers and staunch supporters, but through sickness and old age are unable to attend. Visit them. Tell them what is going on, for they need uplift and friendship."

Parents, the speaker said, spend so much time trying to teach children they must excel in different school subjects, but, she asked "how much time do we spend in trying to teach and lead them into a Christian life?"

She stated the best gift was prayer. More things are wrought by prayer than this world knows. "One hour on your knees in prayer will get you farther than talking all afternoon."

Opens Convention

W. A. President Mrs. J. M. Wood formally opened the convention with a brief address and prayer. Grace Street United Church ladies were in charge of the community singing and the Johnstown W.A. conducted the devotional period. Those taking part were Mrs. Harry, Mrs. Bush, Mrs. Stickle, Mrs. J. Cordes and Mrs. Mallory.

Mrs. Ernest Bush gave the lesson thoughts declaring "Most of us feel we need a greater strength to live a good life. We need an understanding with God."

Following a duet by Mrs. Bush and Mrs. Cordes, Mrs. Harry Murphy gave the following treasurer's report. Balance, 1948, $98.00; collection and donations $81.00; expenses $89.92; balance on hand, $91.29.

In her formal address of welcome, Mrs. Bennett, president of Grace Church W. A. said she was glad to see so many present. "We hope today will be another milestone in our lives. We shall have a pleasant time together." Mrs. G. E. Dobbs, replying to the address quoted an appropriate poem and felt sure the convention would result in a profitable time for all.

Mrs. Empey, Eldorado, brought greetings from the W.M.S. of the Belleville Presbytery. "So many W. A. members are also members of the W.M.S. that where there are two societies, the W.A. can affiliate. As W.M.S. members we wish you well."

Gives Convention Highlights

President Mrs. J. M. Wood in her address gave the convention some highlights of the annual meeting of the Dominion Council.

"Because of their unity of spirit," she said, "they have accomplished so much. They are a body of women who are studying the problems of the world and trying to meet them.

The theme for the year, President, Mrs. Wood said, is "Make Jesus Real.' We must work in the church, the Presbytery, the conference and the Dominion Council. We are just ourselves, but we have far to go."

At this point the secretary's report on nominating and resolutions committee was read by Mrs. Morley Davidson.

More Money Raised

Fifty-seven societies reported the total amount of money raised was $28,934, an increase over last year. Delegates gave Mrs. Kingersley. St. Ola, a fine ovation after she sang a solo.

Speaking on the temperance question, the Rev. H. H. Hillis, Belleville, told the delegates that 30 or 40 years ago people were taught in homes, schools and churches not to indulge in intoxicating liquors, and everyone was emphatic in signing the pledge.

"In World War 1," Mr. Hillis said, "prohibition was established. Then came the Moderation League. Now we have the steady drinker. Liquor is being sold in so many ways by those in control that heavy profits are being made."

The speaker showed pamphlets and advertisements which, he charged, were being used by the liquor interests to make their business look like a respectable one.

"There are some of our United Churches today which do not want a temperance minister to address them." Mr. Hillis declared.

Introduced by Mrs. J. A. Lott, Mrs. Aylesworth, Bath, Ont., told the convention in her address that "We must seek to help all women in Christian living. The work of women's associations is wide and varied and it is our aim to have every woman in Canada a Christian and everyone a church member."

Are You a Christian?

"How many of you help to make your neighbor a Christian? How many of you are Christian women? How many of us tomorrow can sit back and say 'I did what Jesus wanted me to do'?" she asked.

"Do you do your best to see that every woman attends your church and your W. A. meetings? We should have meetings contain two parts. One a good devotional part because worship is happiness and secondly a good thought for the day, or a good motto."

Appreciation of Mrs. Aylesworth's address was expressed by Mrs. S. Westover.

The session which began at 10 a.m. adjourned at this point for lunch which was served to the delegates by the ladies of Grace Church.

Continuation of reading of reports opened the afternoon session which convened at 1.45. Devotional period was conducted by the Picton W.A. followed by a vocal solo by Mrs. C. Spencer, Picton and a skit by several members of the Holloway St. Church, Belleville, W.A.

Welcome Newcomers

The "Journey into Friendship" brought out several things incumbent on members of the W.A. and the church. Newcomers should be welcomed into the community. Members should call on, invite, and entertain them. Sick members should be visited especially shut-ins and elderly people because so many are forgotten after they are unable to mingle with the W.A. members. All members should consider these things their duty and not leave them to a few to do.

The offering was taken, and dedicated by President, Mrs. Wood, prior to the inspirational address by Dominion President, Mrs. Jewitt. Following the address, the appreciation of the convention was expressed by Mrs. Laycock.

Following a solo by Mrs. Langdon of Trenton, Mrs. J. A. Lott, honorary president and organizer, of Frankford, was presented with a life membership and certificate on behalf of the executive of the Belleville Presbytery. Taken completely by surprise, Mrs. Lott made a gracious response of appreciation.

Mrs. Clarence Holmes presented the slate of officers to Mrs. Lott who officiated at the installation ceremonies. Prior to this prayer was offered by the Rev. Pattenham. Mrs. Noble Brown gave the courtesy address expressing the thanks of the delegates to the ladies of Grace United Church for the lovely dinner served and to all speakers for excellent addresses and to others who had helped make the convention a success.

Quick Trick Desserts

Dessert is the trimming of the meal. Most people feel that, no matter how satisfying the main course may be, a dessert is required to top off the meal nicely.

When home chores pile up, as they do at this time of year, the homemaker welcomes any little suggestion that gives her help in menu planning or meal preparation.

Home-made or commercial tea biscuit or pastry mixes are minute savers. It is very easy to mix a double or triple quantity of the dry ingredients and store the mix in the refrigerator, ready to add the liquid when required. This is perhaps one of the best ways to speed up preparation for a great variety of delicious desserts.

Cornstarch and quick-cooking tapioca desserts require little time in preparation and may be made in great variety, using seasonal fruits.

Fruit whip is another type of dessert which is simple, quick and delicious.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, suggest several "hurry up" desserts.

Yield: six servings.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

White's District — Sunday School and Church services were held at White's Church on Sunday afternoon with the pastor the Rev. A. C. McCallum, preaching on "Rural Life Sunday." Considerring the proportion of rural churches to the total number of churches there should be a rural Sunday service. Religion is close to nature especially so at this season of the year. A good example of this is the parable "The Sower." The rural church is the centre of events in the country.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Bowers, Marflyn and Audrey attended the funeral on Tuesday of their uncle Mr. George Heagle of Stirling, at Wellman's United Church

Bachelor Becomes Feminist Thinks Women Must Assert Selves

New York, June 2 (AP)— A gray-haired, gentle humorous bachelor named Harrison Smith has an unusual avocation for a man. He's a feminist—openly, violently and shamelessly.

Smith's vocation is publisher of The Saturday Review of Literature. Despite its addiction to books, its editorial columns have become from time to time a Smith soap box from which he preaches his conviction that men and women have to do something about the rights of women and that there must be some restoration of the "balance" between the sexes.

A feminist, by dictionary definition, is a person advocating equal rights for women. By popular conception, however, the word usually means embattled women agitating aggressively for rights. The fact that Smith calls himself a feminist—and frequently finds himself defending women against members of his own sex—makes him unusual.

Smith started his crusade on behalf of the gentle sex only a couple of years ago. He never had given the subject even a thought before.

"What started me off was a concerted attack on American women," he confessed. "I found all the great magazines in the United States attacking women. And I got mad and wrote an article called "Woman, the Scapegoat."

Smith thinks the attack was precipitated by the end of the war when women were working in all sorts of jobs they had never dreamed of tackling before.

"Women assumed jobs of responsibility and at war's end the unions wanted to get rid of them because they were a nuisance,' he said. "Men didn't want them around in offices because they received too high salaries"

Smith rolls off facts and figures with relish: women own somewhere between 65 and 70 per cent of the country's wealth, but they don't control it because this job is done by trustees (male) selected by their husbands or by banks; women are the beneficiaries of 80 per cent of the life insurance policies.

He thinks women will just plain have to assert themselves, force their husbands to teach them something about handling money.

Etiquette Course Bans 'Slanguage' From Cafe Lingo

Vancouver (CP)— The day is nearly gone when waitresses call out "mistreat two" when they're ordering two scrambled eggs.

No longer will they call out "dogs in the grass" when they want wieners and sauerkraut, or "another man wants to take a chance" when they ask for hash.

Not, at least, if John B. O'Meara, 50-year-old Irish American has his way. He's determined to turn this type of "hashing" in restaurants into the more refined "merchandising of food."

He's giving his course to a Vancouver restaurant chain for the first time in Canada. And "slanguage" is out in the O'Meara system.

Instead of "six in grease" he wants his waitresses to call out "six fried oysters." instead of "graveyard" he wants them to order "milk toast."

Table-leaning is another "must not" in his courses. Waitresses who rest their order book on the table and then rest themselves on an elbow beside it are out of style. O'Meara says waitresses must take the order standing upright, poised and showing a friendly smile.

Know the Menu

They should know their menu — the items it contains and how the food is prepared. They should be able to describe each item appetizingly.

For instance, questioned about chicken a la king, the waitress should not say: "Just chicken and stuff." She should say something like:

"It is diced chicken, both white and brown meat, served in a tasty sauce on a ruffle of a toast."

In O'Meara's rules there are several don't. Among them:

Don't let your hair hang loosely. It should be neatly held in place with an almost invisible net.

Don't clutch fistfuls of cutlery and then handle them by the part the customer puts in his mouth.

Don't plunk pie and coffee any old way in front of your customer. The point of the wedge of the pie should face the customer.

Don't wear bright nail polish.

Waitresses with poise and pleasant personality says O'Meara who started his career as a bus boy, can get more tips than "tip-conscious waitresses.

Oil Town Booms Near Edmonton

Devon, Alta., (CP)—Less than a year and a half ago this little town 15 miles southwest of Edmonton did not exist. But today it is one of the lusty infants of the oil boom.

When the army of oil workers swept north from the fields around Calgary, they laid out Devon on the south bank of the winding North Saskatchewan River. Ninety per cent of the town's 500 people work for Imperial Oil Limited but Devon is not a company town. In the next two years, it is expected the population will double.

Besides the nearby Leduc oilfields, the town soon will have another source of revenue. A $12,000,000 gas compression plant now is being built just south of the townsite. This plant and the administrative offices of some companies operating in the Leduc field have given the town's business section an added boost.

There are lumber, hardware and drug stores, a cafe, barber and beauty shop and a poolroom and garage. A hotel is nearing completion and a moving picture theatre will be started soon. The oil company his provided facilities for school children.

There is a fire hall and a fire truck bought from the RCAF. The town still lacks a hospital but emergency cases can be given first aid treatment in a well-equipped section of the fire hall by the district nurse.

To keep up its position as a model oil town, Devon has a modern pumping plant and filtration system, up-to-date sewage, cement sidewalks. A paving program will be undertaken and main traffic arteries boulevarded. Electricity completed the picture of this modern boom town.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She Refused to Have an Affair — He Left Her

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been going steady for three years and have been planning on getting married this fall.

Some months ago my boy friend asked me to have an affair with him and I said no. He pleaded with me and said that I was going to be his bride some day anyway. So I told him to wait for that day, but he said if I didn't give in, he would just leave me.

He did leave me and I didn't see him until recently, when he met me coming home from work and asked for a date a few nights later. I guess I was the happiest person in the world. But when the night came, he just didn't show up. I cried so much that I became sick. I have been losing an awful lot of weight and I can't seem to sleep nights. I go out almost every night with different boys and seem to be having a grand time until I get home and then I just can't control my tears.

Please tell me if I was right in not having an affair with this boy and whether or not I should call him up and beg him to come back, or just go on being so unhappy.

"A Very Lonely Reader"

Dear "Lonely Reader":

I shouldn't think I would need to tell you that you were completely right in refusing to have an affair with this boy. Surely his conduct has shown you how right you were. If he were a decent sort, he would have been ashamed of his proposal and done his best to make you forget he had ever suggested such a thing.

Of course you are unhappy now, but stick to your guns, and don't dream of calling him up and begging him to come back. One of these days you will be very glad that you didn't.

Young People in Too Much Haste

Dear Miss Fairfax:

What age must one be to be married without your parents' consent in Maryland? Does one need a blood test or physical examination? How long does it take to obtain a marriage license?

I would appreciate this information deeply and would like an answer as soon as convenient.

"R. G. G."

Dear "R. G. G.":

Your last paragraph makes it fairly evident that you are considering taking a serious step really giving this matter the careful consideration it should have, you would not be in such a hurry for my answer. Moreover, you would not be so anxious to go to another state than your own, where you obviously think you could marry at an earlier age.

I do not approve of young people doing this sort of thing, and so I am very glad to be able to tell you that the age requirements for marriage without parents' consent are exactly the same in Maryland as in your own state, so that you would gain nothing whatever by trying to make any such plans. There is no point, therefore, in answering your other questions.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Date Manners

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am very popular, and would like to do the correct thing on all occasions. I have many dates, and as I live in a large college city, most of my dates are with college boys. Will you please answer these questions for me:

1. We often take the bus when going to the theatre. I notice that every one of these boys, when we are leaving the bus, lets me precede him. When I reach the door I step aside for them to go first, but there they stand. I think they should precede me, so as to assist me in getting off the bus. They say I am wrong. Am I wrong?

2. Should my mother rise when I introduce her to the girls and boys who come to our house? The first time they come, she does. Should she rise every time they come? (I know she shouldn't rise when we are in someone else's house, but I'm not sure about when in our house.)

Also, should my mother rise when my father brings home a gentleman without his wife? Mother thinks she should rise in this circumstance.

"Lil."

1. Right you are... the man should be the first to get out of the bus, so that he can be "in position" to help you as you get out of the bus. (Just as he should be the last to get in the bus, so that he has the opportunity to help you get into the bus.)

2. The aswer to these two questions is very easy to remember, because of the very pleasant reason for the answer your mother as hostess of your home, should always rise to greet (and to shake hands with) any guests entering your home, girl or boy, woman or man, or children. This is a most important gesture of hospitality. .the gracious rising of hostess and host to welcome the guest, the cordial handshake. Also, the hostess and host always should rise and shake hands with the departing guest. Your mother is right in saying that she should rise to greet a gentleman who comes home with your father, whether or not the gentleman's wife is with him.

(And, by the way and most important never say, "When I introduce my mother to the boys and girls." Always remember that everyone is introduced to your [illegible] this is Mary Granant, or "Mother, may I present Dr. Wordon?")

Seating The Brides' Table

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. What is the proper seating plan for the wedding party that consists of: bride and groom, maid of honor, best man, flower girl, four bridesmaids and four ushers?

2. Also, since the reception and dinner are to be given in a hotel, should the family have their separate table?

D. E.

2. There may or may not be a parents' table this depends on the bride's wish. And, if it is convenient, the bride and groom usually prefer to have the bride's table, with their most intimate friends, their attendants, seated with them. .naturally "the young folks" have a gayer, freer time when they have a table entirely to themselves!

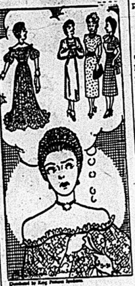
BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

(MME QUI VIVE)

Self-Consciousness

Considering how up-and-coming the younger generation is, there interest in political subjects and the affairs of a troubled world, one might get the idea that shyness no longer exists among children. But it does. The self-conscious girl is just as unhappy and miserable as was her great-grandmother when she sat on the sidelines at the party and wished she were dead because the boys paid no attention to her.



Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Self-consciousness is Social Fear

What the kids don't understand is that self-consciousness is not an affliction from which they alone suffer. When the Big Business man has been called upon to make a speech, it has happened that his heart thumped, he stammered, was in a dither of embarrassment. Some of the greatest artists in the theatrical and musical worlds suffer extreme nervousness before each public appearance. Many of them are painfully shy when meeting strangers.

Self-consciousness is social fear, fear that one will say the wrong thing, wear the wrong kind of clothes, not know the conventions. This is particularly true of [illegible] particularly sensitive. [illegible] feeling that, somehow or other, she is "different" from other people. This feeling is often based on imagination, but that does not make it less distressing.

The wise mother will assure this girl that she is just as sweet and pretty and charming as the next one. The mother who is close to her daughter, forging a strong bond of love between them, can do that with excellent results. The idea is to give the child confidence. No matter what the old-fashioned among us may say, you cannot spoil a good child. Too little love is expressed in family circles. It is just taken for granted.

To talk seriously about self-consciousness may make the girl feel more and more that it is a dreadful affliction. The subject should be regarded lightly. Any criticism of conduct . will make matters worse. If a mother says "Why can't you be like other girls, enter into social activities, take a part in them and enjoy yourself?" she will send the poor child into deeper confusion, make her still more unhappy.

Ridicule, fault-finding, uncomplimentary comparisons with other children are cruel. Such an attitude on the part of either parent makes for further self-depreciation. The child should be given support and help instead of being slapped down for something that is akin to mental ill-health.

As there is a close bond between the mental and physical states, health is a factor in treating self-consciousness. The child should be drawn into outdoor sports, get plenty of fresh air, have long hours of sleep, find pleasant, gay companions.

PRIME MINISTER FIRES CHALLENGE AT CONSERVATIVES

Charges Party With "Racial Prejudice" in Address at Owen Sound

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Owen Sound, June 2 (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent threw a new challenge at the leaders of the Progressive Conservative party Wednesday night in a plea that "passionate attachments to religious beliefs should not become the object of political controversy."

He called upon the party's "real leaders" to repudiate publicly "propaganda" which, he said, has been used in Quebec at the expense of the "cause of unity and good will."

At the same time, in a public address, Mr. St. Laurent denied knowledge of tactics which he [illegible] have been attributed to Liberal workers by Georges Heon, [illegible] Conservative organizer in Quebec. He quoted Mr. Heon as saying Liberals have told French-speaking housewives a Conservative government would "tear" the crucifixes out of Roman Catholic schools.

He said it would be a good thing for the decency of politics if the real leaders of the Conservative party would say, as I have said, that if they can't gain office without tactics of that kind they don't want office."

He spoke here after a day in rural western Ontario and he heads back into that countryside again today.

Quotes Advertisements

He said he wished to show Ontario people "what kind of appeal is being made in Quebec by the Progressive Conservative party." And he quoted an advertisement published in French-language pa[illegible] party as well as a [illegible] of remarks by Paul [illegible] independent candidate in [illegible] Quebec riding of Bellechasse.

He noted "rather significant similarities" in the two.

The advertisement, he added, said he had left the Commons rather then vote against divorce, that he had "refused to appoint an ambassador to the Vatican," and that he "is a centralizer of the most extreme kind," that he "has stirred up national disunity by sabotaging the confederation pact and setting one province against the other."

The report of Mr. Bouchard's speech indicated he (Mr. Bouchard) touched on some of the same points.

Federal Govt. Prepared to Grant Capital for Homes

Halifax June 2 (CP)— Reconstruction Minister Winters said Wednesday that housing is primarily a provincial and municipal responsibility but the Federal government is prepared to give capital grants to provincial governments to assist new construction.

"Any provincial government who really means business will find no difficulty in securing co-operation from a Liberal government at Ottawa," he said in a political free-time broadcast over a CBC network.

Mr. Winters said that Prime Minister St. Laurent last March had invited suggestions from provincial governments "for what they considered appropriate federal assistance for low-rental housing projects to be managed and supervised locally."

"Up to the moment we have not received any proposals from the provinces, but the door is wide open to them," he said. "Although it might appear that the next move is up to the provinces, it is my intention to find areas of agreement within which practical Dominion and provincial activity can take place."

Any housing projects would require Federal financial aid.

"This might take a number of forms," he said. "It may be that an outright capital grant by the Dominion to the provinces on the basis of a fixed sum per unit would be appropriate... it may be that a joint arrangement between the Dominion and the provinces, with participation by the municipality to the extent the province desires, would form the basis of solution."

The government also would consider incorporating second mortgages into loans under the National Housing Act for any province which wished to provide second-mortgage financing for housing.

One of the Progressive Conservative party's Quebec candidates, Jean Chauvin, had already quit in protest against "the cheap and revolting campaign" against himself (Mr. St. Laurent) and for other reasons. The Prime Minister hoped "he won't be the only Progressive Conservative who will register his disdain."

Politics should never diminish the pride of any Canadian in his boast that "it's great to be a Canadian." The two races should go forward "in the light of the Christian precept, love thy neighbor," said Mr. St. Laurent.

DREW RAPS CCF AS HE CONTINUES CAMPAIGN IN B.C.

Charges Socialism Has Been a Failure Wherever Tried

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Penticton, B.C., June 2 (CP)—Progressive Conservative leader George Drew rapped the C. C. F. Wednesday night as he continued his cross-country election campaign with two appearances in the Okanagan Valley.

At Kelowna he said he is fighting socialism because he is loath to see Canada shackled at the greatest period in her history. Charging that socialism has been a failure wherever it has been tried, he said it opens the door to Communism.

Both his Kelowna speech and one at Penticton were in support of Theo Adams, Progressive Conservative candidate for Yale. The seat was held in the last parliament by O. L. Jones, C.C.F.

At Pentincton, Mr. Drew said his party has been urging enactment of a national marketing act. His party feels that marketing should be restored to "democratic" boards.

Mr. Drew said that an agriculture marketing act passed at the last session was a step in the right direction but falls far short of "what we want."

He said that a government of his party would provide hospitalization for all citizens. This would be in co-operation with the provinces. Such a government also would see that sufficient funds were made available to the provinces for educational purposes.

Mr. Drew said that young people are growing up in Canada, being educated at great expense and then are moving to the United States. Additional employment opportunities must be provided to prevent such an exodus.

Mr. Adams said that a recent C.C.F. provincial convention in British Columbia, a resolution criticizing the North Atlantic pact had been adopted. He charged that there is only one conclusion to be drawn, that there is a "core of avowed Communists" trying to spread their doctrine through the C. C. F.

CHILDREN'S DENTAL PLAN

Weyburn, Sask. (CP)—A dental services program for children in this region has been approved. The service will have two clinics, three mobile units and a staff of four dentists, four assistants and clerks. All children under 16 years will be treated and maximum cost is $3 for each family.

Russia Asked To Help Halt Violations

Washington, June 2 — (AP)—The United States and Britain asked Russia Wednesday to join them in action aimed at halting alleged peace treaty violations by the communist governments of Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria.

At the same time the state department made public notes from all three Balkan governments denying they violated the human and civil rights sections of their treaties. They accused the United States of interfering in their internal affairs and fostering in their countries "fascist" or anti-government elements.

The Anglo - American action was the latest in a long series against the three Soviet satellite regimes, which Washington and London have accused of denying religious and political freedoms, fair trials and the like to their people.

Guarantees of human rights are contained in the peace treaties which the former German - Allied countries signed after the Second World War.

Although the western powers have made many accusations against the Balkan countries, Wednesday's move was the first to invoke the enforcement machinery of the states.

The charges against the three countries, he said, "are serious ones involving not only the violation of binding treaty obligations but also denial to whole peoples of their fundamental liberties."

Sees Sister First Time In 56 Years

Waterloo, June 2 — (CP)—For the first time in 56 years John Doerfler this week saw his sister, Mrs. Margaret Ebert, of Shenandoah, Pa. He ran away to sea when he was 13 years old, returned home 15 years later and found his sister had married and moved. He started travelling again and 10 years ago was reported dead. Recently, a brother here saw his picture in a Vancouver newspaper and, through letters, a family reunion was arranged.

FISH DYING IN FLORIDA LAKE

Lakeland, Fla., June 2 —(AP) — Fish were dead or dying by the tens of thousands in Lake Wire today. The lake, in downtown Lakeland, had been treated by the Game and Fish Commission to kill vegetation, but the treatment was not considered dangerous to fish. Sportsmen said, however, they believe the dead vegetation killed the fish.

OPERATIONS SEA HORSE

Hamilton, June 2 —(CP)—"Operations Seahorse" will be staged here Sunday. In a mock battle, army, navy and air force reserve forces will try a combined operations landing under fire on Hamilton Bay. Landing troops will be bombed and strafed with bags of flour by the 424th City of Hamilton Fighter Squadron.

COLDWELL SEES COALITION OF LIBERALS-PC'S

Claims Subsidization of Housing is Keynote of C.C.F. Policy

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., June 2 (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, C. C. F. leader, heading westward in his federal election campaign today after leaving a promise of a "decent home for every Canadian family."

Mr. Coldwell, who speaks today at Fort William and Port Arthur, said Wednesday in a broadcast address here that subsidization of housing is a keynote of C.C.F policy. It was a proposal that the Liberals and Progressive Conservative parties had voted down during the last session of parliament.

His party believed, too, in a national health insurance plan for Canadians and in stabilized and reasonable prices at home with increased exports abroad. There should be a program which would save the consumer from exploitation and give the farmer guaranteed markets and good prices.

Mr. Coldwell called for a national labor code which would protect the worker and speed the settlement of industrial disputes, and promised that a C.C.F. government would enact legislation to enure economic and social justice.

He contended that a "rising tide" of support for the C. C. F. party is driving the Liberals and the Progressive Conservatives into coalition in some ridings across Canada.

He pointed to ridings where one or other of the older parties has refrained from nominating a candidate and instead is supporting the other's standard-bearer. The Progressive Conservatives were seeking to achieve "partial power" through a coalition with the Liberals.

These tactics, said Mr. Coldwell, indicated Progressive Conservative recognition of "impending defeat."

Havelock Will Vote June 15

Havelock, June 2 (CP)—A vote of all residents of this town, 25 miles northeast of Peterborough, over the age of 21 will be taken June 15th to approve or disapprove of liquor sales in the town through government liquor stores.

Previously The Canadian Press reported erroneously that the date for the vote would be June 21.

Letter of Repentance Read in Court

Toronto, June 2 — (CP) — A letter of repentance from a youth now in Guelph Reformatory so moved the Ontario Court of Appeal that it reserved its decision on his appeal against a 15-month sentence. The youth, Earl Eden, 18, was sentenced in Toronto last February on a break-in charge. Mr. Justice R. E. Laidlaw said he would like to see the boy to decide on his sincerity.

Two Nominated To Contest Riding

Cochrane, June 2. (CP)—Progressive Conservative and C.C.F. candidates were nominated Wednesday to contest Cochrane North in provincial by-election made necessary by the death of John Carrere, Progressive Conservative, who was elected to the seat last June in the Ontario election.

Mr. Carrere died following an automobile accident last year without taking his seat in the legislature.

Marcel Leger, former Hearst school teacher, is the Progressive Conservative nominee. A son-in-law of Michel Halle, Conservative candidate in 1943 and 1945, Mr. Leger resigned as district relief inspector to accept the nomination.

The C.C.F. nominated 28-year-old Roy Kenney, Kapuskasing, Ont., war veteran and paper company employee. Mr. Kennedy was twice wounded and won a commission during five years' overseas service with the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry.

TINY POSSUM

The average opossum at birth is so small and light that it would take 270 of them to weigh an ounce.

Freighter's Chief Cook Missing

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., June 2 (CP)—Mrs. Cora Dawes, 31, of Brantford, chief cook on the freighter Renvoyle, was reported missing when the vessel reached here Wednesday after a trip down Lake Superior.

The cook's disappearance was reported by her husband, who also works on the ship. At the time the Renvoyle was near Caribou Island in Lake Superior. Capt. A. Francis ordered a thorough search of the vessel and then made a check of the surrounding water.

When no trace of the woman was found, Capt. Francis sent a radio message to police here and resumed his trip. Authorities here said all members of the crew of the Canada Steamship Lines vessel will be questioned.

Hockey Moguls Gather for CAHA Meeting in N.Y.

New York, June 2 —(CP) — Something hot may be on the griddle for the five day convention of amateur and professional hockey interests in Canada and the United States opening here today, but you wouldn't know it from the attitude of the delegates on hand. They just aren't talking.

"Frankly, we don't know the purpose of the invasion of pro leagues to our meeting," Al Pickard of Regina, president of the the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said in an interview. "We met National Hockey League officers at a routine meeting in Toronto in April and since then nothing of importance, to my knowledge at least, has cropped up to warrant another session."

The C.A.H.A. annual meeting first held outside Canada in its 32-year history, is scheduled to start this morning. The resolutions and rules committee of the association will meet during the day and Friday and pros come into the picture.

A joint meeting of the relations committee of the N.H.L., American, Pacific Coast and United States Leagues, is scheduled with representatives of the C.A.H.A., the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States and International Ice Hockey Federation, governing body of the spot (amateur variety) in the world.

Mum on Subject

Although officials are mum on the subject, it is believed they will discuss the question of 'teen-aged players in Canada being lured to organized hockey leagues—a sore point with Ontario education authorities.

The ball-orlling started in Ottawa last January when Dr. J.L. Murray of Kingston, Ont., Collegiate institute, told a meeting of sports-governing bodies in the Dominion that this was an "evil which has grown without the governing bodies realizing the result." He called for "drastic and immediate action."

This was followed up by Dr. G. E. Hall, president of the University of Western Ontario, who charged that promising young players in Ontario were "exploited" by pro and amateur clubs.

Max Silverman, coach of Sudbury Wolves' club which competed in the World Amateur championships at Stockholm last winter, is here to give C.A.H.A. officials a first-hand account of the three month trip. Wolves were beaten out by Czechoslovakia for the title.

More than 100 hockey officials from all sections of Canada and the United States, probably the largest gathering in history for a convention, are expected to take part in the various meetings.

Two behemoths of the bang, bash and brawl game, Sandy O'Donnell and Sky Hi Lee will appear on the wrestling card at the Memorial Arena on Friday night. The pair won't be matched, this time at least, as Sandy, the rassling "Leaning Tower of Pisa" was most unhappy when referee Fox awarded a draw last week in his bout against Sliding Billy Hansen. So, what happens? So bitter is the rivalry between O'Donnell and Hansen that the pair got a main bout spot from Manager Gerow. And the fur and the sparks and the fury will fly when the two tangle again come fish-day evening. Ski Hi is slated to meet the powerful sensational Tug Carlsen in the semi-final while Al "Krusher" Korman tangles with Irish Tom Collins in the opener.

Jake La Motta Getting Ready To Meet Cerdan

Loch Sheldrake, N. Y., June 2 — (AP) — Jake La Motta's inviting, cast - iron jaw is one of the things the boys in Marcel Cerdan's camp are worrying about today.

They're not taking the Bronx bull lightly up here in the Catskill Mountain camp of the middleweight champion.

"La Motta never thought he'd ever get a shot at a title," said Sammy Richman, one of Cerdan's American representatives. "Now that he's getting his chance at last he's going to be mighty rough."

He already is a half pound under the division's weight limit of 160 for his first defence of the crown he tore from the battered brow of Tony Zale in Jersey City last September.

Cerdan and the Bronx challenger are slated to go 15 rounds in Detroit's Briggs Stadium, June 15.

And the Casablanca clouter is getting ready to go the distance.

He's got 13 days to go and is almost ready to answer the bell now.

"La Motta is wide open all right," said Jo Longman, Cerdan's Parisian manager, "but he's very strong. Marcel is going to be groomed to go all the way. He always is."

A reporter mentioned that one of La Motta's proudest boasts was that he had never been knocked down.

"Why, then I will try and be the first one to do it," Cerdan said with quiet confidence.

Trucks and Raschi are Top Candidates to Succeed Feller As No. 1 Righthander of A.L.

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Who's the No. 1 righthander of the American League, now that Bobby Feller has started to slip?

Vic Raschi, strong-armed New York Yankee ace, and Virgil Trucks, Detroit fastballer, appear to be the leading candidates.

Feller isn't finished. He showed enough Wednesday night in losing a 3-1 decision to Boston to prove that. But even Bobby admits he's not as good as he used to be.

Raschi put in a solid claim with his three-hit, 3-0 shutout of the Chicago White Sox Wednesday night. It was his seventh victory to one loss. Trucks survived a shaky start to subdue Philadelphia Athletics in 10 innings, 5-4, for his seventh triumph. He has been beaten twice.

Tommy Henrich's 10th homer broke up a 0-0 duel between Raschi and Howie Judson in the seventh. A double by Yogi Berra and Judson's wild pitch added a second run in the seventh and the Yanks nicked reliefer Clyde Shoun for an extra marker in the ninth.

Trucks Wednesday night started out like the worst pitcher in the league, walking the first three Athletics. Then he hit Hank Majeski to force in a run. Taft Wright's two-run single gave Coleman a three-run working margin but he couldn't hold it. George Kell scored the winning run in the 10th inning on Hoot Evers 'single. After the shaky start Trucks settled down and struck out 10 in the extra-inning thriller.

Feller Beaten

Feller, making his first start in two weeks, gave up two runs in the second inning to Boston on two infield bounders, a walk and an error. Each side scored once later but that was the ball game.

In suffering his fourth loss to one victory, Feller allowed eight hits, walking four and striking out three.

The triumph still left the Red Sox 4 1-2 games behind the Yankees in the pennant race.

Washington handed St. Louis Browns their seventh straight setback, 6-5, with the help of homers by Eddie Yost and Sam Dente.

The National League finally has a clear-cut leader in the Boston Braves.

The Braves outscrambled Pittsburgh 8-6 to move a full game ahead of Brooklyn and New York, tier for second. The Dodgers bowed to St. Louis in the afternoon, 6-3, while the Giants were trimming the Chicago Cubs, 11-5, on a seven-run, seventh-inning rally.

Nine Hurlers See Action

Nine pitchers saw action in the Boston-Pittsburgh game. The last place Pirates whacked out a five run lead in the first two innings when they knocked out Vern Bickford. Ralph Kiner's 12th homer with a man on was the big blow. But Vic Lombardi and his successors couldn't hold the advantage.

Boston knocked over six runs in the fourth in a rally featured by Connie Ryan's double with the bases loaded.

Stan Musial cracked two homers as the Cards came from behind to top Brooklyn. Musial's second home run, No. 8 of the year, started a four-run rally in the ninth to give reliefer Jim Hearn the decision over Erv Palica.

Willard Marshall's 400-foot homer and Sid Gordon's triple helped the Giants come from behind to defeat Chicago's Emil Kush. Sam Webb pitched brilliant relief ball, allowing only two hits in 7 1-3 innings, to receive credit for his first victory.

Philadelphia Phillies scored twice in the 10th to down Cincinnati, 4-3. An error by Red Stallcup allowed the tying run to score in the extra inning. Andy Seminick's fly scored Gran Hamner with the winner.

Ernie Silverman Work Horse of Buffalo Bisons

(By The Associated Press)

Ernie Silverman, 27-year-old righthander of the Buffalo Bisons, is one of the most overworked pitchers in the International League but he thrives on it.

Silverman made his 15th appearance of the season Wednesday night and gained credit for an 11-7 victory over the defending champion Montreal Royals.

The Bisons entered the seventh inning enjoying a 7-4 lead but the Royals routed Clem Hausmann and Jim Parton, scoring three runs on a homer by George Schmees to tie it up. Silverman spelled Parton and blanked the Royals the rest of the way to pick up his seventh victory.

Buffalo bounced back in its half of the seventh, rapping Frank Laga for three runs and the game. Coaker Triplett led Buffalo's drive, batting in three runs and scoring four on a homer, double and single.

The triumph enabled the second place Bisons to remain 2 1-2 games behind the leading Jersey City Giants. The Giants shaded the last place Syracuse Chiefs 4-3.

Fred Gerken stole home in the ninth with what turned out to be the winning run.

Newark Bears eked out a 4-3 decision over the Baltimore Orioles, scoring all of their runs in the first inning against Irv Medlinger.

Baltimore pecked away at Erl Toolson, scoring once in the 6th on Red McQuillen's eighth round tripper and sending the right-hander to cover with two runs in the ninth.

Rochester and Toronto were idle.

Allow NHL Clubs An Extra Player Next Season

Montreal, June 2 — (CP) — After increasing its playing schedule the previous day from 60 to 70 games, the National Hockey League Wednesday hastily decided to allow each club the use of an extra player.

In winding up its annual meeting, the N. H. L. also made a change in rules, reappointed club representatives to the Board of Governors and re-elected Clarence Campbell president for a fourth term.

Campbell said operations during the 1948 - 49 season provided the greatest receipts in the circuit's history.

The extra player allowed means that each club now will be permitted to dress 17 players, not including the goalie. Heretofore they were allowed to dress only 16.

The rule change was in the penalties department, affecting goalkeepers. Henceforth a major penalty awarded a goalie will be handled as an ordinary minor. A teammate will serve the penalty and the team will play shorthanded. Previously, a penalty shot was allowed the opposing team when a goalie received a major. The rule change will be officially confirmed at the league's September meeting.

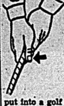
A new regulation also was adopted with regard to ice surfaces. It was agreed that all playing surfaces must be pure white, eliminating all dark - shaded appearances that tend to make it difficult for players, officials and fans to follow the movements of the puck.

The meeting took no action on a suggestion by Art. Ross, vice-president and general manager of Boston Bruins, that orange - colored pucks be introduced to permit better visibility of the puck in the air.

No action was taken either on a suggestion by Jack Adams, general manager of Detroit Red Wings, that blue lines marking off defending zones be made red and the centre line be changed from red to blue.

Better Golf

By Sam Snead



In the effort to get the two "V's" formed by the thumb and the base of the forefinger of each hand, pointing over the right shoulder in the address position, many players tend to get the right hand too far over toward the left. This is apt to produce a smothered shot. Today's picture is a splendid illustration of the correct grip. It is mechanically sound and provides the best leverage you can put into a golf swing. If the right hand is too far over to the left, it is apt to produce a hook and if you get it too far over to the right you not only lose power but you tend to slice. You must get in the balanced position between these two extremes so that at impact the palm of your right hand is "facing" toward the hole. Or another way of expressing it is that the palm of your right hand is at right-angles to the desired line of flight. So if you're a hooker or a slicer experiment a bit with your grip. Other faults in good form can produce these results, too. But a poor grip is one common cause. —(Copyright 1949, John F. Dille Co.)

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Despite the fact that a lush who at times draped a crock-carrying carcass over our svelte figure, and at others tried desperately to date a young married woman in the seat behind, we sat in the Picton grandstand yesterday afternoon beneath a blazing June sun and watched a young energetic baseball team defeat the haughty Trenton Flyers by a 7-1 score.

• • •

The Picton squad thoroughly deserved its victory and not deteriorating from their win, the air laddies got a bad game out of their collective systems. There was some weird infielding and base running and some of the veterans of the old 1920-21 and 1932-33 teams would shudder in their graves if they have one, or in their homes, if they have one, could they have seen some of the antics.

• • •

For instance a Picton runner was parked on second base. He was in love with it. In fact there were tears in his eyes when finally he was forced to leave it. Imagine going wacky over an old bag. In any event he taged atop of it and watched a pal who was parked on first break for the sack on which he reposed. When his mate neared his second base parking lot, he decided to amble for third. Then thinking he might be put out at the hot corner, he changed his mind and ambled back again right into the arms of the Flyer shortstop who welcomed him with a big grin, a grimy paw, and the ball.

• • •

But apart from that, with some better coaching this Picton team should prove a potent factor in the league. They have youth, speed and hitting ability and most important have a good hurling staff. Gerry Miller, albeit a bit wild yesterday was good in the clutches. The kid has a burst of speed, some fancy curves and can clout the apple. Then there's Frankie Dyer who turned in a good performance at third besides clouting three hits and who set the champion Napanee Legion team back on its haunches by a 6-4 score in the first game of the season.

• • •

Baseball is on the up-grade in the Prince Edward County town. Friend Harry Doyle, the keeper of the purse at the gate yesterday told us they had a $120 gate on May 24th, and brother that ain't hay in these days of 35-cent admissions. There was a good crowd witnessing the pastiming yesterday, and if you think these Picton fans don't back up their team, at least verbally, then we're the next Prime Minister of Canada.

• • •

But we did miss some of the old familiar faces around the ball park. True there were such loyal diamond fans as Fred Healey and Jim Hepburn in the crowd, they're there come wind, rains, hell or high water. But we failed to notice such veterans of the game as Ron Church, Raymie Hudgin, Joe Frederick, Brock Hudgin, and their ilk of former days. Davy Young was there doing a spot of umpiring in the field. Davy is still one of the best arbiters in these parts, in fact he's getting better all the time. And that's not hearsay, Dave told us that himself. But in fair criticism of the old home town team, we must say that it n eeds coaching especially in the infield, and in inside baseball.

• • •

Just as a point in mind, in fact several fans remarked on it, the Picton second baseman played his position with no sacks occupied about two feet off the bag down the first-second base line. And two Flyer hits went grass-cutting through the big hole caused by the fielders position almost astride the bag. Had he played in his proper position the lads in blue might have scampered home with a shutout attached to their fuselages.

• • •

There's a rare treat in store for baseball fans at the Fair Grounds here on Wednesday, June 8th, when the Batawa team entertains the barnstorming Kokomo Clowns in a game under the floods. The Clowns are one of the funniest teams extant besides being one of the best baseball squads on the road. They have specialty acts and some of their antics will give you stitches. It will be a scream whichever way you look at it, so don't miss some good belly laughs with some fine baseball thrown in for good measure.

• • •

The Belleville District League is levelling itself off with the strength of the entries apparently fairly evenly distributed, that is if scores to date are a criterion. If Napanee defeated the Trenton Town team (this is being written before the end of the game) it will put the down easters, Picton and Trenton Flyers in a first-place tie with two wins and a defeat. If Trenton defeated the Napanee crew, it will put Picton and Flyers on top and Northern Electric, Napanee, Kiwanis Juniors and Point Anne on a par for second place with a win and a loss, with Trenton Town bringing up the rear. That is how things are up to tonight.

• • •

Tonight the Trenton Air Station diamond, Point Anne takes on the Flyers in a scheduled game. Both squads are smarting under recent defeats especially the Pointers who claimed they were robbed by an umpire's decision in their recent clash with Northern Electric. So tonight's tiff at the air station should be productive of some smart baseball. Big Jim Titus will likely get the mound assignment for the Flyers while Johnny Green or Phil Loft will assume the hurling chore for the Pointers.

• • •

There's an important session of the executive of the Belleville District Baseball League called by President Malcolm Robb tonight. The conclave will take place in President Robb's office and gets under way at 8 o'clock. There's some important business on hand especially the controversy that has been going on about the baseball status of Peter Jones, juniors first baseman of last year. Jones apparently wants to play for the Northern Electric team but some sort of edict handed down by a former executive states that all players of junior age in the city are primarily the property of the junior club management. Jones refuses to obey the edict and says he will play where he likes—or else. It is hoped the matter will be settled satisfactorily at tonight's master-mind conclave.

• • •

And a tip to the Northern Electric baseball management. Don't bank too much on seeing a player by the name of Keith MacDonald in an N.E. baseball uniform this semester. One of those little birds with the long bills reached up and whispered in our shell-like (eighteen-pounder shell, that is) ear in Picton yesterday, that the master-minds in that town will not release any player to any team in competition with Picton. And that sounds rather reasonable. 'Twas also whispered that if MacDonald wanted to sign with a senior squad, nothing would be placed in his way. But Belleville District League teams—No soap.

• • •

A movement is under way to rejuvenate the old Trent Valley Baseball League, this department is informed. Tomorrow, Friday, night a special meeting is being called at the Legion Hall, Havelock, where the situation will be discussed. Marmora, Campbellford and Norwood have already indicated their desire to enter teams, and each is getting its ball park ready. The proposed league has an 18 year-old age limit in mind at the present with the idea of working up to an intermediate status in the immediate future. All towns and communities in the district are invited to attend the meeting.

Musial Emerges From Six Weeks' Hit Famine

New York, June 2 (AP)— National League moundsmen take heed—and also cover. Stan Musial has emerged from his six weeks' hit famine.

The information comes right from the horse's mouth — from Stan himself. The star slugger of the St Louis Cardinals is so certain that he has whipped the slump that he predicted Wednesday he not only would join the .300 hitters soon but would be battling for the league lead before too long.

"Unlike two years ago when I got off to a similarly slow start" he said. "I'm in fine physical shape. My timing has come back to me and I'm getting good wood on the ball."

Naturally Musial felt elated over his one man riot act against Brooklyn pitching Wednesday. All he did was sock a pair of home runs and a single to lead the Red Birds to a 6-3 triumph over the Dodgers. But Stan said he had begun to hit in his accustomed style about a week ago.

He was hitting at .250 not so long ago but, after his three-for-four day Wednesday, the 28-year-old flychaser is hitting .284. He owns eight home runs and has driven in 19 runs. That is still 142 points, four homers and 13 r.b.i.'s under his 1948 totals of a year ago today, but he is climbing.

"I guess I got home-run crazy" Stan replied when asked to explain his early season slump. "Before the season started I had mde up my mind to hit the bll where it is pitched. That is, to all fields. However, when we got to St. Louis and I took a gander at the short right field fence in Sportsmans Park, I began to get ideas.

"I hit a couple of homers the first week, and that made me even more anxious to try for the home run every time I came to bat. After several weeks of that diet, I was cured."

GOOD DEEDS RETURN

Midland, Ont. (CP)— Magician Chris Gardner asked for two volunteers from the audience at a recent performance and Ruth and Joy Hornsby, both 14, who came to the stage, announced themselves as his godchildren. Though he didn't recognize them, Gardner had saved the lives of the twin sisters at birth by building an incubator. It is still in use.

Oshawa Squad Defeats Marines By 6-5 Score

Oshawa, June 2 (CP)—Oshawa Merchants nosed out Peterborough Marines 6-5 here Wednesday night in a scheduled C. O, B. L. senior tilt at the Kinsmen Civic Memorial Stadium. It was the first defeat of the season for the defending league champions.

The nip-and-tuck struggle saw Oshawa come from behind to tie the count at 2-2 in the 7th inning, take a 5-4 lead in the 8th when Andy McMullen tripled with the bases loaded and break the 5-5 tie in their own half of the ninth.

Gunner Whitehill pitched seven frames for the Marines, gave up only two run on seven hits but Merchants got four of these safeties in the seventh, so in the eighth, manager Eddie Murphy sent Al Plunkett to the mound. It proved a bad move as a single, two walks and McMullen's blow put Oshawa in front.

Peterborough tied it up in the ninth when Paul Michael weakened to walk Menzie, at the start and then yield a long single to Crowe after Stewart sacrificed.

Bill Gingerich was hurried to the mound and he got the next two batters, on an infield out and a strikeout. Gingerich, who had lost two one-run decisions in two starts, walked to open the ninth, moved to second on Hook's hard single. With one out, Gingerich had third base stolen cleanly and when catcher Menzies' throw went into the dirt and down the foul line, Gingerich sprinted home with the winning run.

Northern Scores 14 to 8 Victory Over Alemites

It took a four run rally in the top of the ninth for the Northern Electric squad to insure their 14-8 victory over a hard fighting Stewart-Warner nine. It was a nip-and-tuck affair with the Alemite lads showing an amazing amount of fight against a team that has been rated of championship calibre.

Prior to the game, Northern Electric officials held a brief ceremony with Mr. Greenfield, president of the Northern club pitching, Mr. Jones, general foreman, catching, and team coach Herb Henn doing the batting.

The Northern squad opened up in the first inning with a four hit blast including a double, that netted them two runs. A neat pick-off play that worked to perfection caught Carl Wood off third to slow down the attack considerably.

Alemite countered with a single run on Lewis's homer to centre field in the bottom of the second. Leforte's triple to left centre brought the Alemite lads into a short lived tie.

Northern came back strongly in the fourth to score four runs on a single by Jim Barriage, a walk to Halsey, Henn's double and Carson's three run homer to left centre. Then with two out Northern loaded the bases with singles by Wood and Young and a walk to Wannamaker but Barriage grounded out to retire the side.

Ejected from Game

Northern third baseman Whiting was ejected from the game in the third inning for arguing with the umpire.

The Electrics bunched four more runs in the sixth on a single by Locke, a walk to Woods, a triple by Young, a single by Wannamaker and two long flies to the outfield. Stewart Warner added one in the sixth and then turned in a rousing five run rally in the eighth that pulled them within two runs of the Electrics. Northern stormed back for four runs in the ninth to pull into a comfortable lead and insure the victory.

Lum Carson went the distance for the winners walking four, striking out a dozen and giving up ten hits for eight runs. Dracup toiled throughout for the losers, walking seven, striking out four, and surrendering 16 hits for 14 runs.

Best at the plate was Northern receiver Young with three singles and a triple in five trips.

Syntona Highly Praised For Helping Many People

Relieves Common Disorders of Stomach, Kidneys and Liver, Nervousness, Backache and Rheumatic Pain.

MR. A. WALLER

Syntona Herbal Compound which was first introduced in Ontario 13 years ago has won enthusiastic praise from thousands of men and women who suffered from common health disorders such as sour, acid upset stomach, bilious dizzy spells, headache, lame, aching back or rheumatic aches and pains. These people tell how it has helped them overcome nervous irritability, poor sleep, fatigued, rundown condition and how after using a short treatment of Syntona they feel better than they did in years.

For example, Mr. A. Waller, 280 Beland Avenue, Hamilton, Ontario, said in a recent report: "I had backache so bad I suffered day and night. If I stooped over it was all I could do to get up again. I would get dizzy spells, dark specks darted before my eyes and I couldn't get my proper sleep at night.

"Since I've been taking Syntona the pain is relieved so that I can get up at once, dizzy spells do not trouble me, and I am getting sound, restful sleep. I feel lots better, too, and I cannot praise Syntona too highly."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST. Find out how it can help you, too.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Many a player is blinded to a comparatively easy bridge play. This may come from paying no attention to the meaning of the opening lead. Or who doubled. Or from being dazzled by big cards.

Six diamonds was easy for the south players. Opening leads from west was spade king. South ruffed and pulled three trump rounds. Two dummy hearts were sluffed on south clubs. A south heart was ruffed.

But some west players doubled six clubs and it ended there. In one or two such cases, south took the needed 12 tricks with a clever play. Here is what happened.

The first lead of spade king was ruffed in south. Two rounds of trumps were pulled. Three top diamonds were hauled in. The fourth diamond overtaken in dummy. Now look at the card held by each.

South has left his three hearts and two of his trumps. Dummy is left with his three hearts, spade queen, and a trump. West has kept his king with two hearts and his ace with jack of spades.

Now in the lead, dummy sends forth the queen of spades. Based on the double, declarer assumed west had the heart king. So, instead of ruffing spade queen, south sluffed a heart.

This trick was won by west with the spade ace. Having been thrown in with this play, west must return something. But what? He finds himself endplayed.

Will west return a spade? If he does, dummy will ruff with a club and south will throw away another heart. Thereafter the heart ace is good for taking the only remaining south heart.

Instead of a spade will west return a heart? If so, south gets one heart trick with the queen and the other with the ace. The endplay justifies the means.

Television Adds New Words

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 2 (AP)—Television is adding new words to the English language.

It was only natural that "Television" would be too unwieldy. The most common brief term is "TV"; it is terse and to the point.

"Video" is more descriptive, but hasn't caught on entirely. Perhaps this is because it has three syllables.

"Telegenic" appears to be a definite addition to the language. Referring to a person or thing that makes a good appearance on television, it stems from "photogenic," also a fairly recent word.

The term "kinescope" is a four-bit word for the filming of shows to be televised at a later time.

Audiences

"Telegenic" appears to be a deselves are still confused about what to call their audience. Many of those trained in radio still use "listeners," although some have switched to the more accurate "viewers". Neither is adequate and perhaps a wholly new word should be coined to supply the need.

Terms for picture distortions are being transferred from repair men to consumers. Many a set-owner can identify a "ghost" or "halo" which describes the effect when two images appear instead of one.

Studio Terms

One hears many film studio terms in television stations. You are advised not to be alarmed by "kill that broad," which is merely a command to turn off a certain kind of light. Other carry-overs are "fade-out," "dolly in" (move camera in), "pan" (move from one side to other), and "whip shot" (a fast pan).

Technicians have devised their own names for their equipment. They range from "plumbing" or "dish pan" (for the pan-like gimmick that sends the signal) to "V. S.B.F." (for vestigial side band filter, whatever that is).

Station workers told me they have no new terms for television actors. Evidently ham is ham in any medium.

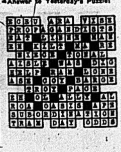
◄Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:



Little Benny's Note Book

I was watching ma getting things reddy for supper, and I said, What's a matter, ma, what's you shaking your head to yourself for?

I was thinking of the terrible mistakes I made playing bridge this afternoon, ma said. Sometimes I'm not sure whether I awt to give up bridge intirely or whether I just never should of started it, she said, and I said, Aw G, ma, everybody makes mistakes.

Well if they do I'm sure they cant compare with the ones I made this afternoon, ma said, and I said, Sure they can, ma, I bet they can compare even werse. Look at me for instance, ma. I meen how about the time I was downtown with you, and you got on the free scale in the Carry All drug store to way yourself, and you wayed so mutch it made you sad for almost a whole hour till I asked you if you tnawt I had anything to do with it on account of having put one foot on the scale to hold it steddy while you were waying yourself? I said.

Dont remind me, I get provoked every time I think of that silly trick, ma said, and I said, Thats what I mean, ma, it was a big mistake to put my foot on the scale in the ferst place, and it was a even bigger of a one to wait a hour before I told you about it. So you dont need to go accusing yourself of making the werld's biggest mistakes. I bet nobody ever made a bigger one than I did the last time cuzzin Artie stayed all nite and we play Indians and I got the idea to paint our faces with mercurocrome, and it was still on when you came to wake us up in the morning. Do you remember the shock you had, ma? I said.

Yes I do, and it wont be anything to the shock you'll have if you're not out of this kitchin in less time than it takes to tell, ma said.

The result being I was out.

Pitching Staff Of the Dodgers Begin to Jell

(By The Canadian Press)

It took him all of six weeks, but Manager Burt Shotton of Brooklyn Dodgers believes he finally has straightened out his pitching staff.

"Yes, Sir," the Dodger pilot said before Wednesday's game with St. Louis Cardinals at Brooklyn "the staff has begun to jell."

"For the first time this season I have a set rotation. Of course, future events might force me to change, but currently I plan to rotate Ralph Branca, Rex Barney, Joe Hatten and Don Newcombe.

"Preacher Roe, who needs more rest in between starts, will pitch every fifth or sixth day. Another who has earned himself a starting shot is young Jack Banta, who has looked very good in his last three relief assignments."

There are so many horses available to compete for purses on Ontario tracks, that there are whispers along shed row at Toronto's Woodbine race track that Canadian owners may plead for "preferred treatment" over the ever - increasing invasion of United States stables.

At the moment 1,500 horses are registered to run on Ontario strips and many owners can't find room for their thoroughbreds on the daily eight-race cards.

At Philadelphia, welterweight champion Ray (Sugar) Robinson and Kid Gavilan of Havana Wednesday signed for a 15 - round title bout in Philadelphia Municipal Stadium July 11.

Robinson and Gavilan met last summer in a 10-round non-title fight at New York. The champion won a close decision. Since then Gavilan has beaten lightweight champion Ike Williams twice in overweight bouts.

Unfounded trade rumors have produced a severe case of nerves among players of the St. Louis Browns, manager Zack Taylor said Wednesday at St. Louis.

Charley DeWitt, vice- president of the American League Baseball Club, joined Taylor in expressing indignation over stories published in several cities during the Browns' recent disastrous road trip. The last - place club won only two of 13 contests on the tour.

Despite reports to the contrary, the two Brownie officials insisted the club has no deals pending.

At Edmonton, the touring Newcastle United soccer squad Wednesday night swamped an Alberta All-star aggregation 16-2 in an exhibition match here.

At Montreal, Belfast Celtic, the other British soccer team now touring the North American continent, defeated Montreal All - stars 4-1 Wednesday night before 10,000 fans.

Picton Defeats Flyers 7-1 For Second Even

Picton, Ont, (Staff) — Picton's youthful entry in the Belleville District Baseball League pulled up into a possible three-way tie for first place in the league standing here last night when they defeated the Trenton RCAF Flyers 7-1 in a game that was loosely played at times.

If Napanee won their scheduled game against Trenton Town last night the down east team will share top slot with Flyers and Picton with two wins and one defeat.

Behind the sometimes wild but otherwise effective pitching of Gerry Miller who let the Flyers down with five scattered hits the Picton team despite some weird base-running at times took advantage of Flyer bobbles and coupling this with some clutch hitting walked off the victory that was clinched in the eighth with two errors, a walk and two other errors of omission on the part of the Flyers sent four runs across the plate.

Picton scored their first run in the first innings when Lighthall crossed the plate after a walk, hit-by pitcher and an infield out. After that it was scoreless baseball until the seventh when Dyers double and singles by Carsonand Lighthall sent a pair across the plate.

Flyers scored their only run on their half of the eighth when Chombay, who had walked and reached second on a passed ball, scored after two follow-up batters had hit into a double play.

Picton put over the clincher runs in the eighth and that was that. Both sides had chances to score but errors and some good and bad fielding especially in the infield cut off the potential runs.

Miller struck out nine Flyers but walked six. Besides that he fired three wild pitches with catcher Carson having four passed balls scored against him.

Martyn pitched steady ball until the seventh, getting himself out of some bad holes at times. He whiffed 5 and walked 4. The lid blew off in the eighth and he was replaced by Chouinard who retired the last two men of the ball game.

Frank Dyer led the Picton attack with a double and 2 singles with Lighthall getting a pair. Dunning got two for Flyers with Chomay, Coursal, and Greenough getting the other three.

CONDEMNED MURDERER COMMITS SUICIDE

Jackson, Miss., June 2 — (AP) — J. W. Poore, a condemned murderer, committed suicide Wednesday while the United States Supreme Court had before it a petition to stay his electrocution set for Friday. The 56-year-old Alabaman, convicted in 1947 for murder, was found bleeding to death in his cell here, his wrist and arms slashed with a safety razor.

Intercounty Baseball

(By The Canadian Press)

Stratford Nationals are finding things tough in the Intercounty Baseball Association Senior League. They have managed only one victory in eight starts.

It was failure to hit when runners were in scoring position that cost the Nationals their seventh defeat Wednesday night. Kitchener Legionnaires defeated them 5-2 at Stratford.

In other Intercounty games, Galt Terriers defeated London Majors 10-8, Waterloo Tigers gained an 8-2 victory oven Guelph Maple Leafs and Brantford Red Sox walloped St. Thomas Legion 10-2 at Brantford.

At Stratford, the Nationals had a good chance in the second inning with the bases loaded and none out but pitcher Pat Boehmer struck out Danny Lewicki and forced Vern Richardson to ground into a double play.

Two hits off Richardson netted the Legionnaires a run in the first inning and three singles in the fourth gave them two more. They added another in the fifth and one more in the seventh. Stratford got two runs in the third.

Fisher Goes Route

At Galt, Lew Fisher went the route for the Majors. He allowed only eight hits, but he gave up six walks and hit two men at bat.

The Terriers broke a fifth-inning tie with three runs on three walks and a double error.

At Brantford Harry Fisher pitched a four hit, 13 strike-out game as he led the Red Sox to victory.

The Red Sox scored six runs in the third inning, one in the fifth and three in the eighth while St. Thomas got two runs in the fifth frame.

At Waterloo, the Tigers drove into a 3-0 lead in the fourth inning got four more in the fifth and added another in the eighth. Guelph scored two runs in the eighth inning.

Pitcher Johnny Barbeau lost his chance for a no-hit game when Alfie King, Guelph right fielder, lashed out a single in the eighth. The Tigers forced Clyde Roy from the mound in the fifth inning when they scored four runs.

Only one game is scheduled in the Intercounty League tonight. St. Thomas travels to London for a night game.

One game is slated in the Nickle Belt Senior League. Copper Cliff clashes with Frood.

FRONTIER U.

By Oren Arnold

"Miss Boone! We were frantic for you. Miss Carlson is safe. We found her as—"

"Oh thank you!"

"Okay. But we must get you in at once. They'll be crazy to know."

"Surely. Is it far? And—you are—?"

"No. I have a car over there a ways. And my name is Palmer, Kenyon Thomas Palmer, from the college. Frontier U."

"But of course! How nice! I did ask Bettina to wire for a servant to meet us, Palmer. But I hardly expected such an efficiency as this. I must reward you!"

Ken's mouth dropped open. He stared at the lovely eastern girl.

"S-Servant?" he croaked.

"Of course I will need them out her, too. And you say you drove the car? Then, please, you will work for me. I don't care what work you have now, I shall raise your pay. Miss Carlson also will need you when I am in school, you see. From now on you are my chauffeur, Palmer. And I am deeply grateful for your promptness here!"

"Chauffeur," Ken echoed it weakly. Incredibly, she had assumed that he—he, Ken Palmer, son of the university president—! He inhaled deeply in order to squelch a burst of laughter.

"Yes, miss," he murmured, in what he fancied was the proper tone of deference. Fortunately she was not looking at his eyes.

"I shall have to apologize, Miss," Ken Palmer said, deferentially. "We came out in two cars, and they took Miss Carlson to the university in the other one. It was a closed sedan."

"But this, Palmer!" Joy Boone looked with amusement at his topless, defiant looking jalopy.

Ken kept a straight face; in truth, he almost over-acted here. He was unused to this sort of thing. His life had been in books. "It belongs to one of the students, miss," said he, almost snootily.

"It's cute really. I just wasn't quite expecting it."

"He bowed slightly, formally. "It is very broad of you, miss, I am shuah. Democratic. Now if I may assist you—"

He opened the door to the rear seat but she disdained that and got in front. "Let me drive it myself, Palmer. I want to!"

"But Miss! What will people say?"

"Oh pss-s-s-st on that, Palmer! You may as well know. If you are going to work for me you have to put up with—with everything. Tootsy—that's Miss Carlson—says I'm incorrigible, and I expect she is right."

"Yes, miss. I mean, no miss! I—"

Joy laughed. Her poor servant was trying hard to be correct! "Skip it, Palmer, and get in. Better ride up front with me to show me the way over this desert. It's beautiful, isn't it! So clean! So different!"

"Yes Miss. If I may say so, there is the ranch house. Paradise Ranch, I believe. We could telephone and—"

"Of course. Tootsy will be frantic. I'm so relieved she is safe, poor dear."

"The light switch is there. Night is falling. A few chug holes may have washed into the desert trails, and—"

"Surely. Will there be cowboys at the ranch?"

"Cow—cow persons, miss?" He looked haughty. "Possibly. I shall protect you of course!"

Joy's gay laugh sounded again and Ken looked as much at her as he dared. But he kept up his act. He was enjoying this immensely. He couldn't remember ever having been so bold before. He blushed literally at his own temerity.

"Golly, do cowboys bite! What I meant, I want to see some real ones. I want to be one, in fact."

"I beg you pardon!"

"Skip it, Palmer. I can tell I'm going to shock you often. Try to bear up. There's another car coming!"

She halted the jaloppy when Ward and Polly McMurray drew up beside it. There was a great deal of excitement then. The brother and sister did most of the talking, explaining to Joy about Bettina Carlson, hearing Joy's story of the storm-tossed plane and how it had come to a squash landing on the cactus-studded desert, then had tilted tail up.

"But we're both safe and that's all I care," Joy went on, excitably. "So good of you to meet me. Terrific storm! You must be a senior, Mr. McMurray, you look efficient and all. I adore seniors. I mean I used to when I was a freshman. I'm a junior now. What's it like at Frontier? Tell me! Palmer here talks like a book."

The others looked at Ken, who was very solemn faced.

"Mr. Palmer is new here, too," Polly apologized for him. "A stranger. But you'll like Frontier."

Joy heard the "Mister." It surprised her. She looked curiously at the dark-haired girl and then at Ken, but decided that this was all a part of the western informality Bettina Carlson had mentioned. Well all right, she told herself, it was quaint. And obviously Palmer wasn't in their employ, which made a difference.

Ward McMurray had started answering her too.

"No, ma'am," said he—another quaint touch!—"don't go to college any more myself. I work on the ranch. But I'm all for Frontier. So is dad. About your airplane—I can send a tractor out to get it and tow it in to the main road. Don't you worry."

"Please do. Send the bill to me, and—"

"Won't be any bill, ma'am. Not for what we do, at least. The repairs will have to be done by mechanics down town."

"Of course I shall want to pay! But skip it now. I love your costume, Miss McMurray. You must help me get the proper things."

"Glad to," Polly said. There hadn't been any time—or reason—to change, after the telegram heralding Joy had reached the campus. "Reminds me that my horse is hitched back at the school. The poor dear will think I've deserted him!"

"Oh, do you ride too?"

Polly looked astonished. "Ride?" She laughed outright. "Of course!"

"Miss Boone is, ah, unaccustomed to western ways, if I may say so," Ken put in, loftily. "Miss McMurray has on the usual thing for the equestrian trails, if I may be so bold, miss. Pardon me."

Joy rattled on, happily, bouyantly. Ward and Polly looked at each other in fresh surprise, then at Ken. Ken's face was serious, even severe! He gazed straight ahead at—the—landscape, heart thumping.

"Look," Ward tried to speak above Joy. "I don't get it. Is Palmer, uh—?"

"Oh what a dar-ling place!" Joy Boone almost shrieked that. It startled Ward into silence again. Moreover, he was startled to hear ranch home called "darling", however proud of it he was.

Paradise Ranch centred around a building that seemed to sprawl over most of acre. Front was a low porch 150 feet long, the roof supported by rock pillars. Centre was a broad opening which revealed a patio within, and even under night lights this patio looked like some extensive flower garden. First item seen on the porch was a saddle, next was an Indian metate stone for grinding grain by hand, and next was a mother dog with nine wobbly puppies. The dog did not greet them save flap her tail on the stone floor, because she lay prone and her puppies were nursing.

A day-old calf was curled on a ragged rug near the dogs. Ward said it was motherless. Walls of the structure were plastered adobe, roof was of red tile. A Mexican yard man gazed at the young people from under his broad straw sombrero, and two Mexican women poked their faces out a window that must have been the kitchen.

"Oyez! Buenos tardes, Senorita Polly!" one of the women called. "The rain she is come mucho, no? Supper is wait. Your papa is worry for you. Already he eat the supper. You and your friends come quick or I weel throw heem to the dogs!"

It was a genial, matronly sort of voice, from a woman who was fat. Polly smiled in friendship and shot back, "You'll do nothing of the sort, Lupe! Throw it to the dogs! When we are starving?"

The banter ended as it began. Joy Boone—(and Ken Palmer too, for that matter)—observed it with interest. Joy told herself it must be another bit of western informality, which in truth it was. The place was a storybook setting, especially at night.

They telephoned into town in five minutes. Bettina Carlson herself came to the phone. Joy's voice broke then. Together the two women—one nineteen and the other forty—sobbed out their love for one another, ended their nervous cry with thanks and promises.

"I shall eat first then come in," Joy ended. "You eat and rest, Tootsy dear."

The three other young people were in the broad arched entry waiting for her. Already food odors assailed them, and the maid Lupe was holding open a door and beaming her welcome. Joy looked Ken Palmer.

"See here," she spoke, "my servant must be cared for, too, please. Put it all on my bill. He was most efficient in—"

"Hold on!" Ward McMurray was incredulous. "You mean—"

"There's no bill, Miss Boone!" Polly interrupted. "People don't have to pay for every little thing out here! And as for Mr. Palmer, do you mean—?"

"I do. I was most distressed until he showed up out there. And I hired him on the spot. For my chauffeur. I would have had to hired one somewhere."

Ward's mouth had dropped open. Polly stared.

"You—you—!" Ward gestured inanely.

"Palmer," Joy was quite serious. "Will two-hundred dollars a month be sufficient? To start? If not, say so. I may want a lot of errands run, and of course you will have full charge of both cars, mine and Bettina's and—"

Eisler Lands In Prague on Way To Germany

Prague, Czechoslovakia, May 31 — (AP) — Gerhart Eisler landed in Prague today, en route from London to Germany.

"I am glad to be in Czechoslovakia and not in the United the communist leader told reporters as he left the plane.

There was no official delegation on hand to greet Eisler.

The 52-year-old communist boarded the Czech Airlines plane at Northolt airport, England, early today, only a few minutes before it took off.

London, May 31 (AP)— Gerhart Eisler today boarded a Czech Airlines plane for a non-stop flight to Prague.

The 52-year-old German-born Communist arrived at Northolt airport only a few minutes before the plane took off. His name was not on the passenger list and his baggage bore no labels.

An official at the Polish Embassy said Eisler "probably is on his way to Leipzig via Prague."

During the few minutes he was at the airport he spoke only with three Czechoslovakian Embassy officials who walked to the plane with him.

Immigration and customs officials said after the plane had left that the passenger was Eisler.

Eisler was billed as the main by the National Council of Civil speaker at a rally set for tonight Liberties. He had been scheduled to make a "thanks, people of Britain" speech.

Eisler, who jumped bail in the United States and stowed away on the Polish liner Batory, was freed by a British court last Friday. The court denied a United States request for the fugitive's return to the United States.

Eisler, described by a congressional committee as the top Communist agent in the United States was hauled off the Batory by British police at Southampton.

Fabulously Rich Gold Strike May Make Orange Free State Richest Gold Area in World

Johannesburg, June 3 (Reuters)—A "fabulously rich" gold strike on Farm Erfdeel, 12 miles southeast of Odendaalsrust, is expected to make the Orange Free State the richest gold area in the world, it was announced today.

The strike assay was officially confirmed at 56,105 inch pennyweights for the basal reef.

The basal reef is the main reef in the Orange Free State. There is also a second reef known as the leader reef.

The previous richest strike was the famous gebuld borehole in 1946, also at Odendaalsrust, which assayed at 23,000 inch pennyweights.

The find was announced in a notice posted in the stock exchange here this morning and Free State Gold Areas Limited confirmed that the strike was "fabulously rich."

Gold shares jumped from 15s 3d. ($3.05) yesterday to 25s 6d. ($5.10) today.

There were wild and erratic dealings on the Johannesburg stock exchange earlier today when first rumors of the strike were circulating.

Gold experts here said if todays' strike were officially confirmed. The Free State would undoubtedly be the richest gold area in the world.

Among famous gold strikers were those made in the Klondike in 1896, but there can be no comparison between the Klondike and South Africa as the two systems of mining are vastly different.

Importance of Position

London, June 3 (Reuters) — The sensational gold strike in the Orange Free State is important for its position perhaps even more than for its richness.

Boreholes provide geological, rather than commercial, information. For the immediate neighborhood of the bore hole, the result might turn out to be quite insignificant — merely an isolated patch of richness. Solid nuggets have sometimes been found in areas which proved to be commercially unpayable.

Yet the strike may have great importance for the geology of the Orange Free State as a whole. It is well east of the original "proved area" of the Free State, which will have about a dozen big mines.

ONT. DRY SPELL PARCHES LAND AND STUNTS CROPS

Milk Herds to Suffer Unless Heavy Rains Come Soon

Toronto, June 3. (CP)—Effects of several weeks of dry weather are showing in many sections of Southern Ontario farmland.

Pastures are parched, crops stunted, reservoirs and conservation dam sat low levels. Agricultural Department officials say that unless heavy rain comes soon milk herds will suffer and dairy production will fall off sharply.

Weather forecaster say showers are headed for southern regions of the provinces but only the White River and James Bay areas are likely to benefit today. A band of rain along a north-south line from Northwestern Ontario to Arkansas is moving slowly eastward.

Water supplies were curtailed yesterday to householders and manufacturers at Oakville, midway between Toronto and Hamilton, but H. B. Lofquist, Public Utilities Commission Chairman, said supplies were back to normal today. He said yesterday's shortage was caused by a temporary breakdown in auxiliary pumping equipment. However, water-conservation measures would be continued and a ban maintained on watering lawns.

Issued Public Appeal

Elsewhere in the Toronto district, municipal water commissions checked their reservoirs and issued public appeals for conservation. Lawn-watering restrictians went into force in several Toronto suburbs.

The flow of water in the Grand River was reported too low for proper dilution of waste matter. The Grand River Conservation Commission was told this week that if water now in storage at the Bellwood dam near Galt were used now, there would be a shortage in September. The Grand flows through the Kitchener-Galt-Brantford areas and empties into Lake Erie near Dunnville.

The late arrival of warm spring weather is combing with the dry spell to delay growth of crops generally. The Ontario Agriculture Department's weekly crop report said Thursday that in Northern Ontario seeding is at a standstill while crop growth also is reported slow in Eastern Ontario.

PRINCESS ELIZABETH FULFILS ENGAGEMENT

London, June 3 — (Reuters) — Princess Elizabeth, who has been confined to her room for a few days with a chill, today had recovered sufficiently to fulfil an engagement at Colchester, Essex.

It is not yet known whether the Princess will be able to see the Derby at Epsom Saturday.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, June 3 — (CP)—Synopsis: In Southern Ontario clear warm weather continues. Widely scattered thundershowers will occur tonight and early Saturday. These will be too brief and too widely scattered to bring much relief from the drought which is rapidly becoming serious.

Saturday will be cloudy and rather cool with some rain in northern regions but in Southern Ontario it will again be mostly clear and warm.

Missing Atomic Bottle Found But Not Uranium

Washington, June 3 (AP) — A missing atomic bottle has been found, but the search goes on for some of the uranium-235 which was in it.

Senators Brien MacMahon (Dem. Conn.) made that announcement Thursday as his Senate-House atomic energy committee adjourned its hearings into charges of "incredible mismanagement" made against David E. Lilienthal by Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (Rep. Iowa).

Lilienthal heads the atomic energy commission, whose Argonne national laboratory in Chicago missed the bottle of fissionable material last February. It contained an ounce of U-235, seven-eighths of which now has been recovered.

MacMahon said the commission's general manager, Carroll Wilson, reported to the committee that the missing bottle was dug out of a large steel box of waste material in the Argonne laboratory's special radioactive "burial ground."

The uranium apparently had been spilled from the bottle, after which the container was discarded. It was all due to "carelessness and negligence," McMahon said.

The congressional committee, at the instigation of Hickenlooper, its former chairman, is conducting a board probe of the atomic commission's management under Lilienthal. Hickenlooper has demanded that Lilienthal be fired.

At the second face-to-face meeting between the two Thursday the Iowa Senator sought to demonstrate that the commission had granted emergency security clearance to far too many of its employees.

Lilienthal flatly insisted that speedy clearance had been necessary in a number of cases to keep the country's atomic program operating efficiently.

First Arrest Made For Jay-Walking

Toronto, June 2 (CP)— The first arrest in connection with Toronto's anti-jay walking by-law was reported today by city police. Nelson Arsenaut, of Toronto, crossed a street against the light after being warned by police and then fled as the constable went to get his name. He was arrested following a short chase and charged with breaking the new by-law and with creating a disturbance.

Home Protects Lumberjacks From Pitfalls After Stay in Bush

Quebec, June 3 — (CP) — An oddity in welfare service enterprises, La Maison Du Bucheron here has acquired a reputation for protecting lumberjacks from the pitfalls of big city life after a long stay in the bush.

Its 55 rooms can accommodate 75 bushmen a night at 75 cents to $1 each. And the meals are equally reasonable, not to mention typically Canadien - Francais. They're put up in true habitant style by Mrs. Jeanne Roy.

Financed by L'Union Catholiques Des Cultivateurs, Quebec's powerful Farmers' Co-operative, the haven was established in 1932 after the depression had left loggers in a rather sorry state.

Each spring when the lumber workers come to town for stakes ranging from $500 to $1,000 and more, hundreds of "bucherons" join the swarming population of lower town's Rue St. Joseph and start spending. But the wiser ones head for "La Maison."

That old section of St. Joseph Street — where taverns, low-priced hotels and pawn shops huddle closely together — shows the seamier side of Quebec life. The spending is easy.

In fact it's so easy that a man can wind up without a cent left in his pocket a day or two after he arrives. Many are the stakes that vanish overnight.

Although the dining room in "La Maison" had a deficit of $2,400 last year, the rest of the enterprise more than paid for itself. An adjoining store of loggers' equipment, fishing and hunting tackle, grossed $33,649 in profits and rooms earned $15,319.

"La Maison" also provides free banking facilities for the men and furnishes free legal advice. It looks for jobs for men, and even settles them on farms.

Pleasant rotund Samuel Audette, 43-year-old director of "La Maison" imposes only one rule on his tenants.

They must be in by midnight.

Russia May Aim to Break Contact of Vatican And Moscow's Last 'Free' Church

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, June 3 — (AP) — State Department officials said today Russia may be aiming to break all contacts between the Vatican and Moscow's last "free" Roman Catholic Church.

Official reports received here from the Russian capital say Soviet authorities have seized the keys of the Church of St. Louis Francaise from the resident priest and now exercise physical control of the property.

Speculation that the Soviet action may be intended to remove the church from papal authority is bolstered by the continuing failure of Russian officials to grant an entry permit to an American priest assigned to duty at the church. He has had his request for such a permit on file since last February.

May Intend to Deny Use of Church

Officials here say the Russian government may intend eventually to deny use of the church to any priest under the direction of the Pope and may seek instead to install a priest whose contacts with the Vatican have been broken.

Some churches in territory under communist domination now are operated in that manner, they said.

Diplomatic reports said that about May 13 two unidentified Soviet women and a representative of the Soviet administration of religious cults called on Father Thomas. (The Administration of Religious Cults handles the churches in Russia which are outside the Russian orthodox church.)

They asked Father Thomas for the keys and he surrendered them.

Since that time, it was reported here, the priest has been permitted to hold regular services and at least on some occasions has been given access to the church property.

The church has operated in Moscow for many years. Some time ago an American cleric who was assigned there returned home and Father Arthur Brassard was named by Catholic authorities in this country to succeed him.

He applied at once for a visa to enter the Soviet Union and last week United States officials urged Soviet Ambassador Alexander Panyushkin to try to get some action on the application.

What To Do In A-Bomb Burst; U.S. Forces' Question and Answer

Washington, June 3—(AP)—"What would you do if an atomic bomb burst near enough to knock you down?"

This puzzler — and a few tentative answers — appear in a pamphlet the United States armed forces are handing out to their fighting men. The pamphlet, latest in an "Armed Forces Talk" series prepared for military lectures, contains among other things a remarkably simplified description of an atomic blast.

"Except for magnitude," it says, "the atomic bomb is similar to regular explosions, with the added affect of radiation."

Suppose one bursts close by. "Would you jump and run away? Where would you run? Would you lie still for five minutes, then go to the aid of others near you? Would you commit suicide, thinking you were doomed anyhow to die a horrible death?"

Don't do any of those things, the pamphlet advises. It divides atomic bombing attacks into two types — "air burst" and "contaminating," the latter involving radioactive spray—and then offers procedures to follow in each case.

If warned in advance of an air burst attack, it says, seek an air raid shelter, deep basement or a subway, as some measure of protection against both the blast and the bomb's deadly rays.

If that's impossible, find a ditch or ravine, protecting the eyes from the brilliant flash.

And — "do not spread rumors. Enough confusion will exist without adding to it."

Should the attack be a contaminating burst, cover up with a rain coat, or even a piece of paper, to keep poisonous dirt or water from falling on you.

If it is raining, don't go out into the rain — it may be contaminated. Don't pick up souvenirs; they also may be contaminated. And finally—

"Take a thorough shower; scrubbing completely three or four times."

It doesn't say where to find a shower working after an atomic bomb attack.

Fire Raging Over 150 Acres Near Sudbury

Sudbury, June 3 (CP)— With one 150-acre bush fire burning out of control this morning, and the hazard metre in the "extremely dangerous" position, the Sudbury office of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests has cancelled all burning permits in the Sudbury area, restricted bush operations and sent calls to regional headquarters for additional hose in case an emergency develops during the weekend.

The bush fire hazard situation has reached its worst peak of the season, forestry officials said. A warning was received this morning from J. C. Dillon in Toronto, assistant chief of the Forest Protection service, that no rain could be expected for the weekend and to alert all staffs to the emergency of the situation.

Today's large bush fire is the first serious one to break out in the Sudbury division this season. It is burning fiercely, out of control, in the extreme northeast section of Dryden township along the Wahnapitae River. It started Thursday night near the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission dam on the river and swept east, fanned by a strong southwest wind.

At 10 o'clock this morning 60 men were already on the fire with 3 pumps and reconnaisance flights had been made by pilot Boyd Smith in the Provincial Air Service plane.

REPORTERS WALK OUT

Tallahassee, Fla., June 3 (AP)—Reporters covering the Florida senate session walked out Thursday when a Miami Herald reporter was barred from the press table. Nine correspondents left the chamber in formal protest and continued their coverage from the public gallery. It was the latest flare-up in a controversy which began two days ago when reporter Steve Trumbell of the Herald was punched in the face by Senator A. G. McArthur.

Two-Year Doe Leads Pursuers In Wild Chase

Kingston, June 3 (CP)—A two year old doe led pursuers in a wild chase up and down aisles in a large department store in downtown Kingston this morning. W. M. Perry, manager and Alex Couper, maintenance man, first to arrive at the store, found the animal marching around the back of the store.

After some hard downfield tackling, the pair hogtied the deer. While Perry was telephoning Col. A. H. Fair, who keeps several deer on his estate outside the city, the deer threw his hobbles and started its aisle prancing stunt all over again.

The doe was finally caught, this time by Rusell and Wesley Young, carters, who were delivering to the store. The animal was finally taken out to Col. Fair's property.

Steel-Tipped Ski Pole Thrown, Pierces Skull

Toronto, June 3 (CP)—A steel-tipped ski pole hurled by a 17-year-old boy pierced the skull of Ronald West, 11, Thursday night and hospital officials said today the boy was in critical condition after an emergency operation.

Police said the youth responsible for his injury had the mentality of a small boy.

Neighbors said police had been called earlier in the day when the youth was noticed throwing the pole dangerously close to Ronald and other children.

The tip of the pole pierced the base of the boys skull. Neighbors took him to hospital.

RUSSIA, WEST WILL COMPROMISE ON PEACE TREATY

Basis of Discussions Will be U.S. Plan

Paris, June 3 — (AP)—Russia and the west were reported ready today to compromise on a "little peace treaty" for Berlin.

The basis of today's discussions at the Four-power Foreign Ministers Conference will be the United States plan submitted Thursday by State Secretary Dean Acheson and backed by both Britain and France.

Russia and the west already are agreed in principle on the plan's two most important proposals:

1. Re-establishment of four-power control of Berlin.
2. City-wide elections for an all-Berlin Council.

Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky of Russia hinted Wednesday that Russia was ready to transfer to German civic authority some of the functions exercised in the past by the Kommandatura. That is what the west wants and western diplomats forecast some east-west bargaining.

A tangled problem is Acheson's call for four-power supervision of elections. Both Russia and the western powers have their own version of what constitutes free and fair elections.

The western powers intend to offer a contract which would bind Russia to give the west free road and rail access to Berlin from their zones. They want to avoid the possibility of another blockade.

Russia is expected to suggest unification of currency throughout Germany, under four-power control. If this proposal fails, Vishinsky might suggest that in Berlin the currency question be passed along to the Germans.

The western powers are not expected to press too hard to abolish the veto in a re-established four-power Kommandatura.

Britain and France — industrial exporting countries — don't like the idea of a revived West Germany competing with them in world markets. They want a big proportion of West Germany's products channelled into East Germany and East Europe. That means they would like to see a trade pact between East and West Germany.

The United States, on the other hand, doesn't want benefits obtained in Western Germany with Marshall-Plan dollars to trickle through the iron curtain to help communist-led governments of East Europe.

SAYS HISS GAVE OUT SECRETS

New York, June 3 (AP)—Whittaker Chambers Thursday pointed at Alger Hiss and said the former state department official fed United States government secrets through him to a pre-war Soviet spy ring. The deal to funnel secrets from the state department to the spy ring was made across a table in a dimly-lit restaurant in New York's China town, Chambers said. Hiss is on trial on a charge of perjury.

OFFICER WASN'T KIND

Timmins, June 3 — (CP) — A Timmins traffic officer Thursday wrote so many parking tickets that his pen went dry. He entered a bank to fill the pen and the manager, in a friendly gesture, gave the officer his private ink bottle to use. With his pen filled, the policeman left the bank and placed another ticket on a car — owned by the bank manager.

14 Prisoners Escape From State Penitentiary

All Confined in One Block, Seven Serving Life Terms

Moundville, W. Va., June 3 — (AP)—Fourteen prisoners sawed and slugged their way out of the supposedly "escape proof" south hall of the south penitentiary here today.

It was West Virginia's biggest mass prison break in at least 35 years.

Six of the escapees were serving life terms, and six of them were in solitary confinement.

The escaping prisoners left behind them a bleeding guard they had slugged and tossed into one of the vacated cells.

The guard's station telephone was taken off its hook. When he failed to report at 3 a.m. and the central desk found his line continued busy, an investigation was started.

Warden Orel J. Skeen said the break was discovered within a few minutes and that roadblocks were being set up within 30 minutes after the men crawled through a window.

A skiff moored to the West Virginia bank of the Ohio river was stolen, giving rise to the belief the escapees may have crossed into Ohio.

The section from which the men escaped contains the death house and the solitary, supposedly escape-proof cells.

The 15th cell was sawed or jimmied open, prison officials said, but the man confined there did not join the others.

Bars of six of the individual cells were reported cut with a home-made drill saw, while the remaining nine cells were jimmied open by those who already had gotten outside.

Failure to Reach Agreement is Strong Obstacle

Montreal, June 3. (CP)—Failure of the Dominion and certain provinces to reach agreement on financial relations is an obstacle to the development of a well-rounded system of social services in Canada, R. E. G. Davis, executive director of the Canadian Welfare Council, said here today.

He told the Council's annual meeting that "one of the penalties of the present constitutional dispute is that no attempt has been made in Canada to extend the method of social insurance into fields other than employment."

Hence "most of our existing programs are on a means test basis and carry with them the stigma of charity" he said. "Another depression may be necessary before the Canadian public is sufficiently aroused to compel settlement."

The most serious and baffling problem of the present period was the housing shortage. Mr. Davis suggested there was need for government assistance in the building both of low-rental housing and units for any larger, annual number of home buyers.

Major deficiencies in the present social security structure, he said, were: a lack of rehabilitation services for handicapped civilians; the health insurance gap; the absence of measure to meet the needs of unemployed workers who have used up or are not entitled to benefits under unemployment insurance.

Tough Italian Cops Teach Commies Mass Demonstrations do Not Pay

Rome, June 3 (AP)— Allied soldiers who "took" Rome five years ago Saturday would hardly recognize the place.

For one thing, you can find fascists here now.

And Italian cops have become tough guys.

The biggest mortgage in Rome June 4, 1944, was of fascists. Tens of thousands of Romans poured out to proclaim the liberators. Not a fascist among them to hear them tell it.

Every Roman you met told you he was marked for death by the S.S. (German Elite Guard) for hair raising exploits in the anti-fascist underground.

Today small groups of fascists parade openly in the streets, singing fascist songs and raising their right arms in the Roman salute. They stir up far less excitement than the communists.

The big black market in cigarets, gasoline, soap and candy is a dim memory. Gone are the colorful streetcorner stalls. Tor Di Nona, the noisiest black market of them all in the shadow of the palace of justice, is just another square today.

Five years ago Allied troops were struck by the apathy of the Italian police. A woman-mob lynched a man on the banks of the Tiber while dozens of frightened looking carabinieri stood idly by.

Today Rome can boast of one of the toughest police forces in the world. They fine you on the spot for the slightest traffic violation. Swinging clubs without mercy, they have taught the communists that mass demonstrations do not pay.

SEARCHERS FIND FRESH TRACKS OF SMALL BOY

Carry in Tank of Oxygen to Revive Missing Lad if He is Found

Eastman, Que., June 3 (CP)—Tracks of a small boy were found today by searchers hunting for six year old Michel Fontaine, missing since Monday night, and the hunt was intensified on the slopes of Mount Chagnon, about a mile and a half from the Fontaine farm home.

Searchers said it was apparent that the tracks were no more than two days old. They were discovered by a party of volunteers who noticed Bowser, the Fontaine collie, running in the direction of the hill which towers over the Shefford countryside.

The discovery gave impetus to the search as exhausted parties who had combed the district throughout the night were relieved by bands of fresh volunteers.

The delicate lad was only lightly clothed when he disappeared and it was feared he might have succumbed to exposure, if not starvation.

After parties searched the woods and swamps throughout the night, new groups of searchers were organized at dawn to cover a radius of seven miles from the Fontaine farm home.

Although hope is fast dwindling that the boy still lives, the searchers, whose numbers have been steadily increasing, have unceasingly beaten their way through the swampy, dense bushland of a 900-acre farm near here.

If the boy is not found by the weekend search leaders expect 2,000 volunteers from all parts of this section of the province to join the hunt Saturday and Sunday.

The search began last Monday night when the lad wandered away from a pasture after he had been told to go home by two older brothers who were looking for the cows.

Since then mill and factory workers, high school students, neighbors, soldiers, police and game wardens have flocked to the farm to take part.

Thursday the R.C.M.P. put the search on a highly organized basis with instructions going out at regular intervals to groups of 30 to 50 men—naming individuals and leaders and times of assembly.

ANAF LADIES' AUXILIARY NOT CATERING AT BANQUET

Mrs. Jim McKenna and a group of ladies will cater to the 34th Battery RCA (Active Association) at its reunion banquet in the Bridge Street Armouries tomorrow evening.

It was formerly reported that the Ladies Auxiliary of the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans branch here had been engaged for the purpose, but officials of that organization stated today that the auxiliary was not acting in a catering capacity.

LAWN MOWER REPORTED MISSING

There are still individuals around who are looking for work.

At least that must be the thought of Jerry Downs, 94 South Foster Ave., who yesterday reported to police that some party had stolen his lawn mower.

To what effort the thief had gone to get the lawn mower was not stated to police, but apparently the machine had been left in close vicinity to the house. When Mr. Downs looked for his lawn mower it had disappeared.

MONEY FROM TAG DAY TO BE USED LOCALLY

In an effort raise funds to afford financial aid to needy Belleville and district residents afflicted with cancer, tuberculosis and polio, the local Oddfellows and Rebekahs lodges will hold a tag day in the city on Saturday, it was started today.

City and district residents are asked by lodge members to be as generous as possible in contributing to this worthy cause. It is pointed out that all money raised will be used locally to assist needy persons who contract the above named diseases.

Optimist Club Installs Officers At Ladies' Night

The fourth annual 'ladies night' and installation of officers of Belleville Optimist Club took place at the Bay of Quinte Country Club on Wednesday evening. The service clubs were well represented by Kinsmen Frank Lang and Mrs. Lang; Kiwanian Norman Edwards and Mrs. Edwards; Rotarian Roy Macklem and Miss Jane Macklem; Mrs. Georgia Smith, of Soroptimist and Y'sman Leslie Reid and Mrs. Reid.

Lieutenant Governor A. Eggleton brought greetings from District Fifteen of Optimist International, and promised a more official return visit at an early date.

Optimist Stu. McDougall expressed the appreciation of Belleville Optimist Club to their retiring president, Don. Boyce, and presented him with his Past President's jewelled pin. In his reply, Don reviewed the year's trials and triumphs, expressed his appreciation of the help received from his board of governors and the entire club, and pledged his fullest support to president-elect John Ryan.

President Ozzie Maughan of Kingston, ably conducted the installation of officers for 1949. He inducted President John D. Ryan; Vice President, Stuart McDougall, and Chairman Grant Badgely, Paul Bradley, Kenneth Campbell, Gordon Carter and William Lynch.

Following his induction, President John Ryan announced the appointments of Optimists Howard Kokesh, Albert Elliott, and Harold Bankier, as club secretary, treasurer, and public relations officer, respectively. The president-elect conveyed the thanks of the club to Misses Barbara Joan Houston, and Carole Mitchell, whose charming talents had provided several pleasant interludes in the course of the evening.

A toast to the ladies was proposed in the best Hibernian manner by past president John Devine, who was quite out-blarnied by Mrs. Miriam Bishop in her pleasant reply.

Optimist Paul Bradley led in sporadic attempts at community singing, aided and abetted by Kaye Martin, whose deft fingers provided able accompaniment for the soloists as well. Dancing, to the pleasant strains of "The Blue Knights" completed the evening's program.

Courtesy and Fair Play Pays Off For Ont. Tourist Industry Historical Soc. Members Told

Friendship, courtesy and fair play are the cornerstones which have paid off in dollars for the Ontario tourist industry, members of the Ontario Historical Society were told here last night at a dinner held in conjunction with their annual meeting now in session at Belleville.

Speaking before members of the society Hon. Louis P. Cecile, K.C., Minister of Travel and Publicity for the Province of Ontario, stated it was the above policy which had been mainly responsible for bringing more than 20 million American citizens to Ontario last year.

Publicity had done much to bring American visitors, according to Mr. Cecile, but he warned that regardless of the publicity, Ontario must have the goods with which to back up claims of a summer playground.

"We must have those goods, both in the way of natural attraction and also in the physical provision that we are making for our guests," he said.

70% Sightseers

The speaker touched on the relationship of his department to the field of historical development and appreciation in Ontario.

He pointed out that 70 per cent of Ontario's summer visitors are sightseers. He said they were "tourists" in the very real sense of the word in that they are on the move and are constantly looking for things to excite their interest.

Although Canada was comparatively young as a nation Mr. Cecile pointed out that history could be merchandized. He regretted the few places in Canada where the site of a battle had been commemorated in stone. There were also but a few places where natural museums whose collections of utensils, weapons, clothing and documents recalled the days of pioneers.

He felt, however, that the story of Galinee and Breboeuf and Dollier, of Champlain, LaSalle and Laura Secord, of General Brock, Talbot and Simcoe, of Bytown, Newark and Charlotteville, could provide Canada with even greater tourist attraction if some means could be found of imparting it to visitors.

Could Help Some

Governments could be of some help in devising a program for the development of sites of historic interest and the national tourist organization already has an able committee at work developing a tourist-historical program for all Canada.

"But in the final analysis, the work — if it is to be done at all —will be done by the citizens themselves," he said. "Enthusiasm and organization with leadership provided by those of you who are here, are in my opinion, the keystones of the program."

Approximately 100 members of the society from all parts of Ontario are in attendance at the annual meeting which is being held in Belleville for the first time since 1930. The annual meeting of the society was held in the city on one other occasion —back in 1901.

President Presides

President of the society, Major John Barnett of Clarkson, presided over the various sessions of the meeting which today will see new officers elected. Dr. George Spragge, of Toronto, is the secretary.

As part of the program of the annual meeting members are being taken on conducted tours of points of historical interest in the Bay of Quinte district. Thursday members visited Adolphustown and the old Methodist Church at Hay Bay, while today they will take a motor trip through Prince Edward County.

Mr. R. F. Bonny, 28 Murney Street, combination man for the Bell Telephone Co., who received an award recently for fifteen years' service without an accident.

Major J. Barnett Elected Pres. of Historical Society

Major John Barnett of Clarkson, was this morning unanimously re-elected as president of the Ontario Historical Society which is holding its annual meeting here for the third time since the founding of the society in 1899.

Miss Jean Waldie of Brantford, was re-elected as first vice president and Mr. T. R. Woodhouse was elected as 2nd vice president. Dr. G. W. Spragge was again chosen to hold the position of secretary-treasurer. Members of the executive committee who were elected are Mr. Leslie Gray, of London, Ontario; Professor George Brown of Toronto; Mr. T. P. Grubbe, of Toronto, and Lillian Benson, of London, Ontario.

This was the 51st annual meeting of the Society and it has now reached a membership of over 500. These annual meetings have been held in 26 different centres and cover a very wide region of Southern Ontario. The membership of the Society is the greatest it has ever had but unfortunately there are very few from Eastern Ontario. One of the main reasons why the meeting was held here was in hope that they should interest more people from this section of the province.

Major Barnett expressed his hope that they could interest more people to join the Society as this part of the Province has more historical value than many other parts of the Province put together. Major Barnett also hopes that for the next annual meeting papers will be drawn up of the histories of some of the villages, towns and small cities in this region.

A resolution was also passed at the meeting to put on a small campaign to try to interest as many younger people in the Society as they possibly could. They would like very much to have some members between 18 and 40 years of age to carry on the work of the Society when the present members pass on.

The annual meeting will be closed this afternoon following a tour through the surrounding districts which was so much enjoyed by the members yesterday.

POLICE COURT

A total of 45 cases, a large percentage of which were traffic offences, were listed on the police court docket this morning. However, the majority of cases were settled out of court and several others were enlarged for a later court, when either the accused or the Crown were not ready to proceed.

Eleven "stop street" offenders paid five dollars each into the city coffers, while there were a number of L. C. A. offenders, several of whom were given jail terms in default of payment of the conventional fines.

Harold Crawford, Sidney township, charged on several counts of forgery and uttering, was again remanded at the request of counsel Alan B. Sprague, the case scheduled to go on one week from today.

Also, Elgin Fawcett, no given address, was remanded for one week on a charge of breaking and entering the Swift Canadian plant in March. Fawcett was arrested in Port Dalhousie at the request of local police.

A charge under the Game and Fisheries Act concluded the court.

Study Proposal To Produce Oil From Shale

Canberra, June 3 (Reuters)— The Australian government is examining a proposition of the Standard Oil Company of Australia to produce annually 46,000,000 gallons of fuel from coal and oil-shale in New South Wales, a government source said Thursday night. The scheme would require an outlay of $7,000,000 to buy United States equipment, but would eventually ease the continuing drain on the commonwealth's dollar resources for gasoline.

Archbishop Lyons Officiates At Service of Confirmation

Shannonville — An impressive service took place in Holy Trinity Anglican Church when Archbishop J. Lyons of Kingston officiated at the service of confirmation. The following received the rites of confirmation of the Anglican Church: Misses Betty Ann Marion, Ruth Ann Kilburn, Lorraine Mary Brant, Lorraine Ann Brant, Patricia Angevine, all of Shannonville; Misses Jacqueline Ruth Hill, Maxine Ann Hill of Point Anne, Miss Lorraine Ann Brant being received into full communion from another branch of the Holy Catholic Church. Also receiving confirmation were Messrs. Aubrey Isaac Maracle, Thomas Whittle, Jr., Earl Williams, Robert Vesterfelt and Donald Clifford Brant.

The service commenced with the Processional Hymn after which Archbishop Lyons dedicated the Dorsal Hangings, which were a gift to the church by the local Ladies' Guild.

Importance Baptismal Vows

Archbishop Lyons spoke to the candidates for confirmation on the importance of the ratification of the baptismal vows. He said that there were no two standards in the church for the clergy and the people, as all must reach the one standard in the life in Jesus Christ.

Archbishop Lyons mentioned that at this Rogationtide it was fitting that these candidates should be confirmed. Rogationtide occuring each year three days prior to Ascensiontide. The word Rogation meaning the asking of God for His blessings upon the soil that it may bring forth its increase.

Archbishop Lyons stated that the confirmees should ask God's special blessing for the word sown in their hearts and that it might bring forth abundantly by His blessing.

His Grace spoke of the closeness of Ascensiontide in which he mentioned the petition in the collect for the day that as Christ ascended to the right hand of God thither also should one's thoughts ascend and continually dwell with Him and that the confirmees should always have thoughts Godward.

Congratulates Congregation

In conclusion His Grace congratulated the congregation on their splendid achievements in the parish during the past year and envoked God's blessing upon all to the end of the Kingdom of God and should be made a reality in the midst of His people.

The church was beautifully decorated with spring flowers. Gratitude was offered by the rector to Mrs. Stanley MacDonald for her gift of tulips which beautified the sanctuary and the chancel of the church.

IN MEMORIAM

FRALICK—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mary Fralick who passed away June 3, 1948.

What would we give her hand to clasp,
Her patient face to see
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be,
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more
In Heaven, that happy life.

Ever remembered by husband and family. J3

FOX—In loving memory of my dear father, James Wesley Fox, who passed away June 3, 1942.

Seven years have passed dear father
Since you were called away
How well do I remember
That sad and weary day
You suffered much, you murmured not
We watched you day by day
We cried and prayed that your dear life
Would not be taken away.

Sadly missed by son Curtis and daughter-in-law Grace Fox. J3

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, June 3 (CP)— Prices tended lower in the quietest session of the week here today. Golds and base metals showed an easier tone while industrials tightened slightly from early weakness.

Papers, utilities and steels tightened slightly in the narrow industrial list. A few refining oils and textiles slipped lower. Some early fractional advances were wiped out as the session progressed.

Base metals opened firmer but were soon depressed by steady selling pressure. Smelters, International Nickel, Noranda and Quemont slipped into the fractional minus column.

Junior golds showed declines ranging up to 10 cents while seniors gained slightly.

HOGS

Toronto, June 3 — (CP) — Hog prices at Stratford today were: Grade A, $32.60 from farmers and $32.75 from truckers.

FABULOUSLY RICH

Possible Second Gold Reef

It lends color to the theory that the Orange Free State has a second reef of gold parallel with the proved "line of strike."

Presumably the borehole core included some specks of visible gold, or possibly a small nugget. Even so, "fabulous" richness is a relative term in South Africa where good money is made by mining ore containing less than a quarter-ounce of gold a ton.

Even this latest borehole core—a cylinder of rock of less than 1 1-2 inches in diameter and some inches or at most a couple of feet in height—would have contained only about two per cent of gold or possibly less. That really is fabulously rich by South African standards, since South Africa's wealth comes from mining enormous amounts of ore which would not be considered rich in some other countries.

If the width of the Basal reef is six inches, the new strike will yield 467 ounces of gold from a ton of ore. Ore of this richness at present prices — and there are rumors that gold prices will be raised sooner or latter — would be worth more than £4,000 ($16,000) a ton. Cost of extracting it would be less than £40 a ton.

It can hardly be expected that there is any large tonage of such ore, but the strike does indicate there is richness in the immediate area.

A previous deflection of the same borehole gave more than 10 ounces of gold a ton — itself one of the richest borehole strikes ever made in South Africa.

Tex Beneke Smash Hit With 2,500 Dancers

Ask 2,500 dance enthusiasts which is the "Best Band in the Land" and they won't tell you the musical organization led by one Alexander which specialized in ragtime music.

No sirree. They'll chorus like a quiz program audience when asked to answer a question, "Tex Beneke."

And if the performance at Memorial Arena last night given by this famous aggregation is a criterion, they're right.

It would be safe to say that the Beneke orchestra is one of the best attractions of its kind to appear in Belleville. "Tex" himself, a tall handsome personable chap possessed of a fine baritone voice and an ability with the saxophone that at times almost stopped the show. And from the prolonged applause that greeted each number and group, not to mention the starry vocalists of the band, it was thoroughly appreciated by a crowd that filled every nook and cranny on the spacious Arena floor.

Its just as well perhaps that a large number of those present were content to linger in front of the orchestra dais and just listen and watch. Had everyone elected to dance, the appearance of the floor would have made the traditional can of sardines look like a deserted ten-acre field.

Grand Entertainment

It was grand entertainment from both a dancing and listening point of view. "Swing and Sweet" music interspersed with novelty numbers, and featured artists made for a fine variable musical offering.

Tex played several of his new Victor recordings that are yet to be released. He drew from his large repertoire favorite tunes of the past such as "St. Louis Blues." "American Patrol," "Stardust" (which brought down the house) and others. A new tune which caught popular favor was "Lavender Coffin" enhanced with vocal effects by Beneke and the tuneful "Moonlight Serenaders" a mixed quartet which caught the popular fancy in their rhythmic offerings against the orchestra background. Glenn Douglas, who possesses a fine baritone voice proved a favorite as did Mary Mayo and Buddy Yeager. Jack Sperling, drummer-deluxe, who has been with the band since its organization, provided lots of entertainment with his colorful performance on the percussion instruments.

Tex Beneke, if popular comment is a criterion, can return to Belleville anytime he wishes. The Kiwanis Club sponsors of the dance, are to be complimented on this entertainment effort and thoroughly deserve what financial reward was forthcoming.

COBBLES LOSE OUT

St. John's, Nfld. (CP)—St. John's old cobbled Water street is giving way to the march of progress. The granite cobbles, bedded firmly in concrete, are being torn up to give way to a new paved road.

Cheese and Butter Output Higher

Toronto, June 3.—(CP)—Substantial increases in Ontario's butter and cheese production in April as compared with April, 1948, were reported Thursday by the Provincial Agriculture Department in its monthly dairy report. Creamery butter production increased 13 per cent over last year to 6,544,000 pounds. Cheddar cheese produtcion was up 44 per cent to 4,119,300 lbs.

All Seeding Done But Planting Silo, Canning Corn

With the exception of preparing fields for the planting of silo and canning corn, all seeding has been completed in the South Hastings district, it is reported. Also more than 60 per cent of the tomato setting has been completed with acreage about two thirds of that of last year.

Milk being received at cheese factories is considerably above that for a comparative date in other years, due principally to lush pastures. Farmers, however, report that rain is needed, this being due to the exceptionally dry May.

Heifer calves are in good demand, there apparently being a ready market for more than the supply.

Alfalfa hay has been making good growth with one farmer in the Oak Hills district reporting he would have to commence haying operations at the latter part of next week.

Lib. Candidate Holds Meeting

Tweed—A meeting of the local Liberal association was held in St. Carthagh's hall on Tuesday night when the candidate for South Hastings, Frank Follwell, was heard briefly. Cards and dancing were enjoyed during the early part of the evening. Mr. Follwell said the various meetings would be in the form of "get acquainted" gatherings and that he hoped to meet as many of the electors as possible. The candidate said he would be extremely busy during the campaign, but urged all his electors to visit his headquarters at any time.

Mr. Follwell, who was introduced by Kent Hunter, president of the Tweed Liberal Association, was followed on the platform by Chas. Rush, reeve of Hungerford, George Jordan, riding organizer, Felix Rashotte, Tweed and others. Mrs. Herb McCabe president of the riding, Ladies' Liberal Association, said it was hoped to organize a branch in Tweed.

Trenton Defeats Holloway St. In Tennis Debut

The Bay of Quinte Tennis League got away to an official start Wednesday night when the Trenton Tennis Club defeated the Holloway Street Church Club five events to none on the latter's courts.

Owing to a misunderstanding the Holloway Street Club was not at full strength and as a result some members had to play in more than one event.

This season is the first for the church club in organized league play and although they lost every event they made a very creditable showing in their maiden year.

Gerry Rouse and Gord. Moynes did exceptionally well in holding the speedy Trenton duo of Fred Baylis and Jim Blaney to two 6-4 scores after having previously played Hank Fillon and Jack Orrell in the other men's doubles event.

Ross Greene and his tennis committee have done a fine job in organizing the Holloway Street Church Club. They felt that by entering league competition, interest in membership would be stimulated and also improve the standard of tennis within the club.

The results:

1st Men's Doubles: Fred Baylis, Jim Blaney, Trenton, defeated Gerry Rouse, Gord. Moynes, Holloway, 6-4; 6-4.

2nd Men's Doubles: Hank Fillon, Jack Orrell, Trenton, defeated Rouse and Moynes, Holloway, 6-2, 6-4.

1st Mixed Doubles: Marie MacDonald, Paul Jones, Trenton, defeated Dorothy Blow, Ross Greene, 6-2.

2nd Mixed Doubles: Loretta Ault, Gord. Ault, Trenton, defeated Dorothy Blow, Ross Greene 6-2, 6-2.

Ladies' Doubles: Pat MacDonald, Shirley Jones, Trenton, defeated Marj. Simpson, Dorothy Blow, 6-0, 6-1.

Spearing Fish Before Sunrise Brings $15 Fine

Convicted on a charge of spearing fish in the Moira River between sunset and sunrise, Jack Calbury, city, was assessed $15 fine and $4.50 costs when he appeared today before Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Game Inspector Claude H. Winters, Cpl. R. Christie of the R. C. M. P., and Constable Hunter, testified for the Crown and stated that Calbury had been seen in the river early on the morning of April 15th with a flashlight and spear.

Giving evidence on his own behalf Calbury admitted spearing in the river on the date in question but claimed the sun was up.

"I saw the officers and had every opportunity of dropping my spear and running," stated the accused, "but I felt I was within my rights as it is legal to spear suckers in daylight."

When the three officers testified the sun was not yet up when Calbury was apprehended, the accused stated "it was a borderline case."

"I can't accept your evidence against that of the three officers who state that the sun was not yet up," Magistrate Wills told the accused as he found him guilty.

Gordon Graves, also of this city, was charged with spearing but pleaded guilty out of court and paid $20 fine and $2.50 costs.

BANDITS KILL COLOMBIA SOLDIER

Colombia's national elections are scheduled for Sunday. Bogota newspapers have reported frequent clashes between Liberal and Conservative party members.

Goes to Jail In Default Of Payment

Pleading guilty to a charge of assault, Archie Cunningham, Holloway, today in city magistrate's court was assessed a fine of $5 and $43 costs by Magistrate T. Y. Wills. In default of payment, Cunningham will spend one month in jail.

Cunningham was charged with assault more than a week ago following an altercation on the bank of the Moira River when he was stated to have kicked Gordon Dingman, local plumber, in the face, causing a gash which necessitated 14 stitches to close.

Inspector J. C. Hayes told the court that Cunningham was intoxicated when he made the assault on Dingman and had just completed a jail sentence on the charge.

Costs assessed by the magistrate included loss of two days' work and the doctor bills which were paid by Dingman.

Cunningham intimated to the court he had no money and in default of payment was given one month in jail.

CANADA A TRADING NATION

"Trading between peoples of different nations is not a new thing. Nature has so distributed her bounties of soil, forest, mines, waterflow, fisheries and other resources that every nation can produce some things more easily and cheaply than any other nation. Years of practice have enabled certain nations to develop special skills in manufacture. Men and nations tend to produce commodities for which they are specially fitted by nature of training," says the June letter of the Bank of Canada.

Trade is one of the oldest evidences of civilization. The supply of corn was the great problem for ancient Athenian statesmen. Those who are in modern trading must feel proud of the place they hold for Sir Leonard Woolley, who was director of an expedition excavating at Ur of the Chaldees, found a bill of lading dated 2048 B.C., for a vessel which had been away on a voyage of two years and returned to its quay at Ur to discharge a cargo of gold, copper ore, valuable hardwoods, fine stones for statues and vases and such like.

Four thousand years have expanded our wants as rapidly as have the facilities for satisfying them. Trade brings nations together. Canadians have won prosperity and material comfort which they would be reluctant to give up. This requires a greater exchange of goods than ever before to achieve happiness, satisfaction and peace.

The letter gives this measure of our standard of living, "the stuff we produce as a nation, plus the stuff we import, less the stuff we export."

JUNE

And what is so rare as a day in June?
Then if ever come perfect days;
Then Heaven tries earth if it be in tune,
And over it softly her warm ear lays.

For ages of the earth's history June has been coming in the course of events. Now is come the culmination of all that is beautiful in the outer world. Not only outward nature but the heart of man is in tune with the courses of Mother Earth and the universe at this time. So deeply in the season is rooted the spirit of life. It does not seem so long ago when the robins from the far south were welcomed back to the northern climes but since then the birds have built their homes and have raised their young. Already young robins are seen on the lawns, the first of the new generation of birds which bless the land in spring and summer.

Life at this time is a symphony of sound and color. June is the very music of life. It is the time of year of which the poets sing and in which they see the very spirit of outward nature and of nature within.

Nature has put on her dress of color in the brown earth, the green grass, the emblem of the living season, still moving on towards its culmination in the harvests still distant in the future.

At this time man and nature are akin for man is a part of nature and realizes his dependence upon the earth on which he dwells. At this time he sees everywhere life and growth.

June is like the ideal dream, that time when life on earth is nearest what man calls perfection. At this time he feels the harmony which sweeps through the heart of nature and of man. If ever there is a time when he feels the richness of life it is in this spring month, as it approaches the zenith of everything that is beautiful and fair—the true dream.

It is yet three weeks to the summer solstice and these weeks will fill multitudes of hearts with joy and happiness. Then will come the fulness of summer.

$320,000 was recently found in the midst of junk in which it had been hidden. The man who hid it made poor use of his opportunity. How much good this money could have done in circulation, travelling from the hand of one to another and helping to make more money through human effort while it was on its way. It is the story of the hidden talent once again, about which reference is made in the Bible. Only the discovery of the money and its bringing to light have made it worth while and of value.

MAN'S VARIOUS ROLES

If "All the world's a stage," then man
Has many roles to play,
With which to do the best he can
Until his final day.

The lines that he will learn to speak
Both sad and gay will be,
And wise or foolish, strong or weak,
The author of them, he.

However time may change the scene,
There will be pride to earn.
From boy to graybeard, and between,
Are roles that he must learn.

He'll be the lover; next the groom;
The father; uncle, too;
The mourner in the curtained room;
The man with work to do.

Although the end he never knows
Throughout life's good and ill,
Each man unto the drama's close
Has many roles to fill.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CONVENTIONALITIES

I wonder why it is we are such slaves to conventionalities? Why aren'twe more ourselves all the time? Nothing is more attractive and appealing than an unfetted personality that both shines and inspires.

Bound by too many conventions we become restricted and ofttimes afraid to express ourselves in a natural manner. Be yourself and people will want to know more about you. Too many people try to be someone else and usually they are a failure at it.

Often I take long journeys and the urge comes to talk with strangers, but why should anyone be a stranger to us? Once the ice is broken, as the saying goes, we have a potential friend in our grasp. On many a trip I have gained such a friend and I think of how much I would have missed had I not started a conversation.

Why do we always think we should "be introduced?" Why can't we introduce ourselves? We go furthest by always being our natural selves. I have been impressed with the idea of friendliness among peope on a ship at sea, or on a train over a long route. People drop so many human selves more. This is as it should be. People in a strange land, and often alone, grow hungry for companionship and good talk.

When you break down a barrier you get free air and feel happy. The honest intent of a person is what counts most. At heart we are all friends in a world of very confused ideas. We need to learn more about others and to understand them better. Too many of us are self-conscious.

By being ourselves we invite others to be the same. This cements the kinship that we have with them. We all overlook so much in the friendly person who is honestly natural and openhearted. Conventions then melt away. And there is a friendly rainbow in the sky!

Mackenzie's Column:

Battle of Ideas Will Continue For Long Time

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

This column expressed the view Thursday that the dangers of world war have receded greatly in recent months, but at the same time made clear that this doesn't mean the struggle between democracy and communism is drawing to a close.

Support for the thesis of a protracted and bitter battle of ideas comes from Gen. Lucius D. Clay, who, as former United States military governor in Germany, has been in one of the hottest spots of the conflict.

The general, speaking at Columbia University in New York, said that "there remains ahead of us for years to come a struggle between those who promise equal economic return and security that cannot be provided to the person without surrendering individual rights and life under control of the state, and those who believe in democracy, which should provide for equal opportunity, social advance and social progress."

A Parallel

Hitler's rise to power was due in no small degree to his fight against communism.

The sensational fire which destroyed the German Reichstag in 1933 was laid at the door of a Dutch communist. Although many foreign observers thought the Nazis set the fire themselves for propaganda purposes. Hitler drove the communists underground, but they still kept up their operations.

Since those days the communist world revolution has struck in many countries. There is no communist government which has the support of all the people it rules. However, counting the Soviet Union and its satellite countries, Moscow probably has control of more than 300,000,000 people.

Number Small

How many of these people are communists is a matter of speculation. Only a tiny percentage of Russia's inhabitants belong to the party.

Apart from these countries, the communists have heavy membership in many others. China, with its population of some 500,000,000, appears about to fall under control of the Chinese communists. And who can guess how many communists are working underground in the United States?

The main revolutionary ideology in the world today is communism, which works by strong-arm methods. Moreover it is out to destroy all other ideologies — a powerful challenge to democratic governments and one which can be met only by concrete and constructive ideals.

Rainfall in May But 1.61 Inches

Rainfall in the Bay of Quinte area during May, was considerably below the normal, it was reported today by officials of the local water purification plant on the Trent Road.

Rainfall for the month was but 1.61 inches, as compared with 3.48 inches for the same period last year and a normal rainfall for May of 2.37 inches. Rainfall in May, 1947, was about the same as for 1948.

On the contrary the mean temperature for the month at 55 degrees was a few points higher than for May 1948 when the mean was but 52 degrees. High temperature for the month was reached early in the month during a few warm days when the thermometer reached 78 degrees. Low for the month was 34.

One year ago the high temperature was 75 degrees and the low 32 degrees.

Arts Commission Will Hear Public Across Dominion

By H. DENT HODGSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer).

Ottawa June 3 (CP)— The man on the street, the history professor behind his desk, the craftsman and the artist next August will be invited to get a load off their chests.

They will be welcomed at the first public hearings of the newly-appointed Royal Commission on arts, letters and sciences, which is preparing for what may be more than a year of finding out what Canadians think about Canadian life, its intellectual development and how it can be improved.

The hearings open in Ottawa August 3, for about five or six weeks. Then the commission, headed by the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, University of Toronto Chancellor, will move west.

Listen to Voice of Public

Working on a $40-a-day salary the commissioners will listen to the voice of the public in Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Calgary, Vancouver Victoria and Regina and then head towards the Maritimes after visiting Toronto, Montreal and Quebec City in January.

Canadians who have either some praising or complaining to do will have a number of subjects from which to choose.

The commission first will receive briefs on the National Museum, whether it is functioning properly, whether it should be expanded and what its exhibits—policy should be.

Hearings then will centre on the national gallery —there have been complaints that it does not have sufficient space — the National War Museum, the Public Archives, scholarships and the possibilities of a national library, the policy of the National Film Board and the establishment of a United Nations Educational, scientific and cultural organization national commission in Canada.

Hear Briefs on Radio And Television

Finally before the commission leaves Ottawa, it will hear briefs on radio and television — a controversial issue that centres on the polices of the CBC and private broadcasters across the country.

Although the agenda is loaded with subjects which explode into major issues one topic which does not appear is that of a national theatre, for which there has been some clamor on the part of theatrical groups.

Liberal Policies Better Says L.B. Pearson

Orillia, June 3 — (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said Thursday night that 20 years' experience in the civil service convinced him that Liberal policies are better than those of the Progressive Conservatives.

Addressing a public meeting the former career diplomat said:

"In the 20 years I spent in the civil service of Canada, I learned something about administration of government. I have worked for both parties and, in my opinion, the Progressive Conservative policy and procedures do not bear comparison with those of the Liberals.

"On the record, we have little to fear. I do not claim that we have made no mistakes of omission and commission. Any government that does anything at all makes mistakes."

Charges had been made that Canada is losing her foreign trade. But figures of the value of foreign trade in recent months showed increases.

"I don't know whether the trade trend will go up or down or level out," Mr. Pearson said. "But to try to give the impression that we are on the verge of collapse in our external trade, as Mr. Drew (Progressive Conservative leader) is attempting to do, is not a responsible statement from a responsible man."

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

Everyone who has helped to push a stalled automobile knows how hard it is to make the car start rolling, but how easily it rolls once it moved is called inertia." The force which tends to keep it rolling once it has started is called "momentum."

Inertia and momentum are terms which apply, strictly speaking, to material objects only. But we all have experienced things like them in our mental and moral activities. How hard it is, when we wake up at night feeling cold, to muster our will power, climb out of bed, and close the window — how often we lie there shivering. But once we jump from beneath the covers, how quickly and easily we do the job and slip back into bed. We seem to have a mental inertia which makes us put off unpleasant tasks, even when we know they must be done some day. And often when finally we do begin them, how easily they roll along.

Good habits are like heavy objects — they have lots of inertia and momentum. Often they are hard to start; but once formed, they are easy to continue. Those persons who have the strength to make the start will be pleasantly surprised at what follows.

THE MARKS OF DEGENERATION

As honestly as I can judge I am a cynic with optimistic tendencies. Certainly not a pessimist.

But it is difficult to be anything but pessimistic when one envisages the divorce evil and considers the factors that lead to divorce, not the least of which is the sickening way legislatures rig the laws to make divorce easy.

It is difficult to be optimistic about the future of the country when one contemplates the bold penetration of all media of promotion or publicity by the No. 1 Big Business in Yankeeland — booze.

If you have or are especially interested in the welfare and happiness of children, doesn't it make you feel a bit queasy when you see youngsters lighting cigarets the moment they get out of school? If the habit has them at that age, what sort of future can there be for them? Can you laugh off or sneer at the idea of persuading every boy and girl to take the pledge against smoking and drinking, as a tribute to parent or other guardian, say on the child's tenth or twelfth birthday, with formal renewal of the pledge on every birthday thereafter till adult age?

These are stigmata or marks of degeneration, physical degeneration—draw your own inferences about the moral effects of it. Physical degeneration means, according to Webster: "Deterioration of a tissue or an organ in which its vitality is diminished; a substituton of a lower for a higher form of structure, either by chemical change of the tissue (true degeneration) or the deposit of abnormal matter in the tissues (infiltration)." That's pretty good, but I think Stedman's (Medical Dictionary) definition of degeneration is better: "A retrogressive pathological change in cells and tissues in consequence of which the functioning power is lost and the living substance becomes converted into an inert mass."

"Honest investigations or studies (not "researches" subsidized by tobacco interests) have pretty thoroughly shown that students who smoke do not get as good marks as students who do not smoke. In the business and industrial world smokers are less efficient and less accurate than non-smokers. In athletics smokers have neither the agility nor the stamina of non-smokers. These observations do not necessarily imply that smoking impairs physical and mental efficiency, for it is always conceivable that individuals who are inferior or defective in the first place are more likely to resort to smoking to cover their consciousness or sense of their own inferiority.

Mind, now, sophomorens, I do not say, because I do not know, that smoking causes physical degeneration. I believe excessive smoking is a direct contributing cause of arterosclerosis, angina pectoris, Buerger's disease (thrombo-angiitis obliterans), amblyopia (partial blindness), partial color-blindness, palpitation and angina-like chest pains, all of the symptoms of peptic ulcer except X-ray findings, and many other manifestations of physical degeneration. Excessive smoking, I said.

For the mature adult moderate or temperate smoking is generally harmless, I believe.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

That Shadow

Correspondent quoted here said "May your shadow never grow less." Scores of others asked about the origin of the expression. I didn't know. But other scores have referred me to stories published in various magazines, which purport to explain how the expression originated. The stories are not convincing—they sound post hoc. I still think it must have been born somewhere on the old sod.

Bloodshot Eyes

Although I have had glasses fitted by both oculists and optometrists, for astigmatism, I suffer constantly from tired eyes, weak eyesight, eyestrain, as I call it. My eyes are always red, dull and bloodshot and I am very uncomfortable in bright sunlight or ordinary daylight unless I wear cheaters. (Miss M. A. K.)

Answer—Not eyestrain, but perhaps nutritional deficiency, particularly riboflavin deficiency. Richest food source of riboflavin is skim milk, buttermilk, whole milk—you should consume not less than 1½ pints (three large glasses) of one or the other daily. Riboflavin was formerly known as vitamin B2 or vitamin G.

Vivisection

We plan a publication emphasizing the service of dogs to humanity and the cruelties practiced on them by vivisectionists . . . your great affection for Tony the Wirish Terror and your courageous stand on the rabies question. . . invite you to be one of our sponsors.' (K. G.)

Frozen Food

Is it safe to give young children meat such as stew meat, chops, ground beef, liver, purchased in open market, kept in the deep freeze for a week or so, thawed and cooked? (Mrs. D. W)

Answer—It is safe for children, infants or adults.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

There is a type of eater—more noticeable amongst the women than the men—who doesn't seem able to decide what to have for lunch.

When they sit down at the restaurant table, they stare intently about them, not at their neighbors, but at the plates from which their neighbors are eating. They are hoping for suggestions.

When they enter the restaurant, they spot a table as far off as possible; and while wending their way to it, slowly pass by each table, anxiously inspecting the various dishes spread before the other customers.

Taking as much time as possible while removing their light coats and disposing of their purses, they stand covertly reviewing everything everybody else is having for lunch at the adjoining tables.

But it is of little help. They sit down. They pick up the menu card doubtfully. They read it over, with an air of great hesitation. They turn the menu card over. It is blank. Pulling themselves together, they go to work and read the thing all over again.

With a desperate air, they take another look all around them at the adjoining tables, even craning the neck to get a better look at the farther customers. The waitress arrives, with pencil poised. In desperation, the poor soul grips the menu card and concentrates, as in threading a needle.

When the order is given, the poor soul sits dejected, and still covertly glancing around at the food before others. When the order arrives, it is instantly evident that it is the wrong thing after all. The fork is picked up as if to dissect a frog.

Let the great majority of us thank Heaven for a good digestion and a made up mind.

R.K.O. Trying Out Vaudeville From Coast to Coast

New York, June 3 — (AP) — Vaudeville, which came back to New York last month, is due for a country - wide revival. It went over so well at Broadway's historic Palace Theatre that R.K.O. is going to try it out from coast to coast. R. K. O. said that by next fall it hopes to have variety shows in all its theatres in major cities across the United States.

BELLEVILLE WELCOMES THE GALLANT 34th BATTERY, R.C.A., AT ITS FIRST ANNUAL REUNION

Famous Gunner Unit Holds 1st Get-Together

Banquet, Dance, Memorial Service, Feature Program

"The Right of the line,
The Left of the paybook,
And the pride of the bloomin'
Army."

Repeat that to a war veteran and if he grins and nods his head, he's a former artilleryman.

And if you repeat it in the Bridge Street Armouries on Saturday and Sunday you will be greeted with a roar of approval.

For during those days the gallant gunners of the 34th Battery Royal Canadian Artillery (Active) Association will hold their first annual reunion since the guns ceased to thunder and a make-believe peace settled over a war-weary world.

Upwards of 200 members of the famous field artillery unit, said to be the only fighting unit that represented Belleville in its entirety in two world wars, are expected to get-together to reminisce of the days when they were part of one of the best fighting armies in the world.

From All Corners

They will come from all parts of the Dominion, with one ex-member coming from England to be once again with his buddies of the war days. From Kemptville, Nova Scotia, will come Lieut. George Ruffee, who commanded the battery at the end of the war, and who was one of the most popular officers of the unit. From the "Peg" and the United States, from rural and urban points in the provinces will emerge these fighting ex-gunners of the "Old Thirty-Fourth."

And President Douglas Storke and Secretary James "Snipe" Matthews of the Association and their various hard-working committees, have arranged an excellent program of entertainment for the visiting gunners.

Reservations in hotels, cabins and private residences have been arranged for those coming long distances who will remain overnight.

Registration Saturday

At ten o'clock sharp Saturday morning registration of the incoming gunners will start on the main floor of the Bridge Street Armouries. Blue berets and badges bearing the famous artillery insignia and inscribed with "34th Battery, RCA Reunion, Belleville 1949" will be supplied the ex-gunners at a nominal charge.

From twelve noon until three o'clock the "troops" will get-together and song and story, reminiscence and anecdote, tragedy and humor will hum in the building.

At three p.m. gunners from the "outside" and their wives and sweethearts will be taken on a conducted tour of the city and outlying points of interest.

At 6.30 p.m. the veterans with guests will sit down to sumptuous banquet in the Armouries. Visiting ladies will be entertained at a buffet lunch to be served in one of the lecture rooms.

Distinguished Guests

Among the distinguished guests who will be present at the luncheon will be Brigadier Don Agnew, commandant of the Royal Military College, Kingston, former commanding officer of the 14th Field Regiment, RCA, of which the 34th was a battery member; Lieut.-Col. T. Y. Wills, Belleville, who commanded the 34th at one time; Maj. the Ven. Archdeacon Arthur Smith, well-known war padre, and many others. Mayor D. L. Storey has also received an invitation to attend.

Ex-Mayor Harry Rollins will act as master-of-ceremonies for the banquet with the well-known pianist Jimmy Corradi providing the accompaniment for the sing-song of well-known war tunes.

Giving brief addresses will be Major Smith, Col. Wills, Lieut.-Col. Jack Cousins commanding officer 9th Anti Tank Regiment and ex-member of the 34th Battery and Mayor Storey.

Interspersing sing-songs and addresses will be a variable program of vaudeville entertainment.

Guests at Dance

Starting at nine o'clock the gunners and their ladies will be guests at a dance being held in the Armouries. The general public is cordially invited to attend at a nominal charge. The music will be supplied by the Rhythm Ranch Riders orchestra. Prizes will be given and at eleven o'clock the draw for the "Grand Prize" will be made.

Incidentally, all veteran members of the 34th Battery who may have been overlooked when invitations were sent out, are cordially invited to attend the re-that some names may have been inadvertently overlooked.

Memorial Service Sunday.

On Sunday morning the veterans will parade to the Station Street Cenotaph where a brief Memorial Service will be held in tribute to the glorious dead of all ranks, arms and units. Major Ken. Graham of the Salvation Army will conduct the service and music for the parade will be supplied by the Belleville Kilties Band.

Members of the Canadian Legion and Army, Navy and Air Force branches here have been invited to attend the parade and service. Any war veteran regardless of affiliation, or who is unaffiliated with any war service organization is invited to "fall in." The troops will meet at the Armouries at 10 o'clock sharp Sunday morning.

There will be a brief farewell get-together following the service before the "troops" depart for their various homes.

BUYS FREELY AT TRADE FAIR

Toronto, June 2 (CP)— Calo de Lima Cavalcatni, Brazilian Commercial counsellor at Ottawa Wednesday went on a spending spree at the International Trade Fair. The wealthy 55-year-old landowner bought nine English bicycles for his embassy staff at $345 altogether; a 120 piece set of the finest Bavarian dinnerware for $300, and 15 Czechoslovakian carpets for $1,000.

JUST LAMPREY EEL

Ridgewood, N. J., June 2 (AP) — The Saddle River "monster"— a creature with a row of portholes on each side —turned out Wednesday to be just a lamprey eel. Robert Durrenberger fished the slimy creature out of the Saddle River Tuesday and set off a hunt for some expert who would identify it. Some students of marine life definitely identified the fish as a lamprey eel, Mrs. Durrenberger said.

Riled Conductors Want Open Aisles in London Buses

By STUART UNDERHILL

London, (CP)—"Standing room only" is a phrase beloved by theatre managers but detested beyond expression by London bus conductors.

Their opposition to carrying standing passengers is so intense that they threatened to go on strike this spring unless the practice was abandoned. The strike didn't come off, but they are still pressing the Transport Executive for a rule against standing.

At the root of their objection is the complicated system of fares that exists in London. Charges vary according to the distance travelled.

As a consequence, conductors have to make change with almost every fare. When their progress along the lower deck of London's two-tiered buses is blocked by standing passengers, their faces grow red and their tempers short.

At present eight passengers are allowed to travel standing at rush hours and on late night buses. The rest of the time buses will pull away as soon as the last seat is filled, regardless of the feelings of the queue at the bus stop.

Every now and then blazing arguments develop when a nimble traveller hops on a crowded bus while it is in motion. If the standing quota is filled, or it's not the right time of day for standing, he faces an argument with the conductor.

Occasionally he can brazen out the situation until a seat becomes available or he reaches his destination. But some conductors have been known to stop the bus and refuse to move until the offender gets out.

More buses and a simplified fare system would help to ease the situation. It's estimated that about 2,400,000,000 passengers are carried annually by London buses, compared with just more than 2,000,000,000 in 1939. The number of buses has increased very little.

Conductors say they would be less grumpy if the quota of "standees" were reduced to five. But they claim that by the middle of next year standing should be prohibited entirely.

"You try carrying round all these coppers (in a shoulder bag) running up and down stairs and trying to squeeze through all these standing people," complained a bus conductor taxed with rudeness to his passengers. "My nerves are on edge after an hour of it."

34 BATTERY OWNS LAST "25" ROUND FIRED IN BATTLE

Treasured Possession Shown in Armouries

On display in the Bridge Street Armouries during the reunion will be one of the most treasured possessions of the 34th Battery.

It is a battered cartridge case of a twenty-five pounder shell and gunners of the unit point to it proudly. For it is their claim that the shell was the last of its calibre to be fired in World War II.

On the fourth day of May at 1700 hours the order "Cease Aggression" came down and the only firing to be done was if the Germans made a counter-attack.

All Over

Peace proposals were going on with Himmler and at 2036 hours it was announced that all German forces in northwest Germany, Holland, Denmark, Friesland Isles and Heligoland would officially surrender at 0800 hours on May 5.

Following this announcement the 14th Field Regiment on request from the infantry fired numerous rounds of high explosive on a target described as enemy infantry digging in.

The target being successful the observing officer decided to register a building suspected to be an enemy observation post. He used A troop of the 34th in ranging and at 2101 hours May 4 fired the last round.

This is said to be the last round fired in the war as far as 25-pounders are concerned and now the 34th Battery proudly claim it as their own.

Crew to be Here

The gun which fired the last round was Able 3 and the crew consisted of Sgt. F. C. Shewring, Bdr. H. A. Gouley, L/Bdr. D. C. Keyes, Gnr. F. L. Kipling, Gnr. D. H. Filson, Gnr. K. R. Ballantyne and Gnr. R. Harrison.

Most members of this crew will be present at the reunion and the story of the "last round" will likely be told and retold many times.

DOUBTS GENUINENESS OF SOME HOLY PLACES

London, June 2 (AP)— Lord Amwell, a Labor peer, Wednesday night sent tempers blazing in the House of Lords when he said he doubts the genuineness of some Palestine's holy places. "The realistic fact is that there are no Jerusalem or in any part of Palestine," he said.

From Petawawa To Fiery Europe 34th Made History

Its Guns Fired Last Round In Second Great World War

The first week in June 1940, the 9th Artillery Brigade, N.P.A.M., received orders to mobilize. The Brigade consisted of 3rd Field Battery of Gananoque, Ontario, the 32nd Battery, Kingston, Ontario, 47th Howitzer Battery, Napanee, Ontario, and the 34th Battery, Belleville, Ontario. They amalgamated to form the 32/34 Field Battery, under command of Major T. Y. Wills, former N.P.A.M. Brigade Commander. At the same time in Montreal, Quebec, the 66th Battery of Montreal and the 81st Battery from Shawinigan Falls, Quebec, also mobilized to form the 66/81 Field Battery under command of Major H. Bates. In August 1940, the two batteries moved to Petawawa military camp where they became the 14th Field Regiment under command of Lt.-Col. D. R. Agnew on September 22nd.

At Petawawa, elementary training was carried out and the regiment was issued with eight 18 pounder guns. Gun drill followed and the gunners were taught how to dig gun pits, slit trenches, and command posts. In January 1941, the regiment was reorganized into three Field Batteries. They were now called the 34th Battery, the 66th Battery, and the 81st Battery. The 32nd Battery was changed over into an anti-aircraft battery in the 4th L.A.A. Regiment. 66th Battery lost all guns and vehicles in a fire which destroyed the gun shed and caused much sweating to a court of inquiry which sat for a considerable time but never came to a conclusion as to its cause.

Form Concert Party

During the latter months of 1940, under orders of Lt.-Col. Agnew, the regiment formed what was to become the regimental concert party. The C.O. had the foresight to see that someday entertainment would be scarce so why not have internal entertainment. This idea proved to be most effective and the first performance took place in the Petawawa Camp Theatre in the form of a Variety Show. It was ably directed by Bdr. Ted Devereaux who had some theatrical training, and Gunner Frank Vallee, a radio singer and script writer in pre-war days. After four days of preparation it was presented as a great success.

In February '41, the regiment moved to Debert to form part of the 3rd Canadian Infantry Division along with the 12th and 13th Field Regiments. Here training continued with emphasis on smart gun drill and appearance. Several manoeuvres were exercised and the gunners became accustomed to working on a regimental basis.

Regimental Sports

During the winter a divisional hockey schedule was drawn up and a regimental team was formed by Sports Officer Lt. Jack Orton, assisted by Sgt. Ian Beresford, both of 34th Battery; and Sgt. Bill MacFarlane of 66th Battery who was later to leave on course and Art Symington of 66th Battery took his place. All the games were of a sudden death nature, and the 14th Field won the divisional championship. In the game versus 3 A/T there was high speculation of over a thousand dollars. Score 5-4 for 14th Field. No wonder some of the bettors got grey hair with the score 4-1 at the end of the second period for 3 A/T. However, in the last period, using high-geared offensive tactics, the 14th Field caught up and passed with four goals.

On 22nd May '41, the G.O.C., Major General C. B. Price, inspected the regiment and complimented all ranks on the fine turnout. May 31st saw A troop of the 66th Battery, under Capt. Marler, taking part in a War Loan parade in New Glasgow, N.S. The unit moved to Tracadie, N.B. on June 13th, via Amherst, N.S., and Chatham, N.B. In Amherst the regiment took part in a Victory Loan parade and thence proceeded to Tracadie.

At this stage of training the batteries were equipped with 4.5 howitzers for one battery and 18 pounder guns for the other two. Calibration and course shooting ensued and the regiment's first barrage was fired here in Tracadie.

Go to Debert

The unit returned to Debert on June 29th, where on July 3rd a movement order was received from Divisional Artillery Headquarters to the effect that the regiment would form part of first flight of the move overseas of the 3rd Canadian Infantry Division. Embarkation leaves commenced and on July 19th the regiment, with a strength of 689 all ranks, entrained at Debert station and proceeded to Halifax to board the Empress of Canada. Lt.-Col. Agnew was O.C. troops on board ship with Captain A. R. Harper as Ships Adjutant. At 1200 hours, 21st July '41 the ship moved off in convoy with the Duchess of York, Orion, Strathmore and Strathnavar. The battleship Malaya and six destroyers protected the convoy.

Quiet Crossing

The crossing was uneventful except for a submarine scare at which time one of the destroyers moved off and dropped depth charges but nothing resulted. The ship was very crowded and the men were moved from one deck to another daily, much to their annoyance. Beer was plentiful and entertainment the opposite. Most of the time was spent in "crap" games and bingo lotteries. Many "made for the rail" at times but most were good sailors. At 2330 hours 28th July, the Empress anchored at Gourock in the Clyde River after passing the beautiful Scottish landscape on the Clyde banks.

D-Day June 6, 1944

Three years later, after intensive training in Britain the battery with the regiment landed at Beny-sur Mer. The Big Adventure had started. From then until the bugles sounded the cessation of hostilities the unit with its fellow batteries of the 14th Field Regiment wrote a blazing page of heroism, gallantry and courage in Canada's golden book of history.

It fought in Germany, France (Normandy included), Holland and Belgium.

It blistered in the hell of Caen. The regimental history records regarding this battle: "A crossroads of some importance was about 300 wards to the right of the guns and soon became a favorite target for the Jerries. Experienced gunners named it 'Hell's Corners.' From time to time shells landed nearby and all ranks dug themselves in. On the 13th July a lull for sometime fooled some members of B Troop. All at once without warning four shells landed near the guns, causing the death of Sgt. Dave Mills and Sgt. C. B. Cox. "Pop" Robinson was severely wounded and died two days later in hospital. Also wounded were Bombardier Pat Boyle, L. A. "Gordy" Shaw, Gunner Bolderstone, Gunner Sylvestre, Gunner Morgan and Doug Storke . . . This was a severe blow to the regiment as all these men were among the best in the regiment.

Belleville Men Decorated

In the attack on Peaceful Valley the 34th played an important part. The regimental history describes it Heavy and medium bombers preceded the attack followed by counter-battery fire from the artillery. The Orne was crossed and just as the fire plan was completed a fire started in B Troop gun position. Loose charges in a pit were ignited by a hot cartridge. The fire quickly spread to the dug-in ammunition dumps and to one self-propelled gun. The crew jumped to safety, but L/Bombadier McKinnon remained and tried to start the engine. Finally the driver, Gunner G. G. Robinson, finally drove it off the position to save other equipment. The SP was on fire as he did so and he received minor burns. Battery Sgt.-Major Eddie Lee and Bombardier Chuck Cairns (Napanee) climbed aboard and putting out the fire with extinguisher saved the gun and the tank. Later Chuck Cairns received the Mentioned In Despatches and BSM Lee and Robinson the 21st Army Group Commander Certificate for Bravery."

And so on down until the Armistice was signed. All these historic events will be recalled when the 34th gets together tomorrow and Sunday.

ZION MISSION BAND

The Zion Mission Band held their May meeting at the school last Thursday. Gary Kelly read the minutes and treasurer Gary Nolan reported that collection was seventy cents.

A letter from India by Lorraine was followed by poems of world friends by Maureen, Don and Max. For Empire Youth Week the senior member sang "Challenge to Canada" and the juniors sang "Union Jack." The story "Pandora's Box," given by Connie, was interesting.

Mrs. Tuft, the leader, gave the next chapter about the Birthday Cake from "The Watch Goat Boy."

Balkan Handicrafts At Fair Make Colorful Display

Toronto, June 2. (CP)—Balkan handicrafts from Yugoslavia make a colorful display at the Canadian International Trade Fair.

Among the most eye-catching are embroidered luncheon sets with geometric designs in bright colors, some finished around the edges with short, full fringe in the predominating color.

Customary indoor footwear throughout the country is the slipper, somewhat similar to ski-socks. Knitted of native wool the short sock has a traditional Bosnian design in three or four colors. It is finished with a colored leather sole and leather toe and heel caps.

Sleeveless lambskin jackets, leather side out, are extremely popular for sport wear at European Winter resorts. In red, green, yellow, beige and brown, the jackets are decorated with appliqued leather patterns in contrasting colors, leather buttons and braided loops for closing. The edges are finished with a thick round binding of lambskin, woolly side out.

Keen Age Club Of Tabernacle U.C. Holds Meeting

Edith Stanton led the devotional exercises. Plans for a blossom tea at the Tabernacle Church were discussed. Refreshments were served by the hostess by Joe Douglas and Jennie Mulvey.

Women Should Take Active Part In Public Life

Ottawa, June 3. (CP)—The average Canadian housewife's lackadaisical interest in public affairs was brought home on Thursday to delegates attending the Young Women's Christian Association National Convention.

They heard a magazine editor from Toronto and a Winnipeg economist —both women—stress that the time has come for the Canadian woman to step out of her home and take a look at what is going on in the world outside.

Dr. Margaret McWilliams, wife of Lt.-Gov. R. F. McWilliams of Manitoba, told the 350 "Y" delegates at a convention dinner that women should play a more active part in public life.

"Women have always been the caretakers of the family while men have carried the burden of economic support," she said. It naturally followed that women are more interested in people and men in affairs of property. Both are needed to contribute their own particular gifts toward the welfare of their country.

At an earlier meeting Byrne Hope Sanders of Toronto, editor of Chatelaine magazine, said women must learn to believe in themselves; to "think big" and to "tackle the impossible more often."

Recommendations dealing with human rights, immigration and employment were approved by delegates at another session.

The one on employment urged the Y.W.C.A. to "continue to stimulate interest" in the formation of a Women's Bureau in the Federal Labor Department.

Another recommendation asked for a continued study of Canadian immigration problems, with particular attention to the integration of immigrants into community life.

On human rights, the Association decided to continue emphasizing study of the work of the United Nations, and more particularly on the status of women, the human rights commission, and specialized agencies such as the International Refugee organization, Food and Agricultural organization and U.N.E.S.C.O.

Quinte Belle Lodge Holds Inspection

The Ladies' Society of the B. of L. F. & E. held a successful afternoon and evening meeting last Tuesday in the Oddfellows' Hall.

Mrs. Mildred Ashfield, secretary of the Grand Executive Board, came from Ottawa as inspecting officer.

The president, Mrs. J. Gallagher, graciously presented Mrs. Ashfield with a lovely corsage of red carnations on behalf of the officers and members.

The inspector, having just returned from the Maritime Provinces, commended the ladies on the high grading they had achieved stating that they could take their place with any lodge in Canada.

The official drill by the newly formed ladies drill team closed the evening session, followed by dancing and refreshments.

Mr. Jack Milligan, Grove St., was the lucky winner of the engineman's uniform.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

Pilate Before Christ

By ROY L. SMITH

It is one of the ironic facts of history that Jesus of Nazareth was on trial before Pilate for one little hour, whereas Pilate has been on trial Before Jesus for near two thousand years.

But then that is what happens in every court. A poor wretch without friends, or money, or influence, puts any court on trial the moment he appears before it for judgment. If the court cannot provide the offender with justice, then it must stand condemned alongside the one it proposes to judge.

The Quartet of Injustice

In the course of His trial Jesus stood before at least four individuals, any one of whom might have saved His life, and each one of whom failed to do so because of some fatal weakness of character.

Annas, the rich Sadducee, was the most powerful living individual among the Jews. He had managed to ingratiate himself into power by bribing the Romans, almost 25 years before, and had manipulated the Temple revenues in such a fashion that he had become one of the richest men in the Roman Empire. Jesus' teachings imperilled the rich man's position and revenues. Consequently Annas was determined to do away with Him as a disturber. If he could make it appear that he was doing it for pious reasons it was all to his advantage to do so. But the bitterness of his hatred was economic in its origin.

Caiaphas, the Bought Priest

Caiaphas, the ruling High Priest of the Jews, was a son-in-law of Annas. A huge bribe to the Romans had been sufficient to make sure that they approved the young man's appointment. It was perfectly natural that the High Priest should do the bidding of the man who had put him into power, and that he would find some way to make it appear both devout and legal. His personal interests were so great that they prevented him from seeing the moral and spiritual issues at stake. The preservation of the status quo was his first responsibility.

Pilate, the Politician

Pilate, the Roman procurator, was a young and ambitious officer assigned to govern the most difficult province in the Empire. The first requirement of his success was that he should get along with Annas, the largest single taxpayer in the land and one of the heaviest contributors to the Roman treasury. He was already in a difficult position for he had been guilty of at least two major blunders in administering the government, and his hold on his office was precarious. One more serious mistake and he would be recalled, his official career would be at an end, and he would be retired in disgrace. It was an extremely difficult position into which to put an ambitious man who had no scruples or conscience.

Herod, the Playboy

Legally speaking, Jesus was a citizen of Galilee, and as such was a subject of Herod Antipas, one of the sons of the infamous Herod the Great. Pilate, thinking that he could dodge the issue for which he very evidently had small stomach, undertook to refer the matter to Herod who was at the moment resident in Jerusalem as an official visitor. There may have been at least a little sardonic satisfaction in Pilate's mind as he undertook to wish off onto Herod a troublesome case under the guise of courtesy, for the two of them had been at outs for some time.

> The Sunday School lesson for June 5: "Jesus Sentenced to Death," Matthew 27:19-26; Mark 14:53—15:15; Luke 23:4-12; John 18:13-14, 19-24,28-40; 19:1-16.

Herod Antipas was a flippant sort, incapable of any great moral decision, who had heard that Jesus was a wonder worker and who was curious to see Him turn water into wine or heal some blind man. When he found that Jesus could not be induced to put on a show, he airily divested himself of the whole responsibility and sent the Nazarene back to Pilate.

It Can Happen Here

And so it happened that the Son of God fell into the hands of a greedy and conscienceless capitalist, a sycophant priest, a self-seeking politician, and a playboy. And they killed Him. That combination will crucify any Saviour in any generation.

Dr. Bunche Wants To Stay With United Nations

Lake Success, N.Y., June 3 (CP)—Dr. Ralph J. Bunche said Thursday no Negro likes Jim Crow, but that he turned down a Washington job mainly because he wants to stay with the United Nations.

Bunche, top ranking director of the U.N. department of Trusteeship Affairs, told a reporter in New York:

"It is well known there is Jim Crow in Washington. It is equally well known that no Negro finds Jim Crow congenial. I am a Negro."

He was commenting on a report that racial segregation in Washington was an important factor in his refusing of a job as assistant secretary of state, offered by President Truman.

The U.N. Press Department issued a statement by Bunche saying the controlling factor was that he wished to stay with the United Nations.

He held numerous conversations with friends about the state department position. These talks included several with State Secretary Dean Acheson and with Dean Rusk, assistant State Secretary.

In these talks, Bunche said, the Jim Crow and other problems were brought up.

As director in the U.N. Trusteeship department, Bunche receives an annual salary of $11,000 plus allowances of $3,000 for a total of $14,000. He does not pay income tax on this figure but does pay certain staff assessments to the U.N. General fund. As assistant secretary of state he would receive a taxable $10,000.

Farm Hand Will Be Hanged for Woman's Murder

Drumheller, Alta., June 3. (CP)—Clifford Newton, 16-year-old farm hand, Thursday was sentenced to be hanged Sept. 8 for the shotgun murder of Mary Moore of Rumsey, Alta., last Dec. first.

A Supreme Court jury brought in its verdict three hours and 22 minutes after retiring.

Newton took the sentence without a change of expression. But his mother broke down when sentence was passed and ran from the courtroom.

Defence Counsel M. E. Jones of Calgary, in his summary attempted to show that Newton was insane.

During the trial, the jury was told that the youth was hired for general labor on the Moore farm about four miles outside Rumsey only two days before the shooting.

The shooting took place while Mrs. Moore's husband, Raymond, was away from the farm. He returned to find his wife's body in a pool of blood in their kitchen. The Moore baby, less than a year old, was unharmed and asleep in its bedroom.

Evidence showed Mrs. Moore was killed by a shotgun owned by her husband. No motive for the shooting was established. Moore testified that Newton appeared on the best of terms with himself and his wife.

INTENSIFY SEARCH

Saint John, N.B., June 3.—(CP)— RCMP and City Police intensified a search today for four men still at large after a midnight escape from the provincial hospital for mental cases at nearby Fairville.

A fifth man, whose name was not given, was recaptured some two hours after the escape.

Police believed they had located all the fugitives when the fifth man was apprehended. This led to earlier reports that all had been recaptured.

1935

A Conservative government had been in power at Ottawa for five years.

•

Throughout all those years, grim depression stalked the land.

•

A million were on relief . . . millions more laboured long and hard for a bare existence.

•

Factory wheels were still, while men looked for work . . . yet people needed the food and clothes and other things they could have produced.

•

Farm foreclosures were everyday occurrences. No one could make farming pay with prices below cost of production.

•

Social security was an idle phrase . . . a dream that "couldn't come true".

•

Big business got all the breaks, with labour cheap and plentiful . . . and unprotected by adequate labour laws.

•

That was 1935! That's when the people tossed out the Tories and gave Liberalism the go-ahead. That's when folks decided it was "time for a change!".

1949

What a change!

•

The Liberal government has led the country out of depression and poverty.

•

Employment figures during the past year passed the highest Canada has ever known, even during the peak of all-out war production!

•

Great triumphs of social justice have been achieved — Family Allowances, Unemployment Insurance, the National Health Plan, increased Old Age Pensions, etc., etc.

•

Labour has been given the right to organize, the right of collective bargaining and other protection against exploitation.

•

Veterans have been rewarded for their heroic achievements with the world's most generous rehabilitation programme.

•

Export trade is higher than in any prewar year.

•

Construction is at an all-time high, with new factories, office buildings, stores and homes arising across the land.

•

Gross national income is THREE TIMES what it was ten years ago. Almost 2½ million more Canadians have bank accounts. Total savings are almost TRIPLE what they were in 1939.

•

This is 1949! This is the result of Liberal leadership . . . of Liberal reform and social progress — without socialism!

Anyone old enough to remember the dark days of Conservative rule back in the early 30's knows what a steady, uphill struggle Liberalism had to put the country back on its feet. But step by step, the Liberal party has brought Canada to its present prosperity and social security.

Under Liberal leadership, Canada made a world-honoured contribution to the war effort, emerging as a world power and a major world producer.

Then, despite Tory and C.C.F. "blue ruin" predictions, the Liberals led the country from war to peace without the economic chaos that followed World War I.

Today, four years after V-Day, Canada is still going forward with Liberalism. Prosperity smiles upon the land. People in every walk of life can work and plan for the future — with confidence and security.

In the years ahead you will need a strong, experienced Liberal government to defend the gains you have made . . . and to go forward to even greater heights.

Stradwick-Valleau Opening . . .

Splendid New Flooring Business for Belleville

Belleville's newest and most modern showroom and store, Stradwick-Valleau Limited, is now open. Located at 390 Front Street, the attractive store and complete merchandising facilities add substantially to the community's shopping facilities.

Associated in a partnership with Canada's leading floor and wall tile organizations . . . Stradwick's Limited and Floor Covering Distributors Limited, Everett Valleau, well known local flooring contractor will operate the new Belleville Firm of Stradwick-Valleau.

The New Business will be directed by a young Belleville businessman, Mr. Everett Valleau. The Company has taken over the distribution of The Martin-Senour Paints for the Belleville District and has absorbed the former staff of The Martin-Senour organization. Paint Customers will be assured of experienced factory trained personnel in the handling of their paint requirements. The combination of experienced craftsmanship for which Mr. Valleau is already well-known in the Belleville district, plus the merchandising experience of the Stradwick organization and the added experience of The Martin-Senour Co., have produced an organization that will, in time, take a prominent place in Belleville's business life.

Initiative Praised . . .

Chamber of Commerce Lauds Stradwick-Valleau

Stradwick-Valleau has been highly commended by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce on the opening of its splendid new display store in the city.

Mr. E. Valleau,
Stradwick-Valleau Limited,
Flooring Contractors
390 Front St.,
BELLEVILLE, Ontario.

Dear Sir:

The opening of the new Stradwick-Valleau premises completes the first phase of another story of private enterprise. This story once more proves that opportunity and success await our Belleville people right here in their own city, if they have the initiative to find the opportunity and the will and industry to work it into success.

The young partner of the business formerly known as E. Valleau of Valleau Floor Service, has done just that; and his success has been recognized by one of the biggest names in the floor covering business in Canada, who has now seen fit to associate with this local man. The result of this association is a new company with new energy, more varied merchandise, improved methods and, of course, a new and attractive headquarters.

On behalf of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, I congratulate Stradwick-Valleau Ltd., on the occasion of the opening of their new building, which is a credit to our main thoroughfare. I extend best wishes for their continued success in Belleville.

Yours faithfully,
C. A. Bateman
President,
Belleville Chamber of Commerce,
BELLEVILLE, Ontario.

Staff Training Featured By Stradwick-Valleau

The official opening of the new Stradwick-Valleau Store has been deliberately delayed for a month in order that all personnel connected with this store would have adequate opportunity to become familiar with the various products that would be handled. The management of The Company are fully aware of the differences in the selling of merchandise today and in the years preceding the war.

Today the merchant has to justify his economic right to a place in the business community by providing his customers with merchandise where they want it, how they want it, and in a manner that they desire.

The policy of the new store will be to see that all personnel are equipped to give accurate and practical advice on all phases of the flooring and paint business, and it is for that reason that the delay was deliberately planned.

Floor and Wall Tile Provide Many Advantages

"The advantages of floor and wall tile for the home, office and certain types of industrial plants are cleanliness, attractive appearance, durability, and the fact that it is economically priced to fit any budget," Everett Valleau, of Stradwick-Valleau Limited, said today in an interview with Ontario Intelligencer.

"The growing popularity of floor and wall tile is ample evidence of the serviceability of tile in any room in the home, as well as the office or shop," he stressed. "There are dozens of homes with tile floors installed throughout from basement to attic, and wall tile is now accepted as the most practical covering for walls in the kitchen, bathroom, and washrooms."

"Tile is priced to fit any pocket, and there is wide latitude for the property owner in the selection of individual patterns. Why," commented Mr. Valleau, "pattern and color combinations are unlimited and unlike other types of floor covering, you don't have to take a roll; you can purchase as little or as much as you need for a particular job."

"Specialized designs and motifs range from a teapot for the kitchen to an elephant for the nursery, and there is a wide choice of unusual motifs for recreation rooms, which is an additional reason why floor tile is attractive and an interesting covering for any room," Mr. Valleau told the Ontario Intelligencer.

"I want to take this opportunity of expressing my deep pleasure on behalf of my colleagues of the establishment of our association with Mr. J. C. Stradwick of Stradwick's Limited."

He said that Stradwick's had been formed in 1937, and is now one of the best known and largest floor and wall covering retail firms in Canada. "For many years, they have provided an outstanding and dependable service to the communities of Hamilton, St. Catharines, Brantford. I am confident that their experience and high standard of public service will be appreciated in the Belleville district. Our association with them under the new organization will provide a complete floor service from the laying of custom built floors of rubber, mastic, linoleum, to sanding and refinishing hardwood floors. In addition, the personnel have been trained to install the New Strad Plastic Wall Tile which is gaining rapid popularity in Canada.

Stradwick-Valleau Feature . . .

Electric Refrigerator Or Electric Stove Is Treasure Hunt Prize

The new Stradwick-Valleau Store will not normally sell electric stoves and refrigerators, but tomorrow there will be the opportunity for someone in Belleville or the surrounding district to buy a brand new McClary Deluxe Stove or Deluxe Refrigerator, retailing at 329.00 for only 1.00. To purchase this electric stove, however, a special dollar bill must be presented to the store. It will be the most unusual treasure hunt that Belleville has seen for years, and merchants have already been advised to have a good stock of one dollar bills on hand for Saturday's business.

What distinguishes the green back from any other one is it's serial number which is as yet unknown. During the past week a representative of Stradwick-Valleau visted Mr. Walton, Manager of The Dominion Bank, and obtained from him a quantity of One Dollar bills. Mr. Walton was asked to record the serial numbers of ten of these One Dollar bills, and these numbers, at the present time, are in sealed envelopes in the vault of the Dominion Bank in Belleville. The Dollar bills have now all been placed in circulation, and were used in purchases in Belleville, during the past week of such things as groceries, milk tickets, taxi fares, theatre tickets and the like. The Dollar bills today may be almost anywhere in Belleville. You may have one in your wallet that you received in change.

On Saturday afternoon, before the close of business at 6 p.m., a draw will be made under the direction of His Worship the Mayor, of one of the ten envelopes containing the numbers of the Dollar bills. Immediately, this number will be posted in the window of the store at 390 Front Street. Whoever visits the store before 6 p.m. on Monday, June 6th, with the correct Dollar bill is entitled to buy the McClary Electric Stove or Refrigerator valued at $329.00 for only One Dollar.

Everybody, man, woman and child in Belleville and District is eligible if they have the Dollar in their possession. The citizens not eligible, naturally, are bank employees and employees of The Stradwick-Valleau organization. If no one can produce the Dollar bill by 6 p.m. on Monday, another number will be selected, and this number too, will be posted in the new showroom windows. Again a twenty-four hour limit is set for producing this serial numbered Dollar bill for the electric stove or refrigerator. If necessary, the treasure hunt for the Dollar bills will be continued with the new serial numbers on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Stradwick-Valleau Limited have pledged to keep the treasure hunt going for the McClary Electric Stove or Refrigerator Dollar until some lucky Belleville or district citizen is found with it.

An eye-catching new addition to Front Street's business district will be officially opened this Saturday when His Worship, Mayor D. L. Storey, opens the full length glass door of the ultra-smart new premises of Stradwick-Valleau Limited, 390 Front Street.

Incorporating the latest ideas in store design and display merchandising, the new store has a complete, floor-to-roof glass front, that brings the interior of the store right out into the street for public inspection. A silver frame of patterned Weldex completes the exterior.

The interior is softly finished in pale green. No counters are to be found on the main floor area. All displays are recessed in the walls.

A complete model kitchen and bathroom have been installed in the store to demonstrate the decorative features as well as the utility of the many products which the store will handle.

Recessed floodlights in the ceiling provide illumination.

The floor is of resinated asbestos.

The new firm is prepared to supply and install the materials for floor coverings. In addition they will carry a complete line of Martin Senour paints, also insecticides and venetian blinds.

Home Missions Board Makes up Salary Difference

Kitchener, June 3 (CP)—Some Presbyterian congregations in Canada fall short of raising sufficient funds to meet the salary they have undertaken to pay their minister. When that happens, the Home Missions Board dips into funds set aside for missions work and makes up the difference.

The situation was discussed Thursday night at the church general assembly and Rev. G. D. Johnston of Brantford chairman of the Board of Missions, described it as "a recurring problem." The minimum stipend for a minister is $1,800, plus $300 transportation allowance, and if a church fails to raise the money, the Mission Board contributes up to $600 a year to meet the $1,800

Mr. Johnston reported a 15-per-cent over-all improvement in mission staffing during the last year.

Approximately $90,000 of last year's Home Mission Board budget of $146,000 was used to help congregations pay salaries.

Rev. H. Lloyd Henderson, Mayor of Portage La Prairie, Man., said.

The church is making great advances in mission work in the west, especially in Manitoba. Many new churches had been built, others were planned and membership and givings continued to show a steady increase.

Work in the Maritimes was described by Rev. A. D. MacKinnon of Little Narrows, N.S. He said New Brunswick churches report increase in membership and givings, with Midamichi making the greatest gain. In Nova Scotia, except in Pictou, gains have been steady. Advances have also been reported from Newfoundland, where the Presbyterian Church started its work in 1942.

The Tiled Bathroom is one of many attractive features at the New Stradwick-Valleau Store. Already the New Company have made several installations in the city and the particular feature of this new type of tiling is that it can be applied right over present walls. The tile itself weighs only 6 ounces to the square foot and is available in 20 different colors, from which many attractive combinations can be made.

The tile is made of a plastic material known as Styron and is exceptionally durable and can be cleaned very easily with mild soap and water. The plumbing fixtures for the model bathroom were supplied by the firm of Howe and Hagerman Co., Ltd.

Britons Tiring of Codfish, Haddock And Hake, Member Tells House; Wants Action on Overfishing Problem

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, une 3 (CP) — The British public is tired of codfish, hake and haddock. It wants quality sea food.

So says Sir Thomas Dugdale, Conservative Member of Parliament for Richmond. He told the House of Commons that the government's new bill to assist Britain's fishing industry will not help matters.

"The bill does not tackle the real problem—that of overfishing in the North Sea and other home waters," he said. "If it is not tackled the House will see economic disaster threatening our supplies of finer fish."

Gerald Williams, Conservative Member for Tonbridge, said the coarse fish now being landed are spoiling the British appetite for fish.

Agriculture Minister Williams said the bill was designed in part to avoid "the unpleasant possibilty of our becoming a nation confined to the consumption of cod."

When Conservative members asked that the Government seek swift action on an international convention to combat overfishing, Williams said Britain took the lead from the start.

"At this moment," he said, "we are urging the other signatories who have ratified the convention to apply the convention so that the standing committee can come into being, notwithstanding that six other countries have failed to ratify it so far."

(Britain, Denmark, Netherlands Norway, Poland and Sweden have ratified an international convention signed three years ago to prevent overfishing in North Sea and adjacent waters. Belgium, Ireland, France, Iceland, Portugal and Spain have not ratified it).

Edward Evans, Labor member for Lowestof, said the food ministry should do something about the problem of dyed Kippers, which he said have done tremendous harm to the ministry.

He refered to the dyed Kipper as the "painted lady of the underworld."

Robert Boothby, Conservative Aberdeen East, asked the government to adopt an United States process whereby food was kept fresh by subjecting it to an intensive atomic bombardment. This killed bacteria.

"It is most astonishing thing." he said. "I saw a mouse that had been electronized five years ago. It still looks frightened."

Floor and Wall Tile Produce Many Advantages

The new business was developed as a result of the great interest shown in the flooring and wall tile displays at exhibitions thru'-out the country. The Stradwick organization exhibiting at Toronto, Ottawa and London exhibitions received so many inquiries from the Belleville area that the decision was made to establish a new company in this district. Many of the displays which were incorporated at the Toronto Exhibition have been used in the new store and have produced considerable admiration among Belleville residents.

The striking store front has already created a lot of interest. The full vision store front and the brightly lighted displays have enhanced the appearance of Front Street, and is tangible evidence of the new Company's faith in the future prosperity of the Belleville district.

Liberals Adopt Housing Program Says Michener

Toronto, June 3 (CP)—Roland Michener, Progressive Conservative candidate in Toronto St. Paul's, said Thursday night that the Liberals have adopted the Ontario government's housing program of low-interest second mortages.

In a federal election campaign speech, he quoted Reconstruction Minister Winters who said in a broadcast that the federal government will consider entering into arrangements with provinces "which wish to follow a pattern already tried in providing a second mortgage to lower the down payment on new homes."

Mr. Michener, a former Ontario cabinet minister, said more than 7,000 persons have availed themselves of the Ontario government's second mortgage housing plan. He added: :

"The Liberals see that this is a good thing and want to get in on it. They have had four years to do something of this kind, but Mr. Winters brings it out only a few weeks before the election in the hope of staying in power."

Premier Frost told a press conference Thursday that he would like Mr. Winters to elaborate on federal proposals to provide low-rent housing grants to the provinces. The Ontario premier said his province is most anxious to consider any concrete policy that Ottawa has towards housing.

PRIME MINISTER CRITICIZES PC STAND IN QUEBEC

Claims Hopes Rest on Attempts to Form Rather Dubious Alliance

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Godrich, June 3 (CP)— Prime Minister St. Laurent said Thursday night that Progressive Conservative hopes in Quebec rest on attempts to form a "rather dubious alliance" with elements whose record the public should study carefully.

He quoted J. M. Macdonnell, head of the Progressive Conservative executive, as saying that Quebec's Union Nationale party is "only the old Conservative party in Quebec with a new name." He wondered if Mr. Macdonnell felt the Union Nationale was the old Conservative party when "Premier Duplessis sprang an unwarranted provincial election in 1939 on the grounds that Quebec would have nothing to do with the war."

He said Paul Bouchard, independent candidate in the Quebec riding of Bellechasse, who had "used the most violent language against the war," was a candidate "of this new group resulting from this alliance."

Mr. Bouchard had recently used "almost the identical language" as that published in a Progressive Conservative French language advertisement which "contains the most violent appeals to religious and racial prejudice this country has had to deplore in many a year." The Prime Minister spoke to an outdoor meeting after a day spent visiting the towns of Hanover, Walkerton, Kincardine, Riversdale and Amberley. There was some minor heckling during his speeches. He speaks in Stratford tonight.

Replies to Drew

He replied to George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader who, he said, has been saying the Liberals have no chance winning the election and that a minority Liberal government would be dependent upon the C.C.F.

The Prime Minister said he would never commit the country to policies the majority did not want because Liberal policies "are as far removed from totalitarian socialism because that is what it would inevitably become as are the Poles."

Mr. St. Laurent saw little hope for the Conservatives to gain seats in the western or Maritime provinces or Quebec and appealed to "historically Liberal" western Ontario to ensure a Liberal majority. On the basis of the electoral record, it was "almost a slander to call Ontario a Tory stronghold."

It honors Giuseppe Mazzini, founder of the short-lived Roman Republic 100 years ago. DREW RENEWS BLASTS AT C.C.F. IN B.C. TOUR

Claims C.C.F. Government in Ottawa Would Control Wages and Prices

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Cranbrook, B.C., June 3 (CP)— Progressive Conservative leader George Drew carried his election campaigning into Alberta today after winding up his British Columbia swing with fresh blasts at the C.C.F.

Mr. Drew, in speeches at Cranbrook and Trail, made the C.C.F. his main target. He spoke in favor of Progressive Conservative candidates in the constituencies of Kootenay East and Kootenay West, both held in the last parliament by the C.C.F.

The Progressive Conservative leader, in his Cranbrook effort, charged that C.C.F. chieftain M. J. Coldwell is on record as saying a Socialist government would control wages and prices. He said Mr Coldwell also put forth that a C.C.F. government would consider cutting interest on government bonds and would allow profits only in a "small controlled way."

Mr. Drew said his party advocates policies assuring fair wages and working hours and providing for compulsory collective bargaining and holidays with pay. He said that such top-flight labor leaders as William Green of the A.F.L. and Phillip Murray of the C.I.O. have come out in favor of free enterprise although the C. C. F. claims the support of labor.

The Progressive Conservative leader also stressed compulsory collective bargaining in his speech in the mining centre of Trail. He said his party has gone on record in favor of improved collective bargaining legislation, establishment of a national labor council and improved relations between labor and management.

Mr. Drew said that Ontario, while he had been Premier, had been the first province to pass compulsive bargaining legislation. Ontario also had inaugurated a workmen's compensation act considered a model by many parts of the world.

COLDWELL CLAIMS GOVT. HAS FAILED TO HELP HOUSING

C.C.F. Leader Would Continue Rent Controls if Party Elected

(By Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Fort William, June 3 — (CP)— There is nothing to indicate that either the Liberals or the Progressive Conservatives will, if elected to power, do anything about hardships resulting from housing difficulties, M. J. Coldwell, C. C. F. leader, said Thursday night.

Mr. Coldwell said the Conservatives oppose rent control on a constitutional basis, and that under the present legislation these controls will end March 31, 1950.

This meant that if a Liberal government is returned in the federal election, Canadians can expect rent controls to be removed entirely within 10 months.

Mr. Coldwell said the federal government has "failed utterly" to improve the housing situation since 1945.

Greatly increased rents and "thousands" of evictions will result from the removal of rent controls.

A C. C. F. government would launch a housing program which would during the C. C. F.'s five-year term of office meet the need to such an extent that rent controls "would in all probability be no longer necessary, in which event they would be removed."

"We shall give priorities to the building of homes for the people over the construction of bowling alleys, breweries, theatres, $20,000 luxury homes and the like."

Mr. Coldwell said that while the Conservatives oppose rent controls from the constitutional viewpoint, he expects the Liberals "will use that same excuse when they let rent controls lapse."

Mr. Coldwell, who Thursday night wound up the Ontario section of his national campaign tour spoke also in neighboring Port Arthur, where he accused the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives of entering into coalition in a number of federal seats.

He said neither of the "old parties" was opposing the other in four British Columbia constituencies, and described the "saw-off" as a "desperate attempt to prevent C. C. F. victories."

Hon. H. H. Stevens P.C. Candidate

Vancouver, June 3. (CP)—An old warhorse of Canadian politics, Hon. H. H. Stevens, is back in harness after a nine year "recess."

Mr. Stevens, now 70, stepped back into the picture Thursday when he announced his candidature in the Vancouver Centre riding for the Progressive Conservative party—the seat he held from 1917 to 1930.

The move was a reshuffle. Ernest G. Sherwood, original nominee, withdrew after a conference with party leader George Drew. Mr. Sherwood's nomination had been the subject of a near-rift in the riding's ranks.

Mr. Drew expressed regret at Mr. Sherwood's withdrawal, but said it would be of great benefit to the party to have a parliamentarian of Mr. Stevens' stature in the House.

Still active and raring to go after his "holiday" and 30 years of parliamentary experience, Mr. Stevens says:

"I have no axe to grind—no personal ambition to satisfy. My experience in the House of Commons and the Cabinet has equipped me to interpret the interests of this great centre."

Party chiefs in Vancouver are well pleased with their new candidate, and say they are more likely to carry the seat held in the last house by Rod Young, C.C.F. Ralph Campney will contest it for the Liberals.

PROG. CONSERVATIVE

George Drew

By The Canadian Press

George Drew is fighting his first general federal election campaign as leader of the Progressive Conservative party but electioneering is not new to him.

The tall 55-year-old lawyer-politician has had a hand in politics almost continuously since he was 27. He entered the federal field last October when a national convention of the party choose him to succeed John Bracken, who retired from the leadership because of his age—65—and ill-health.

Long before taking up the leadership post, Mr. Drew was frequently at odds with the federal government. At times it was as premier of Ontario. At others it was as leader of the opposition in the Ontario Legislature. No matter what post he held his outspoken criticisms frequently attracted national attention.

Mr. Drew entered the Commons at the opening of the 1949 season. His speeches during his first session frequently set off tumultuous Conservatives and vice versa.

Mr. Drew started his political career in the city council of his native Guelph, Ont., shortly after returning severely wounded from the First World War.

Break With Party

A gifted public speaker with a notable record as a lawyer, author, civil servant and municipal official, he broke with the Conservative party in Ontario in 1936 on the question of whether the Committee of Industrial Organization should be tolerated in Ontario. Hon. Earl Rowe, then party leader in Ontario, declared the party's stand was for the right of labor to organize into unions of its own choice. That difference was later patched up and Mr. Drew succeeded Mr. Rowe as leader in 1938.

He was elected to the Legislature in 1939 and he led the Progressive Conservative party to power in 1943, 1945 and 1948. But in the 1948 election he suffered personal defeat in his own riding. He was still without a Legislature seat when the national convention chose him as federal leader of the party.

In 1938 Mr. Drew's article "Canada's Armament Mystery" attacked the contract under which the department of national defence agreed to buy 7,000 Bren Guns from the John Inglis Co. Ltd., Toronto.

After hearings spread out over months Commissioner H. H. Davis recommended that a defence purchasing board be set up, a recommendation later implemented by legislation. The commissioner said it was beyond his jurisdiction to comment on the conduct of individuals but he found that no defence department official was guilty of corruption or anything in the nature of corruption.

Mr. Drew started the long drawn-out Hong Kong controversy with a speech on Jan. 12, 1942, in which he charged that untrained men had been attached to a force which the government knew was heading into imminent war. A royal commission discredited the charges, but Mr. Drew took issue with almost every point in the report.

Because the British government would not release five secret British dispatches touching on the expedition and the possibility of war in the Pacific in 1941, the controversy was left vaguely unsettled.

The Dominion-Provincial conference controversy centred on the question of responsibility for failure of a 1945 conference called to work out taxation, social security and public investment agreements with the federal government. Mr. Drew charged the Dominion was responsible. The Dominion countercharged that Mr. Drew and Premier Duplessis of Quebec had made the reaching of agreements impossible.

Mr. and Mrs. Drew have a son and daughter.

M. J. Coldwell

By The Canadian Press

An astute school master in England foresaw more than 40 years ago a political career for M. J. Coldwell.

Today Mr. Coldwell, 60 years old and English-born who first turned to public life in Regina, is leading the C.C.F. party as national leader for the second time in a federal election.

Author, student of world affairs, family man and educationist, Mr. Coldwell came to Canada from his native England at the age of 22. He taught in Alberta and Saskatchewan schools, finally becoming principal of a Regina school. It was there he turned to public life as an alderman.

When he branched out into the provincial and federal political fields he suffered early setbacks. He was defeated as a Progressive candidate in the 1925 general election and went down again when he first ran as a C.C.F. candidate in the 1934 Saskatchewan election.

It was in the 1935 general vote that he gained a seat in the Commons, representing the Saskatchewan riding of Rosetown-Biggar. He retained this seat in 1940, the year he became house leader succeeding J. S. Woodsworth. He became national president of the C.C.F. after Mr. Woodsworth's death in 1942. Mr. Coldwell won re-election again in 1945 in Rosetown-Biggar.

In the last nine years he has become one of Ottawa's best known parliamentary figures. A man of medium build, he is rated one of the outstanding speakers and keenest debaters in the House of Commons.

Author of the book "Left Turn Canada," he is an enthusiastic student of international affairs and participated in the San Francisco conference which saw the birth of the United Nations. In recent years he has attended many conferences including the Empire Parliamentary Conference and meetings of world labor groups in England.

He makes his home in Ottawa and devotes most of his spare time to his family—his wife, a son who served overseas with the R.C.A.F. and a daughter.

Sylvio says that if she sues he'll contest "because, first of all I love her, and then she has no grounds for annulment; the marriage has been consummated."

Windsor, Ont., June 2 — (CP)—Jacob Rotman received belated word Wednesday he holds a lucky ticket in the Irish Hospital Sweepstake race to be run Saturday. An airmail letter Wednesday told Mr. Rotman he has a ticket on the horse Boisson, a 100 to 1 shot.

Health Research Grants Made To Universities

Ottawa, June 3—(CP)—Three universities, Laval in Quebec, Queen's in Kingston and Western Ontario in London, have been granted a total of more than $20,000 in federal health grants for special research and development of new services in neuropathology and cancer control, the health department announced today.

Funds totalling $8,000 have been earmarked for salaries of four additional technicians and purchase of scientific equipment at Laval. This amount, coupled with an equal donation from the province, will permit the university's anti-cancer centre to handle more examinations.

A grant of $6,950 to Western will be used in study of glandular disturbance in certain mental diseases and in study of the part emotion plays in disease conditions such as high blood pressure and peptic ulcer.

Queen's will receive approximately $5,700 for its department of pathology to develop a new division of neuropathology. The money will be used to pay salaries and provide equipment for the new division.

Say Authorities Of Parish Acted In Good Faith

Ottawa, June 3 (CP) — Headquarters of Archbishop Alexandre Vachon of Ottawa in a statement Tuesday said authorities of the Ottawa Diocese had "learned with surprise" from newspapers that a political meeting was held May 31 in a district church.

The statement did not further identify the meeting but it apparently referred to Prime Minister St. Laurent's address in the Roman Catholic Church at Casselman, Ont., last Tuesday.

The statement, issued by the Archbishop's Palace, said Canon Law prohibits political or other meetings of a non-religious character in a church. The meeting in this instance had been without the knowledge of the diocesan authorities, who would not have authorized it regardless of the purpose.

The statement added that the authorities of the parish acted in good faith and the Archbishop's palace hence rejected any responsibility for this breach of church law. Authorities wished "to assure the public that this incident is without precedent in the Ottawa Archdiocese."

Mr. St. Laurent spoke in the large, red brick church of St. Euphemie, to which he was welcomed by the aged cure of the parish, Msgr. H. Touchette. He told his audience it was an example of how the church and state should work togethe.

Musidora Wins Oaks in Dramatic Finish at Epsom

Epsom, Surrey, England, June 3 (CP)—Musidora Thursday won the Oaks, premier English classic for fillies, over the punishing 1 1-2 mile course.

Coronation V was second and Vice-Versa II was third. Both are French fillies, pick of a crop of five horses from France entered in the 171st running of the race.

Musidora, 4 to 1 favorite, came home a neck ahead of Coronation V. The second horse, starting at 6 to 1, had two lengths on Vice Versa II, a 5 to 1 starter.

Musidora, also the winner of the one mile 1,000 guineas for fillies in April, defeated Coronation V after a stirring stretch duel witnessed by a Royal audience.

A bay filly by Nasrullah out of Painted Vale, Musidora was ridden by Australian jockey Edgar Britt. Coronation V is owned by Marcel Boussac of Paris.

Britt just managed to get Musidora home in a tremendous finish. The winner caught Coronation V, ridden by Charlie Elliott, in the last 100 yards. Coronation V had led practically from the start.

Vice Versa II was ridden by Australian jockey Rae Johnstone.

Nurses Perform National Service Says Premier

Peterborough, June 3 (CP)—Premier Leslie Frost Wednesday night told graduating nurses of the Peterborough School of Nursing here they are performing a national service in entering the field of nursing.

Ontario is leading the way in health service in Canada Premier Frost said. He said Ontario is not able to provide health insurance at present because of the acute shortage of doctors, nurses and hospital facilities. The provincial government was trying to help ease the situation by making large grants for new hospitals. Hospitals already in operation were getting larger maintenance grants.

"Fighting Phils" New Fence Busters of National League Being Hailed as Wonder Team

(By The Canadian Press)

The upward march of the revived St. Louis Cardinals has other top National League clubs shivering in their boots, but the fighting Phillies" of Philadelphia stole some of the Cards thunder Thursday night.

The Phils unloaded their heavy lumber to blast five home runs in one inning — the eighth — as they rallied to hang a 12-3 defeat on Cincinnati Reds.

Andy Seminick, Philadelphia's sturdy backstop, really had himself a night in the Phil onslaight. Handy Andy hoister three circuit clouts, two of them coining in the big eighth frame when the Phils scored 10 times to knock out veteran Ken Raffensberger. In all, Seminick batted in five tallies with his big war club.

The five homers in one inning tied a major league record, while Seminick's two round trippers in one frame also tied a record held by numerous players and last accomplished by Joe DiMaggio in 1936. Seminick's three homers in one game was one short of the major league standard.

Only once before in modern baseball did a team hit five homers in one inning. The New York Giants did in 1939 at the Polo Grounds after two were out. In both cases Cincinnati was the victim.

Del Ennis, Seminick, Willie Jones, Schoolboy Rowe and Seminick, rapped homers in the big eighth. The Reds held a 3-2 lead going in that frame.

Stan Musial's two-run triple in the 14th inning topped a St. Louis Cardinal rally that produced 3 runs and a 7-4 verdict over Brooklyn Dodgers. It was the 9th Card win in their last 10 games, leaving them only a half game out of second place.

Pee Wee Reese's two-run homer and Jackie Robinson's base stealing gave Brooklyn a 4-1 lead that Don Newcombe was unable to hold in the ninth. The Cards scored three to tie it up and finally broke through against relief Jack Banta in the 14th.

Boston Braves boosted their first place lead to two full games over Brooklyn and New York by downing Pittsburgh Pirates 4-1, behind Warren Spahn's five-hit pitching. Two runs in the fourth and two more in the sixth were more than enough for Spahn.

Leonard Beat Giants

Dutch Leonard shut out the New York Giants with three hits —all singles for 3-0 Chicago victory at the Polo Grounds. Leonard doubled off Sheldon Jones to strat a three run spurt in the sixth. He moved around on a sacrifice and Harry Walker's fly scored the first run. Hank Edwards' homer after Phil Cavarretta walked produced the other scores.

New York Yankees' American league lead was boosted to 5 1-2 games as the Yanks smothered Indians took a fall out of the Boston Red Sox 8-3. Washington moved in on the Red Sox by handing St. Louis Browns their eighth straight loss, 4-1. The Senators Chicago 12-7 and Cleveland Indians also are 5 1-2 back of New York.

Needed Page's Hurling

Tommy Henrick's two-run homer and triple led the Yankees but they needed a brilliant bit of relief pitching by Joe Page to hold off a late Sox rally.

Lou Boudreau, playing with a broken finger, smashed a single and double in Cleveland's triumph as Bob Lemon, making his first appearance in three weeks, turned back the Red Sox with five hits.

Washington came up with four in the eighth to hand Dick Starr his seventh straight defeat. A three run homer by Eddie Yost climaxed the winning spurt.

For the second straight day Detroit Tigers spotted Philadelphia Athletics a three-run lead in the first inning and beat them 5-4 in 10 innings. Hoot Evers who broke up Wednesday night's game did it again. This time he scored the winning run after hitting a double. Johnny Groth's single drove him home.

Stan Musial Not For Sale and Will Not be Traded

By The Canadian Press

Owner Fred Saigh of the St. Louis Cardinals said Thursday "Stan Musial is not for sale to any ball club nor will he be traded."

Saigh issued a brief statement at St. Louis as an answer to rumors that the star outfielder might be sold.

"We do not intend to sell any other Cardinal ball players for cash alone," Saigh said. The Cardinal president was criticized for the sale of pitcher Murry Dickson to Pittsburgh Pirates last spring for a reported $125,000.

Walter A. Brown, president of the Boston Garden, proposed Thursday that the big arenas throughout the United States take over boxing.

"It is the only solution," he said in an interview at New York. "It will bring sport back to boxing. "Both the boxers and the public will benefit by it. The reputation of the arena owners will be at stake. In order to live they will be compelled to put on good shows.

The 1949 Canadian junior tennis championships will be played at Ottawa's Rideau Club July 23 to 29, it was announced Thursday night. Under an extensive program of junior development started this year, playoffs will take place during June in all Canadian districts. Winners will play in elimination provincial playoffs for the first to move on to the national tournament.

Boxing "has produced more deaths per number of participants than any other sport," the editor of a health magazine says. Thirty-eight deaths from ring punishment since Jan. 1, 1946, in North America were cited by Thomas Gorman of Hygeia magazine, in an article published in the June issue at Chicago. Gorman's article, entitled "Death in The Ring," charged that 50 per cent of active fighters are "punch drunk" to some degree.

At New York, organized baseball Thursday won a point when the United States Court of Appeals denied the request of three former major league players that they be re-instated immediately.

The trio—Danny Gardella, former outfielder for New York Giants, and Max Lanier and Fred Martin, one-time pitchers for St. Louis Cardinals—are barred from baseball for five years for jumping to the Mexican League in 1946. Gardella and Lanier now are playing in the Quebec Provincial League, an outlaw loop.

At Fairmount Park, Ill., young Del Cameron reined Lady Jeritza to a four-length victory in the fifth race and veteran Sep Palin steered Sister's Son to a 3 1-2-length triumph in the sixth Thursday night. Both races were initial heats of $2.250 divided purses on the Grand Circuit harness card.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

There's a tang in the air, kiddies and it ain't Ole Man Winter. Those rumblings you may have heard emanating from the direction of Memorial Arena were the tonsilar growlings of one Sandy O'Donnell, six-foot sixer of the biff, bang and bust 'em clan who was twitching his tonsils, flexing his muscles and emitting tiger-like growls before a life-size picture of one Sliding Billy Hansen, one of the smoother graduates of the College of Applied Pachydermy. Billy tangles with the rasale conception of the "Leaning Tower of Pisa" in the main bout of the wrestling card tonight.

• • •

And kiddies, it should be quite a show. Slippery William, those who like him best call him Sliding Billy, because of his uncanny ability to extricate himself from practically unbreakable holds with all the ease of a greased rattler slipping through a barrel of oil, is just as ready and willing to meet the huge gladiator with the Percheron torso and piledriver legs as is the opposition. For Billy was not satisfied with last week's decision as was the elephantine Sandy, and thereby hangs the groundwork of a bout that should reek with fury and fantastic fol-de-rols. There will be no sparing of the hosses, Jimes, and if the pair goes the sixty-minute time limit somebody's tongue is going to be protruding like an 1864 bustle. Come early and bring your own fire extinguisher.

• • •

And by way of an appetizer for the beefian entree, there's Ski Hi Lee, cowpuncher, extraordinary, who prefers white meat. Hi, when he rears upon his hind legs, tips the beam at a neat six feet six, is tangling with the sensational Tug Carlsen, Swedish exponent of things pachydermic, who prefers his calisthenis the neat clean way. Ski Hi, who favors the curtain hair-do (it drapes over his ears like the fringe of the well-known surrey) won't be fooling tonight. He's jist plain mad, podner, and he fully intends to convert the gallant Swede into a hodge-podge of smorgasbord.

• • •

The cocktail of the party will be Al "Krusher" Korman making his 1949 Belleville debut and he clashes with the more or less amiable Irish Tom Collins. Irish Tom, who takes his wrestling straight is a broth of a bhoy, extremely popular here. It should be Dublin's night tonight, bejapers.

Studying all angles of the case, the executive of the Belleville District Baseball League, at a special meeting called by President Malcolm Robb, last night decided to take no action on the status of player Peter Jones. Accordingly a resolution passed at a meeting in March at which it was unanimously decided to adhere to the clause in the league constitution which claims that all players of junior age should play for the local junior club, stands in effect. It was pointed out that a letter had been sent to various junior players of the city including Jones, requesting them to state in writing their wishes as to whether they would play for a junior team or another.

The letter stated that the players mentioned were required to state their wishes by March 10. If no answer was forthcoming, the players neglecting to reply would not be permitted to play on any club in the league save a junior club. If, however, the player stated he wished to play with a club other than the junior team, the executive would make the final decision. Player Jones, it was stated, did not reply to the letter. Consequently according to the league ruling in its letter to the players, Jones will not be permitted to play for any other team in the league.

• • •

Player Jones who was present at the meeting told the executive that he objected to being told as to what team he would play for. President Robb stated that he and his executive had to abide by the constitution of the league and the unanimous resolution passed at the March meeting. Jones, he pointed out, had not answered the letter, and consequently became subject to the league ruling. Northern Electric representatives present stated that a clause in the Northern Electric Club constitution states that any employee of the company must play for a company team. However, they added, had player Jones said he wished to play for the junior team, they would not have stood in his way.

• • •

Jerry Maloney, demon publicity man of the Northern Electric Soccer Club informs us that the kick-off time of the soccer match between the N. E. team and Batawa scheduled for Saturday afternoon has been moved forward to 2.30 p.m. from 3 p.m. as formerly reported.

• • •

First baseball game under the floodlights gets under way tonight at the Fair Grounds when Northern Electric clashes with the Kiwanis Juniors in a Belleville District Baseball League fixture. Both teams split their first two starts with a win and a loss and both will be out there to fatten their win column records. Haven't got the starting pitchers, but Coach Cuffer Noakes may send the veteran "Chuck" Barriage back at the youngsters while "Chuck" Barnett will probably start Billy Strachan. Game gets under way at 8.30.

• • •

Napanee increased its win average at the hands of the cellar-dwelling Trenton Town team the other night swamping it under a 25-3 deluge. The game originally scheduled for the Trenton diamond was played in Napanee due to a last-minute switch. The win puts Napanee in a first place tie with Picton and Point Anne with two wins and one loss. Trenton Flyers continued in their slump going down to defeat last night before the Point Anne squad by a 6-2 count. The win gave the Pointers two wins against one defeat and elevated them to the top slot with Napanee and Picton. There will be a four-team tie for first place after tonights game regardless of who wins. Juniors and Northern have one-all records and the winner advances into the charmed circle at the top of the heap.

Intercounty Loop

(By The Canadian Press)

Guelph Maple Leafs made every hit count Thursday night when they downed Kitchener Panthers 4-2 to strengthen their hold on fourth place in the senior Intercounty Baseball League. It was their fourth win in eight games.

At London, the Majors got on the winning beam by trouncing St. Thomas Legion 8-1.

Southpaw Arnold Cooper went the route for Guelph to rack up his second straight win. Tommy White also made it two in a row for his London squad in handcuffing the St. Thomas team with four hits.

The Leafs had the game on ice after the fourth inning with a 4-1 edge, but Kitchener threatened to knot the count in the ninth with a triple, double and single in that order. But fast fielding by the Guelph crew upheld them to one more run.

About 150 fans were spilled from their seats at the Guelph fixture when a section of the left-field bleachers collapsed in the seventh innings. No one was injured.

Kitchener's Shorty Miller was top batter with two hits, a double and single, in five trips.

Young Jack Cabot of St. Thomas had another session of his hard luck streak in the eighth inning when London took him for five runs. Up to that time, he gave up only five hits. The Legion team committed five errors during the game against two for London.

Joey Black finally shook his hitting slump to pace the Londoners with three for four. Frank Slack was top for St. Thomas with two for three.

In the Nickel Belt Senior Baseball League, Frood Tigers climbed into second place with a 7-4 victory over Copper Cliff Redmen.

Tied 3-3 after seven innings the Tigers drove starting pitcher Lefty Stelmakowitch from the mound with a four run outburst that clinched the game.

WHEN I WAS A KID A BUNCH OF US FROM THE SCHOOL STARTED A GRASS FIRE... AND DID OUR PARENTS DUST THE SEATS OF OUR PANTS!!! I'LL NEVER FORGET IT
OF COURSE YOU DIDN'T KNOW THEN THAT YOU WERE DESTROYING THE NESTING PLACES OF THE MEADOW LARK, THE PHEASANT, THE GROUSE AND MANY OF THE SMALLER BIRDS
NO—WE THOUGHT THAT BURNING THE OLD GRASS MADE THE NEW GRASS GREENER—IT JUST LOOKED GREENER AGAINST THE CHARRED BACKGROUND. I'VE OFTEN WONDERED HOW MANY SEEDLING TREES AND WILD FLOWERS THAT ONE FIRE DESTROYED

NOT ONLY THAT— WHEN WE BURN THE OLD DECAYING GRASS WE ROB THE NEW GRASS OF THE FERTILIZER NATURE CREATED FOR IT

The burning of grasslands upsets the balance of nature: it destroys the cover of dead grass that helps to restore fertility to the soil, and kills young trees, wild-flowers and ground-nesting birds. Remember, it pays to keep nature in balance.

Motion to Label Quebec Loop As Out-and-Out Pro League Not Expected to Get Far

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, June 3 — (CP)—Canadian Amateur Hockey Association officials probably will be punch - drunk with work before their annual meeting ends Monday. A heart - breaking list of constitutional and other changes suggested by the various provincial branches will be submitted for their consideration.

It will be up to delegates in plenary sessions to ditch or confirm the recommendations, but the choicest morsel, dished up by Cecil Duncan of Ottawa, a life member of the C. A. H. A., will probably never reach the floor of the meeting. The resolutions committee shelved it for "consideration" without a murmur.

Duncan's motion suggested the Quebec Senior Hockey League should affiliate with the National Hockey League and that the C. A. H. A. could assist the move by declaring the Q. S. H. L. "a professional organization as from the date of this meeting."

The motion said the move "would be in the interests of hockey in view of the number of times it has been reported that the Q. S. H. L. is withdrawing from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and declaring itself a professional organization affiliated with the National Hockey League."

Delegates said they felt there was nothing serious about the motion and that it would be killed in committee.

Imports Lively Subject

The question of branch - to - branch imports — regulations call for two to clubs in the junior group and four to seniors —drew most attention in the 12 - hour resolutions committee deliberations. Four motions dealing with the subject were on the list but officials sliced them to one, allowing four junior imports a club in British Columbia, which will operate two leagues next season, and six each to British Columbia and Maritime province senior teams.

A motion proposed by the Quebec Branch asking that no imports be allowed was defeated in committee, along with a motion by the Ontario Association requesting four junior branch-to-branch transfers a club. Another Ontario recommendation that junior 'A' clubs be permitted to sign and register 25 players—seven more than at present — also was defeated.

A motion of the Manitoba branch declared that "no professional club should be able to direct any amateur player as to where he can play his amateur hockey." It added that if any existing agreement between the N. H. L. and C. A. H. A. "condones the practice we recommend that it be amended at once."

D. G. Grimston of New Westminster, B. C., first vice-president of the C. A. H. A. and committee chairman, said the professionals have agreed the N. H. L. "cannot dictate where an amateur player is to perform."

"They can tell him only when the boy turns pro."

A motion by Alberta that Edmonton Waterloo Mercurys, Western Canada intermediate champions, should be considered as a C. A. H. A. - sponsored team to be sent to Europe next winter, was carried.

Bruce Woodcock K.O's Mills in Fourteenth Round

London, June 3 — (AP)—Bruce Woodcock, a fugitive from ring oblivion, is being hailed today as a worthy foe for American Lee Savold in their Sept. 6 bout which Britain, at least, terms a world heavyweight championship affair..

Woodcock retained his British, Empire and European heavyweight titles Thursday night at White City Stadium by knocking out world light - heavyweight king Freddie Mills, also of England, in the 14th round.

That earned him a shot at Savold. Promoter Jack Solomons is advertising the fight as being for Joe Louis' vacated title.

Thursday night's attraction, scheduled for 15 rounds, was witnessed by a jammed 6,000 fans who paid $280,000. Eact fighter received $56,000.

The underdog in the betting and scorned by most boxing experts, Woodcock had been virtually written off when his jaw was fractured two years ago by Joe Baksi of Kulpont, Pa. The three victories Bruce scored since starting a comeback last September were unconvincing.

But his triumph over the 20-pounds lighter Mills impressed ringsiders here. In the first round Wodcock sprang a surprise by jarring Mills with his straight right. With that same punch he kept Freddie walking in his sleep most of the time.

Four times the 195½ - pound heavyweight floored Mills before finally putting his foe down for the count at one minute, 27 seconds of the next-to-last round.

Better Golf

By Sam Snead

On a pitch shot you bring the heels close together with the right foot at about right angles to the direction line, the left foot drawn further back from the direction line than the right and the left foot open, that is pointing somewhat toward the hole. You stand well over the ball, gripping the club about the middle of the leather. With this stance, you'll get the necessary upright swing for this shot. And this stance automatically limits the length of the backswing to about three-quarters. Then you're ready to swing smoothly down, slightly inside-out with the clubface taking the ball first and a bit of divot afterward. Did you notice the flaw I had placed in today's picture? It's the player's head. Instead of looking after the shot, his eyes at this stage of the swing should be firmly fixed on the spot where his ball was. And his head should not have turned to see his result until his hands on the follow-through were at least hip high. You gamble on accuracy and precision if you move your head too soon. This player did just that — the dummy!

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, June 3 — (CP)—At this early date it appears the Ontario Hockey Association junior "A" loop will still have only 8 teams next season. It was thought that since the Kitchener Sports Association had applied for and received playing rights for a junior O. H. A. team, the loop might add another member. But Dan (Kitchener - Waterloo Record) Odette, says:

"Unfortunately, this is not the case, informed sources have made it known. In receiving playing rights for a junior O. H. A. team in Kitchener, the K. S. A. was taking steps to see that outside operators do not receive control of a team of that classification when Kitchener's new Memorial Auditorium is built . . . (perhaps) by 1950.

"The K. S. A. has not given the playing rights to any man or group of men up until the present time."

May Cut Crowds

On the question whether a junior 'A' team would affect crowds at the senior O. H. A. games, Dan says:

"As long as the Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen continue to play at Waterloo arena, it's doubtful if a junior "A" team will perform there at the same time. The arena has made money with the Dutchmen, but just how it would fare with both senior and junior hockey is something that the Waterloo rink Commission will have to study carefully. It's a cinch that it would cut down on the senior attendances."

New System

Now that the King's Plate has been run and the post mortems conducted, Don (Kirkland Lake Northern News) Collins tells of a lucky wager in the 1924 Plate race.

"Two reporters, Andy Fleming and Jack Armstrong, had travelled from Detroit to take in the races," writes Don. "By the time the Plate race arrived, their funds were getting low. They decided to bet two-two on a selection, Fleming backing a jockey.

"Now it happened to be one of those rare occasions when two brothers rode in the same race—Pete and George Walls. Fleming intended to bet on Pete's mount, however, he discovered too late to make a change that he had backed George Walls. He was horrified, downhearted.

"But imagine his delight when Maternal Pride, ridden by George, romped home, paid better than $193 to $2 to win and more than $90 for place. Fleming and Armstrong collected approximately $285 each."

Derby Favorite, Royal Forest Down in Price

London, June 3 — (AP)—British hopes of preventing a third straight French victory in tomorrow's 170th running of the Derby at Epsom Downs have soared.

British turf fans took the triumph of home - bred Musidora in Thursday's Oaks as a good omen. A 4-to-1 favorite in the Oaks at the Derby distance of 1½ miles, Musidora defeated the French-bred and owned Coronation V by a neck. Vice Versa II, another filly from across the Channel, was third.

So British fans feel more optimistic that their Derby favorite, the 5-to-1 shot Royal Forest, will follow in Musidora's footsteps. Thirty - two other colts are expected to try for the £14,170 ($56,680) first money of the famed event.

Racing experts think at least 20 of the hopefuls might just as well stay in their barns, but the race appears so open that most owners figure anything can happen to give their color bearers some chance for the big pot.

Considered France's chief threats for the Derby are Amour Drake (100 to 8) and Val Drake (20 to 1), both owned by the French theatrical magnate Leon Volterra.

Royal Forest's owner, Maj. R. MacDonald - Buchanan, reports his representative was impressive in his last gallop for the weekend special, with champion jockey Gordon Richards in the irons. Oddly, England's greatest saddle star never has won the Derby in 23 tries. Tomorrow may bring a reward for his persistent efforts.

Rochester Wings Defeat Royals In Ten Frames

(By The Associated Press)

Rochester Red Wings and Syracuse Chiefs have discovered that winning ball games is a matter of patience.

After playing dead before the Montreal Royals for five straight games the Red Wings finally caught fire in the late innings Thursday night to nip the Canadian club 6-5 in 10 innings.

Syracuse had found Jersey City equally dangerous this season and had bowed to the Little Giants five times in a row. The Chiefs continued to keep their power hidden until the seventh inning Thursday night, then pulled out a 7-4 victory.

Baltimore flashed a 13 - hit attack that included two home runs to whip Newark 11-6 in the only other game. Buffalo and Toronto weren't scheduled.

At Rochester the Red Wings pushed across two runs after two were out in the 10th to win. Steve Bilko's single tied the score and Johnny Bucha doubled home the deciding run.

Syracuse knocked out starter Roger Bowman and reliefer Johnny Uber before Andy Tomasic finally stopped a four-run attack in the seventh inning. The Chiefs picked up two more runs for insurance in the eighth, one of them a four - base blow by Tom Tatum.

Baltimore turned its game at Newark into a rout with four runs after two were out in the ninth inning. Red McQuillen and Hank Arft homered for the Orioles and Hank Workman and Odie Strain hit for the circuit for Newark.

WOMEN'S WORK

Vancouver (CP)—Frank Frantz 15, invaded the domain of women recently to win first prize at the Vancouver Boys' Club hobby show. His winning effort was two pair of socks—gaudy, with bright diamonds. He is now working on a sweater for himself.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

All the bridge plays in the world fall into only seven general groups. Of these, ruffing and establishing suit are employed most often. One or both help to make almost every contract.

There came this deal:

♣A 5 4 3

It was bid like this:

South	West	North	East
3 S	4 D	4 S	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 H	6 D
6 S	Pass	Pass	Pass

The opening of three spades promises (1) eight tricks, (2) a seven card or longer practically solid spade suit and (3) one sure trick outside of trump.

Opening lead from west was diamond king. This won and after a study of dummy, the second lead from west was a club. With a club to lose, south could see two hopes of making his bid.

One was to finesse the club jack and find west with the queen. The other was to establish hearts for sluffing south clubs. With enough entries the chances are good that hearts will set up.

Dummy ducked and south won the first club with his ace. The lone south heart was taken with dummy ace. A heart return was ruffed high in south. The south small trump was won with dummy eight spot.

Another dummy heart was ruffed high in south. Dummy jack of trump overtook the south lead of spade seven. Another heart was ruffed in south and the remaining dummy hearts are now good.

North was then entered with a club to the king. From there were led the two established hearts. On them south sluffed two clubs. This meant no club losers.

Establishing suit can gain much loot.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 3 — (AP) — Who says woman is the weaker?

Disproving the old adage is Ann Sheridan. Both she and Cary Grant were sick with the ill-starred "I was a male war bride" company in Europe. He has to rest for the remainder of the year, but she goes right into another film, "Carriage Entrance."

The busy onetime "Oomph girl" also is involved with a cosmetics business and Mexican property and is preparing her own production, "Second Lady."

Carson for T-V

Jack Carson will have a television test. The Canadian-born comedian's sponsor has dropped the show for radio, but wants the "good humor man" to go on video. Carson is dubious about getting into the new medium now, but will wait and see the test.

Robert Walker is getting started on an even keel since his return from hospital treatment. The first thing he did when he got back was to answer the cards and notes of good wishes from his fans. He wrote them all in his own hand.

Bits and Stuff

Dick Powell sings again. Can you wait? The onetime Warner warbler gives out with "Rose of Tralee" in "Mrs. Mike," his first film singing since he turned tough guy.

Claudette Colbert and the rest of the "Three Came Home" are being worn down for the Japanese prison camp film. They are supposed to get thinner as the picture progresses and have been placed on a diet. Wonder if they will have ambulances to pick up the cast when the picture is over.

Point Anne Defeats Flyers By 6-2 Score

Young Johnny Green, whose flinging arm was in the pink last night, held the Trenton RCAF Flyers in the palm of his dusky hand, holding them to four scattered hits and hurling his Point Anne team to a 6-2 victory for the Flyers' second straight loss.

Green was in remarkable form throughout the game. His fast ball and curves were working beautifully, as twelve Flyers who went down via the strikeout route will testify. Green issued but one walk over the nine inning route.

Meanwhile his Ox Point mates were pounding Long Jim Titus for five hits for two runs. The Pointers, however, were not to be denied and when Titus was yanked in the seventh in favor of Chouinard, they pounced on his offerings for six smashes for a trio of runs.

Point Anne scored single runs in the fifth, sixth and seventh and clinched the game in the eighth with three more. Flyers scored their first run in the fifth off an error, a sacrifice and putout and their second in the ninth when Dunning, who hit safely galloped home on Coursal's poke to the outfield.

Jack Elliott, Point catcher, was slightly injured in the eighth and was replaced by P. Green.

Elliott led the Point hitters with a triple and single. Mallory got a double and single. Genereaux, Murney Green each got a pair. Coursal hit twice safely for Flyers with F. Dunning and Renaud collecting the remaining two.

Art Empy Hurls Three-Hitter to Score 21-1 Win

It took Art Empy two years and two ball clubs, but last night he made his winning effort in the Commercial Softball League look good as he hurled a neat three-hitter at the luckless Anti Tank, while his mates bludgeoned two opposing twirlers for 16 hits and 21 runs as Shell Oil coasted to an easy win. In the nightcap, McFarlane's Woodenware swamped Energetic Club 18-4.

The Shell offensive went into high gear in the top of the first for four runs on a double by Milligan, a walk to Pat Blaker, Russ Jones' three run homer, and Art Empy's circuit smash.

Anti Tank counted their lone run in the bottom of the third when Gardner singled to score Hancock from second.

The Oilers sent eleven men to bat in the fourth as they racked up seven runs on three errors, two walks, a double, single, and home run. They added two more in the fifth on an error and two doubles, poured over six more in the sixth, and wound up with two in the seventh as Art Empy connected for his second home run of the game.

Art Empy went the route for the winners, striking out 10, walking six, and scattering three hits for one run. Emerson started for the losers and in five frames walked six, struck out three, and gave up ten hits for 13 runs. He was relieved by Kimmett in the sixth, who walked three, struck out one, and gave up six hits for eight runs. Best at the plate was pitcher Empy with two homers and a double in six tries.

Roof Falls In

For three innings of the nightcap McFarlane's Woodenware and the Energetic Club staged a good ball game but in the fourth the roof fell in on the front running Energetics and they never did get untracked afterwards. When the dust had settled the Woodenware nine had tacked a resounding 18-4 defeat on their rivals.

Two singles and a passed ball gave McFarlane's a single run in the first. Energetics came back strongly in the bottom of the first to register three runs on two walks, a double and an error.

Woodenware counted once in the second and tied the score in the third with another single run. A walk and two singles gave Energetic a lone tally in the bottom of the third to send them into a short lived lead.

Thirteen batters marched into the box for McFarlane and seven of them scored in the fourth. Five more tallies were registered by them in the fifth as the team batted around with Young and Holland hitting homers. Woodenware ran up their last three runs in the sixth.

"Buck" Young went the distance for McFarlane's, walking five, striking out a dozen, and yielding five hits for four runs. Stickle toiled valiantly for Energetics walking six, striking out 1, and surrendering 20 hits for 18 runs.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking and thinking in his privite chair, saying to ma, I guess I'll have to send the rest of this box of cigars back to the manufacturer and demand my money back, according to the agreement, mutch as I dislike to do it.

I should think you'd be glad to do it, for land sakes, if the cigars dont come up to specifications and promises, ma said. I warned you not to send for on the strength of an avvertizment. Really, William, I mean really, for a man who is so hard to please, you certainly have a trusting nature, she said.

Oh, I didn't say I wasn't pleased with the cigar, pop said. As a matter of fact, they're ferst rate, he said, and ma said, But I just understood you to say you're planning to send them back. So how can you be pleased with them in the same breath? she said.

I'm more than pleased, my dear pop said. I'm fully content and amply sattisfied with the bargain. The cigars are of admirrable quality, superior werkmanship and seductive color, and I'm very pleased with them indeed. It mite not even be going too far to say that I'm delighted. But am overjoyed with them? That is the question, and I'm afraid the answer is no, the cigars haven't werked me up to the pitch of being overjoyed. So I have no choice except to send them back, because the avvertizment distinctly requested me to retern the unsmoked cigars and recieve my money back if I wasn't overjoyed with them. So now if they don't from me they'll be justified in taking my silence for consent and assuming that I'm actually overjoyed, and I'll be placed in the false position of living a lie, he said, and ma said, Oh hush and nonsense, and please confine your ashes to the ashtray.

FRONTIER U.

By Oren Arnold

"Hold on!" Ward McMurray had brightened. His face was a study now in elation. "If you're hiring a man—look, Miss Boone, out her in Arizona we do everything like that in writing! I'll just get a paper and pen. You can sign contracts to pay Palmer Two-hundred dollars a month, for the whole college year. He—yes ma'am, he's a right good man, I happen to know! Better sign him quick! we will witness."

Polly caught on. She grabbed Ken's arm, shushed him when he would have had his say now. Ward himself wrote out the contract in duplicate, say Joy Boone—still suspecting nothing—sign both copies in good faith. Ward was beginning to choke, restraining his laughter, but he made Ken sign too.

Joy looked up anew at handsome Ken Palmer, who had managed to keep a straight face.

"I'm going to like him," said she, and smiled benignly. "Palmer, the cook here will feed you, I am sure. But remember—from now on you are my man."

Polly McMurray felt a distinct little surge of unhappiness. Joy Boone was too much of a go-getter! Too confident and cock-sure. Too—beautiful.

Ken Palmer tonight might be a servant in Joy's eyes, but intuition told the dark-haired Arizona girl that he was entirely too strong and handsome to be long unrevealed. Already Joy Boone had looked up at him in frank admiration.

Kenyon Thomas Palmer, Ph.D., president of Frontier University told himself that something had to be done.

"Miss Boone is nice and we owe her the best we can give," he told his elderly landlady that night. "But in addition, she is wealthy and nationally famed. If she should matriculate here then find us unsatisfactory and go away to some other school, the publicity would all but ruin Frontier! We must—take measures!"

His conference with Joy and Bettina Carlson that night of the storm had been eminently satisfactory. Joy did not look as spoiled as he feared. Just open, confident, fraught with energy. Dr. Palmer particularly liked the quietly cultured woman who was Joy's secretary, Bettina Carlson. This made him more determined than ever to win the distinguished pair. He suspected that Joy had agreed to come to Arizona only because she sensed a new thrill, but he sensed that Miss Carlson loved the girl and wanted her to level off in life, to get something that was substantial and good.

"Would a welcoming party help, Dr. Palmer?" the landlady suggested.

He didn't answer at once. But his shrewdly analytical mind had decided that Joy probably was a girl without any real friends of her own age, because a rich girl is likely to be so. Thus some honest hospitality should touch her heart.

On sudden impulse, therefore, Dr. Palmer went to the telephone and called her.

"Miss Boone," said he, after the greeting. "I am anxious for you and Miss Carlson to be my guests tomorrow evening at a dinner. That's Saturday, you know. Informal. A desert chuck wagon dinner, cowboy style. If—"

"Dr. Palmer! I'd love it!" Joy's enthusiasm flowed to him.

"Excellent! Ask Miss Carlson, please. I shall take you out myself. We'll have a few more friends, for a quiet western evening."

Unfortunately, though, Dr. Palmer himself was new in the community. He had been guest once at a chuck wagon dinner and it had impressed him. Now, though, he had to seek help from the same trustees who had been his hosts. He phoned two but they were out. Next he called a trustee named Buck McMurray at Paradise Cattle Ranch, R.F.D. No. 2. He had liked the big, broad-shouldered, broad-hatted man of the range. It was almost 10 p.m. but McMurray came to the phone. Dr. Palmer told of his plan.

"NO!" Buck McMurray roared, genially. "No sir, Mr. President. I met Miss Boone myself. Cute little trick as my Polly, almost! Plenty of sass. But I see yore point. Now what you want is to make her feel welcome. All right, but let me do it, not you. Why hell 'n high water, Palmer, you're a stranger here yoreself! I'm a trustee. Only college I ever trusteed. I aim to do the welcoming for both of you. Tomorrow night, you said? All right. Bring everybody!"

"But—"

"Don't but me, Palmer! Bring all your girls. All of 'em! You got about 600 head, ain't you? Bring 'em. The whole confounded college and the perfessers as well, yep. I'll throw a feed. This gives me all day Saturday to arrange it easy. We'll have us a time!"

Dr. Palmer was astonished, but elated. He was to learn that ranch folk move in just such ways. Six hundred, nearly 700 mouths to feed? What of it? Buck McMurray had only to drive up a few of his steers, he explained. His Mexican helpers and their families would call it fun to cook that much barbecue! A barrel of pickles, a truck load of buns, sacks of onions, coffee in big drums, some of Lupe's sweet candies—nothing of it, big Buck roared at the college man. Cost him less'n a hundred dollars actual cash, and he could do that much for his daughter's college if he wanted to, couldn't he? Dr. Palmer was quite overwhelmed.

He caused the invitation to be announced at the Saturday morning breakfast in the dining halls of the college, and he telephoned all the faculty as well. It was short notice, but all the guests had to do was "dress up and come", Mr. McMurray had said. "Dress up," it was understood, meant western outdoorsy clothes, not formals.

Practically all of the girls were already at school for registration and they welcomed the invitation with long cheering. Especially when they learned later that Mr. McMurray had invited a lot of cowboys and other ranch folk. As for Joy Boone, she was beaming. Everybody knew the big party was in her honor and so everybody was doubly anxious to meet or at least see the much-talked-of new girl but she was used to such notoriety. She talked to everyone she met as graciously as she could. When she had registered for her junior courses, though, she met her new chauffeur "Palmer" by appointment, and with Miss Carlson was driven the 10 miles to Phoenix. There both she and Bettina purchased the swankiest western outfits money could buy.

Transportation to the ranch was in buses and private cars arranged for the purpose. Joy had a sleek new sedan—purchased just like that, by telephone! Palmer drove her and Bettina out to Paradise.

Nimbus Squeezes Home by Head To Win Derby

Most Thrilling Derby Finish Witnessed in Living Memory

(By The Canadian Press)

Two Canadians gained modest fortunes today although nobody in the Dominion was reported holding Irish Hospital sweepstake tickets on Nimbus, which won the Derby, Britain's racing classic, on Epsom Downs.

Alex McKee, a Toronto seed-cleaning plant worker, held a ticket on Amour Drake, beaten by Nimbus in a photo finish, and won $40,000. Nels MacFarland of Toronto's suburban Long Branch won $20,000 with his ticket on Swallow Tail which finished third.

In a Canadian sweepstake operated by the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans Association of Canada, it could not be learned immediately who held tickets of the winner, but there were holders on the second and third horses.

Myrtle Herbert of Toronto, should win $20,000 for her Veterans Association ticket on Amour Drake while W. Le Marquand of Montreal, held a ticket worth $100,000 on Swallow Tail.

If Amour Drake had gained the nod over Nimbus in the photo finish, Mr. McKee, who spent three years overseas with the 30th Battery, would have won $100,000. Born in Canada of Scottish parents, Alex found a Scottish bride while overseas and plans to build for a home with his winnings.

Mrs. McKee is now on a visit to her home in Glasgow but is expected to fly home this month. Alex labelled his ticket Magnet after the name of the machine on which he works in a Toronto seed-cleaning plant.

Mr. MacFarland, who held the Irish Sweep ticket on Swallow Tail, operates a store in Toronto's suburban Long Branch and is the father of a four-year-old boy.

Epsom, Surrey, England, June 4. (CP)—Nimbus, a well-fancied horse, today won the derby, Britain's premier racing classic, on Epsom Downs.

Nimbus took the 170th running of the classic in a photo finish with two other horses.

Amour Drake was second and Swallow Tail third.

It was the first photo finish in the history of the race over Epsom Downs' rolling course with a gruelling uphill grade at the finish.

The race was over a distance of 1 1-2 miles.

Nimbus, owned by Mrs. M. Glenisteg and ridden by Charlie Elliott, thus took down a record first money of £14,170 ($56,680).

Nimbus sqeezed home by a head in the most thrilling derby finish in living memory.

Amour Drake, leading French challenger owned by Leon Volterra was coming up fast at the finish, with Swallow Tail just a head behind, but Nimbus held off the challenger.

Betting was 7 to 1 against Nimbus, 10 to one against Amour Drake and 100 to 8 against Swallow Tail.

Swallow Tail is owned by the Earl of Derby, after one of whose ancestors the race is named.

It was another bitter disappointment for Gordon Richards, champion British jockey who never has won the coveted derby.

He was aboard the favored Royal Forest in a field reduced by a late scratch to 32 three-year-olds J. F. Emery's Ugongo appeared to be lame and was withdrawn just before the horses came under the starter's orders.

Second Woman to Win

Mrs. Glenister, wife of a barrister, is the second woman ever to have won the derby stakes.

Nimbus also won the one-mile two thousand guineas in April—the first of the classics. The bay colt is by Nearco out of Kong. Nimbus is the first colt to have won both these races since Blue Peter won them in 1949.

Last year the Aga Khan paid Volterra, Paris movie magnate, £12,500 for a half interest in My Love and that French-bred colt won the derby. The French-bred Pearl Diver won in 1947.

The running time today was 2 minutes 42 seconds, far off the record of two minutes 33.8 seconds set by Mahmound in 1936, as it was bound to be in view of the going.

Showers fell intermittently before the race but the sunshine came out at intervals to the relief of a huge crowd estimated at more than 500,000.

Among them was Queen Elizabeth and a royal party which travelled by automobile from Windsor Caste. Princess Elizabeth and husband, Prince Philip, decided at the last moment to attend.

The race was run over a track drenched by heavy rains during the night, and further softened by today's showers.

Heavy in Last Hour

Betting on the winner was heavy in the last hour.

Thousands backed Jockey Charles Elliott's mount on a superstitious hunch because of the "nimbus" rain clouds which banked up over the course after dawn.

It was Richards' 24th unsuccessful try to win the Derby. The favored Royal Forest started at 9 to 2.

The only American - bred entry, Brown Rover from the Bel Air stud stable of William Woodward, New York, was far back all the way.

Crowds lining the length of the course eight - deep or piled up on top of busses and private cars saw the three leaders pass the post so closely bunched that the judges called in the aid of the camera.

COLDWELL SAYS OLD PARTIES WILL EVENTUALLY JOIN

Claims Canada Returning to Two-Party System Faster Than Expected

Flin Flon, Man., June 4 (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said Friday night that there are increasing signs that the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives will eventually join forces to become one party.

Mr. Coldwell said Canada is returning to the two-party system "even more rapidly" than he had anticipated and that the CCF would be one of the parties. He predicted the forthcoming federal election would virtually complete this process.

He considered it only a matter of time until there will be only one "old" party in all the provinces, he said in an election campaign address in this Manitoba mining community.

Mr. Coldwell, in a deviation from his prepared address, termed the Canadian Senate an "old folks' home for aged politicians", and expressed the opinion that in its present form it is out-of-date and should be abolished.

He criticized both "old parties" for their election promises, and said the Liberal government had removed price ceilings at a time when it was 'most urgent' to keep down the cost-of-living. At one time or another, he said, the Progressive Conservatives had "opposed every bit of social legislation proposed."

He suggested a modified version of the excess profits tax would provide a source of revenue for social services and said the CCF's policy of old age pensions called for higher pensions, lower qualifying age and the removal of the means test.

Claims Gaining Ground

Turning to his party's prospects, Mr. Coldwell said "We are gaining ground every day."

He expected to see the C. C. F. "break through with some seats in the province of Quebec and achieve increased representation from the Maritimes" and also make "large gains" in Ontario. In that province, he said, he has "received tremendous encouragement." The "old" parties are "very much worried."

WEST AND RUSSIA BELIEVE PROBLEM CAN BE SOLVED

Neither Rejects Rival Plans for Single City

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

Paris, June 4 (AP)—Russia and the west both were behind a curtain today, continuing efforts in secret session to find a way of co-existence in Berlin.

Behind a news broadcast the diplomats of the Big Four Foreign Ministers Conference face more than mere restoration of harmony in the German capital. Both sides believe — with apparent sincerity — that a way of life can be worked out.

With their experts—all pledged to secrecy—the foreign ministers will begin today's talks in the Pink Palace at 3 p.m. (10 a.m. EDT).

After a secret session Friday the only encouraging sign was the announcement the ministers would meet again today.

Neither Russia nor the western powers had rejected their rival plans for making Berlin a single city.

Question At Issue Veto

The big barrier between the two sides was understood to be the question of whether any one power can be permitted to veto acts of the city government or elections of city government officials.

Russia was not expected to give up her insistence on veto power unless other considerations made it advisable. After the blockade last year rioters drove the elected anti-Communist government out of city hall in the Soviet zone. New city elections were held in the western sector with the Russians refusing to participate. A dual city government, with two currencies, resulted.

One of the problems the four foreign ministers are believed discussing is how a single city administration can function without harming the interests of the four occupying powers.

Top Communists On Trial, Jailed For Contempt

New York, June 4 (CP) — Three top United States Communists on trial in Federal Court were jailed Friday by Judge Harold R. Medina, who held them in contempt in a bitter courtroom row.

The shouting, confused scene erupted after Medina had ordered defendant John W. Gates to jail for thirty days for persistent refusal to answer prosecution questions on cross-examination.

All of Gates' ten co-defendants jumped to their feet.

Henry Winston, husky negro, who is party organizational secretary, was heard to shout something about "lynching."

The judge said to him: "I direct that you be remanded."

Gus Hall, bulky Ohio State chairman of the party, roared he had seen "fairier justice" in police courts.

Medina eyed him through his spectacles.

"Let's see, that's Mr. Hall," he said. "You are remanded for the balance of the trial."

Remanding means that the defendants' bail is revoked and that they must remain in jail all the time except when court is in session. All have been free in $5,000 bail while they were tried on charges of conspiring to advocate violent overthrow of the government.

The judge repeatedly said that Gates, 35-year-old editor of the Communist Daily Worker, could purge himself of contempt by agreeing to answer United States Attorney John F. X. McGohey's questions.

Fifty Women Mark Old Maids' Day Propose Annual Observance June 4

Norristown, Pa., June 4 (AP).—Fifty women, all unmarried, celebrate "Old Maid's Day" tonight.

And all the women are proud—of being old maids.

"We're not spinsters and we're not bachelor girls," explains 54-year-old Marion Richards. "We're just plain old maids."

The dinner celebration is Miss Richards' brainchild. It was born a year ago when a few 'old maids' got together and started talking—as most women usually do.

The conversation centered on: There's a Mother's Day, Father's Day, Memorial Day, St. Patrick's Day, Twelfth Day, Old Lady Day, Midsummer Day, St. Swithin's Day, New Year's Day, Inauguration Day, Independence Day, Labor Day . . .

But—no day for old maids.

Miss Richards said: "Let's make June 4 Old Maid's Day."

"We hope it will spread all over the country so all unmarried women will have one day out of the year to celebrate their status."

No Pound Devaluation Says Labor Govt. in Fight Against Decline

London, June 4 (CP)—Is Britain heading toward an economic decline?

The Labor Government say no—that there will be no devaluation of the pound sterling and that the current slackening in British export shipments was expected and can be overcome. But uneasiness persists over both these critical factors in the country's economy.

The pound at present is set at a value of $4.03. The government's decision it should stay there is backed by most newspapers, though the Times of London and the Manchester Guardian both have warned that devaluation may be forced unless the price of export goods can be reduced.

Sales to Canada have been increasing, but there have been indications that the export drive is losing its momentum. The Board of Trade, British equivalent of Canada's Trade and Commerce Department, says that can be offset if manufacturers will reduce prices and go after foreign markets more aggressively.

There has been widespread belief that Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, has been under United States pressure to reduce the value of the pound; and that belief probably fed Thursday's rumor that Sir Stafford was resigning. For him, devaluation would be a personal defeat. However, the rumor was emphatically denied at the treasury.

Oscar Hobson, one of the country's leading newspaper economists, sums up the situation by saying:

"There is no argument as to whether we are in for a recession—we are already in it."

Rumors that the pound will be devalued are affecting exports.

"Overseas customers have begun to postpone payment of our accounts and to hold back orders that we expected to get," W. L. Andrews, editor of the Yorkshire Post, wrote Friday. "They hope that presently they will be able to buy sterling cheaper."

He bases his theory on the following mechanics of trade:

If an American importer wants to buy £1,000 worth of bicycles now, he has to have $4,030 to get them. If the pound should go down to $3, he would need only $3,000.

To this theory of devaluation Sir Stafford has had this to say:

"It is neither necessary nor will it take place."

His view is that devaluation would only make it necessary to produce even more goods to acquire the same number of dollars and thereby raise prices of imported goods - in terms of pounds and set off inflation. Thus far inflation has been pretty well held in hand.

Hobson had this to say on the question:

"Devaluation is not a cure for 'balance of payment' difficulties, but it can be an alleviation, and in the last resort it may be an alleviation which is unavoidable and takes place almost automatically as reserves are exhausted."

COUNTRY CANNOT AFFORD TO EXTEND FOREIGN CREDITS

Trade Minister Howe Says Customers Must Have Money for Goods

Ottawa, June 4. (CP)—Canada won't give foreign customers extended credits to help them buy more in the Dominion.

Trade Minister Howe said Friday night the government realizes foreign markets are tightening up, but the country cannot afford to extend foreign credits.

"The real correction of the situation lies in bringing about a better balance between imports and exports," he said in a letter to the Canadian Exporters' Association. The letter was a reply to a brief the Association submitted suggesting steps to curb the loss of foreign markets.

Mr. Howe said the balance of exports over imports determines whether or not a country can extend credits to its customers.

"At present," he said, "it does not appear that there is justification for any substantial extension of the credits, grants and other forms of assistance that have already been arranged."

He added that there was some doubt that any of Canada's more important countries wanted to go any deeper in debt to the Dominion, unless they could not obtain essential goods any place else.

Later in a radio broadcast, the ministed said Canada will sell practically all of its surplus commodities abroad this year.

"Canada today is the third greatest trading nation in the world," he said. "On a per capita basis, our trade is double that of either the United States or United Kingdom."

Mr. Howe rejected the Association's suggestion that Canada accept payment for goods in United States areas in American dollars involving a change in exchange regulations that would permit acceptance of Canadian dollars any place in the world.

That would mean, he said, that Canadian dollars would be used to pay for Canadian exports and "we would simply allow the liquidation of foreign capital in Canada."

PHOTOGRAPHER KILLED

Kingston, June 4 — (CP) — Leslie Ferguson, 27, of Toronto, a photographer, was instantly killed Friday when a car in which he was riding with five others crashed into a deep ditch and overturned at the east end of Gananoque. Thos. Green of Toronto, the driver is in Kingston General Hospital, as is Alexander Lazeruck of Toronto, both are suffering chest injuries. Others in the car who were only shaken up and did not require hospital treatment were Frances Sheppard, Arthur Gosling and Roger Archibald.

DREW CRITICIZES POLICY OF CBC IN WESTERN TOUR

Claims Govt. Makes People Listen to What CBC Wants to Put Out

Medicine Hat, Alta., June 4 (CP). — George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, wound up a busy round of political rallies Friday with a charge that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation now does not even trust the people to decide what they want to listen to on the radio.

"They say: 'You will listen to nothing but what we are putting out,'" said Mr. Drew.

He made the statement after saying that the broadcast at his rally here was cut off the air for 15 minutes because of "another idiotic regulation of the CBC."

The party, which had arranged for the broadcast of the meeting over Station CHAT, Medicine Hat, four weeks ago, was informed shortly before the start of the meeting that the 15-minute cut-off would be made.

The reason given was that a free-time political broadcast was being carried over another station in the area by the CBC during the 15-minute cut-off, which came before Mr. Drew went on the air.

"They don't trust the people to decide for themselves what they want to hear," said Mr. Drew, who spoke at Cardston, Alta., in the morning and Lethbridge in the afternoon. Both the Lethbridge and Medicine Hat seats were held in the last House by members of the Social Credit party.

Mr. Drew said Canada is almost completely dependent on private stations for radio service, yet the CBC collects $2.50 a year on every receiving set. He criticizes the CBC for not letting private stations go ahead and provide people right across the country with television, and added that an independent body should be established to control radio.

Giannini, Founder Bank of America, Dies at Age of 79

San Mateo, Calif., June 3 — (AP)— A.P. Giannini, founder and president of the bank of America, the world's largest bank died at his home here this morning. He was 79.

Death was attributed to heart disease. He had been in bed for nearly a month with a persistent cold, which doctors said apparently aggravated a heart condition.

Giannini founded the bank of Italy in 1904. It later became the Bank of America a $6,000,000,000 corporation.

LIVING COSTS EDGE UPWARD DURING APRIL

Within Tenth of Point Of All-Time High

Ottawa, June 4. (CP)—For the second consecutive month, the Canadian cost-of-living index edged upwards during April.

It rose one-fifth of a point to 159.5 and came within one-tenth of a point of the all-time high of 159.6 it reached last October. The increase followed a rise of one-tenth of a point during the previous month.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics—which compiles the index on the basis that 1935-39 living costs equal 100—attributed the increase to a one-point rise in the food sub-index, the first recorder increase in food prices since the food index reached its peak of 205.4 last October.

The main index was 6.2 points higher than at the end of April last year. It is 58.2 points higher than at the outbreak of the Second World War.

Clothing and costs of home furnishings and services moved up to all-time peaks during the month. Fuel and lighting costs decreased. Rent and miscellaneous items were unchanged.

The food increase was attributed to a seasonal increase in meat prices and advances in a number of other foods.

The clothing index rose one-tenth of a point to 183.3, compared with 173.6 a year ago. Home furnishings and services rose an equal amount to 163.1, compared with 161.9.

Biggest change in any of the sub-indexes was the drop from 131 to 129.1 in fuel and lighting costs. It was due to decreased in coal and anthracite prices in Ontario and Quebec.

The United States cost-of-living index, computed on the same basis as Canada's, stood at 169.4 last April 15.

General Strike To be Discussed

Quebec, June 4 (CP)—A general strike by 85,000 members of Catholic labor unions in support of the 5,000 striking Quebec asbestos workers will be discussed at a special meeting next week of officials of all organizations affiliated with the Canadian Catholic Federation of Labor.

The meeting, announced Thursday at the moment the C.C.C.L. turned down a plan for settlement of the Eastern Townships asbestos strike, will be held in Montreal.

Date of the meeting has not been finally fixed but is due to be announced Saturday and the session will be held before the end of next week.

A C.C.C.L. official said here today the question of a general strike by all Catholic syndicates affiliated with the Confederation "will be on the agenda."

Asbestos Workers' Syndicates which also are affiliated with the C.C.C.L., called their strike Feb. 13 to back up demands that included a wage boost from 35 cents an hour to $1.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, June 4 — (CP)—Synopsis: The weather continues sunny and warm throughout Southern Ontario and little change is expected for Sunday.

Career Opportunities Discovered By Britons, Sons in Post-War Army

By WILLIAM BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, June 4 (CP) — Britons and their sons are discovering career opportunities in their country's post-war army. There's no drain on the family purse now when junior sets out to become an army officer.

The Royal Military Academy at Sandhurst was an expensive proposition before the war. Besides outfitting their sons, parents had to pay £100 ($400) a term. Candidates, in consequence, usually came only from wealthy families.

Today tuition is free, entrance is by examination and equipment is provided. Training is of university calibre and if continued at the Royal College of Science or Cambridge, can lead to a degree. The new basis has opened officer careers in the regular army to all British youths.

Criticized before the war as an institution that "knocked the nonsense out of the novice and with it a great deal that was valuable and urgent," Sandhurst no longer is "training sergeant majors or golf club secretaries."

It teaches leadership, discipline and the military arts, and provides students with a grasp of world affairs.

The emphasis, if anything, is on the "civilian", or humanistic, studies. In its three-term syllabus of 2,184 periods, only 819 —13 a week—are devoted to military studies.

Any British lad between 17½ and 18½ may try the entrance examination, including boys conscripted under National Service.

There are almost 1,000 candidates in training for all arms of the British army.

On graduation cadets are rewarded according to merit. Top cadets are gazetted to the regiments or corps of their choice.

The system is said to have removed snobbery and class distinction from the school. One military reporter wrote: "Sandhurst's tone now may well prove the tone of tomorrow's army."

Canadian Seamen's Union Suspended From Congress

Ottawa, June 4 (CP). — The executive of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada Friday night suspended the far-left Canadian Seamen's Union but refused to recognize its bitter rival—the Seafarer's International Union (A.F.L.).

A special three-man committee of the T.L.C. executive said the C.S.U. had violated the T.L.C. constitution and failed to live up to its responsibilities as an affiliate of the 400,000-member Congress.

It said, too, that 14 international unions had threatened to quit the T.L.C. unless the C.S.U. left.

In Montreal, C.S.U. president Harry Davis said the action was a "stab in the back against the striking seamen" and said the union will continue the strike it has waged for nine weeks against the east-coast operators of deep-sea shipping

The committee indicated there might not have been a suspension if the C.S.U. executive had resigned. Elsewhere in the five-page statement that announced the suspension it said the name of the Congress could no be associated with that of the C.S.U. "while the union has its present leadership".

The committee was appointed last week by the T.L.C. executive and given full authority to deal with the thorny problem of the relationship of the C.S.U., allegedly Communist-led, to the Congress.

Suspension was a signal victory for Frank Hall, rail union chieftain, who last year was briefly suspended for his outspoken opposition to the C.S.U. and his support of the S.I.U.

The east-coast strike began when shipping operators tried to man their vessels with S.I.U. crews.

Advised Not to Strike

The committee recalled the T. L. C. had advised the C. S. U. against the strike.

Now it believed "continuation of the present strike can result only in the placing of this Congress and its affiliated unions in further embarrassing and untenable positions unquestionably not in the best interests of this or any other bona - fide trade union movement."

But it added the methods of the S. I. U. have "no place in the labor movement as understood in Canada."

It said the S. I. U. "intruded into this strike" and the committee felt it was too ready to put inexperienced crews aboard strikebound ships with the full support of the companies.

The committee comprised President Benbough and two T. L. C. vice - presidents, Carl Berg of Edmonton and William Jenovese of Toronto.

Its appointment grew out of a full - scale executive meeting last week which followed an earlier meeting in Cleveland, O., between the Hall group of anti - communist unions and the T. L. C. and A. F. L. executives.

The suspension must come before the T. L. C.'s annual meeting scheduled for Calgary next September. The convention may lift or extend the suspension, or turn it into outright expulsion.

The 6,000 - member C. S. U. has been a storm centre since it was formed in 1935 by J. A. (Pat) Sullivan, then a member of the communist party. He quit the union in 1947 and declared he was through taking orders from the party on union affairs.

The C. S. U. had issued "scurrilous" literature "vilifying tried and trusted trade union members who had supported them and their cause but who had been unable to agree with unwarranted acts of violence committed in their own cities and districts," the committee said.

LACK OF RAINFALL COSTS C. ONTARIO $5,000,000 DAY

Drenching Rains Are Needed in Area Says Minister Kennedy

Toronto, June 4 (CP)—A lack of rainfall in Central Ontario threatens farmers with a draught which Agriculture Minister Kennedy says is costing upwards of $5,000,000 a day.

Weather forecasts offered no hope of immediate relief for the parched area, stretching west from Toronto to Hamilton and north to Georgian Bay, an area of roughly 4,000 square miles.

Eastern Ontario and northern areas haven't suffered badly, so far.

"The situation is desperately serious," the Agriculture Minister said. "One week of this will cost us $45,000,000. We'll lose half our hay crop—$20,000,000; $10,000,000 on wheat and another $15,000,000 on oats."

Drenching rains are needed over the area. Mr. Kennedy said three days of rain immediately would help, but that nothing now would produce bumper crops like last years.

Today's forecast was for clear, warm weather over most of the affected areas, with scattered thinderstorms tonight. It offered little helief to the present dry spell. The temperature was expected to reach 80 degrees in most places, with the weather a little cooler Sunday.

Tank Trucks Used

Tank trucks hauled water to drought stricken Toronto suburbs.

All but the Lakeshore districts started to enforce by-laws, prohibiting use of hose and sprinklers in certain hours.

J. F. Whitelock, provincial agricultural representative for Halton county, said "our 1949 hay crop may be down to 25 per cent. The corn crop is dormant with no moisture to germinate. The hay crop is only five inches above ground."

Municipal water supplies were said fairly adequate around London, but rain is badly needed there for the corn crop.

Indian Dances Mark Opening of Docks

Bella Coola, B.C. May 30 (CP) The whistle of a steamship and the horns of 1949-model automobiles sounded here as a new $60,000 dock replaced a rickety wharf which berthed Indian dugout canoes here 50 years ago.

Bella Coola's 365 population—the majority Indians—had a big day when the Union steamship Cardena came to port. It was the first ship to tie up there.

Masked dancers from the Indian village performed historic rituals—the same dances staged by the Indians here when Alexander Mackenzie, of Mackenzie river fame, reached the sea here in 1793. Chief Sam Pootlass gave a speech of goodwill.

Homer Needed To Win Contest In Ninth Frame

It took W. Fitzgibbon's home run with two aboard in the bottom of the ninth to give Howe and Hagerman a 9-7 verdict over Provincial Engineers in a thrilling action - packed Commercial Softball League game at the East Hill Playgrounds last evening.

The plumbers trailed the Engineers for 8½ innings. Fitzgibbon's base - clearing smash came after he had fouled off more than half a dozen of Johnny Bawden's best slants.

Engineers opened the scoring in the first frame getting two as Gallagher doubled to drive in Frank and Ed Donovan. Logan's double in the second and an overthrow by the catcher put the Engineers three up.

Howe and Hagerman came back with a four-hit outburst against Johnny Bawden in the bottom of the second, that netted them two runs.

The Engineers charged back in the third to score four runs. Ed. Donovan opened the inning with a single and went to second as Watson got on on an error to the shortstop. Gallagher doubled to drive in Donovan and that was all for Al Adams, who went out of the game because his spikes were too long. Cook came in to relieve Adams and McGuire pounded a double that scored Watson and Gallagher. McGuire advanced to third on an outfield fly and came home on a passed ball.

Hammers Homer

Doubles by Rogers and Tomaso netted the plumbers a single tally in the fourth. They added two more in the fifth when Callaghan hammered a home run into the trees deep in centre field with one aboard. A single run counted in the seventh and in the ninth, Fitzgibbon wound the effort up with his blast down the third base line.

Bawden went the route for the losers, walking one, striking out six and giving up 14 hits for nine runs. Al Adams started for the winners and in two innings walked one, struck out one, and gave up five hits for six runs. Cook handcuffed the losers over seven innings, giving up six hits, walking one, and striking out seven.

Best man at bat was Engineer centrefielder Ed Donovan with 4 singles and a double in five trips.

Kiwanis Juniors Defeat Northern By 7-5 Count

Four good solid base hits and seven singles were enough to keep the Kiwanis Juniors in the win column under the lights last night at the Fairgrounds, when they handed Northern Electric a 7-5 defeat in a very close fought game.

The Kiwanis team came from behind in a wild fourth inning with four hits, two of which were doubles by centre fielder Bush and left fielder Bradshaw. Bush played an excellent game in centre field and took the batting honors with four hits, two of them doubles, in five trips to the plate.

One of the real standouts of the game was Joe Nolan who pitched a very fine game and was helped out by his battery mate, Green. Despite the fact that he gave up eleven bases on balls he really went to town when the going got rough with 14 strikeouts to his credit.

Kelleher played an excellent game in his usual manner and led the runs batted in department with a long hard hit ball into left field that knocked in two runs but Kelleher was thrown out at home plate trying to stretch it into a home run.

Weeks turned in a very good effort for the losers with seven strikeouts to his credit and he gave up only three bases on balls. Goyer was the leading hitter for Northern Electric bagging a double and a single in three times at bat. Weeks was also backed up by a good playing outfield which helped to prevent the enemy runs from piling up.

Kiwanis came from behind a two-run deficit in the fourth inning with three runs off two hard-hit doubles and two singles. Northern Electric tied it up again in the fifth and scored their final run in the ninth on a long triple to right field. Kiwanis racked up another in the seventh and drove in the two winning runs in the ninth.

Super-Daylight Of Stratosphere Gives Ghastly Hue

New York, (CP)—Don't be surprised on a stratosphere flight if your best friend turns to you and says: "My dear, how ghastly you look!"

It's all caused by the super-daylight at 20,000 feet which alters cosmetic colors and may give certain colored clothes a sickly hue. So the latest in air-travel wardrobe is a rayon jersey with colors that are "strato-tested".

What are the best "strato" colors? Shades of lilac, aqua, terra cotta, navy, pistachio and white.

CARD OF THANKS

Stanley and Glady Downing, R. R. 1, Belleville, wish to thank their many friends for acts of kindness, flowers and sincere words of sympathy in their recent sad bereavement of their father, William John Downing. (Colborne papers please copy.)

IN MEMORIAM

GREATRIX—In loving memory of my mother, Sarah Jane Reeves, who passed away five years ago June 5, 1944.

If I had all the world to give,
I'd give it, yes, and more,
To hear your voice and see your smile,
And greet you at my door.
But all I can do dear mother,
Is go and tend your grave,
And leave behind my tokens of love,
To the best mother God ever made.
I'like to think when life is done,
Wherever Heaven may be,
That you'll be waiting at the door,
Up there to welcome me.

NON REPETAT:
The customer asked to have her prescription refilled. But as the pharmacist looked up the prescription in his file, he found that the physician had marked it "non repetat."—do not repeat. The pharmacist didn't refill this prescription.
It is the pharmacist's business to fill prescriptions and usually he will gladly refill them, but there are certain instances where ethics or the law do not allow him to do so. One of these is the prescription marked "non repetat." The physician here specifically indicates that he wishes the patient to take only the quantity of medicine originally prescribed.
The pharmacist will carry out this instruction just as painstakingly as he does any other contained in the prescription. By so doing, he is acting in the interest of your safety and your health.—Reprinted from a copyrighted advertisement published by Parke, Davis & Company.

Three Suspects Flee Shots Fired By Constable

Woodstock, June 4 (CP)—Fleeing from revolver shots fired by South Norwich Township Constable Arthur Kilpatrick, three men Friday escaped from village of Otterville, 16 miles south of here.

Tipped off by Dr. H. H. Batson, who heard glass breaking in the general store of J. K. Wardell and son across the street, Constable Kilpatrick drove to the scene arriving as one man rushed from the store and joined two others in car. Constable Kilpatrick blocked escape with his car but men put escape car in reverse. Constable fired three times at the car hitting each time. He believes he may have hit one of the men. Between $75 and $100 in stock of cigarets and razor blades were stolen. Wardell has operated the store only three or four months. Constable Kilpatrick said he recognized robbers' car as one described as being stolen from Hamilton.

Pig Leaves Crate, Plops Into Cab And Car Upsets

North Bay, June 4 (CP) — J. Pharand of Redbridge, near here, has learned to his sorrow that "pigs is pigs."

It all happened when farmer Pharand was trucking a pig to his home. The animal decided crates were no fun, so it accordingly climbed out of its wooden box, scrambled over the partition and plopped into the cab beside the astonished driver.

Farmer Pharand, taking a dim view of his new passenger made frantic efforts to return the pig to his proper seat.

Meanwhile, with no one paying much attention to it, the truck went out of control at the top of Redbridge Hill, left the highway, struck a rock and rolled over.

Man and pig escaped injury.

Tent Caterpillars Go on Rampage In Woodlands

Peterborough, June 4 (CP) — The woods are full of tent caterpillars, American or forest, Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, said today.

"You can hear them dropping through the leaves and some of them are getting down under shirt collars. The odd one has even got in between the bed sheets, and that is not the most pleasant experience." Trees in many sections of the north part of the country are completely stripped of leaves.

Accompanied by his assistant, Robert Bell, Mr. Paterson, surveyed the area on Thursday.

"We kept brushing them off our hair as they fell from the trees," Mr. Paterson said. "We were not certain whether they were the American tent or the Forest caterpillar, but we have sent a sample to the Department of Entomology at Guelph for complete identification.

They will do a lot of damage to leaves, but they won't otherwise harm the trees. The leaves will come out again. But, they really are on a rampage. I think they are at the height of their cycle, soon to pass into the pupa stage, and that is the last we shall see of them this season. It is likely there will not be so many next year. At any rate, the damage is already done, whatever the extent of it."

Tsingtao Said Occupied by Reds

Shanghai, June 4 (AP) — A reliable source said today Chinese Communists have occupied Tsingtao, the North China port which until recently was the anchorage for the United States western Pacific fleet.

United States ships and personnel pulled out of Tsingtao several days ago.

The informant said the Chinese Nationalists navy also had withdrawn and the Communists took over the city and port without a fight. It was the last city held by the Nationalists in northeast China.

The United States maintains a small consulate at Tsingtao. The Shanghai consulate said less than 40 Americans are in Tsingtao. There are about 70 British Nationalists there.

Meanwhile, the Communist "Liberation Daily" announced that dealing in all foreign exchange was being outlawed.

Marshal Yen Hsi-Shan, former north China warlord, was named Premier of Nationalist China at Canton. Marshal Yen was in Formosa, reportedly conferring with Chiang Kai-Shek.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY

WINIFRED E. WILSON

SINGING FEMALES

Thinking over the reasons WHY birds sing, we find that the general rule "only males sing" can be understood. There are three occasions when song is almost a necessity, and ttwo of these, quite naturally, call forth a burst of music from the male.

While perching birds, the male usually arrives north in the spring some time before the female. His first duty is to select property, and then hold it for his lady love. One method of exhibiting squatter's rights is to give what is known as the "territorial song"—telling all listeners that this land is taken, and rivals must keep outside the boundary lines. Once the females have come and he has chosen his wife, he sings what is called the "breeding song", especially for her benefit. Some bird watchers draw our attention to the fact that in cases where the male's coloring is not distinctive, he has an individual song, so that his wife may recognize him. When she steps outside the territory, his best song is used to draw her back. After the eggs have hatched she is even busier than he in feeding the children. But someone must guard the territory: he has to sing.

A few species have a special lay, rendered only when the bird is in the air. Watch the Oven-bird, the Northern Yellowthroat, or the Bobolink singing its "flight song" as it mounts on high, then drops down almost vertically. This little preformance seems to come from exuberance of spirits, so we might expect the wife to participate. But she has no time for frivolity.

Nevertheless, some female birds actually do sing. Viscount Grey writes that he has proved beyond doubt that female English Robins and Chaffinches occasionally carol. In Canada Mrs. Swallow is one that twitters, and Mrs. Black-throated Blue says "tsip" but the American Redstart, a warbler with a repertoire of several little The voice of the wife is indisinguishable from that of her husband; but when we see the musician we can tell in a moment which is performing. While he is black she is pale grey; markings which are pinky red on him are light yellow on her. She never shouts, but sings her little ditty happily, at nesting time, as with fluttering wings and spread tail she flits from branch to branch gathering tiny insects for her hungry brood.

Holds Ticket On Horse to Run In Irish Sweeps

Kirkland Lake, June 4 (CP)—G. E. Tipper, 25, who spends his time weighing other people's gold in the Macassa mine here, may soon have a chance to weigh some of his own. Tipper learned today that he holds a ticket on Watt Tyler, one of the horses running in the Epsom Downs Irish sweepstakes race tomorrow.

"It's too fantastic to believe," Tipper said today, "it's like a bubble that's liable to burst and not mean anything.' Although he has bought sweepstake tickets consistently over the past few years, Tipper has yet to win a cent. "This might be the time,' he said hopefully. A bachelor who lives with his parents, Tipper plans to invest his winnings, if they materialize, in a new home and a new car. The rest he will bank.

"One thing is sure," he said. "I won't be in too much of a hurry to get married."

Young Married Couple Honored

Allan's Mills—The Orange Hall in Springbrook was well filled on Friday evening, when the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert McComb met and tendered the young couple a shower. An address was read by Bob Cosby and the bride and groom were presented with a Dav-o-bed and many beautiful gifts. They graciously thanked their friends and neighbors and all were cordially invited to visit them in the new home. A very enjoyable evening was spent in dancing. Left Their Wives In 'Uncertain' Lands

Toronto, June 4 (CP)—County Court Judge A. E. Honeywell Thursday criticized two immigrants applying for Canadian citizenship who left their wives in "uncertain" countries.

One of the 135 foreignborn applicants, John Waxrex, told the judge he would try to bring his wife from Czechoslovakia. "It's pretty late now," Judge Honeywell replied.

When Stanislaw Boran offered to bring his wife from Poland, the judge told him "You can try but you won't succeed."

Thinks Stalin May Reach Century Mark

New York, June 4 (AP)—Prime Minister Stalin—if the life expectancy of some of his fellow Georgians means anything—may live to be a hundred, Lt.-Gen. Walter Bedell Smith said Thursday. The former United States envoy to Russia told the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York: "So far as I know, Marshal Stalin's health is all right. It is not unusual for Georgians to live to be 100 years old." Stalin, now 69, is a native of that Caucasian Mountain province.

RAINFALL

Rainfall in this area was less than half the precipitation in the same month of May one year ago, 1.61 inches as compared with 3.48 inches against a normal fall of 2.37 inches.

In this section where agriculture forms so great a part of the economy rain is a necessity for the production of the crops which occupy so large a share of the annual wealth produced in the fields and forests in this fertile area.

The fairly cool weather of the past few weeks has had its effect in offsetting to a degree the lighter rainfall of the spring months.

In this district the amount of precipitation is generally well maintained so that the growing crops and the harvests achieve a satisfactory average year after year.

PRACTICAL LESSON

There is nothing like an object lesson to show people a principle involved. Work will shortly begin in New York Bronx Zoo on a novel and imaginative outdoor exhibit to show how the nation's natural resources are being depleted and how they can be restored, says the New York Times. Such an object lesson should assist very much in inculcating in the minds of the people the thought that resources need to be conserved. It will show the erosion of soil and how erosion can be prevented.

"It will show, by means of actual tree plantings, how and why reforestation should be carried out. It will show the problems and the possibilities of stream control," the Times says. Species of animals native to New York will roam the area and the exhibit will teach visually perhaps the most important lesson of all—that natural resources must be considered as a whole, that forests, soils, water supply and wild life are interdependent, that the protection of one means the protection of all.

The aim is to bring before the people of all ranks the facts, so that great numbers of people will see the object lesson and come to understand sound conservation practices.

To see how nature works, how she preserves the species of animals under the conditions which have surrounded them in their development is something that will have practical value.

The fine example of reforestation in many parts of Ontario by individuals and communities is an object lesson worth a great deal to the people of today and the future generations.

PREHISTORIC MONSTER

There are some large animals in the world today, the elephant, the giraffe and so on, but modern man knows that there were larger animals in the ancient past.

The pre-historic cave bear was an enormous animal and many specimens of his bones have been found; the largest known bear reconstructed from them was estimated to have been about nine feet high when standing on his hind legs. This huge beast is far surpassed by the remains of a cave bear found sixteen hundred feet up in the Ligurian Alps, which rise behind the Italian Riviera. Christopher Serpell told listeners to the BBC's "Radio Newsreel" about this new discovery, made in a cave that was one of a long chain of passages and chambers.

Some enthusiasts determined to explore the region and entered the first cave at eight o'clock one evening. They emerged at four o'clock next day, after a most exciting twenty hours underground. They had found a subterranean river and had followed its course to a vast chamber containing a lake, a lake that may well be the river's source. On the way back from this they passed a heap of boulders and it was only on examining this that they found it to be a pile of enormous bones. One of these bones that they brought to the surface has now been identified as that of a pre-historic cave bear which roamed Europe at the time when the mammoth and the sabre-toothed tiger were also in existence. No one can tell the exact size of this bear until all his bones have been brought out of the cave into which he crept to die some hundred and fifty thousand years ago, but if the rest of him is in proportion to the bone already examined he may have been fifteen to twenty feet long.

Newfoundland brings to the rest of Canada's provinces new place names, very striking in their appeal. Vancouver Sun quotes some of them for their naive and charming appeal and imaginativeness as Topsail, Lance Amour, Brandy Harbor, Broom's Bottom, Ireland's Eye, Harbor My God, Empty Basket, Heart's Deside, Damnable Bay, God Almighty Cove, Little Cat Arm, Whale's Gulch, Pinchgut Tickle, Lushus Bight and Come-by-Chance.

They also serve who only stand and wait.—Milton.

DARKNESS

We see the rags upon the back,
We see the grime upon the hand,
But darker than the night—the black
That hides the power to understand.

We see the wrong and folly done,
For these are plain to every eye;
But there is neither moon nor sun
To shine upon the reason why.

We see the sorry signs of shame,
And all the tragedies of sin,
But we might pity more than blame
If we could see the heart within.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Being on Time

Punctuality is something that should be one of the cardinal virtues. As a matter of fact it is exactly that, but it is forever being badly battered. There is one virtue about a train—it leaves on the dot, as a rule. Otherwise there would be confusion in an endless number of ways.

Punctuality in an office is important. It should start on time. Imagine what a fix you would be in if your automobile refused to function in only a few of its parts! You would not even get started. Every instrument in an orchestra must be exactly in tune. Whenever a single employe is late the entire machinery of an office is injured.

Be late to an appointment and you have cheated both yourself and the one with whom you had the appointment. Said Napoleon: "The reason why I beat the Austrians is that they did not know the value of five minutes." I once knew a business man who would immediately break his engagement with one who was late. Not only is it bad taste to be late for an appointment, but intensely discourteous to the one with whom you have it.

There are those who persist in being late for the theatre. They come in late, often treading upon the toes of those seated, and distract attention from the production itself. It is irritating and unkind, as well, to others who have arrived and taken their seats on time. I know people who make it a practice to be late for functions. They think that it is "stylish" but where they ever got the idea is a mystery.

Many a one has lost a valuable opportunity by not being on time. The race horse who hesitates and doesn't get off on the dot often loses the race. Too many people in life "miss the bus" and so are left behind to harbor their disappointment. This universe is run on time. Future happenings are predicted to the minute. The early bird not only gets the worm, as the saying goes, but it cashes in on health and satisfaction as well. Human beings have the same opportunity. Be on time and keep your equilibrium!

WHAT WE OWE TO OTHERS

There are many people today who are sponging on Christianity They never attend church, disclaim all religious faith and sneer at the pious. Yet it must be admitted in all frankness that such people sometimes live quite upright lives are actuated in all they do by a noble sense of honor, and are able to bear the burdens of life with fortitude.

Why? They have no religious faith; how then can they have lives which manifest the fruit of religion? For the simple reason that someone else who was faithfully religious established family customs or passed on certain personal characteristics to these agnostic descendants which enabled them to live lives of moral elevation.

All morality springs from religion. It may not spring from the religion of the person who practises this morality, but the man who believes in the good life and tries to live it is the beneficiary of a good environment; or he is the son of godly parents or the pupil of some godly mentor or the friend of someone who struggles with unseen forces to retain his faith and to live the life of glory, and who succeeds in passing his legacy on to his associates.

Agnosticism and atheism never have produced morality and never will. When agnostics and atheists live the good life, it is because some one before them lived the religious life.

Administrator Anglo-Canadian Food Contracts Likes Canada

By HAROLD MORRISON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, June 4 — (CP) — Sir Andrew Jones moves quietly around Canada these days looking for more bacon to ship to the United Kingdom.

He's also watching the movement of canned salmon, cheese, eggs and wheat and looking over the bills — totalling more than $380,000,000 this year — the British Food Ministry owes Canada.

Sir Andrew, 59, likes his work. He also likes Canada — although perhaps not as much as South Africa — and gets along very well with high - level government officers who help move the Canadian food supplies overseas.

Being negotiator and administrator of Anglo - Canadian food contracts is a comparatively new job for Sir Andrew. Most of his career in the British civil service has been spent under the hot African sun, as administrator, and later as co-ordinator of colonial activities in the Second World War.

Prefers Winters Here

There's a difference, he finds, working in Johannesburg and Ottawa. In Ottawa he'd rather have winter than summer. This capital's summer is laden with humidity and hotter than African deserts where the humidity is relatively low.

Part Welsh and part Irish, Sir Andrew is an Oxford graduate who heads the United Kingdom Food Mission to Canada. During four years in Ottawa he's negotiated $2,000,000,000 worth of food for his country.

Sir Andrew has seen a good deal of Canada. Just say he hasn't and he'll tell you gruffly: "I've travelled more in Canada than most people."

During the First and Second World Wars he was shoulder-deep in British administration work in South Africa. He was knighted in 1943 at the age of 53 — "an average age if you're going to be knighted at all."

Needs More Bacon

His big worry now is the Anglo - Canadian bacon contract, which calls for the shipment of 160,000,000 pounds in 1949. Sir Andrew says "We'll be lucky if we get half of that amount."

He doesn't know what's happened to the egg shipments. They recently appeared to be falling off. Canada is supposed to ship about 1,300,000 cases this year, but the actual amount may not exceed 1,000,000.

Premier Frost To Seek New Deal In Housing

Toronto, June 4 — (CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario said Friday that Toronto and Hamilton, backed by the provincial government, will seek a new deal in housing from the Dominion government.

Representatives of the two cities conferred Thursday with provincial officials and drafted a plan that — if approved by the Dominion — would believe the municipalities of the cost of subsidizing rental housing.

The premier said the proposal calls for the Dominion to pay the cost of the land and to share equally with the province the cost of providing essential services, such as sewers and roads.

The municipalities under the plan would collect normal taxes instead of the flat $75 per house they now receive in lieu of taxes. The Federal Housing Authority now pays the rate.

At present the municipalities provide the land and pay the larger share of services on rental housing projects financed by the Dominion government.

Premier Frost said the municipalities have reached the saturation point in the payment of housing subsidies and must be relieved of the burden or essential services will suffer.

Toronto and Hamilton have spent more than $1,000,000 each on rental housing projects, he said, and are losing large amounts annually as a result of the flat rate principle. He said Hamilton collects $75 on a house although normal taxes would be $100.

The premier quoted Reconstruction Minister Winters as saying the Dominion is prepared to pay grants towards low - rental housing projects.

Election Campaign Already Started And Getting Hot

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The political campaign for Britain's next general election, which is due a year hence but might be precipitated earlier, already is under way and is getting hot.

In a historic battle in which Britain's first outright Socialist government is fighting to retain the leadership which it wrested from the long reigning Conservatives in 1945, Former Prime Minister Churchill again is leading the charge of the Conservative brigade.

The London Daily Herald — organ of the Labor party — is angry with Mr. Churchill, accusing him of imputing that under the Socialists the Empire is being thrown away.

Churchill Speaks

This isn't the first time Churchill has attacked the Socialists along the Imperial line. One of his fiercest assaults was made back in December, 1946, in the House of Commons when Prime Minister Attlee announced steps to expedite self-government in Burma. Churchill charged the government with undue haste "in divesting ourselves of the great possessions of the British Crown," Hand added:

"This haste is appalling. Scuttle is the only word that can be applied to what, spread over a number of years, would be a healthy constitutional process."

Opposes Hasty Action

It is to be noted that Churchill has not attacked the policy of granting independence to countries like India and Burma, but rather has opposed haste. On that basis we'll take a look at the situation as an impartial American observer. I have been studying India intensively for more than a generation and have spent much time there.

India and Pakistan were out for absolute independence. So were Burma and Ceylon. They wanted action and they meant business. It's a fair bet that if Britain hadn't acted when it did in granting independence, some or all of these dependencies would have taken matters into their own hands.

As things have worked out, free India has decided to play ball with Britain and is remaining a member of the Commonwealth of Nations. Others are expected to follow suit.

This readjustment has given fresh strength to the Commonwealth. There will be further changes, for the empire is in process of a mighty metamorphosis.

Thus on the whole Britain would seem to have bridged its imperial difficulties exceedingly well.

SAVE YOUR TEETH

I'll say as a student of health, vite and longevity I have the utmost respect and admiration for all good dentists. Trouble is, there are so many dental practitioners who do not qualify. It is not their own fault, however. It is the fault of medical education in America. When I say medical education I mean the education of dentists as well as the education of oculists, internists or general surgeons. If a reasonable degree of intelligence and common sense were applied to medical education dentists would receive the same basic medical training as oculists and other "specialists" and general practitioners do, and graduate with the degree Doctor of Medicine—that would make them "Doctors" in fact.

Harvard Dental School has adopted this very idea—students must first complete the medical course leading to the degree of M.D. before they can take up the study of dentistry. I believe a dental school in Baltimore has seen the light and followed, but anyway Harvard has spilled the beans and it won't be long before the dentists of the country start the trek back to the medical profession, from which they split a century or more ago.

As I always say, and believe, every tooth is worth at least $1000, I mean every functionally efficient tooth. On this basis if your dentist can prepare and install some kind of denture which will carry on the function of a damaged tooth or a missing tooth, the dentist's service is the best investment you can possibly make, whether your time is worth ten cents or ten dollars an hour, and whether you hope to live five years or fifty years more.

Although I value my own teeth highly, I'd feel like a ninny if I had to pay for glorified soap to wash my mouth or teeth and more for a scrub brush. I just can't understand how the dentists can give even passive support to the tooth brushing habit in the face of the fact that people who never brush their teeth have the best teeth in the world. Credulous people will continue to believe thorough brushing of the teeth prevents caries or decay of the teeth, as long as the dentists seem to sanction the practice.

A few fortunate individuals retain sound teeth for many years without any particular care or treatment, but for most of us preservation of the teeth depends on two factors, namely, good nutrition and regular examination and treatment by the dentist.

The No. 1 little lesson in the pocket health library Little Lessons in the Ways of Health is a 70-page booklet called Save Your Teeth (for copy send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope). The No. 1 key to vite, in the booklet The 7 Keys to Vite (for copy ditto) is Save your Teeth. In the pamphlet Yankee Stomach, about hyperacidity, heartburn, uneasiness from fulness after eating, boating by gas, etc., (for copy send stamped self addressed envelope) I explain the importance of that part of digestion which occurs in the mouth during mastication and continues for half an hour or more after the food has been swallowed, provided the food has been properly chewed—and there you are right back to the functional efficien[illegible] of your Teeth and/or the [illegible]tures supplied by your Den[illegible]

Demands Excessive Greig Tells Workers

Windsor, June 4 — (CP)—Ford of Canada, Ltd., estimated today it would cost $13,000,000 annually to grant employees' demands made by the United Automobile Workers (C. I. O.) in current contract negotiations.

Douglas B. Greig, company president, said in a letter to the 1[illegible]000 Ford employees "The blunt fact is that we cannot meet such demands."

In negotiations started a few days ago the union demands a social security program and pension plan similar to that sought by Ford workers in the United States. The Canadian union wants $100 monthly pension for employees over 60 who have worked 25 years with the company as well as a plan covering hospital, medical, surgical and life insurance benefits.

In addition, the union seeks more paid vacations and holidays and double off-shift premiums.

Mr. Greig said the company wants to bargain "in good faith" but the annual cost of $13,000,000 would be equal to a wage increase of 46½ cents an hour. He said the company's annual net profit [illegible] the last 20 years had been [illegible] than one-fifth of $13,000,000.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Commercial fishermen both on salt water and fresh look upon the cormorant as a dangerous rival. They kill it whenever they get the chance.

Cormorants are not generally distributed in Canada, but occur in local tribes on both the Atlantic and Pacific as well as on the larger freshwater bodies all across the Dominion. These tribes come and go. Sometimes a lapse of forty years or more will lie between the return of a colony to certain lakes. And always, the commercial fishermen demand government action against them. There have been scientific surveys made both on the Atlantic and the Pacific. The biologists' answer is always the same: the fish taken by the cormorant are almost exclusively non-commercial. But this makes no difference to the fishermen.

The tradition is that when the cormorants arrive, the fishing gets poor.

From the Lake of the Woods country the latest outcry against the cormorant is heard. The fishermen want the birds slaughtered. Rather than release a pogrom on the cormorants, the biologists are undertaking a campaign of birth control. They are going to visit the nesting rocks of the cormorants, dip the eggs in a chemical which will render them infertile, assure that they will not hatch. Thus, while the cormorants won't be slaughtered, their colony will have no increase this year.

If the biologists or fishermen merely destroy the nests and smashed the eggs, the cormorants would go to work, build new nests of sticks and seaweed, and promptly lay a fresh clutch of eggs. By the dipping method the poor old ladies are kept sitting on the eggs until the possibility of a new clutch is past.

Science is satisfied that in due time the fishermen will accept the facts demonstrated by the examination of a sort of Gallup So birth control is restored to—machs. Meanwhile, science does not want the bird exterminated. So birth control is restored to—a man with a pail of chemical crawling over the rocks dipping eggs!

Probe Death Of Tavern Waiter

Montreal, June 4 (CP) — An inquest was ordered today into the death of Louis Poitras, 39-year-old tavern waiter, who suffered injuries in a street fight. Police said they are holding Byron Ryan of Ottawa, 17-year-old merchant seaman, at police headquarters as a material witness pending result of the inquest.

Police said the two got in a fight on Stanley Street, in uptown Montreal, and that Ryan knocked Poitras down and then kicked him in the face.

Poitras was taken to the Central Division of the Montreal General Hospital where he died. It was believed he died of a skull fracture, suffered when his head hit the sidewalk.

Ottawa (CP)— Donald Ryan, Ottawa lawyer, said today he was shocked to hear that his only son Byron was being held as material witness in the death of a Montreal tavern waiter.

A report from Montreal said the waiter, Louis Poitras, died as the result of a street brawl between the two men.

The 17-year-old Ottawa-born youth was a member of the Seamen's International Union (A.F.[illegible]) and had been sent to Cuba [illegible] man the Federal Pioneer, a vessel strike-bound as a result of the Canadian Seamen's Union (T.L.C.) dispute.

Apparently he arrived back in Montreal Thursday and telephoned his parents here.

Mr. Ryan said he would leave for Montreal immediately to talk to his son and to Montreal police.

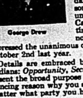
Major Details of

The Progressive Conservative Party's Declaration of Policy— Drafted and Approved by Canadians from every Province— Representing Every walk of Life



George Drew

I have now visited all ten provinces since Parliament was dissolved. In one thing there is widespread agreement throughout the whole of Canada: it is time for a change. The important thing for all Canadians to decide between now and June 27th is what that change will be. On earlier occasions over the radio I have put forward some of the reasons why a change is so necessary if we are to restore Parliament to the people and lift the burden of taxation and arbitrary controls from the shoulders of those who are doing the work of the nation in all their many daily tasks. At this time, with the election four weeks away, I would like to review some of the major details of the Declaration of Policy which was drafted and unanimously approved by the delegates of our Party from every constituency in Canada and representing every occupation. I have already referred at different times to many of its details. This is no hastily-drafted election manifesto. It is not my statement of policy, or statement prepared by any group or committee. It expressed the unanimous opinion of delegates from every province who met in Ottawa from September 30th to October 2nd last year.

Details are embraced by the three words which interpret the purpose of the undertaking we give to Canadians: Opportunity, Security, Freedom. Those words constitute no meaningless, time-worn slogan. They represent the broad purpose of a dynamic and progressive plan of action which we have placed before you as a convincing reason why you should support the Progressive Conservative candidate in your own constituency. no matter what party you have supported in the part.

May I quote the very first words contained in that Declaration of Policy: "Freedom is one and indivisible. If economic freedom is lost, political freedom will be lost. Economic freedom is the essence of competitive enterprise, and competitive enterprise is the foundation of our democratic system. All history shows that competitive enterprise provides the maximum of production and therefore the maximum of social security. For those reasons we affirm our belief in the principle of economic freedom. Economic freedom will promote thrift, foster and encourage the qualities of self-reliance, industry, and initiative which have brought this nation to its present enviable position. It will preserve and improve our standard of living."

With that statement, and believing in freedom as we do, we have also undertaken to make the necessary amendments in our Criminal Code to deal effectively with those who are working to establish a Communist dictatorship here in Canada. In the name of freedom we do not intend to permit treacherous, anti-Christian agents of that evil tyranny to destroy the freedom for which Canadians paid so great a price. We also believe that our constitution must be respected and observed to preserve national unity and also to make secure our own freedom by those wise balances of authority between the dominion and the provincial governments which were devised as a check on the concentration of power in the hands of the national government. Believing that the strongest basis of freedom is the encouragement offered free people to better their own condition by saving from what they earn and building a home as the centre of the family life, we are opposed to a system of taxation which makes it difficult to save even with the present relatively high earnings.

I take this opportunity to review some of the major features of our policy with particular reference to three words: opportunity, security and freedom.

OPPORTUNITY

First let me refer to the word 'opportunity'. The Progressive Conservative Party will assure opportunity to all our people by:

A bold and progressive national development programme

Canada is on the threshold of her greatest period of development, if a vigorous government, with faith in the future is given the opportunity to bring into production the immense resources which we possess in every part of Canada. While the vast areas of the North challenge our vision and our courage, there is no part of Canada where there are not new opportunities of development if we provide the electric energy and other sources of power which will encourage new industries and new types of agricultural production which can make every part of Canada more productive in the years ahead.

Our national development programme will cover the development of power, oil, coal, mineral resources and the transportation facilities necessary for their full use. In particular we will establish (a) a National Development Advisory Council in co-operation with the provinces; (b) establish a National Power Authority to co-operate with the provinces in the technical examination of possible power development and in the actual development of electric power at cost; (c) undertake the commencement of a joint conservation, irrigation and power project on the Saskatchewan River; (d) encourage the development of power in the Maritime Provinces from coal as well as by other means; (e) promote the development of the great iron ore resources of our country and the establishment of greatly expanded steel industry within Canada; (f) stimulate the development of petroleum and other mineral resources in co-operation with the provinces by taxation and fiscal policies which will encourage the investment of risk capital; (g) institute a vigorous programme of water conservation, reforestation, flood control, irrigation and drainage schemes throughout the whole of Canada for the reclamation of unproductive land and the preservation of our soil, and along with other similar activities in co-operation with the provincial governments; (h) establish a positive programme of marshland reclamation and development; (i) take effective steps at the earliest possible date to co-operate with the provincial governments in building the Trans-Canada Highway and feeder roads, which will not only greatly increase our transportation facilities, but also help to open out the vast possibilities of the tourist business in every part of Canada; (j) remove the discrimination in freight rates between the several geographical areas of Canada so that all sections of our country may receive the full benefit from the development of our great resources; (k) deal effectively with the special transportation problem of Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland, Cape Breton and Vancouver Island; (l) take the necessary steps to proceed with the development of the power and waterways project on the St. Lawrence River.

Expansion of trade

The ultimate value of all our development depends upon the distribution and sale of what we produce. Because of our tremendous producing capacity we are one of the world's great exporters. The external markets for our surplus products contribute very largely to the pay envelopes which buy the food, clothing and other necessities in every Canadian home. Look around you in your own home now. The things you have depend upon that overseas trade, no matter what your occupation may be. Overseas markets have been lost, and our trade is dangerously threatened by the government's foolish trade and monetary policy. As our trade with Britain and other overseas markets are lost, Canadians are being reassured by the volume of our exports to the United States. We believe in increasing our exports to the United States to the highest possible level. We believe that all Canada's exports can be, and should be, tremendously increased. We know, however, that disastrous results would follow any attempt to depend exclusively upon exports to one nation no matter how friendly that nation may be. The loss of our trade in wheat, lumber, fish, apples, dairy products and the other things that we have been shipping overseas means more than a mere question of dollars and cents. It means a loss of business on the railways, in the seaports, and on the ships which have been carrying this trade to the world. It would dislocate our whole internal trading organization and force serious readjustments of employment with our railways and other transportation services. The Progressive Conservative Party pledges itself to adopt every practical means to expand our internal trade with the United States and with all other nations where we can sell what we produce. By reciprocal trade agreements we will promote and expand our trade overseas and also with the United States. Particularly we will (a) remove all abnormal trade barriers imposed by way of license, quota, or embargo; (b) remove the arbitrary provisions of the Foreign Exchange Control Act; (c) re-value the Canadian dollar within the limits permitted by the Bretton Woods agreement and seek such modification of those agreements as are necessary to permit our dollar to assist our external trade in the normal way; (d) open negotiations immediately for the purpose of making the dollar and pound convertible, so that we may open and expand our lost overseas markets in the sterling area.

Reduction of Taxes

The greatest encouragement to work, production and trade is the opportunity to receive a fair return from which money can be saved for our families, our homes and provision for the future. Even with high earnings today, our present tax system is making it difficult to save and is greatly increasing the cost of everything we buy. Reduction of taxes and sweeping reforms in our system of taxation are necessary to encourage initiative and reward hard work. With that in mind, the Progressive Conservative Party has undertaken to: (a) increase the personal income tax exemption to at least $2,500 for a married person, and to at least $1,250 for single persons; (b) increase the exemption for dependent children by $200; (c) lower the general rate of personal income tax; (d) allow deductions to farmers for work done by members of the family who share the work of the farm; (e) end the persecution of our people by tax-collectors acting under arbitrary power; (f) encourage development and improvement of small businesses operated by the owner by allowing proper exemption for money which is put into the improvement of the business and not paid out in profits; (g) provide for a graduated reduction in taxes on other small businesses upon the portion of the income left in the business for further development and consequently for the increase of employment; (h) abolish nuisance taxes and make substantial reductions in general sales and excise taxes on necessities.

SECURITY

The Progressive Conservative Party assures security to all Canadians by the following Declaration of Policy.

Security of Employment

We believe that the greatest assurance of employment in Canada is based upon the fullest development of our resources which will create new employment across the whole country and increase the domestic markets for all that we produce. In addition to the discovery and employment of new resources, the remarkable scientific developments of the past few years have greatly widened the use we can make of all the resources we possess. In co-operation with the various provincial governments we will explore every possibility of expanding the opportunities for work by encouraging new types of production.

Contributory Social Security Programme

The Progressive Conservative Party puts forward a contributory social security programme providing the following benefits amongst others:

1. Believing that provision for our senior citizens at a level of payment which will give them a feeling of independence in their retiring years is essential, we have stated that we do not believe that old-age pensions should be regarded as a favour, but should be a right and that no charge should be made on such property as has been saved during their working years, nor should there be any enquiry as to whether some money is being earned by the person receiving the pension. We believe that the laws of the country should not discourage saving during the working years and such work as our people wish to do in their old age. For that reason we provide for old-age pensions at 65 without a Means Test.

2. Unemployment Insurance benefits will be extended to include payments for time lost due to accident or sickness.

3. Adequate medical and hospital care will be provided for our people under a national health programme which will also include the most extensive preventative health services.

4. The same family allowance will be paid for every child, no matter how many children are in the family, and the nutritional and other services for our children will be greatly improved.

These, and other provisions included in our programme, will be worked out in co-operation with the provinces, so that the highly-skilled and experienced public welfare services of the provincial governments will be available.

An Effective Programme for the Construction of Homes

1. Loans and priorities will be made available to those who desire to build their own homes. 2. Low-cost housing can, and will be provided under plans approved by the dominion, provincial and municipal governments which will be administered by the municipalities. 3. The cost of building homes can be reduced by encouraging new types of construction. What is causing so much concern to our people at present is not only the shortage of housing accommodation, but also the excessive cost of small homes, particularly those required by our young people starting out in life. In this respect I might point out that while I was Premier of Ontario we introduced a Housing Act in regard to which the official publication of the Canadian Legion had the following to say and I quote from their editorial: "Veterans everywhere will acclaim the new housing legislation recently enacted in the province of Ontario. In this new housing legislation the Ontario government is blazing new trails, out of which might materialize the long-awaited, over-all plan for the successful solution of the housing problem in every part of the dominion, which the Legion has been pressing for so hard ever since the war ended." The effect and application of this Act was necessarily limited by the overriding authority of the dominion government, which restricted supplies for building homes by their restrictive regulations. We will remove those restrictions and the principles of that Act to which I have referred can be made effective in the wider field by constitutional agreement between the dominion, provincial and municipal authorities who must all play their part in solving this very urgent problem.

Security for our Farmers

Our programme sets out a very complete statement of policy in regard to stability of income for our farmers. I will refer to some of the more important provisions: 1. We undertake to enact floor-price legislation based on the following principles: (a) A definite formula in the Farm Prices Support Act for arriving at floor prices. (b) This formula will allow for variation in production and demand for individual products. (c) Floor prices will be announced well in advance of the production period. (d) The floor price will be arrived at in consultation with representative producers.

We favour the restoration of the Canadian Wheat Board Act of 1935 to serve as a marketing agency for wheat producers. We are in favour of coarse grains as well as wheat being handled on a voluntary basis by the Wheat Board. We assure that producers themselves will decide the method by which their wheat will be handled and sold. This statement of policy, and it is an emphatic statement of policy, is based upon our belief that marketing boards, representative of producer organizations should, and will, determine their own method of marketing. The Wheat Board and all similar producers' boards, will be made up of producers themselves and not be mere agencies of some department of government.

3. We will establish a Board of livestock commissioners.

4. We will extend the activities of the Federal Farm Loan Board so that farmers may take advantage of long-term, low-interest rates in the purchase and development of their farms.

5. We will increase the facilities for agricultural research to explore new uses of agricultural products for industrial purposes and in co-operation with provincial Departments of Agriculture conduct thorough studies of contagious animal and plant diseases to reduce the heavy annual loss from this cause.

6. In determining agricultural policy, we will enlist the co-operation of farmers' organizations throughout Canada and those specializing in particular types of production, so that all administrative as well as advisory boards will have representation of those with expert knowledge of the subject upon which they will be asked to deal. These and the other provisions in our agricultural programme are all based upon the belief that the best interests of agriculture throughout Canada can be served under the guidance of those with practical knowledge of each agricultural activity.

Security for Labour

(a) Our national development programme, our proposed tax reform and our plans for the expansion of trade offer the assurance of expanding employment in the years ahead. Good working conditions and satisfactory terms of employment can be assured best by effective laws governing labour relations. In the field of national jurisdiction, the Progressive Conservative Party puts forward a policy based upon the belief that good working conditions for our people and friendly relations between workers and management are not only in the best interests of our workers, but also in the best interests of every Canadian. We believe that the position of labour must be constantly improved and that the security and happiness of all our workers must be protected by legislation which will provide for effective collective bargaining, determination of the mutual rights of workers and management, as well as the conciliation and settlement of difficulties which may arise. With this object in view, we will establish a National Labour Council which will have equal numbers of representatives of labour and management. This council will examine and consider the causes of labour disputes and propose satisfactory solutions for such problems. It will also conduct research into the ways in which labour relations can constantly be improved.

(b) We will provide for greater representation of labour on government boards, commissions, and agencies.

(c) We will encourage profit-sharing plans for the sharing of profits of workers by such adjustment in taxation and otherwise as will encourage plans of this kind.

(d) We will constantly improve the legislation providing for compulsory collective bargaining, certification of labour organizations after a majority vote, machinery for conciliation of disputes, fair and adequate wages, standard hours of work having regard to the nature of the industry concerned, and holidays with pay

We have also an excellent programme for Security for Veterans

We believe that the government of Canada has no greater responsibility than to make adequate provision for the young men and women who served Canada in two world wars. Our Party has at all times insisted that the promises made during the war to those in service should be carried out in the spirit as well as the letter of the assurances which were given. Our programme therefore gives the following undertakings to our veterans:

(a) To establish a standing committee of the House of Commons on Veterans' Affairs which will regularly review all veterans' problems;

(b) to retain and constantly improve all existing veteran legislation;

(c) to eliminate all unnecessary delays in dealing with veterans and to simplify procedure;

(d) to extend pension benefits to the members of the merchant navy;

(e) to accept as the basis for all decisions the medical category recorded on enlistment and to regard physical condition below that standard during service as the actual result of military service;

(f) to stabilize the pensions of veterans of the First World War, providing for upward revision where the disability has increased;

(g) to increase and extend the provision of war veterans' allowances with an increase in the amount that a veteran may earn over and above the allowance paid.

FREEDOM

Our constitutional freedom is based upon the democratic principle that the people's chosen representatives in Parliament are supreme, and have the final responsibility for all laws which affect the rights of our people. This principle is the corner-stone of all our freedom. The Progressive Conservative Party pledges itself to put and end to statism in Canada and terminate bureaucratic action by government order-in-council, ministerial proclamation, and departmental regulation. We will restore responsible government answerable to the elected representatives of the people. We believe in the widest possible measure of personal liberty consistent with law, order and the general national welfare. We are opposed to all powers which invest in the government arbitrary control over the rights of the individual. We pledge ourselves to restore the full supremacy of the law and the equality of every citizen under the law. We believe that the closer government is to the people, the better government always is. We are determined to conserve the authority of the provincial and municipal governments over those local affairs which can best be dealt with by men and women who are in intimate contact with them. We are strongly opposed to centralization of legislative and administrative power over local affairs, and to any breach of the constitutional authority of any of the provinces under the British North America Act which made us one nation. On assuming office we will arrange for a dominion-provincial conference to consider all aspects of dominion-provincial relations and establish an effective basis for close and continuing co-operation between all the governments of Canada. We believe that national unity depends upon respect for our federal constitution and the clear definition of the responsibility of the dominion and provincial governments, with assurance of adequate financial resources to carry out those responsibilities and with adequate financial resources to the municipalities to carry out their many very important responsibilities. In preserving our freedom it is essential that freedom of speech be fully protected. For that reason, it must be a matter of concern to all Canadians that the government-owned radio system which plays such an important role in the exchange of ideas should have become a propaganda agency of the government. May I emphasize that in my belief the staff and technical experts of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation are trying to do a good job under utterly impossible conditions. As you know, any attempt on the part of the employees of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to improve the organization only results in immediate disciplinary action. The summary dismissal, for instance, of Mr. Joel Aldred, one of the best known broadcasters of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation just the day before Parliament dissolved, because he had publicly suggested improvements within that organization, is merely an indication of the extent to which free speech is being restrained by the present government. We undertake to restore freedom of speech over the radio as well as otherwise, and to place the supervision of all broadcasting in Canada under an independent administrative body. We further undertake to abolish the license fee on radio receiving sets. We do this because this license fee, which is supposed to be for the services given by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, is unjustified because there are many parts of Canada where our people receive no services from the publicly-owned stations. All our freedom and all our security depend upon our national security and independence. For that reason, one of the first resolutions adopted unanimously by our delegates from every province last October, was an expression of unqualified support for the establishment of a defensive union of the Western Powers, which has since taken form in the North Atlantic Security Pact. Our support of that policy has at all times been stated in the same words and with the same emphasis in every part of Canada. The collective preservation of peace and the combined strength of the free nations now gives increased importance to national defence and the efficiency of our defence forces. We undertake to set up a standing committee on national defence which will keep Parliament and the people informed regarding the state of our defences and will also assure the most effective use of the money we spend for the purpose of providing defence forces.

The points I have covered in these remarks are only some of the progressive, practical and constructive policies which will be put into effect by a Progressive Conservative government. I believe this statement will provide convincing reasons why you should cast your ballot on June 27th for the Progressive Conservative candidate in your own constituency so that the public business of this great country will be handled by a strong, vigorous and progressive government in the years ahead.

AYPA Entertains O.S.D. Children At Christ Church

On Thursday evening, thirty-seven Anglican children from the Ontario School for the Deaf were royally entertained by members of Christ Church A.Y.P.A.

Arriving at the church at 5.30 p.m., they were welcomed by Rev. Mr. Sparling, Mrs. Sparling, Rev. E. Smith and Mrs. Smith, Miss Greene, A.Y.P.A. president and her committee, members of Christ Church Anglican Young People's Society.

The weather was bright and warm and the beautiful church grounds made an ideal spot for an outdoor party. Competitive games had been arranged and the children enthusiastically participated. Then each child donned a colorful paper hat. Lunch was served and large quantities of hot-dogs, chocolate milk, ice cream and cake soon disappeared.

Before leaving for home the children thanked Mr. and Mrs. Sparling, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Miss Greene and her committee who so kindly entertained them. They all agreed that it was a most enjoyable party and an outstanding event in their school year. Mrs. Wahnamaker, Miss Kellar, and Mr. Sinclair of the school staff accompanied the children and assisted in making the party a success.

It was decided to bring something for the kitchen to the next shower at Mrs. Norman Parks'.

Plans were made for the district annual dinner to be held in Stirling. Mrs. Fred Campbell, convener, took over the rest of the meeting and gave an interesting paper on publicity. Mrs. Heasman and Mrs. Bartindale gave readings.

A delicious lunch was served by those in charge.

Dramatic Class Assisted By Albert College Choir Presents Splendid Recital

Pupils of the dramatic class assisted by the Albert College choir on Friday evening presented a recital as part of the closing exercises at the school. A large audience filled Memorial Hall as students and their friends and relatives enjoyed a varied program of one-act plays and choral numbers.

Dr. Bert Howard, headmaster of the college welcomed the guests and introduced the first number which was a choir of mixed voices under the direction of Miss Muriel Clarke, singing "Come to the Fair" by Martin. The voices were nicely blended and showed careful training with tonal precision and harmony.

Three junior pupils Carolyn and Bobby Franklin and Diane Hales entertained the audience with readings which were well received.

A murder mystery "One of Us" by Emery concerned the death of Freda played by Sylvia Jackson in the home of her mother-in-law Agatha who hated her for what she had done to her son, Vernon (Paul Fleck). As Freda is about to run away a gun is fired through the doorway and kills her. Since everyone is suspect, including two guests played by Bob Mills and Rae Freeman and Agatha's spinster sister, Lettie, who is addicted to writing atrocious verse, the plot becomes involved as each individual is disclosed as having a motive. However as in true detective fiction the unexpected happens and sister, Letty, is disclosed as the guilty one after some exciting moments. Agatha was played by Cathy Rose and Lettie by Nora McGregor.

Male Voices Heard

A choir of male voices sang "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" followed by the feminine section singing "Kiss Me Again".

"The Bride's Bouquet" was a one-act play starring Marion Nevery as the bride, who gets jittery at the eleventh hour and is ready to call off the ceremony. The situation is not helped by the bridesmaids played by Nancy David and Shirley Alyea, and by the bridegroom's mother (Barbara Fargey), who discuss the groom's worst characteristics in the bride's presence. Another relative (Roberta Allen) also has some interesting information to pass along. The understanding mother (Vivien Cannon) calmly sets things right in her daughter's mind and the play ends happily.

A vocal number by the full choir "I'll See You Again", was followed by a play entitled "The Valiant". This was a dramatic offering staged in the Warden's room of the State prison. The Warden was played by Neil Burke, Father Daly by Jim Hayman; the part of the condemned man was taken by Terry Schelling; his sister was Joanne Passmore;; Wilson was played by Jack MacKay and the Jailer, by Dave Earnshaw.

Scout and Guide Activities

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce recently shipped between two and three hundred books to Halifax for the March of Books to replenish the destroyed libraries of Europe. These books were collected by the Belleville Boy Scouts earlier this year.

Cub and scout parents will be interested to know that all summer camps are required by law to be licensed by the Ontario Department of Health and operated in accordance with regulations established under the Public Health Act. They are also registered with provincial headquarters of the Boy Scouts Association.

District Commissioner R. L. Brown invested Assistant Cubmaster, Mrs. Helen Aselstine, Scoutmaster Eric Smith and Assistant Scoutmaster John Bromfield, of the 2nd Belleville Group in Christ Church on Friday, May 27. Chaplain Grant Sparling led the prayers. The Cub Pack, Scout Troop, Local Association and Scout and Cub parents were present. Demonstration games and activities and delicious refreshments concluded the evening.

The Belleville local association held their meeting in Christ Church parish hall on Friday, May 27. The Belleville Cub camp is to be held at the W.C.T.U. camp on Lake Consecon on July 23-31. The Association is forwarding $100 as their share in the Dollars of Decision. This is a fund set up for the advancement of Scouting throughout Canada. The quota set for Belleville by the provincial headquarters for the maintenance of the headquarters staff and the field commissioners is $75. The Belleville association is granted a credit of $28 toward this from a fund set up a few years ago by Colonel McLaughlin of Oshawa for the furtherance of scouting in Ontario.

1st Belleville (St. Thomas)

The troops spent part of their meeting repairing and cleaning their instructional and games equipment and whipping the ends of the recently purchased knotting ropes. The remainder of the meeting was taken up with passing 1st and 2nd class tests.

Cubs Wayne Muirhead and Eddie Gillespie were presented with their First Aid Proficiency Badges after being instructed and passed by Mr. C. N. Nicholson, chairman of the group committee. District Commissioner R. L. Brown assisted by Chaplain Arthur Smith invested Miss Betty Smith and Mrs. Walden, as assistant cubmasters to be known to the Pack by the jungle names of Ricky and Baloo. Wayne Muirhead was presented with his 2nd Star and Douglas Walters was presented with his 1st Star. The Cubs were selected to enter the various events of the Cuboree to be held in Trenton on Saturday, June 4th.

2nd Belleville

The troop journeyed to Oak Lake by car on May 24th., and hiked around the lake. They discovered a very pleasant camp site on the north shore and stopped to cook their dinner. During the meal it started to rain so the Scouts hastily constructed a lean-to and continued their meal. After the rain stopped they continued the hike around the lake and returned home in the late afternoon.

The Cub Pack are busily passing tests and selecting entrants for the Cuboree in Trenton.

8th Belleville

The Ladies' Auxiliary entertained the Ladies' Auxiliary of the 4th Group at the home of Mrs. Kane on Holloway Street. Scoutmaster Eric Smith and Scouts George Fairhead, John Young, Bob Gilham, Russel Carter and Ken Graham of the 2nd Belleville Troop put on a demonstration and explained the meaning of the Scout Badge.

1st. Belleville Brownie Pack

The last meeting of the season for the 1st Belleville Brownies was held in the form of a picnic at the little park along Ann Street on Tuesday, May 31st.

The weather, which had been very fitful for several days preceding the great event, rallied nobly at the last moment and it was a perfect afternoon for fun and games. And that is exactly what it was, fun and games.

After the opening ceremony, the Brownies played some of the games they play at usual Pack meetings and loved having open air and lots of space to run. This was followed by team races, Brown Owl insisting on several tricky feats to be performed by each child. This caused lots of fun and many laughs at the queer antics of many of the competitors.

By general acclamation, it was then agreed "to eat", and the Brownies assembled around the bright orange table, and really enjoyed their "lunches." Brown Owl read them a story during this time, and then after all litter had been carefully cleared away, the picnic was resumed with a Balloon Race. The Brownies really had lots of fun blowing up their balloons, tying them with string and patting them towards the winning post. Ice Cream was then served as a reward for all their efforts. Three-legged and Wheelbarrow races caused more merriment than ever, and it was a very reluctant pack that then formed their Fairy Ring to end the picnic. Expressing their thanks to Mrs. Alwyn Geen, Tawny Owl and Brown Owl for the lovely time they had had, the Brownies brought their meeting to a close with a Prayer, and toddled off home, tired but very merry, and with the memory of a very happy communal time together.

Company 7

As there were several Tenderfoot Guides to be enrolled an enrollment was held at the regular meeting on Wednesday, May 25. A new interest was added as the ceremony was held outside. The following were enrolled as Guides—Lorraine Belshaw, Jean Young, Carolyn Adams, Carol Fitzgibbon, Donna Orr and Barbara McElrath. Acting-lieutenant Phyllis Archard was also enrolled. The Captain was very pleased to be able to present the First Class badge to Patrol Leader Barbara Dix. This badge represents a great deal of work and is a real achievement. The Cook's and Needlewoman's badges were presented to Joanne Atkinson.

At the meeting on June 1st, the company had its first official visit from the Division Commissioner, Mrs. Oliver, Trenton, who accompanied our District Commissioner, Mrs. Watson, to the meeting. The commissioners inspected the Company and then Mrs. Oliver told the girls of the plans for camp and left the necessary application forms with the Captain. The camp is to be at Roblin's Lake from July 17 to July 27. There will be tents as well as the permanent camp buildings. The camp is in charge of widely experienced Guiders and the program should be lots of fun. Guides must have their Second Class or all but two tests to be eligible—so get busy girls! Applications must be in by June 15th., so there is no time to waste.

The Company meeting next week will be a hike so meet at the Hall at 5 o'clock, with your lunch and ready for a good walk, in uniform of course.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Every once in awhile a letter comes in that makes me wonder.

What I wonder is, whether the writer is seriously and sincerely telling me about a real problem, or is one of the misguided and adolescent people who find something humorous in writing phony letters to a lovelorn column.

What, for example, would you, as a reader, think of the following letter? Do you believe it is an honest statement of facts, or do you think as, I am inclined to do, that it is written by a would be jokester?

Here is what it says:

"I have been married for four years. When we married, my wife was healthy. Now she is sick.

"I have three children by a previous marriage. I think it is unfair that they should have a sick stepmother. It was bad enough for them that their own mother died.

"Now I have met another woman who I think would make a better mother for them. I would like to divorce my wife and marry this other woman. My wife has done nothing wrong, except that she is very cranky, and this upsets the children and me.

"My children should be brought up in a home where there is quiet. The doctor bills make the children get less. My sister tells me to divorce my wife now, before she gets worse, and before the children grow any closer to her. She has only known them this short while. My sister says there are many women who would marry me.

"I have not said anything about this to my wife. Should I or should I have a fight with her and take her into court?"

My doubt about the sincerity of this letter writer stems from my reluctance to believe that any man could be so contemptible as the letter makes him out to be.

Having persuaded one woman to take on the responsibility of bringing up the three children of another woman, this man, if his letter is taken to be true, now wants to throw her over after four years of marriage because she is ill. In other words, it appears that he was perfectly willing to put on her shoulders the burden of his children, with all the attendant possibilities of illness among them and other problems that might arise, but the minute she becomes something of a problem to him, he wants to get rid of her.

What a fine example to set his children! Instead of showing that a man cherishes and is loyal to his wife when trouble arises, he puts before them a shocking picture of a husband who has no idea whatever of marital loyalty. If his children grow up with the idea that marriage is something to be faithful to only so long as things go to one's liking, it will be nobody's fault but his own. Perhaps, even, that is the philosophy he wishes to pass on to them.

By his own admission, this wife has done nothing for which he could bring a divorce suit against her. All he can think of to do, therefore, is to pick a quarrel with her and take her to court, an idea so ludicrous that it could not possibly be taken seriously—another thing that seems to stamp the letter as the work of one who fancies himself a funny man.

If this man has a shred of decency in him — always provided there really is a man in these actual circumstances— he will face the situation squarely and see what can be done to work it out.

And if the letter is simply a hoax I would feel that the person who wrote it must have in himself something of the characteristics of the man he describes.

A Beauty Routine for Hands

During the summer months, give your hands just as much care as you do in the winter. Apply a good hand cream to combat the effect of sun and wind.

By HELEN FOLLETT

Something has happened to your hands! The skin surface is rough! You think your hands have gone back on you. The truth is, you have gone back on them. Perhaps you fancied that they needed the soothing lotion only in the winter season. You mustn't forget that the continual use of soap and water, while necessary for hand health and appearance, robs the cutaneous fabric of the oil that nature supplied to keep it in condition.

When your hands get in bad shape, don't imagine that you can restore their loveliness overnight. Not only a lotion is necessary, but an oily cosmetic as well. By frictioning it into the nails you will keep the surrounding cuticle from creeping up on the pink sheaths to invite hangnails.

Dark Lines

Knuckles take on dark lines easily if one happens to be boss of the domestic works and it is necessary to do the kind of drudging that keeps one's hands in dirty water, so they call for the nail brush. Of course, one should not subject one's mitts to grime and dust. The new rubber gloves are thin as tissue, not like the clumsy old ones, and should be worn for the sake of protection.

The gardener should keep a bowl of cornmeal at a convenient place when washing her hands after doing her planting. She must fluff up some soap suds in her palms, add a small quantity of cornmeal, then grind the mixture into her finger hinges. Dark streaks will come out like magic. That is the time to pass the white pencil under the nail eaves, when the hands are moist.

If the skin is inclined to be dry, the nails are likely to be brittle. While cuticle cream and friction are helpful to correct this condition, a better treatment consists of soaking them in hot oil for ten or fifteen minutes at bed time. Mineral oil serves this purpose. The cuticle will be softened, and should be lifted lightly with the orange wood stick.

Farm Wife Finds Rewarding Career in Growing of Fruit

By LORNA ROSS

(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Kitchener, Ont., (CP)— Can women have a career in agriculture?

An answer to that question can be found in the person of Mrs. John Steckle of Williamsburg, near here, part of a husband-and-wife team outstanding in agricultural circles. She was the first woman graduate of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

Her interest in farming, especially fruit farming, has been lifelong. It goes back to the days when she was Susanna Chase, better known as Sue, living in Nova Scotia's Annapolis Valley. The farm of her father, the late Oscar Chase, near Port Williams, contained 80 acres planted in fruit trees, as well as other land for mixed farming.

Here in the "apple belt", she saw the scientific care needed in cultivating, spraying, picking, grading and packing fruit for market.

Young Sue Chase decided she would train herself for it and took the two-year course at the Nova Scotia Agricultural College in Truro. The only other girl in her class later went to MacDonald Institute.

"My father had gone to the O.A.C. and I wanted to come up here, too," explained Mrs. Steckle. This ambition prompted her to apply for entrance, but she recalls that she waited several weeks in Nova Scotia for an answer. The college president told her later that the matter of admitting a woman had to be thoroughly considered.

Taking the horticultural option course, she graduated in 1921 with the degree of bachelor of science in agriculture. Since she pioneered at the college, a considerable number of women have followed.

For the next seven years she farmed at home, where her father died in 1924 and where she shared the responsibility with her brother, Robert Chase. During this time, she served for a year as president of the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers Association.

Romance was not left out of the picture. While attending O.A.C. she had become acquainted with John Steckle, another student, who was specializing in animal husbandry. After her seven years in Nova Scotia, she came as his bride to their comfortable farm home at Williamsburg.

In addition to their 165 acres, five acres have been set apart where the tall, lithe Nova Scotian with a twinkle in her eye can grow all the fruit she likes.

She is busy, too, with her duties as president of the Jubilee Women's Institute and member of the Y.W.C.A. board of directors, and is a member of Trinity United Church Woman's Association in Kitchener.

Mr. and Mrs. Steckle's two children, Robert and Jean, are following in the parental footsteps. In his first year, Robert is the first O.A.C. student whose parents are both graduates of the college. Jean is in the first year of the new four-year home economics degree course at MacDonald Institute.

Mrs. Steckle's work was recognized recently by Nova Scotia fruit growers, who presented her with an honorary membership.

The scroll reads: "Susanna Chase Steckle has been duly elected as an honorary member of the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers Association in recognition of her worthy contribution to the fruit industry."

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Bride or her mother should tell plans to groom's mother

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In making the plans for my June wedding, a serious argument is developing and we need your help, please. It's about the dress for "the mothers." My wedding is to be formal, and so my mother intends to wear a long dress ... and this is definitely what I want to have her do. My fiance's mother doesn't care to wear a long dress, but seems to think that because my mother is wearing a long dress she must wear one, even though much against her wishes. It seems that she has asked a few of her relatives and friends who know as little as all of us do in regard to this matter, and they tell her that my mother should have consulted her before deciding to wear a long dress. This, I'm sorry to say, has made a little hard feeling toward my mother, so my mother said that in order to keep peaceful feelings, she would have her dress cut to street-length ... which is what I don't want to have her do. Personally I feel that each one should wear what she pleases.

L.R.

You and your parents are the ones who decide what kind of wedding yours is to be, what plans you wish to have carried out, particularly as to the types of dresses you wish worn by those most concerned with the wedding (bridal party, groom's attendants, both mothers, both fathers, and so forth), and "those most concerned" are expected to cooperate.I hope you won't mind my telling you that apparently you and your mother were at fault in not making clear to the bridegroom's mother the type of weddin gyou were planning and therefore what type of costume your mother would wear and therefore what type of costume the groom's mother would wear. Apparently neither you nor your mother made this clear, and so the groom's mother was so confused as to what you expected of her that she had to consult others.

As a matter of fact sha and her friends are more nearly right than you and your mother are... (1) the groom's mother is right in thinking that she should wear a dress of length similar to that of your mother's dress (your mother, as hostess, and his mother, as woman guest of honor, should wear dresses of the same length); and (2) her friends are right in insisting that your mother should have "consulted" with her about the costume expected. And you are most definitely wrong in saying that personally you think that each mother should wear what she pleases ... such vague, indefinite planning never makes for a harmonious wedding picture ! I advise you to go to see your fiances mother, lovingly talk over with her this attire problem, and establish between you and her the gracious cooperation that will make for future harmony. Omit this gesture, and the "hard feelings" will grow. Make this gesture, with sweetness and endearing tact, and it can be one of the most important gestures you will ever make. It's the kind and thoughtful and sensible bride-to-be who shares with her fiance's mother and father all the plans for the wedding ...after all, their son is being married too!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please settle an argument between a friend of mine and myself: It is proper for an engaged couple to give each other an article of clothing as a gift? For example, a bathrobe?

M.M.

You will be the winner in the argument if you say that it is not proper, not in good taste, for an engaged couple to give each other any article of wearing apparel. But there are so many other charming and delightful gifts they can give each other ... and there are so many years coming when they can give each other wearing apparel, as man to wife, wife to husband.

Court Increases Weekly Allowance

Nottingham, England — (CP)— In 1908 Alice Tarlton was granted a maintenance order for 7s 6d ($1.50) a week against her husband, John Henry Tarlton.

Forty-one years later she returned to the same court asking for an increase in the order to meet the higher cost of living.

Asked if she would be satisfied with 15 shillings, she said "I think I could manage on that," but the magistrate increased the order to £1 a week.

Mrs. Tarlton said her husband was living in New Zealand. When she last heard of him he was carrying on business as a watchmaker and jeweller.

Clergy Share Duty Towards Marriage

Scarborough, Yorkshire—(CP)—Clergymen throughout Britain "are regarding more seriously their responsibility for preparing people for marriage," Rt. Rev. C. R. Claxton, bishop of Warrington, said here.

"I tremble to think what I used to do as a curate in the East End of London," he told a conference of the National Marriage Guidance Council.

"One Christmas morning we married nine couples strung across the church all at the same time without ever seeing them before. That sort of thing is rapidly disappearing.

"Among the clergy today there is an attempt to get to know people and to prepare them for the great adventure of marriage on which they are embarking."

Fashionable Time Piece

By ALICE ALDEN

If there is one item that can and does combine the pretty and the practical in its brief dimensions, it is the well-handled wrist-watch. This one has an especially dainty design nicely curved to a slender wrist, and attached to a 14-karat matching white or yellow gold band. We like the way its lines complement the aptly-named "Sun-Dial" hat, an attractive flower-edged, straw eyeful.

College Janitor Now Administers Relief Millions

New York —(CP)— Miss Ruth Taylor, who worked her way through college as a janitor, now is the largest public spender in Westchester County, fashionable suburban residential area.

As county commissioner of public welfare Miss Taylor has been spending more than $9,000,000 yearly. This year her budget is expected to reach almost $10,000,000 — half the county budget —making her one of the few women in the United States to administer such a public undertaking.

As welfare commissioner, a post she has held since 1931, Miss Taylor looks after 720 acres and 1,387 employees. Her department's work reaches 24,000 people yearly.

The welfare department is really four jobs in one. Miss Taylor is a jailer, hospital administrator, poorhouse operator and relief disburser.

Miss Taylor, the jailer, runs Westchester penitentiary, host to 377 inmates during April.

As hospital administrator she runs Grasslands Hospital. In the 820-bed institution there are divisions for treatment of psychiatric, tubercular, infantile paralysis, contagious and children's diseases.

The county home, which served 916 regulars and 512 transients last month, throws an additional burden on this woman of 62. A farm, with large gardens, 150 head of cattle and 5,000 chickens, is operated with the home and operated by prison inmates.

Welfare Biggest

But the biggest job Miss Taylor has is the administration of family and child welfare, old-age assistance, aid to the blind and care of dependent children. These take almost half of her yearly budget.

Miss Taylor still retains the energy she showed when attending Vassar College. After cleaning the classrooms she found time to be class secretary, play hockey, sing in the choir and even play the double bass for the college orchestra.

Still active after more than 30 years of social work she is a leader in many local and national women's groups, a trustee of Vassar and an officer in many organizations.

She finds that "preventative work interests me most."

"I want to help people before they get into the reformatory, before they become real alcoholics, before the family breaks up and the children are left destitute."

Fashion Flashes

Back intown is the little squirrel, making a bid for popularity and used not in coats, as formerly but for charming small furs, sensibly priced. Squirrel — in a beautiful silvery tone, rather than dyed to resemble mink or sable— is used for some beautiful stoles, full and long. One model is made with one sleeve, to allow for interesting draping.

City children this summer will be going all out for two-piece cottons handled to look like smart suits. Chambray, in brown and black iridescent checks, is used for a neat little suit dress with rippling peplum for the fitted, high collared jacket. The skirt is full.

A smart girl we know did a good job on last spring's good tweed coat. She gave it revers of almond brown, white dotted crepe, the color blending nicely with the muted browns and greens of the tweed. A brown felt hat trimmed with scarfs of the polka dotted fabric completed a very smart outfit.

Flowers bloom in perfusion this summer. Flowers, real or artificial, perch on suit lapels, pocket flaps are thrust through belts, are pinned to gloves and handbags, are nestled in skirt drapery folds. Nice touch for a suit is a chiffon square with roses dyed to match.

Quite right for summer town wear, or for smart country costumes, is a group of handbags in linen with calf trim. Wheat-colored linen is used for a roomy bag with a facile frame. Base and gussets are of red calf, which is also used for the braided handles.

A French accent speaks for the charm of an exquisite imported slip. Of white chiffon, it has an Alencon lace top with satin motifs underlining the bust. The bra top is fastened down to the waist with tiny satin covered buttons. Lace encrustrations mark the hemline.

BOOK HAUNTS JUDGE

Sherbrooke, Que. —(CP)— His own book was used against Judge Aime Chasse to persuade him to withdraw from a hearing of charges against union officials here. Union lawyer Carrier Fortin found his argument against the judge in an old book he had purchased years ago. The judge's name was written inside the cover.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Superfluous Hair

No minor good looks grief is an incipient moustache or horrid bristles on the chin. Women who are thus afflicted, and who have not sought treatment for their removal are made most unhappy. These blemishes can appear at any age — sometimes in the late teens, but more often in middle age or later. Some specialists believe that the growth may be due to some mild glandular disturbance, but all agree that inheritance may be a factor. If a girls mother and father have heavy growths of coarse hair, daughter is likely to be afflicted with facial fuzz.

In every pore of the body, except the palms of the hands and the soles of the feet, there is a tiny hair. If there is a slight growth of down on the face, it should not be meddled with. When shafts develop into bristles, they should be removed. There are various means of treatment, the oldest of which is electrolysis. This work has been done for more than fifty years and has afforded relief to millons of women.

Every shaft emerges from a papilla. The business of the papilla is to create a new shaft when the old one is extracted with the tweezers. The electric needle puts this little fuzzer-manufacturer out of commission.

A special, pliable needle is inserted into the pore beside the hair. An experienced operator will have fingers so trained and sensitive that, if the pore slants or twists, the needle will still find its way to the root. If the flesh is not punctured and if the channel is followed, there will be no pain or discomfort. The electric current is turned on and the papilla is destroyed; no new growth is impossible. When the current, is mild, the surrounding tissue is not burned and no scar results.

GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH
5-30

Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

An incipient moustache is a good-looks grief.

The shaft is then plucked out with the tweezers. If it offers the slightest resistance, the papilla has not been destroyed and the needle must be inserted again treated repeated.

The woman who visualizes herself developing into a bearded lady can make an appointment for a fifteen minute treatment; watch results before going further into the project. If there is no new growth within a month or so she can know that the work has been done successfully and can continue.

It is not true that electricity stimulates the growth, nor is it true that the blemish is caused by the use of cosmetics. If cold cream could grow hair, we would have no bald headed men among us.

The electric needle, treating each hair separately, is not suitable for growths on the arms and legs. Depilatories will take care of them.

PRIME MINISTER AGAINST RAIL AMALGAMATION

Says it is a "Happy Thing" it Has Not Come to Pass in Canada

(By Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Stratford, June 4. (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent says it is a "happy thing" for Canada that railway amalgamation has "not come to pass."

An audience which stood and sat around a natural amphitheatre in this railway city heard him declare Friday night after a torrid day of campaigning through Western Ontario that "we Liberals want neither the kind of amalgamation the CC.F. advocates nor the kind of amalgamation the Tories still secretly hanker for."

He moves today to Kitchener, Galt, Brantford and Hamilton as the climax to a visit to the Western Ontario area which he once said offers the Liberals their greatest chance for electoral gains June 27. The visit began Wednesday and hit a peak Friday as it took him into 11 communities to talk of the responsibilities and advantages of parliamentary democracy.

He moved by car from Goderich to Stratford during the day and spoke, in all, to thousands of people.

Here, he assailed the Progressive Conservative Party for "systematic attacks" on the CBC and T.C.A. in the way the Bennett government dealt with the C.N.R. between 1930 and 1935."

Conservative hostility to the C.N.R. had not disappeared, he added. The railway was created because private enterprise either was unwilling or unable to give the public effective service.

Retained by People

Canadians generally wanted the CBC publicly-owned so radio and the country itself could be truly Canadian. They felt that general control of Canada's rights to international wave lengths as well as air lines should be in the final analysis retained in the name of the people.

The Progressive Conservatives also were carrying on an "indirect undermining attack" aimed at wiping out private radio licence fees, but there was no full agreement in their ranks.

Most Canadians were proud of the safety record of T.C.A. as for its North Star—targets of attacks by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader—Mr. St. Laurent had flown to England and was going to fly to Newfoundland on one of these aircraft and he felt no anxiety.

The Liberals had been accused of being socialists because they believed in these publicly-owned businesses. The view of the party about public ownership was that "there are certain great undertakings which have many of the characteristics of a monopoly and which exercise rights which belong to the people as a whole and which, because of that can serve the people better if they are operated under public ownership and control."

"That doesn't mean that Liberal Party favors public ownership of business as a matter of principle; we stand for the principle of affording the greatest possible opportunity for genuine private and free enterprise, but we don't believe that they should be an excuse for exploitation of the people by powerful interests, whether they are political or economic".

TWEED

Heavy Program Planned for CWL Convention

Tweed—For the first time since organization, the 29th annual Diocesan convention of the Catholic Women's League will be held in Tweed next week. One hundred delegates and a large number of visitors from all parts of the Archdiocese of Kingston are expected here for this event.

The convention will open at St. Carthagh's Hall on Monday night when distinguished visitors, members of the clergy and delegates will be given an official welcome.

Tuesday will be "Banquet Day" when the delegates and visitors will be entertained at breakfast luncheon and dinner. His Grace Archbishop O'Sullivan, who is in Rome at the Vatican, will be represented at the convention by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Nicholson of Belleville.

Msgr. L. Byrne, formerly of Tweed, is celebrating his silver jubilee in the priesthood on June 14th, and he will be one of the speakers at the convention. Msgr. Daniel McDonald, of Alexandria, will be the guest speaker at the luncheon. All members of the clergy, those formerly from Tweed, and priests in charge of the various parishes in the Diocese, have been invited to attend.

Mrs. M. F. McGlade of Smiths Falls is Diocesan President, and she will preside at the business sessions at St. Carthagh's Hall and in Victoria Theatre on Tuesday afternoon. Says He Killed 12 to 15 Horses With an Ax

Thessalon, Ont., June 4. (CP)—Charges against Rosarie Tessier of ill-treating horses at a Northwestern Ontario logging camp, were dismissed Friday night by Magistrate H. Peterson because of insufficient evidence.

In dismissing the case, Magistrate Peterson recommended that in future the Humane Society would be well advised to consider inspection of horses when they arrive in camps. He recommended periodic inspection of the animals.

Gerard Joncas, manager of the Mantane Timber Company, testified that 50 per cent of the horses which Tessier rented to the company were not suitable for the work.

Joncas acknowledged that the contract with Tessier entitled the company to reject any unsuitable horses. The company stable boss, Joseph St. Laurent, said he killed with an axe 12 to 15 horses during timber salvage operations last winter.

A witness at the trial of Rosario Tessier, Sudbury horse dealer, who faces three charges of cruelty to animals, St. Laurent said he had received the dealer's horses as they arrived at the northwestern Ontario depot camp. Sixty horses had been sent and one in every eight or 10 was sick with a cold on arrival, he said.

Gerard Joncas, logging company manager, said 50 per cent of the horses which Tessier had rented to the company, were not suitable for the work.

Questioned by Defence Counsel C. E. Facer, Joncas acknowledged that under the contract with Tessier he was entitled to reject at once any unsuitable horses. He said he and his partner protested several times to Tessier that the horses were not suitable.

No Information Secured on Missing Woman

Port Colborne, June 4 (CP).—Captain and crew of the freighter Renvoyle were questioned Friday night by a Provincial Police officer in connection with the disappearance of the ship's cook, 27-year-old Mrs. Cora Dawes.

Mrs. Dawes was reported missing from the Canada Steamships Lines vessel early Wednesday morning, when the vessel was downbound in Lake Superior.

Cpl. E. A. Noath interrogated Captain Alfred Francis of Toronto, master of the vessel, and other officers, and crew members including William Dawes, second cook, husband of the missing woman.

Capt. Francis said that Mrs. Dawes was reported missing about 3.10 a.m. and that a search of the ship was carried out immediately with no results. The freighter Wahcondah, about 15 miles astern, was notified to keep a lookout. The Renvoyle put about and retraced her course for some 30 miles.

The woman's disappearance was reported to authorities when the ship arrived at Sault Ste. Marie and the vessel was allowed to proceed here with her cargo.

Capt. Francis said that he had talked with Mrs. Dawes about 9.45 p.m. Tuesday when she seemed in good health. The skipper said Dawes told him his wife was in her bunk, fully clothed and reading, when he fell asleep about 10.45 p.m. The husband told Capt. Francis that he awoke at 12.45 and found his wife missing.

He began a search of the ship and at 3.10 a.m., when he found no trace of her, he notified First Mate Roy Haher and the alarm was given.

Dawes and his wife are natives of the Wiarton district. They were married in 1946.

Hockey Moguls Plan to Give Clean Bill of Health After Recent Adverse Publicity

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, June 4 — (CP) —Amateur and professional hockey officials, plainly worried at adverse criticism directed their way in recent months, have combined to present a solid front with one objective in mind: sell their position to the North American public, with special attention paid to Canadians.

The executives got together Friday and, although the atmosphere was a bit strained, they were unanimous on the point that hockey received a bad name in Canada due to charges of alleged exploitation of young players by organized hockey and the now - famous National Hockey League's C form.

A committee of three was formed to plan the publicity campaign — a move that highlighted a day of private and open meetings from early morning until long after midnight. One closed session dealt with the European trip last winter of Sudbury Wolves and an informed source said verbal punches were tossed by Coach Max Silverman of Sudbury and John F. Ahealne of London, overseas representative of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association who organized a series of exhibition games in Britain and Europe for the Canadians.

The principals are expected to present their cases to a full meeting of the C. A. H. A. today. Cause of the dispute is believed to be over finances and the over - all operations of the three - month tour.

The five - day convention, marking the 32nd annual meeting of the C. A. H. A. and the 12th annual session of the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States, ends Monday.

New Publicity Committee

The publicity committee will be made up of the presidents of the N. H. L., C. A. H. A. and the North American president, or direct representative, of the International Ice Hockey Federation, governing body of amateur sport in the world. Its aims are to "plan and develop a positive statement of hockey objectives for a vigorous presentation to the public" and "to tell the people of Canada how and why these organizations exist and how the development of youth is made through sport."

Officials were concerned over publicity given charges last April by Dr. G. E. Hall, president of the University of Western Ontario, that boys of 12 and 14 years of age were listed by pro clubs without their knowledge and were thus prevented from playing with any other teams.

At a general meeting of the C. A. H. A. last night Secretary-manager George Dudley of Midland, Ont., said he had written Dr. Hall for the names of players referred to in his Toronto address and the names of clubs exploiting them.

"I'm still waiting for that information," he added. "It seems we are getting plenty of criticism but no co-operation."

Dudley suggested the N. H. L. "would be well advised, in the case of students given tryouts with big - league clubs, to turn them out of training camps in the fall as soon as possible so that the clubs would not be criticized for keeping them out of school over a long period."

Dr. Hardy suggested the C. A. H. A. hire a public relations officer to "give the views of the association to the people" and this led to charges by some delegates that newspapers printed only "hockey's bad points and never had the good ones."

The matter was left over to discretion of the publicity committee.

Delegates missed a bet to muffle criticism of education authorities who charged earlier this year in Canada that studies are interrupted by allowing young players to move from city to city to play hockey.

They defeated a motion which, in effect, said that no boy of juvenile - group age (under 18), but who is playing with a junior club (under 20), should be allowed a transfer.

A motion by the Ontario Hockey Association to increase the number of imports allowed a junior A club from two to four was defeated.

In the 1949-50 season, it was decided that no clubs would be allowed to add to their player lists for the Memorial and Allan Cup playoffs.

Sliding Billy Hanson Bows To O'Donnell

Sliding Billy Hansen's agility was not enough to offset the thunderous tactics of one Sandy O'Donnell in Memorial Arena last night, when after forty minutes of entertaining wrestling O'Donnell took the third fall after a split decision.

It was fast action. In fact the whole card was good. O'Donnell took things into his own hands right after the opening gong sounded. He, as the villain of the piece, was not fooling, and he gave the Slider many things to think about.

Sure, they tossed each other out of the ring and the crowd howled to high heaven. In short, Sandy, with all his unorthodox tactics gave the faithful one of his alleged villainous shows that was met with a fine defensive display on the part of the Sliding Willie.

The pair threshed back and forth in a highly entertaining display.

It was quick action all the way with the spectators throwing their verbal weight in favor of the "Slider". But O'Donnell used all "bad man" tactics in an effort to subdue the opposition.

At one time the doughty pair decided to settle the issue outside the ring. Referee Ernie Powers, Hamilton, awaited the return of the gladiators who seemed willing to settle the matter outside of official jurisdiction.

But M'Sieu Powers thought otherwise. He waved the official arm and the pair scrambled back into the ring.

The rest of the card saw bouts that were highlighted with plenty of action. Tug Carlson threw his more or less minor weight against the Ski - Lee and did a grand job.

Solunar Tables and Their Uses

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT

(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

With the active fishing season now in full swing, perhaps it is a good idea to review for you the way that your Solunar Tables can be used to make your days in the open more pleasant ones.

As you probably know, the idea is not new. Scientists have known, in a general way, about the daily cycle of activity periods and rest periods among wildlife for the past two hundred years.

Certain tribes of the North American Indians have made use of this knowledge for hundreds of years, and many of the old market hunters, notably those of Georgia and Florida, have planned their fishing and hunting according to the rule of "moon up-moon down."

Basic Theory

Briefly, the basic theory is this. Fish and game tend to be active and feeding approximately at the times when the moon is directly overhead or directly underfoot.

Almost thirty years ago we picked up this bit of folk lore from the grandson of a Georgian market hunter. Then we applied modern scientific knowledge to the rule and worked out a trial schedule of Solunar Periods.

First off we found that such a loose method of approximation was woefully inaccurate. By including the sun in our calculations, plotting the respective influences of the moon and the sun, and thus working out the resultants, we managed to arrive at a method that is now surprisingly accurate.

If you care to go to all that trouble and like to fuss around with figures, no doubt you can work out your own schedule. Believe me, it's much easier to use the one that is published for you in your newspaper.

Much Learned

Almost thirty years of experimentation has taught us a great deal about the Solunar Periods and their workings. Through observation we learned that there are intermediate periods of activity, of shorter duration, which occur about midway between the times of "moon up-moon down."

Thus, Solunar Periods have been divided into "major" periods and "minor" periods. Don't be deceived by the word "minor." The distinction is made only to indicate duration. Often the best fishing of the day occurs during the shorter "minor" period.

One of the outstanding ways in which the Solunar Tables manifest their influence on the behavior of wildlife is the pronounced absence of fear during Solunar Periods. Even the shyest creatures have no hesitancy about showing themselves.

Game fish will cruise about in the shallows, oblivious to exposure to their natural enemies. Deer, rabbits, mice, chipmunks, and so on come out of hiding to move about in the open. Interest in finding food no doubt takes on enough importance to relax natural caution.

Unexplained Phenomenon

Another unexplained phenomenon is the evident preference that game fish seems to show for surface lures during Solunar Periods. Bass in particular will go "all out" for surface plugs and popping bugs. Trout will rise readily to dry flies.

Probably this characteristic behavior all ties in with temporary freedom from fear. In any event, it is there to see if you care to do some observing.

It must be remembered that you will not find complete and ideal reaction to the Solunar Periods each time you go out. Too many off-setting factors have the effect of neutralizing Solunar influence. Unfavorable weather, adverse temperatures, high water, low water, muddy water, high winds, a falling barometer — these and many other things often will neutralize completely the effects of the Solunar Periods.

There is little or nothing which can be done about that. You know, just as well as I do, that you don't find good fishing or good shooting every time you go out. And that is as it should be.

But you can depend upon it that your Solunar Tables will find for you the best in sport that each day has to offer, such as it may be. Believe me, it pays to keep track of the daily Solunar Periods.

Better Golf

By Sam Snead

By SAM SNEAD

6. The players left side forms a fairly straight line, (it would be better if straighter) his head is well-positioned his left shoulder is rotating upward, thus permitting a fine shoulder pivot and his whole right side is pouring power in. But you'll notice, he's swinging outside in across the direction line instead of inside out, as he should. And the ball will go to the left. Since in other respects this is good golfing form, what caused the player to swing outside-in? We have to assume the answer because we can't picture it. This player rotated his hips beyond the permissible 45 degree hip turn in his backswing. As a result, when he reversed his excessive hip pivot in the downswing this threw his clubhead outside the direction line, forcing an outside-in swing. If you're having trouble hitting from the inside-out, watch your hip pivot. If it's beyond the 45 degree limit, it's hard to avoid an outside-in swing. And now, sharpshooters, what's wrong with this golfers head. Right you are! His head should be cocked slightly to the right until the ball is away and the hands hip high in the follow through. Not to the left remember that.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By TREVOR ICETON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, June 4. (CP)—Generally speaking, stars of the sports world must be a little more than just good athletes to win the plaudits of the fans. They have to keep close tab on their manners and morals.

High living is seriously frowned upon and more than one athlete has lost a career in sport because he wasn't adverse to taking a little wager—even backing his own team.

But in boxing, procedure seems to be a little different. As Ralph (Toronto Telegram) Allen sees it, it's the 'bad guys' who bask in public favor.

"Boxing is one sport in which public opinion places no premium on moral recitude," says Allen. "Hockey promoters and baseball promoters, for instance, insist on policing the private lives of the athletes, and, generally speaking, the customers applaud and support them for doing so."

Examples Cited

Citing a few examples, Allen continues :"So great and popular a ball player as Rogers Hornsby was constantly in trouble with the authorities for his insistence on playing the horses. His fans considered it only right and proper that he should be restrained from doing so.

"Leo Durocher's personal life has always caused him far more trouble than his won-and-lost record as a baseball manager.

"Billy Taylor was thrown out of hockey for good for betting on hockey games—a staggering indiscretion to be sure, but scarcely one so serious as to merit a penalty which, in effect on his career, amounted to capital punishment. There was no noticeable outcry from the galleries on his behalf, however."

In Contrast

It would seem that boxing fans aren't of the same nature as followers of other sports. Allen tells of a little incident in New York following on the heels of Rocky Graziano's reinstatement.

(Graziano was suspended in almost every state in the United States when he deserted the United States army during the war and when it was discovered after the war that he had neglected to report a bribe to throw a fight.)

"Shortly after (his reinstatement), Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York Boxing Commission, making a public appearance at a boxing bout at New York city, received a thunderous reception of boos—not for reinstating Graziano, but for having him suspended in the first place.

"Graziano is probably the top drawing card in the business right now."

Some earlier ring heroes also had something of a dusty past.

"Jack Dempsey never did fully clear himself of suspicion as a draft dodger in the First World War, but he was the most popular fighter of all time," wrote Allen.

"Max Baer and Primo Carnera . . . could scarcely have been classed as models for the kiddies. Baer was a spectacularly high-liver and Carnera was constantly surrounded by gangsters.

Canoe Association Optimistic Over Coming Season

(By The Canadian Press)

Officials of the eastern division of the Canadian Canoe Association said Friday at Montreal they are optimistic over the coming season and predicted one of the toughest competitive years among the paddlers. Commodore Howard Radford of the C.C.A. said a shipment of 12 new craft will arrive from Peterborough this week and all clubs in the division except Three Rivers will get at least one. The new craft are single and tandem boats which will allow for increased entries in these specialties. The Cartierville Boating Club also has some double-blade equipment on hand from Sweden.

Lachine paddlers have been testing their craft on Lake St. Louis waters and the Excel Club of Longueuil has had its stalwarts out for brief runs over the St. Lawrence course.

Canada's young track and field hopefuls will take over Molson Stadium today by the hundreds for the fifth annual interscholastic Dominion and Provincial championships. The entry list Friday night stood at 650, representing 59 schools from Winnipeg to Halifax. Points represented include Sudbury.

Russel Wood of St. Catharines Friday night was elected president of the Canadian Secondary School Boys' Rowing Association's at the Association's annual meeting at St. Catharines. Ralph Cossett of Hamilton, Geo. Flanney of Hamilton and Roger K. Sellers of Mimico were named vice-presidents.

Henry J. Kaiser's bid to beat the world speed boat record of 141.47 miles an hour will be challenged by Donald Campbell, 28-year-old son of the late Sir Malcolm Campbell, the man who established it. Campbell will take his father's old speed boat, Bluebird II, to Lake Coniston in Northern England this summer for trials.

King Leopold of Belgium, playing under the name of Monsieur Dereti, won his first match in the international golf championships of France on the Saint-Cloud Paris links Friday. He defeated Bernard Fussieu of France, 2 and 1.

Charlie Ward, British Ryder Cup professional, Friday won the Spalding 72-hole golf tournament at Worthing, England, with a score of 273. Ward picked up first prize of $1,200. He had a shot to spare over fellow Ryder Cupper Jimmy Adams whose aggregate was 274 on the 6,353-yard layout.

Jack Kramer and Bobby Riggs teamed up at London Friday night to win the world professional tennis doubles title. It took the two Los Angeles swingers five sets, however, before they licked Pancho Segura of Ecuador and Dinny Pails of Australia, 3-6, 4-6, [illegible] 6-4, 6-1. Tonight Riggs and Kramer will face each other to decide the single championship.

Edward Benyon, 69, veteran driver, trainer and owner of harness racing horses, who competed against the famous pacer, Dan Patch, and driver E. F. (Pop) Geers, died Friday at Los Angeles.

Because the horse he bet on bolted and lost the race, John Staskiewicz is suing Ak-Sar-Ben race track at Omaha, Neb., for recovery of $3,500. In his suit Staskiewicz alleges the horse, Wongerra, lost the seventh race at Ak-Sar-Ben Wednesday because of "wilful and neglectful acts" on the part of track officials. The petition said the horse became nervous at the thin beam of light laid across the finish line for the electric camera.

Ben H. (Buck) Weaver, 48, well-known Louisville Times turf expert and columnist, died at his home Friday night.

In a rip-snorting last-inning rally, the Democrats hit two balls clear to the outfield, scored six runs and beat the Republicans 16-10 in the annual congressional baseball game at Washington Friday night.

Monte Irvin, Jersey City's Negro rightfielder, has taken over the individual batting leadership in the International League with a .375 average. Irvin replaces Rochesters Ed Kierkowicz, last week's leader.

Rangy Roy Pella of Sudbury Friday set a Canadian school boys' discuss throwing record at Sudbury when he hurled the discuss 135 feet, 10 1-2 inches in the Nickel Belt and District Secondary Schools Athletic Association meet. He bettered the old record by 9 feet, 11 1-2 inches.

Newfoundland hockey officials today considered an invitation Hockey Association to join the organization. While no definite decision has been made yet, island officials said they believed the Newfoundland Amateur Hockey Association would join the larger body.

Guy Ambassador, driven by the veteran Harry Fitzpatrick, captured the $8,000 added Matron Stakes for three-year-old trotters Friday night at Fairmount Park, Ill., before 5,500 harness racing fans.

Isle of Man Races Will Attract 400 Motorcycle Riders

London, June 4 —(CP)—The throaty roar of motorcycles will shatter the peace of the Isle of Man this month. And Holiday-makers will cheer to the tune of the annual Tourist Trophy races.

On tortuous lanes, round hairpin bends, through damy mountain mists, more than 400 motorcycle enthusiasts will battle at speeds up to 120 miles an hour for honors in seven races.

Highlight is June 17 when the 264-mile Senior Tourist Trophy event for 500 C. C. machines—the blue riband of motorcycle racing—will be held.

The island is expecting the biggest race week ever. Thousands stream over from the mainland for the races.

Riders from Spain, Belgium, France, Denmark, Italy, Australia, New Zealand and Britain have been accepted, but German entrants are still "inadmissable."

Prizes for the week's racing will total $13,000.

There have been so many entrants for all races that the organizing body, the Auto - Cycle Union, has had to do some weeding.

Women have been rejected as entrants for the races. But the Auto-Cycle Union says the ban is not permanent.

Secretary Sam Huggett said:

"We decided fresh consideration would be given when a body of women riders — not just one or two — had proved themselves in grass track races and on small road circuits."

Sport Shorts From Britain

London, June 4 (CP)—The Central Council for Physical Recreation has £120,000 ($480,000) to spend on a sports centre: but it cannot find a suitable site.

Needed are a mansion with residential accommodation for 100 facilities for indoor and outdoor physical training, a river or a lake nearby for rowing and swimming and access to a densely-populated area.

With shortage of labor and materials building such a place is out of the question. And most of Britain's likely ancient mansions are passing to the state for schools, institutions, government offices and museums.

The money is part of £1,000,000 given to Britain by South Africa after the Second World War. It was handed to the council, which intends to start a sports college on the lines of Bisham Abbey in Berkshire.

Thousands of young British sportsmen have visited Bisham Abbey to be shown "the right way" to sports progress. It has residential accommodation for 40 who stay for courses in practically every branch of sport.

Scouts for the new Bisham Abbey—nobody yet knows what it will be called—have covered the whole of England's north so far and prospects don't look bright for the south either.

Company director N. Dupont, greyhound owner for nearly 20 years, paid £2,000 for Irish-bred bitch Barna Dearg after he saw her in the two Anglo-Irish International races at Manchester last October.

Barna Dearg had four races in Ireland and won them all—two in record time. Now she will never race again. Distemper has left her liable to fits.

Dupont, who never bets, takes the blow philosophically.

"I was hoping to win the (Greyhound) Derby with Barna Dearg," he said. "Now I have bought another Irish dog, Eastern Madness. But I didn't pay so much money this time."

Eastern Madness won a good trial run over the Derby course the other day.

It will be the battle of the archers and dart-throwers.

Archers Tom Fisher and Horace Hooker will "shoot it out" May 31 with two leading darts exponents Jim Pike and Johnny Ross at London's Empress Hall.

The match is the high spot of a darts championship final. The bow-and-arrow men will shoot at the dartboard from 20 yards for the best of three games. The dart players will shoot from the normal eight to ten feet.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, June 4 — (AP) — Aaron Robinson, the Tigers' catcher, still gets a chuckle out of this one although it happened when he was with the White Sox last season . . . The Sox were playing the Athletes and two were out and runners were on second and third. When the count reached 3-2 on batter Taft Wright, the catcher, Buddy Rosar, went to talk to the pitcher, then took a place off to one side as if to make it an intentional pass . . . Wright stood there, completely relaxed, waiting to be walked when the pitcher fired one right down the middle and Rosar jumped behind the plate to catch it . . . Says Robinson: "Wright wouldn't talk to Rosar the rest of the season and I'll bet he's still sore, though they're both on the same team this year."

Sports Mention

If some arrangement can be made to put a nice rink into the new municipal arena under construction at San Antonio, Tex., a Texas hockey league likely will be formed next season. Texas members of the United States league find it tough bucking those long trips and payrolls that are as high as major league clubs had before the war.

Outlaw Players Reap Harvest In Quebec Prov.

By VIC MORRIS JR.
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, June 3. (CP)—Quebec province is the land of the outlaw—at least if the outlaws can play baseball.

Boasting more outlaw players than any other circuit in baseball the Quebec provincial league has under contract an array that brings major league scouts panting to its doorsteps. But no further.

Two of the outlaws, whom most triple 'A' and double 'A' managers dream about, are former major leaguers Max Lanier and Danny Gardella. Lanier, a former St. Louis Cardinals pitcher, and Gardella, an outfielder with New York Giants, jointed the circuit this season after they failed in an attempt to be reinstated in organized baseball.

They were suspended by Commissioner A. B. Chandler because they jumped into the outlawed Mexican League. Here it can be said on good authority, they both draw salaries in excess of $10,000.

League President Albert Molini, who boasts that his loop is bolstered with greenbacks, claims that any of the six teams in the league "could lick the pants off an international league club."

He says the teams average a monthly payroll between $8,000 to $10,000 with the players averaging $6,000 to $7,000 a season.

As an example of the amount of money the league has to offer for top calibre players, he tells this story:

"Just before the present season, Granby offered Don Newcombe, formerly with Montreal of the International League and now with Brooklyn Dodgers, $15,000. But I ordered the offer cancelled because of a gentleman's agreement I had made with organized baseball this season. I agreed to keep signed players out of my league if major league scouts would stop raiding my clubs."

Teams in the league are Granby, St. Hyacinthe, St. John's, Farnham, Sherbrooke and Drummondville. They each average crowds of 2,500 for games which are mostly played at night.

He admits that many of his players are using assumed names.

"But that's okay as long as they don't do anything detrimental to our league," he adds.

President Molini says the reason for this is that many of his players will eventually return to organized leagues and want to keep their names from being connected with an outlaw league.

PLANE'S CAPACITY

The Canadian-built North Star aircraft can carry four tons of mail and aircargo and accommodate 40 passengers and a crew of six.

Accent on Youth In Selection Of Tennis Team

Montreal, June 4 — (CP)—Tennis fans who would like to see more accent on youth in the selection of Canada's Davis Cup players may get their wish this year.

Lorne Main, Vancouver's brilliant young star who handles all shots with an unorthodox two-fisted grip, is regarded as a strong contender for one of four berths on the Canadian squad. He is 19, and has been Canadian junior champion the last three years.

It's no secret that Canadian Lawn Tennis Association officials regard Main and Raymond Page, promising Montreal junior, as the brightest developing stars on the tennis horizon.

Now topping the list of nine available contenders for the 1949 Davis Cup team is little Henri Rochon, Montreal artist of the drop - shot. He accounted for Canada's lone triumph in the 1948 cup tie, won by Mexico, 4-1.

Others in the running for the team, which is scheduled to meet Australia in North American zone play here July 21-23, are Walter Stohlberg, Vancouver, Jean-Paul Turgeon, Quebec, Jim and Brendan Macken and J. J. Desjardins, Montreal, Don McDiarmid, Ottawa and Dave Dyment, Toronto.

The 1948 team was comprised of Rochon, the Macken Brothers, and Stohlberg. Rochon has made the last three squads and, since he now shares the No. 1 ranking in Canada with Rene Buser, is almost a certainty to be nominated again this year.

Buser, who now lives in Montreal, is ineligible because Davis Cup rules bar a man who already has played for one country from playing for another. Buser played for his native Switzerland in 1946.

The method of selection has not yet been determined. Neither has it been decided whether trials will be held.

In 20 Davis Cup competitions since 1913, Canada's best showing was made in Toronto back in 1927 when Canadians defeated Cuba 3-2 in the first round only to bow to a strong Japanese squad 3-2 in the next round.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

In my book is The Kibitzer's Y-A-P rule. It covers a myriad of oddities in the sentence that reads: With no honest bid available, make the response that may do the least harm to your side.

In some situations a responder has reason to believe there is a slam in the pair. He may fear his next bid will stop them short of a slam. And he does not have the requirements for ace and king prober.

How does he handle such a situation? Look at this deal:

NORTH
♠J 10 8 6 4 2
♥Q 7 5 2
♦Q J 4
♣None

EAST
♠9 3
♥A K J 10 4 3
♦A
♣J 9 6 2

WEST
♠None
♥9 8 6
♦10 9 7 6 5 3
♣K 10 7 5

SOUTH
♠A K Q 7 5
♥None
♦K 8 2
♣A Q 8 4 3

Carry the bidding this far:

South	West	North	East
2 S	Pass	2 NT	3 H
4 C	Pass	?

An opening of two in a suit shows nine tricks. A count of five in north has him looking for slam. But his two no-trump reply denied a sure trick. South may pass his next bid if it is four spades.

Slam probe with four no-trump would say he had two aces and a king. In such a situation what should he do? The Y-A-P rule takes care of this. Do what may do the least harm.

Make some bid that is not too high for the pair. At the same time show partner there may be slam despite lack of a sure trick in north. Such a bid would be five spades.

The logic of the situation reveals what north wants to know. If partner has three aces, he suggests that there is a slam in the pair. Or if partner has two aces and a void suit.

Thus, when responder goes beyond game it is a slam invitation. Not on general principles. Not on any guess or distant hope. Only if partner has three aces or two aces and no loser in another suit. Only when the situation warrants.

Now, don't go hog wild or you will be butchered.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 4 (AP)—"Little trace of the American motion picture industry has come down to us," Dr. Adam Fission told a historians' meeting at Uranium University in the year 2049.

"And much that remains is confusing," he added.

"For instance, motion pictures appear to have been popular, with millions watching the flickering screens every night. And yet, judging from the printed records of the critics of the time, the quality of entertainment was very poor.

Much Confusion

"There is also confusion about the so-called stars—the men and women who took leading roles in the photoplays. We have unearthed records from the studio files and 'fan' magazines, all of which indicate the stars were paragons of virtue.

"There is conflicting evidence from microfilms of the era's newspapers."

"Unlike the solar system," Dr. Fission said with a smile, "the motion picture industry seems to have revolved around the stars. They were public heroes. Each time they got married, which was often, the wedding appeared to have been a kind of national festival.

Stars Earn Much

"The stars earned fantastic salaries, even more than interplanetary pilots do today. In fact" he added with irony, "more in a week than a college professor makes in a year."

The historian commented on the lack of monuments left by the motion picture makers. too busy to erect monuments for the future," he said.

Dr. Fission traced the decline of the industry:

"The motion picture was born when it started to move. It flourished when it started to talk. It died when it started to smell."

Toronto Police Laid No Charges

Toronto, June 4 — (CP) — Toronto police said Friday night they had no charges against Alexander McDonald and Harry Deakins, Toronto men arrested in New York State on immigration charges and permitted Friday to leave the United States voluntarily.

The pair crossed back into Canada by automobile at Fort Erie. They were arrested at Syracuse along with Alfred Goldfinch, also of Toronto, and all were charged with entering the United States without declaring previous felony convictions. Goldfinch pleaded guilty and is held on remand in custody.

Alexander McDonald is a brother of Donald (Mickey) McDonald, who escaped from Kingston penitentiary in August, 1947. He told police at Syracuse that Mickey McDonald is dead.

Police at Fort Erie said no charges were laid against Alexander McDonald and Deakins, and that they had proceeded to either Toronto or Oshawa.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma sneezed another ladylike sneeze in her hankerchiff, saying to pop, William, I've decided this isn't a cold I've got, after all.

Just a few unattached sneezes, heh??? That's good, pop said, and ma said, I wouldn't go so far as to call it good. I meen there's no sutch a thing as an unattatched sneeze, so if all this sneezing isn't the advance guard of a budding cold, it must be the simptom of an allergy, because sneezes and allergies go hand in hand. That's proverbial, William, she said.

Then it calls for a proverb, pop said. A sneeze in the head is werth 2 allergies in the bush, he said, and ma said, Oh dear, I must be suddinly allergic to something and if I dont find out what it is I'm likely to go on like this indefinitely.

My dear, we'll find out what you're allergic to in 2 shakes of an allergy expert's hypodermick, or may be a thousand and 2 shakes, all depending on what luck he has, pop said. I've been looking into this allergy problem, and it seems it's possible to be allergic to more things than there are people to be allergic to them. For instance, just to give you an idea of the allergic range. It's possible to be allergic to certain ash flakes from cigars that have been kept in the same vest pockit with cedar wood pencils, as well as to the shavings from certain cedar wood pencils that have kept company with cigars. You may be allergic to the odor of rare pearls, or you may be allergic to common humming berd feathers. Certain women sneeze at the faintest whiff of dust from a bald head, while others get a choaking sensation at the very thawt of eating an ostritch egg, he said ,and ma said, Oh dear, I almost hope I'm only getting a cold, if it's not a bad one.

Whatever it is, my dear I wish you luck, pop said.

Being the end of the subject.

TWEED

New Recreation Project Discussed By Kinsmen Club

Tweed.—At a meeting of Tweed Kinsmen held recently the discussion was devoted largely to their plans for the new recreation centre now under way adjoining Tweed Memorial Park. The bull dozer is already at work on the property, and sufficient "fill" has already been deposited to level off the field.

Some of the members felt it was time for Tweed to sponsor a hard ball team, but the cost of installing lights for this purpose, would be exorbitant, hence the club will stick to softball for the present.

Some discussion took place concerning "Ladies' Night" and it was decided to postpone the event locally and probably hold one in conjunction with the Belleville Club on June 28th.

The Kinsmen Club has purchased the Lucas property adjoining Tweed Memorial Park and it is being converted into a first class ball diamond and athletic club.

This will be a community project, which will include all features with bleachers and floodlights for night ball. When completed, it should make one of the finest recreation centres in this part of the province for organized sport and will be available to all organizations.

Actually the field will become the property of Tweed Parks Board as the Kinsmen are not entitled to own any real estate under their by-laws.

The Kinsmen Club of Tweed has undertaken an ambitious program and they will need the help and support of everyone. It is felt that a recreation field, such as they have in mind, is something that has been needed in Tweed for a long time. Only with help and support will the club achieve it.

CENTENARY

Elwin Hart Heads H. & S. Assoc.

Centenary—The annual meeting of the Centenary-Aitkens Home and School Association was held at Centenary School. The President, Elwin Hart, acted as chairman.

Musical program was given consisting of songs by Misses Betty and Gwen Radford, Margaret Moody and Eric Moody—all four of whom have been weekly winners on the "Talent Unlimited" program. The remainder of the program was in the form of impromptu speeches by different members being called to speak on certain subjects. Although taken completely by surprise most everyone responded. Those not doing so were fined 25 cents

The nominating committee brought in their slate of officers for the coming year. They are as follows: President, Elwin Hart; Vice President, Ken Jones; Secretary, Ethel Shortt; Treasurer, Lillian Jamieson; Directors: Gordon Woods, Gladys Sills, Fred Moon and Dorothy Sargent and the teachers from both schools.

At the close of the business meeting the secretary and treasurer received the dues for the coming year for those who wished to join. The committee in charge served lunch and a social hour was spent.

Presentation To Family

Quite a number of friends and neighbors of the Centenary community gathered at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Keith Mitchell on Monday evening to wish them good luck and happiness in their new home at Peterborough.

Rev. A. C. McCallum spoke very briefly and well of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell. "In the short time you have been here," he said, "you have won the affections of everyone with whom you have come in contact."

Mrs. Bruce Christie presented them with a silver tea service and mirror. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell thanked their friends and asked them to be sure and come to see them. They were both taken completely by surprise which added much to the enjoyment of the evening.

FRANKFORD

Sidney Softball League Schedule

Frankford is entering a team in the Sidney district league for the fourth consecutive season. The team will be comprised of mostly juveniles, with a few veterans to strengthen them. The club is not expected to be as strong as previous years, as the majority of regulars in the sport are playing with the "Trent Valley" entry. Frankford is not particularly interested in whether or not their team is a winning combination. In the past three years, they have twice won the league championship, but the defending champions, Foxboro and Wallbridge on the two occasions did not see fit to present Frankford with the league trophy. Word has been received that at a meeting of the Sidney Junior Farmers, who originally donated trophy, it was voted that Frankford should not receive the trophy as their team did not belong to the Junior Farmers Association.

Two Bonarlaw Students Graduate

Bonarlaw—Earl Haslett who has completed his four-year course at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Haslett of this village. On Wednesday of last week, accompanied by his mother, he motored to Guelph for the graduation exercises and received his B.S.A. degree returning home on Thursday. On Tuesday of this week he left for Toronto, where he is taking a position in the civil services.

Thomas (Bud) Stocker, another Bonarlaw boy, also received his B.S.A. at this convocation and has obtained a position at Stirling with W. A. Sutherland. Both these boys attended public school here and High School at Stirling.

The people of this community congratulate them on their graduation and wish them every success in their work.

A meeting of the vestry council of St. Mark's Church, was held in the Sunday School rooms on Monday evening of this week. Rural Dean Rev. J. M. Brownlie acted as chairman and W. J. Barlow as vestry clerk. There was a good attendance. Reports were received from church wardens Ronald A. Brown and Everett Heath showing the financial position as in a healthy condition. The rector and wardens and Chas. Lough and Geo. Mumby were named as a committee to look after the decorating of the basement. A committee was also named to arrange for a lawn social during the last week in June Other matters of general interest were discussed after which refreshments were served by the ladies.

DIES OF INJURIES

Indianapolis, June 3 — (AP)— George A. Metzler, 38-year-old Indianapolis auto race driver, died early today of injuries suffered May 28 when he crashed during a practice run at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The death of Metzler, a veteran dirt track driver, marked the 22nd driver fatality at the Indianapolis track since 1909.

PICTON

Suggested Old White Chapel Should be Retained as Shrine

Picton, June 3 — That the Old White Chapel, just east of Picton, which was built in 1809, should be retained as a shrine of Methodism, and given general support from the churches, was the suggestion advanced by Rev. A. E. McCutcheon of Picton when ministers attending the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church held a service there yesterday. The Conference president, Rev. J. K. Anderson of Brighton, conducted the service and spoke from the high pulpit with sounding board overhead, as did the ministers more than a century ago. The interior of the church, with its flat balcony and hewn timbers has been retained in the state when it was built. Dr. J. Faulds of Kingston, Conference Archivist, recalled that the first Conference of the Methodist Church in Canada was held in Picton in 1824. Thirty preachers attended, compared with some 400 at the Conference this week.

The Conference endorsed a report which commended the Atlantic Charter as an effort of the nations to preserve peace.

Rev. M. J. Atkin, chairman of the World Relations Committee, declared that it is desirable that as soon as possible all barriers to free interchange of trade between nations should be speedily eliminated. "It would be futile to expect world government, and consequently universal peace, without our willingness to forego some measure of national sovereignty and particularly so in the area of monetary gain", he said.

The Conference discussed plans for the making of the Silver Jubilee of Church Union at the next Conference.

Rev. W. C. Fletcher, Wooler, was named chairman of the standing committee on young people's work.

The session concludes this afternoon.

R.C.A.F. Plans Something New In Flying

Toronto, June 4 (CP) — The R.C.A.F. plans something new in formation flying in the skies over Toronto.

A flight of 38 Harvards from the southwestern Ontario station at Centralia will spell out the letters "R.C.A.F." The display will be part of air force day observances June 11 in which a mass flight of 120 R.C.A.F. aircraft will fly over Toronto and Hamilton.

The Harvard pilots have been practising the stunt, similar to one put on by the United States Air Force for Gen. Lucius Clay when the American military governor left Germany. A spotter plane, working from above, directs individual planes into correct formation by radio-telephone.

ARTISTIC EXAMPLE

Leeds, England, (CP)—West Riding Yorkshire education authorities spent £1,000 ($4,000) on 30 to 40 original paintings and drawings for their schools. The works will be shown to school children in art lessons.

Clacton-on-Sea, England (CP) Sir Miles Thomas, British Overseas Airways executive, said of university students at a conference: "Over-academic training had unfitted them for a commercial career. It would have been better if they had devoted less time to the literature of the Byzantine era and more to something practical like shorthand or mental arithmetic."

By Oren Arnold

The ranch home was even more beautiful by day than it had been in the evening. Rustic, crude in a measure, but picturesque. The orphan calf on the porch had to be fed by a bottle and Joy did the feeding. The puppies were duly admired again. Off 200 yards or so barbecue was cooking over long pits of glowing coals, and tarpaulins had been spread on the ground for "tables". Men and women in spurs and blue denims and colored shirts and huge stetsons were everywhere, folk who talked shyly until friendships had a chance to warm. Polly took Joy Boone around. Every cowboy who met her was impressed. Most of them asked if they might dance with her in the festivity after dinner.

"Everybody's so nice, Polly!" Joy beamed, and meant it.

"This is a good country if you give it a chance. Where is— where's your chauffeur?"

"Palmer?" Joy looked surprised. "With the car, I suppose. He's a dream, Polly. Refined. Not like most. That's why I hired him on the spot. I think I can trust him."

"I wonder!" Polly said, to herself. Aloud she said, "Do you have many boy friends back east?"

"Scads of 'em." Joy smiled. "But no—no thrill guy. If that's what you mean. And—you?"

Thrill guy. Polly had never heard that term before. She shook her head. " Friends, yes; but I'm not in love."

"Do you want to be?"

"Who doesn't?"

Joy sighed, then laughed a bit. "I suppose you're right. You are lovely, Polly. But—naturally, you too would be very choosy."

They understood each other on that point at least, Polly realized. Each knew she was attractive to men, but each knew the one man would have to measure up high. Polly liked Joy Boone more for that.

The people and the hilarity engulfed them then. A cowboy orchestra was playing, and boom-voiced Mr. McMurray was telling everybody that it was after five o'clock and time to get to eating. The odors of barbecued beef were tantalizing anyway.

Feeding nearly 1,000 people, self-serve, wasn't nearly the task one might have imagined. Dr. Palmer was amazed. Moreover, the sociability here was priceless Nobody stood on ceremony although everybody was polite. A man's face was his fortune. Names, reputations, college degrees, financial ratings, all were so much chaff to be ignored. Will you have more sliced onions? Or let me get you some more coffee ma'am? That sort of thing was paramount!

It was dark before they realized it, but four big campfires lighted the scene. Cake and candy both appeared as dessert. A group of college girls and cowboys had started singing by one fire. The orchestra moved into the house where the dining and living rooms had been cleared, and as many as could get in went there to dance. Another orchestra showed up outside. It was simply five Mexicans in costume, who had brought their string instruments and come uninvited, sure of a welcome at "Senior McMurray's rancho." These played continuously and delightfully by the fires.

Joy and Polly, and Ward McMurray, went in to dance. Ward asked his sister for first favor, over the protests of six other young men. In the second number, a dreamy kind of waltz, Ward was dancing with Joy and feeling a deep elation at the girl's extraordinary beauty and grace, when she suddenly stopped and looked beyond him.

"Well, I'll be darned!" she exclaimed, low tone.

He turned. Slowly he began to grin. "Hold on," Ward drawled, "That's Sis, all right, and that's your chauffeur, Palmer, dancing with her, but out here people are very democratic, Miss Boone, and —"

She was walking toward Ken and Polly, so Ward followed her in considerable excitement. Polly had seen them. Her eyes were wide with mischief.

"Dawn just breaks on me!" Joy Boone declared when the four had come together. "I'm not very bright, but I do tumble in time. Palmer. I thought the president's name sounded familiar last night! And you—of course! I see it now. You're a carbon copy of him!"

She was glaring at Ken Palmer in mock severity. Ken and Ward and Polly were bursting with laughter. They roared, shrieked. Joy let them have it out. But her lips were set firm when they calmed down and would have teased her some more. And there a look in her eyes.

"A contract!" she uttered, nodding emphatically. "Everything out here is done by written contract! Okay, so it is. And contracts hold!"

Ken and Polly suddenly sobered, "You mean—?" Good-looking Ken jabbed a finger at her.

"Exactly!" snapped Joy Kathryn Boone. "A contract is a contract. You'll live up to yours for the entire college year Palmer, go bring the car! At once!"

Laughter from the four young people there on the dance floor brought other couples to them. Fun? What's up? Everyone wanted to know.

But Joy Boone held to her act of severity. The pretty eastern girl turned to the crowd about her.

"It's a matter of a contract," he announced coldly. "Nothing funny at all. Palmer here signed a legal agreement to be my chauffeur. He acted under false pretenses. How was I to know he was a Frontier student? Frontier isn't suppose to have boys!"

"But you can take a joke, can't you?" Ward McMurray demanded.

"Oh sure! I don't mind at all if my chauffeur is the college president's son. Palmer, I told you to go bring the car. Right now!"

The group all laughed again but Ken broke in. "Sounds like you mean it, Miss Boone."

"I do!"

"But look—excuse me, won't you? We wanted to, uh, welcome you properly." The big fellow was smiling nervously. "All in fun see? Look, I'll destroy the contract right now."

He reached in an inner pocket and took out the paper Joy had signed last evening. He tore it to pieces, wadded it and threw it aside.

"That won't help," Joy declared. "That only releases me from paying you! I still have the copy you signed!"

"Where?"

"At home, in the dormitory. I may have it framed. Or lock it in the bank. You signed. You were old enough to know better."

"No doubt about that," Ward McMurray murmured.

"Miss Boone," a cowboy put in, "I'd take it a pleasure to buy that contract off'n Palmer, ma'am. I'm a right good car driver, and easy to get along with!"

"Me too!" Another youth shouted. And he started a veritable chorus. Obviously Joy's good looks had made an impression here. Before she quite realized it the hilarious young men around them were bidding for that contract!

"Twenty-five bucks!" one shouted.

"I double and throw in my hoss!" another said.

"Two hundred bucks and two hundred prime steers!" yelled a third.

"Goodness!" Joy murmured, into Polly McMurray's ear. "Is it— are they—?"

Polly beamed excitably at her. "It's a stampede! The music's stopped. More men are coming!"

"Oh lordy, Polly! I—come on!"

Giggling but determined, Joy grabbed Polly's arm and started to flee. Then she stopped suddenly, ran back and grabbed Ken Plamer, too. She made that flustered young collegian come with her and Polly, and together the trio escaped through a side door The hilarious crowd, trying to follow blocked its own exit by jamming the door, and in a moment the refugees were out at Joy's new sedan.

"Quick, Palmer, you have the keys!" Joy ordered.

They piled in the front seat beside him and roared off down the desert trail, escape made good.

"Whoops!" Ken exclaimed, striving to share in their mood of adventure. "It's a great party your dad threw for us, Polly."

"Please!" Jay was very severe again. "Miss McMurray is not in service, Palmer. You will address her with the respect due"

Big Ken, still trying to smile, looked distressed too. "Aw! How much punishment do I have to suffer, hunh?"

"A contract is a contract."

"Make it stick, Joy!" Polly urged, delightedly. "He has it coming."

"All right, all right! Anyway I certainly won't howl tonight. Matter of fact, I'm lucky. Here I am out riding with the two best looking girls at Frontier. A brunette and a blonde. What more could a man want on this earth?"

"That's better!" Joy declared, mischief showing in her eyes. "You could be gallant if you tried."

"Who, me?" In truth, Ken was shocked at his own temerity.

Polly broke in loftily. "Oh Joy, I forgot to explain—Mr. Palmer has no interest in girls. He is allergic to them. Said so himself. He—he studies!"

Canada and U.S. Swap Concessions In Air Agreement

Dominion Gets Three New Routes and States Four

Ottawa, June 6 (CP)—Canada and the United States have traded concessions for each other's commercial airlines in a new air agreement.

The Dominion got three new air routes across U.S. territory—two of them to overseas points. In return, she gave the U. S. new traffic rights at Edmonton and in Newfoundland and two new routes into Canada.

The pact, signed here Saturday, becomes effective at once for an unstated length of time.

For Canadian Air Lines, it opens up a new route to Australasia—now being flown experimentally by Canadian Pacific Air Lines—and gives Trans-Canada Air Lines permission to take on and discharge passengers and cargo in Florida on its flights to the Caribbean. It also gives T.C.A. a new Montreal-New York flight, previously flown only by Colonial Airlines, a U.S. company.

It culminated from negotiations which began last April, after Newfoundland joined Confederation. The union put U.S. traffic rights at Gander and two U.S. military bases—Argentina and Stephenville—under Canadian jurisdiction.

Canada gets:

1. Traffic rights at Tampa, Fla., on flights to the Caribbean.

2. Traffic rights at Honolulu on flights to Australia and New Zealand.

3. A Montreal-New York service, formerly flown only by Colonial Airlines.

4. Use of Argentia and Stephenville for civil aircraft.

If granted the U.S. in return:

1. Traffic rights at Gander on Trans-Atlantic flights.

2. Traffic rights at Edmonton flights to Alaska and the Orient.

3. A direct route from New York to Toronto. American aircraft formerly had to stop at Buffalo, N.Y.

4. Extension to Edmonton of its service from Great Falls, Mont., to Lethbridge.

The pact is expected to mean increased competition between U.S. and Canadian lines and both countries expressed satisfaction with it. But Sigmund Janas, president of Colonial Airlines, said it was a "complete sell-out of the Americans." He said more than 60 per cent of his line's revenue came from Montreal-New York traffic.

In Montreal, a T.C.A. spokesman said the line will start flying from Montreal to New York, but declined to name a date for the inauguration of the new service.

CANADA REMOVES RESTRICTIONS ON SECONDARY ITEMS

Will Increase British Sales in Dominion by $1,500,000 a Year

Ottawa, June 6. (CP)—In a move expected to increase British sales to Canada by nearly $1,500,000 a year, the finance department Sunday night announced removal of import restrictions on a range of secondary items.

The controls come off July 1. It is believed their removal was designed principally to help the United Kingdom's campaign to boost exports to dollar areas.

The items include such things as perfumes, flatware, small household appliances and electrical goods, vases, desk sets and paper products. It is understood British officials asked Trade Minister Howe for removal on controls on many of the articles during his recent trip overseas.

Department officials said the lifting of controls will not mean greater expenditures of United States dollars. Importers from dollar areas must import the commodities under their present quotas. But the move will give importers a wider variety of items from which to choose.

Also included are jewelry, cigaret lighters, ash trays, public-address systems, electric razors, beverage dispensing and mixing equipment, stationery, electric fans and electric heating pads, paper hats and paper party equipment and decorations, fountain pens and water heaters.

Non-dollar areas which will be allowed to ship to Canada under open general permit include all countries but: Cuba, Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Haiti, Panama, El Salvador, Switzerland, Russia, Venezuela and the United States.

The restrictions were originally imposed under the emergency exchange conservation regulations in 1947.

Eight-Year Girl And Two Boys Nipped in Career

St. Catharines, June 6 (CP) — A thriving business of relieving piggy banks of their contents came to an abrupt end for an 8-year-old girl and her three smaller partners in crime in Grantham Township during the week-end.

For the last two Saturdays, Mr. and Mrs. A. James noticed sums of money missing from the piggy banks in their house. The first time they didn't bother to report it, but last Saturday when they discovered that nearly $13 had disappeared, they decided it was time for action.

Chief Norman Fach and Constable John Mitchell investigated and found little footmarks on polished tables. These clues finally led to the enterprising eight-year-old and her male "stooges", two of them seven and one only six years old. Restitution was made by the children's parents, and the culprits got off with a severe reprimand from Chief Fach. It is doubtful whether they got off with anything less than the hard part of a slipper after the police left.

D-Day Shore on Omaha Beach Serene On Fifth Anniversary of Landing

Omaha Beach, Normandy, June 6 — (AP) — It is D-Day plus five years, soldier, on this sandy coast where the world hinged on what you did.

Because you did well here your world at home is as good as it is and if it isn't any better they can't blame you. There are some things you can do with a gun and there are other things you can't.

What's it like here now, soldier, five years after you landed and put the first torch to Adolf Hitler's western wall?

Well, the best answer might come from Pte. Anthony R. Calif, or his neighbor, Pte. Marvin C. Garness, or his neighbor, Lieut. George W. Phillips.

But they'd rather ask you:—"What's it like now at home? And my folks — are they well and happy?"

For they came here to stay, silent citizens of a silent American city on foreign soil. They rest with 9,523 other soldiers in the United States military cemetery atop a high green hill overlooking Omaha Beach.

The whole area is a strange patch of life and death and memories and people will be coming here on pilgrimages for a long, long time.

They'll see cows grazing on hills pitted with fox holes now overgrown with weeds. They'll hear the soft surf speaking in endless tumult on a curving shore and a summer sky will hold a warm sun set in perfect blue.

French peasants came in their Sunday best and held a small memorial ceremony. A boy and girl sat in the grass and read poetry.

It was a day of love, fun, happiness and grateful memories of the soldiers.

Yes, that's what it is like on Omaha Beach five years after. It is peaceful here, utterly peaceful. And days of peace go on and on. Life goes on in the old Normandy way, too, as it has for centuries. The people are thankful they are free to live in quiet.

Perhaps the silent men on the hill know this. Perhaps they don't mind the price they paid to bring peace back to this shore and the shores at home they left to come here and die. The last fox holes had a rough entrance fee, but they hold a long glory in advance.

NAVY WILL PROBE GROUNDING OF AIRCRAFT CARRIER

None of 1,100-Man Crew Hurt, Craft is Freed

Halifax, June 6. (CP) —The navy will hold an official enquiry "in the near future" into the grounding Saturday night of the aircraft carrier Magnificent off Nova Scotia's south shore. Findings will be made public.

The 14,000-ton carrier was freed with the help of the destroyer Nootka four hours after running aground at 8 p.m., 150 yards off White Lodge Beach, 70 miles southwest of Halifax. None of the 1,100-man crew was hurt.

The navy released no details of the clear-weather mishap. An officer aboard the carrier said Canada's capital ship ran aground on a "submerged, uncharted rock". She was travelling at about 12 knots toward night anchorage off the coast.

Magnificent limped night anchorage off the coast.

Magnificent limped into Halifax Sunday. Extent of the damage was not known but some of the ship's compartments were flooded and an officer said "it looks as if we'll be in drydock all Summer".

..Magnificent and the destroyers Nootka and Haida, on exercises off the Nova Scotia coast for a week, were moving in the line astern when the carrier hit. Nootka and Haida had to veer sharply port and starboard to avoid a collision.

Commodore G. R. Miles of Rothesay, N.B., Magnificent's captain, had the carrier's load shifted aft. The ship rocked back and forth in the heavy swell.

Haida broke a cable trying to pull Magnificent free but Nootka had better luck.

Hundreds of persons lined the shore road to watch the operation.

The 694-foot-long carrier was built in Belfast in 1944 and was commissioned in the Canadian navy two years ago.

Dentists Blame Excessive Sugar In Modern Diet

Saskatoon, June 6 (CP) — A United States denture specialist today told the Canadian Dental Association's annual meeting that dentists have come a long way since George Washington's time.

Dr. Walter J. Pryor of Cleveland, O., said the first U. S. president had a mouthful of spiral springs to keep his upper and lower dentures apart. Today dentists can remove teeth and pop in a new set of dentures the same day.

Dr. Pryor blamed the need for so much dental "restorative work" on excessive sugar in the modern diet. The average person — with an appetite for soft drinks, ice cream and pie—consumed 70-80 teaspoonsful of sugar a day.

Political Purge Taking Place in Russia Says Story in New York Times

New York, June 6 (AP) —The New York Times says today a political purge is taking place in Russia.

A Paris dispatch from C. L. Sulzberger says evidence can be assembled showing at least 300,000 members have been expelled from the Communist Party and that membership in the Komsomol—Communist Youth League—has fallen.

The Times lists several important party leaders as having disappeared quietly. These include: N. A. Voznesensky, former Politburo member; A. A. Kuznetzov, central committee secretary; P. S Popkov, member of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet; Yuri A. Zhdanov, son of the late Politburo chief; I. T. Golyakov, former chief of the Supreme Court.

Sulzberger says it appears those now suffering were members of the so-called Zhdanov faction, persons following the line of Andrei Zhdanov who died last August at 52.

The cause of his death was listed officially as heart failure but there were world wide rumors that he had been "liquidated."

He had been Stalin's favorite and regarded as the Generalissimo's most likely successor.

However, the Times says, he had fallen from favor before his death and been replaced by his reputed rival, Georgi M. Malenkov.

Sulzberger's dispatch says persons relegated to obscurity under Zhdanov are being "rehabilitated" and cited G. F. Alexandrov, one of the parties propaganda chiefs, as an example.

This purge can in no sense be compared to that series of upheavals which took the entire structure of the U.S.S.R. during the 1930s, the Times says.

Nevertheless, the newspaper continues, there have been wide-spread expulsions from the Communist Party for ideological reasons. It says party membership had fallen from 6,300,000 in Sept. 1947, to 6,100,000 last January.

U.S. Guarantees West Europe Full Strength and Resources For Freedom and Peace

Washington, June 6 — (AP) — The United States has pledged Western Europe its entire "strength and resources" to the maintenance of world freedom, peace and democracy.

The solemn assurance came last night from President Truman and a comparatively new elder statesman, General George C. Marshall, architect of the European Recovery Program.

A "black tie" dinner in the Carlton Hotel, a few blocks from the White House, was the setting for an historic meeting at which they spoke.

Spokesman for 16 Marshall plan countries voiced, too, their thanks for United States aid in their hour of great need. Truman assured them that the fight for lasting peace has only just begun.

The occasion was a celebration honoring Marshall, whom the president called one "of the greatest Americans of all time."

Marshall called in his talk for prompt approval of the North Atlantic pact.

"The North Atlantic Pact is significant of the future steps that are necessary to a restored Europe," he said.

Search Centres Around Pond Near Farmhouse

Eastman, Que., June 6 (CP)—Michel Fontaine, missing for seven days, centred today around Trouserleg pond, 1 1-2 miles through the deep bush from his father's farmhouse.

There was little hope the frail lad, suffering from asthma and and no bigger than a normal four-year-old, was still alive.

One search party of 50 men Sunday indicated they might have struck the area where Michel wandered when he failed to return home from a trip to fetch his father's cows. Burly Glenn Brown, a teacher and former Montreal football player who knows these woods well, reported seeing three footprints made by a child.

Sunday night, when even Police Chief Edmond Rioux of Eastman gave up hope of the boy still being alive, the search committee under Warwick Fox decided to keep searchers out of the woods during the night and send them out again at 9 a.m.

The report from Brown and Capt. Patch was the only tangible thing turned up in a day which saw close to 2,500 men combing back and forth through the dense forest and muskeg which covers the mountain area around the Fontaine farm, 70 miles east of Montreal.

But for those who held to the slender hope that Michel might still live there was this ominous note from Brown:

"I've been in the woods off and on for years and we had able woodsmen with us this time too. We are all agreed that other tracks near those made by the child were the tracks of a bear."

The footprints report ended a day filled with wild rumors of the boy having been seen; but nobody was said to have had more than a glimpse of him as he reportedly scampered wildly away from search parties. One rumor after another was run down lucklessly.

Police Chief Rioux has been—until today—among those who refused to believe Michel had perished. Early this morning he said. "well I gave the boy six days to live. Today is the seventh day."

Molotov Reported Placed in Charge Policies in China

Paris, June 6 — (AP) — A responsible East-European diplomat said today Vyacheslav M. Molotov, deputy prime minister of Russia, has been placed in charge of Russia's policies in China and elsewhere in the Orient.

The informant forecast an early change in Russia's attitude of diplomatic aloofness toward the Chinese Communists.

No official confirmation was available from Russian sources in Paris.

The informant said Molotov was given the task of shaping and carrying out a Soviet "big brother" attitude toward the emerging Red Chinese regime.

In effect, the move could mean the Kremlin has initiated a policy of giving all possible help in political and economic fields to the Chinese Communists in an effort to turn industrially poor, sprawling China into a modern state.

On the other hand, there have been suggestions from some western quarters that Mao Tze-Tung, the Communist leader, might have Nationalist ideas such as those of Marshal Tito, premier of Yugoslavia, which have drawn the fire of Russia and the lesser Communist countries.

Speculation

The nature of Molotov's work has been a matter of speculation since Moscow announced March 4 that he was being succeeded as foreign minister by his first deputy, Andrei I. Vishinsky.

An informed British source said at the time he believed Molotov, the "hammer" in the Soviet hierarcy, was to become a sort of super-director of Russian policy, or "general supervisor of foreign policy."

The Russians have made a point of moving their diplomats from cities overrun by Chinese Communist armies. The Soviet press has not given major attention to the campaign in China. Russia still recognizes the Nationalist government.

Any doubt that Molotov is still top man in Russia under Prime Minister Stalin were dispelled by Moscow's May Day decorations May 1. Portraits of members of the Politburo showed him next to Lenin and Stalin.

MONTREAL MAN DENIES CHARGE OF BEING SPY

Accused of Supplying Information to Russia

Washington, June 6 (CP) — Hazen Sise, Montreal architect, was named Sunday by Elizabeth T. Bentley as a member of a team which supplied information to the Russian government during the war.

The charges levelled by the former Russian courier, were denied by Sise who said he could not recall ever having met Miss Bentley.

The 43-year-old Sise said in a telephone interview from his home outside Montreal, that his wartime employment in Washington concerned only the distribution of films for Canada's National Film Board.

Miss Bentley sent Sise's name along with those of six employees of the United States government, and others outside the government, to the Senate Judiciary Committee.

She said the government employees supplied information for the Soviet government and that the others were among those passing information to the Russians.

Meanwhile, investigators for the House of Representatives said today there are signs that two of the government's highest officials prevented the arrest of a Soviet spy on grounds a diplomatic riot would result.

It was uncertain whether or not the House Un-American Activities Committee would bring evidence along that line into a hearing today on Russian espionage at the Bell Aircraft Plant at Buffalo, N.Y.

Tried to Buy Secrets

But committee officials said they were ready to produce definite evidence that a Soviet official in charge of wartime purchases of Bell Airacobra fighter planes tried to buy aviation secrets from Bell employees.

Listed as witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Franey, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Loren Haas of Buffalo. They were described as present or former employees of Bell whom the Russians attempted to recruit into a spy ring.

Committee sources said they are persons of unquestioned loyalty and proved it by dealing with the Soviet spy while letting government agents know all that was going on.

But the Russian, now supposed to be back in Moscow, never was arrested or prosecuted. Some committee members would like to know why.

Miss Bentley gave the Senate Judiciary Committee a list of 37 persons she described as United States government employees "involved in giving information to the Soviet government." In addition she listed six outsiders as couriers and three employees of foreign government.

As employees of other governments who are listed as parts of the relay chain, Miss Bentley name Sise, Cedric Belfrage, British Intelligence Service, New York, and Mrs. Robert (Jennie) Miller, Chinese Purchasing Commission.

Canadians Celebrate Birthday Of King Without Pomp, Fanfare

(By The Canadian Press)

Minus pomp and fanfare, Canadians today officially celebrated the birthday of the King. They did it quietly.

Although the King's birthday was December 14, the celebration date was set back as customary until a more timely day.

Governor-General Alexander sent a message of good wishes from Canada to His Majesty. Closing of schools, government offices and banks generally coincided throughout the Dominion but most other businesses were open.

In Ottawa, civil servants swarmed into the Gatineau hills and the Ottawa valley for a day of fishing, opening of summer cottages or just relaxing.

St. John's and Halifax had the usual gun salutes and flags bedecked the buildings.

At Toronto, municipal, provincial and federal government employees were greeted with warm weather. Throughout the rest of the province, some firms and all schools followed suit.

It was a big day for sports events. Special sports meets were planned throughout the Dominion.

H.S. Students Go On 'Strike' After Principal Fired

Pickets Parade Before Homes of 3-Man Board

Three members of the high school board at Flinton, Lennox and Addington county village 45 miles northeast of Belleville, are standing pat today in their unexplained dismissal of their high school principal, Keith MacEwan, 40-year-old unmarried teacher.

But their action in asking for the resignation of their high school principal has resulted in a storm of protests from some 40 students and their parents.

Friday all high school students attending the township area consolidated school went "on strike" demanding that Mr. MacEwan be re-instated. The students picketed the high school and carrying placards paraded before the homes of the three-member high school board.

And a majority of the parents in the high school area which embraces the entire township of Kaladar, are supporting the high school students in asking for the re-instatement of Mr. MacEwan. They say Mr. MacEwen came to Flinton with the highest recommendation and that his work has been satisfactory.

Says Action Justified

Chairman of the high school board Stafford Yanch, Flinton hotelman whose family were pioneers of the district, stated the board were entirely justified in asking for the principal's resignation. But further than that he would not go.

"If the school board is not permitted to make its own decision in a matter of this kind, then there is no use having a school board," he said.

Other members of the high school board are John Davidson, garageman, at whose home the dismissed principal has been living, and Mrs. Wilma Cox, grocery store owner at Flinton. Secretary of the board is Howard Hasler.

Last week when students and parents learned of the unexplained dismissal of Mr. MacEwan they called a meeting of the ratepayers at the school. With feeling running high on both sides, the school was packed for the meeting.

Refuse to Read Letter

Parents and ratepayers wanted to know the reason for the action of the school board. Board members replied their action was the result of instructions received from their high school inspector who directed in a letter that Mr. MacEwan be asked for his resignation.

Contents of the letter were then demanded by parents, but the board refused to comply. It was intimated, however, if the ratepayers were aware of the contents of the letter it would be seen the board was justified in its action.

"We didn't like the attitude of the parents in calling the public meeting and we didn't like the actions of the high school principal at the meeting," Mr. Yanch said. "We felt the principal should not have attended the meeting."

"It has been my ambition since I was elected to the school board to try and better conditions for the students and I feel I have been sincere in trying to do that."

No Personal Grievance

He pointed out that he had no personal grievance against Mr MacEwan or the ratepayers, but stated the demand to read the contents of a confidential letter should not have been asked for at a public meeting.

Jim Hunter Dies, 'Talking Reporter' Widely Known

Toronto, June 6 — (CP)—Jim Hunter, known to countless thousands of Ontario radio listeners as "Your talking reporter," died today.

The veteran newscaster had been ill for some time and occasionally was not able to give his regular broadcasts over CFRB, the Toronto station he has been connected with since 1932.

Listeners tuned into the broadcasts to the strains of "A-hunting We Will Go" and were greeted by Hunter's vibrant voice: "Good Wednesday evening—everybody."

Mr. Hunter, 48, started his radio career with station WBBM in Chicago in 1929. In 1931 he moved to Kitchener, Ont., and after a brief period switched to CFRB. In his early years he worked as a reporter for the Toronto Telegram.

Hunter was once quoted as saying "Through my newscasts I feel I am able to make some small contribution to the harmony of our nation."

"I have no patience with anyone who sows the seeds of discrimination, and I'm going to continue to work towards the downfall of bigotry and intolerance."

He broadcast his 10,000th program two years ago.

Born in Aberdeen, Scotland he moved to Simcoe, Ont., with his parents when he was four. He was educated in Simcoe, Woodstock and Goderich.

His widow and two daughters survive.

Hunter considered his "biggest" story was the Moose River mine disaster in 1936 when he broadcast every 20 minutes for 129 straight hours and scored a nine-minute world beat on the story.

He wrote all his own newscasts and usually spent 2½ hours in preparation before each.

Liquor Board Vendor Not Guilty of Charge

Charged with selling to an intoxicated man, Donald J. Gault, liquor control board vendor at Deseronto, was found not guilty by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in a judgment given one week after the case was heard in court.

The case aroused more than usual interest in this town and saw the Deseronto courtroom packed for the entire four hours which the case took to complete.

Chief of Police Albert Marks told the court that he had arrested Lorne Foster, Deseronto, on April 23, outside the liquor store and charged him with being drunk. Chief Marks said he had taken two bottles of wine away from Foster just as he stepped outside the liquor store.

"Foster," he said, "had later pleaded guilty to the drunk charge and had paid a fine.

Called to the stand as a witness in the Gault case, Foster testified he had pleaded guilty to the drunk charge but said he had done so because he did not want to spend the night in jail. He denied that he had purchased his wine after hours.

Under cross examination Foster told the court that Chief Marks had told him: "I'm not really after you. I am after Gault."

Don. Gault, who has been vendor at Deseronto for three years, testified Foster had not appeared abnormal to him.

Assistant Crown Attorney S. Gordon Robertson prosecuted the case, while Malcolm Robb, Belleville solicitor, acted as defence counsel.

First Planting 150-Acre Woodlot Made at Flinton

What eventually will be a 150-acre wood plot was formally opened at Flinton last Wednesday when red pines were planted during a ceremony sponsored by the Department of Lands and Forests and the Lennox and Addington county council.

Public officials turned the first sod which launched the first Lennox and Addington county forest.

Reeves and deputy reeves of the various municipalities concerned took part in the ceremony, and included 88-year-old John Bryden, life - long resident of Flinton who more than half a century ago cut trees from the very spot where the young pines were set out.

Private planters who took part in the ceremony were: Joseph Yanch and Wilfred Lessard who this year have planted 110,000 trees.

Reviews Projects

Zone forester W. E. Edwards of Napanee reviewed private reforestation projects in the district dating from 1925 to the present. Purchase of the 150-acre plot by Lennox and Addington county was its first organized step toward reforestation.

Mr. Edwards said the first of the original reforestation plots were now producing more than a cord of wood per acre per year but noted their actual purpose was to hold water and produce streams.

Warden of Hastings county S. A. McCarey congratulated the neighboring county on the beginning of their project and of "creating the necessities of life for our children's children."

He said that Hastings county now have 425 acres in county forest and have planted 120,000 pine trees.

Other Speakers

Speakers heard at the ceremonies included the following: Herbert York, reeve of Sheffield township and warden of Lennox and Addington; S. A. McCarey, reeve of Tweed and Warden of Hastings County; Lorne Gemmell, reeve of North Sherbrooke and Dalhousie and warden of Lanark county; E. F. Purcell, reeve of Colebrooke and chairman of the Napanee Watershed Authority; Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, of Foxboro, secretary of the Moira Watershed Authority; J. A. Pringle, of Arden, MPP for Frontenac - Addington; and T. A. Wilson, reeve of Pakenham, in Lanark County, who is chairman of Zone 5, the Ontario Conservation and Reforestation Association.

Former Moderator Of Presbyterian Church, Dies

Nor did the veterans of the unit forget those buddies who gave their lives for civilization and who lie in foreign fields.

On Sunday morning 125 members of the unit augmented by veterans of other associations swung through city main streets to the Station Street Cenotaph where a brief memorial service was held to the memory of the glorious dead.

Major Ken Graham of the Salvation Army conducted the brief rites at the memorial and Gunner G. Quesnal deposited a wreath on the base of the Cenotaph.

To the music of the Belleville Pipe Band and the band of the Salvation Army, the parade marched through the city to the Armouries where it was dismissed by the former Battery Sergeant Major Eddie Lee.

The remainder of Sunday afternoon was spent in reminiscenses and general amenities and by twilight the first annual reunion of the 34th Field Battery RCA was over.

Many members of other units of the 14th Field Regiment RCA of which the 34th was a battery member, were present from Shawinigan Falls and Montreal. The officers and members of the 34th were extended a cordial invitation to attend the reunion of the 61st Field Battery being held in Montreal next November.

Tributes were paid to the chairmen of the various committees Jim McKenna, Bob Chadwick, Secretary Mathews, President Storke and the ladies who assisted in many ways to make the affair an unqualified success.

United Nations Steadily Exerts World Influence

Syracuse, N.Y., June (CP) —Canada's External Affairs Minister, L. B. Pearson, said today the United Nations "though it may have little power" has a growing influence in world affairs.

No one could pretend that the United Nations, at the present time, could stop a big power determined to go to war.

But the organization is constantly exerting its influence on world affairs and should be used so that "even with its limited resources it can serve the high purpose for which it was founded," he said in an address prepared for delivery before a Syracuse University Convocation. He received an honorary degree from the university.

He said it was obvious the U.N. does not fulfill its primary purpose—"to guarantee the security of its members."

The U.N.'s difficulties were caused because the "U.S.S.R. has objectives different from ours, and because they have methods with which we are not familiar. . . ."

In spite of this, he said, the experiment must be continued because an international organization without all of the great powers "will inevitably be unreal and impractical."

By realizing its limitations it was able to "perform certain important tasks of maintaining peace which have been assigned to it, even though at present it lacks the power to impose its decisions."

The work of the U.N. in Indonesia, Palestine and Kashmir had "not been very dramatic or spectacular" but it had prevented major conflicts. Three principles emerged from mediation in these disputes which showed how the U.N. could function.

1. No agency of the U.N. could follow any course of action unless it was reasonably sure its recommendations could, or would, be carried out.

2. The responsibility for solution of a political problem should be left primarily to the people immediately affected by it.

3. The U.N. should continue to insist that the first step in the mediation of a dispute must be the cessation of disorders.

S.A. Gold Share Buying Boom Is Resumed

Johannesburg, June 6 (Reuters) —Telephone calls from the United States, Britain and Europe came in to stock brokers' offices here today as the gold share, buying boom resumed after weekend lull.

The rich find at Erfdeel touched off the crazy buying, which reached a new peak when the market opened this morning.

Reports today of a second fold strike, said to be even richer than the Erfdeel strike last week, were denied by the corporation during the drilling. The Anglo-American Corporation, drilling on farm Dankbaarheid, in Orange Free State, near where the Erfdeel strike was made, officially denied that a rich gold strike had been made.

The Erfdeel, announced last Friday, was said to be more than twice as rich as any reported previously in South Africa.

During the weekend a London source bought a block of shares in the holding company — Union Free State Goldfields — for £250,000 ($1,000,000) said Joseph Milne, head of the group of companies controlling Erfdeel.

He said he had calls from leading United States and British financial houses offering capital for investment in South Africa's richest-ever gold strike and for devolpment of Free State gold areas.

The board of directors of the company will decide on these offers soon. Milne said it was in the interests of South Africa that this capital should be encouraged.

Free State Gold Areas, on whose property Erfdeel is situated, open at 47s. 6d (about $9.50) this morning and rose quickly to 56s.

Corridors of the stock exchange and brokers' offices were jammed with shouting, screaming throngs determined to get their money into gold shares.

Cape Town, June 6 (Reuters) —The South African treasury today officially denied reports that South Africa has made formal application to the International Monetary Fund for a higher gold price.

The treasury also denied that N. C. Havenga, minister of finance, would fly to Washington to put South Africa's case before the fund board.

H.S. STUDENTS

A prominent Flinton resident who said he was "neutral" but because of his position in the village did not wish to be quoted, said he felt the board was entirely justified in not giving the reason for the principal's dismissal.

"The ratepayers should not have asked that the inspector's letter be read at the meeting," he said.

Mrs. Cecil Casey, one of the parents, felt the members of the board were taking a dictatorial attitude in refusing to divulge the reason for the principal's dismissal.

Says Parents Within Rights

"The parents are generally satisfied with the work of the principal and the students like him," stated Mrs. Casey. She felt the ratepayers were within their rights in asking to know the reason for the principal's dismissal.

"Mr. MacEwan came here two years ago on the highest recommendation and since then he has received no indication from his high school inspector that his work had been unsatisfactory. If it is something which has occurred since he has come to Flinton, he wants to know."

"Why we didn't even know that Mr. MacEwan had been asked for his resignation until we were told by some Northbrook people that the board was advertising for a principal," said Mrs. Casey. "It seems we have to go outside of Flinton to find out what's going on."

Quotes Reason for Action

Mr. Casey went on to say that the only reason for their action which the board members would give at the meeting was that Mr. MacEwan had failed to co-operate with the other teachers.

"We proved they were wrong in that by having the other teachers speak," she said. There is one other teacher, Miss Emma Latice, on the high school staff, with two teachers and principal in the public school.

She said that Mr. MacEwan was quiet by nature and never offered an opinion unless he was asked to do so.

William L. Rothwell, public school principal, stated the whole thing was very unfortunate. "It is unfortunate that it took place insofar as I am concerned because it affects the public school entrance pupils. I have eight entrance pupils who have to meet department standards at the end of June," he said.

Will Not Return

Today Flinton high school pupils, the majority of whom are "bussed" in from the neighboring centres of Northbrook, Kaladar, Cloyne and Harlowe, say they will not return to classes unless their principal is reinstated.

Friday they picketed the school carrying placards bearing the words "We Want MacEwan, or Else." "We are bored with the Board," and "Democracy at Work." Some of the placards carried wording relating to the alleged dictatorial attitude of the school board.

One large banner, firmly staked to the school campus, suggested the school had been closed definitely and stated the high school was "For Rent."

"What about Monday?" one of the pupils was asked.

"Monday is a holiday, but we still will not be in our classes there."

Principal Absent

The dismissed school principal was came to Flinton from Maxwell in the Cornwall district, could not be reached for comment. Residents said he had gone to Tweed or to Belleville on business.

The consolidated public and high school at Flinton is one of the most modern in the district. It accommodates 150 students and was built three years ago at a cost of approximately $75,000. It is of one-storey brick construction and serves the Kaladar township school area, the majority of the pupils being brought by bus from the outlying districts.

Monty Promises Britain Will Fight With France Again

Hermanville, France, June 5 — (Reuters) — Field Marshall Viscount Montgomery, Europe's Western Union military chief, Sunday pledged Britain to fight with France again in the event of another war

He told an Anglo - French gathering in a street of this Normandy village at a ceremony commemorating the allied invasion in 1944:

"I want to tell you that you can regard it as certain that the forces of Britain will fight side by side with the forces of France should aggression come."

"That fact can not be too widely known."

"And I want to tell you I myself will fight with them and if I have to die in battle I will die fighting in France and be buried in France."

F.D.R. Jr. Being Groomed for Next N.Y. Governor

Washington, June 6 (AP)— That "our-next-governor' chant with which Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr's., New York State followers greeted his election is beginning to find some echos among Democratic politicians here.

The 34-year-old son of the late President, who was born in Canada at the Roosevelt summer home at Campobello, N.B., apparently knows that his name won't be enough to give him any juicy work assignments in the House of Representatives.

But it already has proved enough to insure him a welcome as a Democrat. He was elected in the New York 20th district on two other tickets—Four Freedoms and Liberal—and defeated Benjamin Shalleck, the regular nominee, in the process.

The Roosevelt name also is certain to put the spotlight on this young man's actions and views to such an extent that many politicians think—if all goes well with him—he must be reckoned with as a possibility for the democratic nomination for governor of New York in 1950.

If he ever made the grade to the Statehouse in Albany, he would have the pattern of his father's transfer to the White House laid before him.

As far as any dream Roosevelt may have of the Presidency goes, the question involved is whether having been born in Canada, although of American parents, F.D.R., Jr., is "a natural-born citizen."

Under the definition of "nationals and citizens" of the United States at birth, the law says:

"A person born outside of the United States and its outlying possessions of parents, both of whom are citizens of the United States and one of whom has resided in the United States or one of its outlying possessions prior to birth of such a person."

That seems to laymen to cover F.D.R., Jr., but probably it would still take the courts to say whether he is a "natural-born citizen."

LAST REUNION UNDER PRESENT HEADQUARTERS

St. Catharines, June 6 (CP) — A sad note crept into the annual Ridley College Old Boys' Reunion during the weekend. Marking the school's 60th. anniversary, the reunion is the last one to be held under the present headmaster, Dr. H. C. Griffith, retiring after almost 50 years.

Rainless Spell Enters 12th Day

Toronto, June 6 (CP) — Another forecast of 'clear and warm' weather today brought no cheer to farmers in Central Ontario, where the rainless spell entered its 12th. day with heavy damage feared to crops.

Charles Hooper, president of the York County Branch of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, estimated at the weekend crop losses shortly might amount to as much as $100,000,000.

Mr. Hooper said the hay crop loss has reached 70 per cent and the fall wheat loss is probably 50 per cent. Root crops have been badly effected.

The "drought" area extends from Toronto west to Hamilton and north to the Georgian Bay. Less than a 50 per cent yield of strawberries was expected in the Niagara Peninsula. Other weekend reports said farmers are plowing under ruined tomato crops in Prince Edward County and that a raspberry crop failure is expected in the St. Thomas district.

In areas close to Toronto tank trucks were hauling water to a number of farms.

50,000 ATTEND FAIR

Toronto, June 6 — (CP) — Officials Sunday estimated that 50,000 persons crowded the InternationalTrade Fair Saturday, one of the three days on which the big international business exposition is open to the general public before it closes June 11. Gordondon Jocelyn, manning the information desk, said it appeared as though most of the 50,000 wanted to know where the "English pub" was located. One of several bars licensed for the fair, the pub is a replica of an old English tavern.

WINNIPEG CELEBRATES

One of the great cities of Canada and the New World is Winnipeg which this week is celebrating its seventy-fifth birthday with an old-home-town reunion. The capital and the largest city of the Province of Manitoba, its site was first visited by a white man in 1738 when the famous French explorer LaVerendrye on his journey to find the western sea built Fort Rouge at the juncture of the Red and Assiniboine rivers.

Winnipeg is one of the great grain centres of the world, the natural centre for shipping between the south and the northern mining areas.

It is no mean city, it has importance financially and industrially and is on the main line across Canada. It is associated with railways and airways, it is an educational centre, the seat of the University of Manitoba. It has true claims to cultural interests in music and in drama.

Winnipeg is one of the great business centres of the world. It feels the pulse of world trade.

As this week the people of Manitoba's capital celebrate the people of the rest of Canada will show their interest in the progress of the city which has taken its place with the greater cities of the Dominion.

Canada in its vast extent from Cape Race to Nootka Sound has the opportunity of developing great cities. Such cities as Winnipeg give some indication of the advance which will continue to be marked in the wide extent of territory whch Canada possesses. The march of progress has but begun. A look over other countries much more crowded than Canada gives a hint of the developments to be in so many parts of the Dominion. But this progress will be much more rapid for it will be in an age of rapid growth in a world whose consciousness is aroused more and more.

Winnipeg may well be taken as an example of progress that is in store for many areas and parts of Canada. There is immense room for expansion which will make the great cities greater and the lesser cities great.

HAZARDS IN HOME

The home, the refuge and abiding place of practically everyone, and the dream of even the homeless and wanderer, the reputed haven of safety and security, possesses another reputation however, not so often recognized or admitted, that of the place where most accidents occur, causing injury and often fatality.

Yet that is really not so strange. Everyone knows the record for fatal fires, for innumerable falls, including plunging down a basement or house stairway, or tripping over familiar objects. In fact the home is credited with being the scene of the accidents outnumbering the mishaps of all other places and locations.

The home is a little world in itself really. Just as men, women and children inhabit numerous countries, so men, women and children are in the home. It is the axis of their world. There the most of their time is spent, each home possessing an individuality from the conduct of those who dwell within. It is the place of all places when rest calls for sleep, it is still in a large measure the place where most meals are prepared and enjoyed. With this place everyone is familiar and that familiarity like familiarity with anything else often breeds carelessness — hence accidents of numerous kinds — in many cases, those happening to children, accidents due to methods of heating in the winter months or even in the warmest months of the year for meals have to be cooked year in and year out and where there is fire there is the danger of burns or scalding. It is easy to step on a nail or a tack and run the risk of blood poisoning from the infection resulting.

The centre of the family life, the home, has to be guarded carefully against the designs of fate or chance which seems to await an opportunity to harm and injure young and old who dwell in this little world within the greater world without.

Accidents which cause so many injuries in the home are a warning to all to be on the guard against risks to which all people seem prone.

Of all virtues magnanimity is the rarest; there are a hundred persons of merit to one who acknowledges it in another. — Hazlitt.

Men are but children of a larger growth; our appetites are as apt to change as theirs, and full of craving, too and full as vain.—Dryden.

Man himself is the crowning wonder of creation; the study of his nature the noblest study the world affords.—Gladstone.

GOLFERS SHOULDN'T LOOK UP

I saw the dogwood, white red,
The cardinal upon the bough.
My rival never raised his head.
No time for beauty he'd allow.

I said' "It is a glorious day
And there are splendid scenes to see."
Not once he'd let his vision stray.
His heart was set on beating me.

The while we golfed I saw a cloud
Sail slowly on a sea of blue.
The other fellow's head stayed bowed
Though there was loveliness to view.

I saw the beauty, near and far.
The other fellow missed it all.
He'd rather shoot each hole in par.
He kept his eye upon the ball.

50 YEARS AGO

June 6th., 1899

About three o'clock yesterday afternoon heavy and lowering clouds were seen gathering in the sky in a northwestern direction from the city. The rumbling of distant thunder denoted that a storm was approaching and it gave evidence of being severe. Before rain descended the wind blew with considerable force in the city, but from accounts which we have received, our city was fortunate in escaping the path of the tornado (for such it proved to be) that swept through a portion of the townships of Thurlow and Huntingdon. After the storm had subsided its path was plainly visible on all sides. On the 8th. concession of Thurlow township the Zion Hill Methodist Church, a brick structure, was levelled to the ground; the Methodist Church at West Huntingdon was bereft of its spire and a portion of the front brick work was torn out; the Bethel schoolhouse was unroofed; the schoolhouse near Roslin was badly damaged; the Presbyterian Church near Ivanhoe was also damaged considerably; scores of barns were unroofed, wind mills blown down and many fences and trees were levelled to the ground. Some of the stages coming to the city today were forced to drive through fields, as the roadway was blocked with fallen trees and fence rails.

Mr. R. Cunnington has obtained a position on the Steamer Corsican and left with the boat from this port last evening.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GET LOST OUTSIDE YOURSELF

I have studied a great many people who were nervous, full of complaints, worry-faced, and chronic complainers. And I have said to myself: "What a pity that such people can't arrange to get lost outside themselves." That would cure a multitude of ills, both of mind and body.

A very intelligent young man was once rebuked by Talleyrand because he boasted that he took no stock in games or hobbies. Said the Famous Frenchman: — "So you don't play whist, young man, what a sad old age you are preparing for yourself!"

For half my lifetime I have had several hobbies that have engrossed my mind, but which have meant a more glorious interest in the main work of my life. Having a hobby, and devoting one's odd hours to it, is like a vacation, as in fact it may well be called. You go back to your regular work refreshed, clearer in mind, and enter it with increased enjoyment. Many an imagined pain has suddenly disappeared when completely lost outside oneself, engaged in some interesting hobby or extra pursuit.

Walking alone you do serious thinking and are liable to concentrate your thoughts upon yourself to no good. Enter a great crowd, however, and you become lost to yourself, and unconsciously are absorbed into the greater mass. It is a good thing to be with others and away from yourself when you are disturbed. We do our best work as an individual when working with others as a team.

How often, when listening to a great artist perform upon the stage, we become so absorbed that when he has finished, we seem to have been transferred to a different world for the time being. I can understand the fascination of baseball. There is no game quite like it. By watching one for two or three hours, at least you can be assured that many a trouble or worry will have become less, and many a pain forgotten. We are always healthiest and happiest when lost outside ourselves.

Walk into the reading room of a great library and note how intent each is upon reading or in the taking of notes. Each lost to himself in interesting pursuit.

Plenty of Nerve Needed to Succeed In Tricky Gold Business in Siam

Bangkok, June 6 — (AP)—All you need to start in the gold business in Siam is $1,000,000. A membership in a world - wide syndicate with the right connections, sharp business brains and a world of nerve.

The business goes something like this:

You get the best offers from brokers or the owners of gold in varied parts of the world. You ship the gold more than half way around the world and in 2 weeks you realize a profit that rarely runs more than two per cent on the $1,000,000 investment.

How do you get into this business?

You're born into it.

Established in Bangkok

There is a group of agents of these gold merchants in Bangkok. Some case about two years ago. Others were established before the Second World War.

Stand at the bar of the modernistic night club called Chez Eve in Bangkok and sooner or later you will meet some of these bullion agents.

There is nothing dishonest about it. But there is the question of what happens to the gold once it reaches the free market on the Portuguese island of Macao off the China coast.

It's no secret that those who buy the gold in Macao smuggle it into China and other parts of the world for resale at big profits to wealthy merchants who prefer bullion to their own shaky paper currency.

But all this is not the responsibility of the gold merchants.

Bangkok, together with Saigon, is an important link in the world-wide set-up because it is the permissible trans - shipment point from airliners to smaller flying boats that must make the six-hour hop to Macao. China is the biggest market for gold. If a bigger market was elsewhere the gold would flow the other way.

The business operates something like this:

From the headquarters of the firm a request goes out to get the best price for the purchase of $1,000,000 worth of gold.

The best price is $46 an ounce in a South American capital. The headquarters accepts and instructs the agent to ship it to Bangkok. When it reaches Bangkok the principals in Macao have to make a decision. What's the price at the moment in the free market?

Get Selling Price

The gold, they figure, now has cost $47.70 an ounce because of the cost of insurance, storage, entry fees in Macao and the usual squeeze by Macao banks that hold a sort of monopoly on incoming gold licences.

The price offered in Macao is $48.50. Sell!

That 80 cents an ounce is a profit of about 1½ per cent. That's all the syndicate wants.

If the price is under $48.50 then the agents look up the international price of the metal and decide whether it would be better to take a small loss now or to hold and gamble on the price going up.

Mackenzie's Column:

Churchill Wanted To Attack Europe In Mediterranean

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

This fifth anniversary of D-day, when the Battle of Europe was inaugurated with a mighty invasion of Normandy by Allied forces, recalls the striking differences of opinion which existed in supreme circles over where the assault should be delivered.

Premier Stalin had been urging an invasion of France by the Western Allies to ease pressure on the Russian front. However, Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Britain was chilly to this proposition.

He favored an invasion all right, but his mind was set on stabbing at what he described in his picturesque language as the "soft underbelly of Europe" — Meaning in the Mediterranean area.

Many observers at the time felt he might be looking at the situation as much from the political angle as from the military. The Allied invasion of Italy already was under way, and if the western powers drove up into the Balkans, they would have possession of this strategic territory of Eastern Europe when the war ended.

The Western Allies would have come to dominate Southeastern Europe and would have swung into Central Europe on the left flank of the Russians. Thus, instead of giving the Russians a free hand in all Eastern Europe, the other powers would have been there with their armies when the armistice came.

That of course would have meant a complete change in subsequent events. Russia would not have over - run all Eastern Europe and established a communist empire with its eastern frontier running through the heart of Europe.

On that basis there probably wouldn't have been a "cold war." Many of the nations which became unwilling satellites of Moscow would have remained free and would have cast their political lots with the western democracies.

Did Churchill have something of this sort in mind when he argued for making the attack on the "soft underbelly"?

In any event, he was overruled. The allied decision was to make the assault through Normandy. This daring undertaking — the greatest of its kind in history— was carried out to victorious conclusion.

Ontario Labor Relations Act Is Denounced

Toronto, June 6 (CP)—Delegates to a special session here of the Provincial Federation of Trades and Labor Congress of Canada Sunday heard denunciations of the Ontario Labor Relations Act.

The delegates voted to carry the fight for reform of the act to the home constituencies of all members of the Ontario legislature.

The provincial executive will seek an audience with the Ontario cabinet to urge changes in the act, passed in 1949. In the meantime, a special committee will work on a model labor code including provisions the membership claims are lacking in present legislation.

Chief complaint against the present act is that it gives the Ontario Labor Minister the power to grant conciliation. Union delegates contended this power should be vested in the Ontario Labor Relations Board.

84 Descendants Share Gold Hidden Nearly 200 Years

Paris, June 6 — (Reuters) — Eighty - four descendants of Louis Nivelle Equerry to Louis XV of France, have received gold worth 11,248,000 francs (about $44,000) hidden by their ancestors in a house in Paris nearly 200 years ago. It took 10 years to trace them. The gold was found wrapped in Louis Nivelle's will by workmen demolishing a house in Paris in 1939.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

When I called on a French friend who was visiting Canada, he was just ridding up his hotel room, and was busy sharpening a safety razor blade on an automatic blade sharpener.

I took up the device when he was finished with it and examined it.

"Ah, you don't require such things over here," he laughed. "What are a few cents to you? You take three or perhaps four shaves out of a blade and then throw it away."

"They are so cheap," I protested.

"In Europe, nothing is cheap," said the Frenchman. "We are in the habit of getting the most out of everything we have to pay for. In Canada, and America, generally, you do not think of saving except in terms of ten dollars or fifty dollars. You do not think of saving in terms of coppers."

"Many do," I said.

"Most do not," the Frenchman said. "Your economic structure is built on spending. Ours is built on saving. I get fifty shaves out of this one safety razor blade, as the result of this sharpener I use. It is only a single, small instance of the way I live. Everything I buy I examine intently both for quality and price. I amuse people by carefully checking my restaurant bill. I am most careful to have everything I own repaired the moment it shows signs of wear. This shirt I have on—very smart, eh?"

I admitted it was.

"Both collars and cuffs have been turned," said the Frenchman. "I have owned this shirt for four years. My shoes, eh? Very sturdy? Very good looking? I bought them in 1944, during the war. If many people in America adopted my attitude, ruin and disaster would engulf you all. You must spend. If you saved, you would have pennies, but you would all be out of a job."

The fellow may be right.

SLICED FRESH TOMATOES

When I was a boy in Cananualgua, everybody grew tomatoes in his own garden. As a kid I don't know why, I acquired an antipathy against tomatoes but I know perfectly well why I acquired something worse than antipathy, indeed an intense loathing for mashed potato. At Thanksgiving dinner at Grandma's in Victor I sang out that I wanted nothing but turkey and stuffings and for my misbehavior was served some mashed potato with the advice that when I ate it I might have some turkey with stuffings.

Substitute milk, spinach or fresh fruit in season for the mashed potato in similar situations and you may have an explanation for many a "dislike" of healthful food items.

My whim against tomato was dispelled, I am glad to say, by a psychologist who persuaded me to taste of a special brand of canned tomato juice. I had to admit it tasted very good—and then it was easy to try some fresh sliced tomatoes. Ever since I have been fond of tomato.

It won't work with mashed potato, though. No, sir-ee. I go for the peel or baked potato, crisp friend potato or hashed brown potato, but if you want to preserve amicable relations with me, don't serve mashed potato.

What is salad without tomato to garnish the dish?

Hinhede found that the Russian peasant, who lived almost exclusively on bread and worked 12 to 14 hours a day, was subject to gravel. But a diet consisting of 13½ pounds of tomatoes (yielding about 105 calories per pound) 1 pound and 10 ounces of Graham bread (yielding 1950 calories, or about 75 calories per ounce of bread), and about 5¼ ounces of oleomargine (yielding 1180 calories or 225 calories per ounce of oleomargarine—same caloric value as butter). This diet produced a urine having a good solvent power over uric acid.

In rare instances the presence of too much oxalic acid in the urine may account for kidney or bladder irritation by calcium oxalate crystals or bleeding and colic from formation of kidney or bladder stones. It is true that certain foods contain a considerable amount of oxalic acid, notably rhubarb, plums, strawberries, potatoes, tea, coffee, cocoa, spinach, beets, figs, tomatoes. This is no indication that one should avoid these foods, for after all many other foods contain more or less oxalic acid, some oxalic acid or calcium oxalate is always present in the urine and it is kept in solution by drinking plenty of water or, if symptoms are referable to oxaluria, by medicine the physician prescribes to increase the acidity of the urine (which is normally slightly acid).

Several readers have reported that they find they can eat such things as rhubarb or strawberries without suffering any alergic reactions of symptoms of oxaluria if they take at the same time a few spoonfuls of lemon juice.

Fresh tomato juice or factory (vacuum process) canned tomato or its juice is practically as effective as orange juice for the prevention of scurvy. It is well suited for this purpose in the baby's bottle.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Stand on Cement

At my work I am on my feet all day. Some years ago moved my shop and the new location had a cement floor instead of wood floor. Soon after that I began having pains in my feet and legs for the first time. My doctor offered on explanation or advice. But a friend suggested it was from standing on the cement floor —an idea I laughed off at first. However, as an experiment, I [illegible] a length of compo wall board on the floor to stand on as I worked. The result was that in a few days I was free from aches or pains in feet and legs and there has been no return of the trouble. (T. G.)

Answer—C. O. Incidence again. I print your story, friend, merely so you can't accuse me of suppressing evidence. I shall answer no question about the way to get and use wall board whether to work barefoot or wear shoes, or whether soles and heels of wall board wouldn't serve the purpose as well as a whole length of it. I say T. G.'s recovery was only circumstantially related to his experiment. Wall board is virtually as unyielding to the pressure of the foot as concrete, cement, tile or wood floor. Rubber mat, cork, felt, thick carpet or even linoleum over padding may be more comfortable for persons with weak or painful feet to stand on at work. But in my opinion cement, concrete or hard wood floor does not cause foot trouble of any kind.

It Is Stupid

It is stupid to suffer from piles. Less than 24 hours after I received your pamphlet I was on the table getting my first injection and I am happy to say that after two more injections I was cured—and the treatments give one very little discomfort. (R. McC).

Strength for the Day

BE PATIENT

Parents have sometimes misunderstood their children and tried to turn them from careers of holy living and great usefulness. The father of St. Francis of Assissi was violent in his anger against his son when the young man turned from a life of gaiety to become a religious ascetic. At the trial in which the father of Francis attempted to bring his son back under his authority, Francis stripped off his clothes in the courtroom, laid them at his father's feet and declared that henceforth he belonged no longer to an earthly father but to a heavenly. Admiral Penn disinherited his son William for joining the Quakers.

Yet how conclusively has history proved that the parents in both of these cases were wrong and the children were right. The young folks had visions which the blind eyes of middle-age could not see. We may grow impatient today at many of the attitudes and practices of our young people—and at many of them we should grow impatient—but we should also remember that it is young people who see visions, that it is the sons and daughters who prophesy. The future is with them, for better or worse. Let us love them and try to understand them. "Love never faileth," and understanding, persisted in, leads us at last into the ways of light and gladness.

Britain's Sales to Canada Barometer Of Future Trade Between Both Nations

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Writer)

Harold Wilson leaves Canada today with a determination that Britain will sell as much goods here as possible.

The president of the Board of Trade said so Monday night in a farewell address after a three-week tour of this country.

He also upheld, just as firmly, the correctness of Britain's trade procedures up to the present.

And he gave a review of Britain's post-war accomplishments which reached a considerable height of patriotic oratory.

Mr. Wilson addressed the Periodical Press Association after a full day in which he took part in the opening ceremonies of the Canadian International Trade Fair.

Machinery Featured

At present it would seem that Britain pins most of her hopes for sales in Canada on engineering equipment for the various huge development programs that are going on.

However, it might be remembered that so long as Canada is engaged in development programs, she also is offering an increasing market for consumer goods — things that people use, or wear, from day to day.

On the Canadian part, it might be remembered that increased standards of living come from countries being able to exchange goods with one another, because this enables peoples to produce at good capacity for their mutual benefit.

Just now, so far as Canada and the United Kingdom are concerned, the most important figures to watch are those showing Britain's sales to this country. If they go up, our sales to Britain will be maintained and perhaps some day increased; if they go down, our sales go down.

Mr. Wilson did offer some hope, however, that the time is passing when the matter will be decided purely on a basis of virtual direct exchange of goods.

He mentioned increasing sales to Canada from other countries using sterling, which would make dollars available to Britain just as much as though the sales were her own; and Canadian dollars earned by Britain on what is called invisible account, which includes such matters as shipping services and tourist traffic.

Again, if words mean anything, Britain looks forward to the time when what you earn from trading with one country may be spent in trading with another — in other words—multilateral trade and convertible currencies.

She thinks that what she is doing is leading to that.

N. America Not Excluded

Mr. Wilson denied that Britain is setting up two trading worlds, one of which would exclude North America. He also denied that she is responsible for the fact that currencies are not convertible.

And he absolutely upheld what Britain has done and will do towards world restoration.

"We are an 'old' country. But we want it to be realized that we are a 'new' country too, a country on its toes and keen to show the world what it can do. We are a country which has increased its national production by some 40 per cent by volume as compared with a normal pre-war year. A nation which has surmounted so many and so great difficulties is not one to shirk the challenge which faces us today.

"We are proud of our post-war achievements in production, in trade, in science and productive research.

"Such a nation has much to contribute to the solution of our post-war trading problems."

RADIO LIFE HOLDS HONORS, LAUGHTER FOR HERSENHOREN

By ALAN DONNELLY

It may be a big jump from symphonic orchestration to conducting the music for a fast-moving radio comedy show, but that jump is made every week by a musician whose versatility has made him one of the better-known names in Canadian broadcasting.

He is 41-year-old Samuel Hersenhoren of Toronto, who made his first radio broadcast as a 17-year-old solo violinist over the old station CKNC in Toronto and has been connected with radio ever since.

It is no easy thing to say what branch of music Mr. Hersenhoren is best in. He conducts his own symphony orchestra and then, for variety, is orchestra conductor (and butt of many jokes) on CBC's Wayne and Shuster comedy show every Thursday night.

And to prove he's not simply a baton-waver he was a violinist in the Toronto Symphony Orchestra for 17 years and concert master for two.

Sampel Hersenhoren's main success, however, has been as one of CBC's leading music men for many of its feature dramatic productions. For three successive years he won the LaFleche Trophy for outstanding contributions to radio in Canada. He has appeared periodically as conductor on CBC Wednesday Night programs and has written and orchestrated much of the music that goes into the broadcasts.

He'll be the first to admit that radio requires something extra in precision and timing. Around the CBC Toronto studios he is known as a perfectionist because of his insistence on flawless orchestra work, and this trait has earned him the nickname of "Rehearsalhoren."

He believes Canada should and will build a musical heritage.

"The Canadian scene implies Canadian music and we cannot interpret our country through the borrowings of other nationalities . . . It is for that reason I have been so determined to bring forth the talent in the musical ranks in this country."

He began his career in music at the age of 11 with a debut in Toronto's Massey Hall — and nearly ended it the same year in a skating accident that almost lost him his right hand. Since then he has been careful about sports, but loves swimming and "poker with the boys."

Mr. Hersenhoren has wavy brown hair, a broad brow and humorous brown eyes. He likes: good food and flattering photographs.

Both he and his attractive wife, Jeannie, lead an active life. She was a former reporter with the Montreal Herald and is one of Toronto's most active club women. Both played an active part in organizing the Canadian Ballet Festival and the Dominion Drama Festival in Toronto this spring and Mr. Hersenhoren won praise from music critics as conductor of the ballet festival orchestra.

The future of television will be one of the main points of discussion when the Canadian Association of Broadcasters holds its annual meeting June 13-16. Representatives of Canada's independent broadcasting stations will meet at St. Andrew's-by-the-Sea, N.B.

The C. A. B. meeting will also discuss, in closed session, its representations to the Parliamentary Committee on Radio Broadcasting and to the Royal Commission on Canadian Culture. Another item on the agenda is the North American Broadcasting Agreement.

Antiques, Oddities New C.N.E. Feature

Toronto (CP)—Old heirlooms and family antiques, probably gathering dust about Canadian homes, will have their place in the 1949 Canadian National Exhibition.

The C.N.E. women's division is offering an honorarium, and shipping charges paid both ways, for articles of historic value or special interest. They'll be shown to exhibition visitors at the Old Curosity Shop in the Women's Building. The new display has been planned to take care of hundreds of exhibits of previous years which were refused because there was no particular class for them.

Latest Device Makes Landings Easy For Pilot

By LLOYD McDONALD
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York — (CP) — It's been more than two years since I touched a control column — and then on single-engined planes — but the other day I made four excellent blind-landing approaches in a twin-engined DC-3.

It's not boasting. The credit goes to a fascinating little gyro-electronic wonder-box known as the "Zero Reader."

"The device," says the Sperry Gyroscope Company, "will be of the greatest use in making manual approaches through the overcast."

As far as I'm concerned, that's the understatement of the week. The zero reader can revolutionize manual flying on instruments.

However, there's still some dispute as to whether it will be put on the market. Cost is a major consideration, and there are some who hold it is superfluous in commercial aviation, stacked up against the present combination of highly-skilled crews and excellent automatic-piloting equipment.

But that's for the experts. Let me tell you how it affected this former amateur pilot.

The Sperry Company has the zero reader set up in an experimental DC-3, a plane which many Canadians knew during the war as the Dakota. It's been on tour for technical demonstrations and recently had a two-week stand in Montreal, at the International Air Transport Association's conference.

The other day Sperry invited a group of reporters to see it in action.

In Pilot's Seat

I suddenly found myself in the pilot's seat with Charlie Sharp, Sperry test pilot, riding the co-pilot's seat.

I flew the plane normally for a few minutes and it was just what I expected. I was all over the sky. Then I was introduced to the zero reader.

An indicator the size of a silver dollar is mounted on the instrument panel. Two crossed, moveable lines that look like radar blips are centred on a dot in the middle of the indicator. When they're centred, or "zeroed," the plane is being flown correctly for normal flight. Turn a selector switch to the blind-landing position and the zero reader makes the pilot fly correctly for an instrument approach.

The big thing about the zero reader is that the instant the plane starts to move—up or down, banked or level, left or right—in the correct direction, the lines go in zero. They'll creep off again but the succeeding corrections become finer and finer and the pilot is figuratively eased into a correct flying attitude. There's no "hunting, overshooting on climbs or turns, or mental calculations. That's all done by the zero reader's mechanical brain.

All the pilot has to do is "zero."

So I "zeroed." Then I cocked an eye at the regular blind-flying panel and every instrument indicated the plane was in a correctly--banked "rate one" turn.

"Thinks" for Pilot

"That's the idea," said Charlie. "This thing co-ordinates the information from the five regular instruments and correlates it. It does the thinking—come on, keep zeroing."

I kept zeroing. If the nose started to drop, the line crept up. A little back pressure on the stick and it returned to zero. Same thing with the other— the horizontal—line. It kept the turns and banks just right, or made me keep the wings level and the nose from yawing.

"Keep your head in the cockpit and don't look out — just keep zeroing," said Charlie. "I'll watch everything else."

"Everything else," although I didn't notice at the time, turned out to be throttles, landing gear and flaps. I just kept zeroing, noting that downward corrections were becoming persistent.

"We're losing height," I said, glancing at the altimeter.

"Don't look at the instruments," said Charlie. "Just keep zeroing."

I kept zeroing. The corrections were coming more and more frequently, and progressively tighter. But it wasn't a strain because they were coming so gradually.

"You can look out now," said Charlie.

I did. There was the runway, dead in front and 10 feet underneath. The plane was lined up for the touchdown.

Sure, it's easy. All you need is a zero reader.

Motherly Woman Seeks New Deal For Farm Women

Guelph, June 6 — (CP) — A motherly woman with greying hair said today she seeks a "new deal" for farm women.

Mrs. Raymond Sayre of Ackworth, Iowa, president of the Associated Countrywomen of the World, said in an interview that in many countries women bear the burden of agricultural labor. Her association would improve their position through taking an active part in international policy making.

Mrs. Sayre is a delegate to the third annual conference of the International Federation of Agriculture Producers, meeting here until June 10. The delegates from 23 countries are considering, among other matters, ways of feeding the hungry nations with supplies which build up occasionally in other countries.

Mrs. Sayre said the Associated Countrywomen of the World embraces organizations of rural women with about 5,500,000 members in 25 nations.

She said her organization has been granted consultative status with the United Nations Economic and Social Council and thus has moved into the field of international policy making.

"Few realize it, women voters outnumber men voters in every country in the world except Australia. Women can wield a great deal of influence in solving economic and political problems.

"The immediate concern of the Associated Countrywomen of the World is improving the lot of rural women—their working conditions, living conditions, opportunities for health and education. We also want to become a recognized voice for farm women in international affairs, particularly in the matter of speaking for the ways of peace."

The organization is affiliated with the Canadian Women's Institutes.

Colorful Rain Wear Seen at Trade Fair

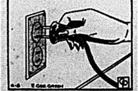
Toronto (CP)—Go gaily when it pours, seems to be the latest in rainwear. Stripes, tartans, prints in any combination of colors as well as solid colors brightens the cloudy day now.

Rayon satins and taffetas, cottons, Japanese silk and nylon rubberized materials are being shown in a variety of styles at the Canadian International Trade Fair.

A grey cotton, finely striped in red, yellow or blue, was cut with a front yoke of horizontal stripes, turn down collar, hood and belt to draw in the back fulness

Navy blue rayon crepe appeared in a smart rain cape, and a dark red thin silk turned up as a lightweight summer rain coat complete with hood and self-covered buttons.

Fine-check pastels made for the teen-ager, can double as a summer coat in some cases. While for those who regard raincoats as strictly utilitarian garments there were beige cottons smartly tailored and well finished.



Never forget to disconnect your electrical appliances immediately after you have finished using them. If you do this you will not fear that they will become

Tabernacle Church Sunday School Graduation Exercises Held

Tabernacle United Church was beautifully decorated Sunday morning with Spring flowers for the Church School anniversary service and graduation exercises.

The church school band played the musical prelude and led the congregation in the hymns.

During the Processional hymn, "Onward! Christian Soldiers", headed by the flag bearers, the Beginners' Department took their places on the pulpit platform banked with baskets of peonies and iris, the other departments with their teachers occupied the front seats.

The salute to the Christian Flag was given with the singing of

"Fling out the banner let it float
Skyward and seaward, high and wide;
The sun that lights its shining folds,
The Cross on which the Saviour died."

The Canadian flag was saluted and "O Canada" was sung. The Beginners' and Primary Departments each sang a chorus and prayer was given by the Primary Department. The Twenty-fourth Psalm was repeated antiphonally by the Intermediate Department and the Beginners' sang "The Flower Song" with motions. The offertory prayer was made by the Beginners' Department.

Preaches Sermonette

Rev. Frank R. Harback preached the Sermonette. He explained that a sermon was for adults but a sermonette was for children.

"Dear Heavenly Father give us clean words and clean thoughts:
Help us to stand for the hard right against the easy wrong,
Save us from habits that harm,
Teach us to work hard and play fair,
Forgive us when we are unkind and help us to forgive those who are unkind to us,
Keep us ready to help others."

"Send us chances to do a little good every day and to grow more like Jesus" was the prayer of the Intermediate Department followed by the church school hymn "Fairest Lord Jesus".

The graduation service was performed in the chancel of the church, each pupil received a graduation certificate duly signed by the teacher, superintendent and the minister of the church, and passing through a flower decked arch was received by the teacher of their new class. The primary department having achieved certain merits was presented with beautifully inscribed Bibles from the Needle Craft group of the Church—this graduating class repeated the 100th Psalm, one of their memory work pieces.

MARMORA

Campion Family Holds Reunion on 50th Anniversary

Marmora—Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Campion were at home on Sunday to their relatives and friends at their residence on McGill Street, for the marking of the 50th anniversary of their wedding.

It was on June 7th., 1899, that marriage vows of Harry German Campion, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Campion of Marmora Township and Melissa Kerr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Kerr, of Madoc, were pledged at the Presbyterian manse, Madoc, before the Rev. Ed. Mackay.

The witnesses were, G. A. Kerr, brother of the bride, and Carrie V. Kerr, sister of the groom. That same day the bride's brother, John Kerr, was married in Trenton to Lena Nelson of that town, making it a double affair as the Campions pleasantly remark. Mr. Campion's father, of descent of an English family of high standing, was born on a well-known farm of pioneer days, Lily Creek farm close to the old Madoc Road, in the Williams Mine section of Marmora Township. He moved to another part of Marmora Township to make a new home for himself, choosing a spot about five miles north of the village, where virgin forest was still untouched, and there, by dint of an industrial spirit, felled the trees to make potash, and cleared the land, and erected a fine residence, so that in time the George Campion farm took its place among the better farms of the township.

Seventy-five years ago, his son, Harry, was born to remain there uninterruptedly until deciding to retire, and reside in Marmora Village, seven years ago. The farm is still in the hands of the family since Albert Campion, second oldest son, occupies the farm to-day.

Mrs. Campion's parents, the Kerr's, came of well known Thomasburg families, the Kerrs and the Mortons are of old Irish stock. She also has reached her 75th birthday, being about six months older than her husband. She is one of seven children born to her parents—there are four sons, and three daughters—all living today, with ages ranging from 65 to 80. On the other hand, Mr. Campion is the last surviving child of his parents.

Seven children will participate in felicitations to their parents this weekend, namely, Clare, Marmora Township; Mrs. Wallace Lawrence (Leita) Marmora; Mrs. Goldie McInroy, (Stella), West Huntingdon; Albert, Marmora Township; Arthur, Deloro; Mrs. Douglas Jones (Myrtle), Marmora Township; Charles, Marmora. In addition, Mr. and Mrs. Campion, are proud of their seven grandchildren. They are members of St. Andrew's United Church and for some years, when living on the farm, attended the now demolished Methodist Church at Pleasant Corners, on the old Cordova circuit.

Both have full use of their faculties. Mrs. Campion is treasurer of St. Andrew's Glee Club, founded a few years ago and, like her husband, possesses a keen sense of humor. From the garden in front of their home, there is a picturesque view of Crowe River, where its waters pass through the dam and countless trees stud its western sloping bank.

The family reunion dinner was held in the Campion home on Sunday.

WALLBRIDGE W.I.

Mrs. Frank Phillips was hostess for the monthly meeting of Wallbridge W.I. Mrs. Jas. Sine retiring president, conducted the installation of new officers.

The Roll Call was "What's Your Beef?" Some mentioned were, "The dust from the roads without chloride"; "The inconvenience of parking meters in Belleville"; "Gossiping on telephones when you want the line for business, etc."

The secretary read the minutes of last meeting and the yearly financial statement. The delegates to the District Annual appointed were, Mrs. E. B. Phillips, Mrs. G. Evans, and Mrs. Morley Phillips. It was decided to form a new group for co-operative health insurance. It was decided to ask for a course on "Oven Meals".

Mrs. Cecil Smith prepared the paper on the topic "The Responsibilities of Women Toward Local Politics" given by Mrs. Jas. Sine, who said "We serve our community in two ways: by being good citizens and by being good wives and mothers and molding our children into good citizens." As the children grow older the community must compete with the interests they find in the cities. "Let us encourage men and boys to take a greater interest in their farm organizations, church, and politics.

"As women let us attend church regularly and accept offices in women's organizations. Woman's place is in the home but due to outside influences we must exert ourselves to greater service in the wider interests of the world outside our home."

A quiz on facts concerning the Institute was conducted by Mrs. Ted Evans and Mrs. Harold Phillips, which was very enlightening.

A vote of thanks was tendered the hostess followed by delicious refreshments served by the conveners. A social time was spent.

Mickey Rooney Wed Third Time

Hollywood, Calif., June 4 — (A)— Mickey Rooney married Martha Vickers Friday and commented on his third marriage: "If this one doesn't work, there must be something wrong with me."

The wedding ended a hectic day for the onetime Andy Hardy of the screen. The couple appeared at the Glendale marriage license bureau and were told they would have to wait. The attendant was out to lunch.

Then the actress had difficulty proving she was of age. She is 24.

Rooney encountered trouble finding a church for the ceremony. After being turned down by two churches because of the couple's divorces, he was accepted by the Christ Memorial Unity Church in North Hollywood.

Rooney, 28, paced nervously before the church while waiting for his tardy bride. She finally drove up a few minutes after the scheduled wedding time at 5 p.m.

The wedding party, a handful of relatives and Rooney's movie partners, met in the vestibule for signing of papers and then walked into the little, unadorned church. The vows were read by Pastor Herbert J. Schneider.

The bride wore a cocoa lace cocktail dress, the bridegroom a blue gabardine suit.

Zoot-Suited Visitors Rival Circus Outfits in Outlandish Costumes

The zoot suits and Sammy hats hit town this week and they have local citizens thinking they are color-blind or they think that it might be some strange creatures from another planet or something to that effect.

Four teen-agers from Toronto have been in town since Saturday and are dressed fit to kill in their clothes symbolic of the gangs that roam the streets of Toronto. A few of the local teen-agers think that they are really "hot" but the majority of them are sure that they are a bit "touched."

Walking down Front St. four abreast these lads look like a broken down rainbow. They all wear the same color hats and jackets but the pants look like something swiped from a circus side-show. The pants are of light green, pale blue, bright maroon and the one that stands out the most is the canary yellow drapes or strides as they are called in Toronto.

Canary Yellow Pants

The canary yellow pants are something out of this world. Maybe that is where they belong. Two seams run parallel down the outside of the legs about an inch apart. These are what they called outseams. Running down between these seams is a single line of black polkadots of all things. The belt-loops are two inches long and belt about half an inch wide is worn in them.

Down the calf of the leg they do not look too bad but how they ever get their feet through the bottom part is a mystery that is hard to solve. The leg itself is about 26 inches in girth but the cuffs are only 10 inches. The only way to get a foot through the cuff is by undoing the zipper that is hidden in the seam on the inside of the leg. They fit very tightly on the ankle and are set off by a pair of bright diamond socks. To top all this off a heavy pair of ox blood colored shoes with soles an inch in thickness are worn.

To top everything off they are wearing what is known in "Gangtown" as Sammy hats. These are really ordinary fedoras that are about a size too large and worn with brim up. There is a heavy crease down each side of the hat and a tight fold in the back.

The four of them are wearing sport shirts of a single color that match the color of each others pants instead of their own. Over these they wear tan colored Eisenhower jackets. There is one more thing that is worn by them that will be the downfall of one of them if he ever walks too close to a fire hydrant. That is a key chain. They are anywhere from two to three foot in length and hang from the belt loop down around the knee and back up to the pocket.

Asked where they are staying in town the one with yellow pants, who seemed to be the spokesman for the four of them said, "We are not staying anywhere in particular. I got my two weeks holidays from work early this year so I borrowed my father's truck and we just followed our noses and here we are. We have been to Kingston and we are going back to Toronto on Friday night."

Travel In Truck

They are driving a light panel and when they feel like sleeping they drive out to a side road somewhere out of town and go to sleep.

Some of the teen-agers around town might have the feeling that they would like to dress in this gaudy manner but they may soon change their minds when they find out the cost of outfitting themselves in this manner. Starting from the hat to the shoes the cost runs in this manner: a Sammy hat, $12.00; bright plain colored sport shirt, $8.00; Eisenhower jacket, $10.00; pants, drapes or strides, $18.00 to $25.00 a pair; socks, $2.50 and shoes run anywhere from $12.00 to $23.50, a total of anywhere from $60 dollars at the cheapest to over $80 for the stuff that is considered really in the groove in Toronto.

What is still another mystery that may remain unsolved is how both the teen-age boys and girls in Toronto can pay to look like a walking rainbow.

BIRTHDAY COMING, HOLIDAY SPIRITS MOVE HALIFAX

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax — (CP) — In less than a month, they'll be 200.

These aged Haligonians don't look it. They have been rejuvenated by the belief that their city's June Bicentenary, like a promising fighter, will be a good thing—if it's managed right.

If the subject arises, you're likely to hear something like this:

Parades-and-peanuts celebrations draw tourists and tourists mean money. This particular occasion creates a chance to show the apathetic outsider a good time and give the port — now in the midst of a seasonal shipping slump — a helpful shot-in-the-arm.

For these reasons, nearly everyone expresses guarded optimism and modified determination to make the thing pan out. Haligonians are proud of their city. They firmly believe a vacationer couldn't find a better place to while away the summer among historic and beautiful surroundings.

Merchants hopefully are anticipating a boost in business. They'll probably get it — hotels report bookings months ahead. More than 30 conventions are scheduled for the summer. Jammed in among these are events ranging from mock battles to operettas.

Children pursue studies with a wonderful feeling that something big is about to happen. This holiday mood pervades everyone to a lesser degree but many are bewildered by an endless stream of program additions or alterations.

Almost daily, the Bicentenary committee reviews a parade of ideas — rejecting many and selecting a choice few. Accommodation is being solicited from residents, in fact — "anyone within an hour's drive" — and Dalhousie University students will show you the high spots for $1 an hour. Streets are being resurfaced and flowers planted. Houses are being painted, a library built and trolley-coaches kept spotless.

No one yet has suggested a mile-round birthday cake crowned by 200 candles — but there's still time.

Keep Pioneer Idea N. Zealand Urged

By J. C. GRAHAM
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Auckland, N.Z. — (CP) — New Zealanders have been warned by their Governor-General, Lt.-Gen. Sir Bernard Freyberg, V.C., that they are in danger of becoming soft. He is urging them to retain the toughness of the pioneers, which he thinks has been the nation's real virtue in the past.

Sir Bernard knows a good deal about toughness. In the First World War he won the V.C., D.S.O. and two bars, and was wounded nine times. As commander of New Zealand troops in the Middle East throughout the Second World War he suffered further wounds but was always in the front line. His troops used to say that when they saw the general they knew they were too close to the enemy.

Few of them will forget the "toughening up" process to which they were subjected before joining combat units. It was a gruelling test, but it paid off in a score of hard-fought battles.

Judging by the Second World War, New Zealanders came up to Sir Bernard's standards of toughness, but he is urging more attention to physical fitness. He wants to be sure that the good parts of the country's heritage will be retained in the future.

New Zealanders have changed their outlook in the past 30 years, he said recently. New Zealand had made a noteworthy contribution to the world of science, medicine, engineering, and scholarship generally. She had produced artists, musicians and writers who had received world-wide recognition, but with this progress had come a change in outlook.

In the present machine age the electrically-driven machine tool was doing the work of the muscles. There was a great danger that the nation was not aware of the extent to which this was happening.

"There is a tendency to mistake a somewhat rotund and healthy look for great physical fitness," Sir Bernard said. "Many think there is an easy way out and go to the beach in large numbers by bus, tram or motor. They lie in the sun and get brown, and while this is healthy and pleasant, it is not getting fit. There is no alternative to hard work.

"Before we became Europeanized we lived more healthy lives and were a hardy race. The effort we made in two world wars has kept us up to the mark. I believe that the qualities we inherited from the early settlers, which for want of a better name I call the pioneer spirit, have been in the past our real virtue. If we lost them we would fail to keep our present place. I often ask myself how long we can keep these qualities under modern conditions of life."

Busy Broadcaster Journeys About Globe Between Air Talks

By ALAN DONELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The travelling Mrs. Aitken has done it again.

It doesn't take much to send Canada's busiest woman broadcaster on a quick jaunt to some distant country—and recently it was the world peace conference in Berlin of women leaders from 14 European countries.

Kate Aitken recorded her regular Friday broadcasts on Thursday, May 26, nipped off by plane to Berlin and was back in Toronto the next Monday after a breathtaking weekend to do her two regular broadcasts for the day and tell her host of listeners how well European housewives were working for peace.

After that, any strong young man or woman would head for the nearest bed for a week's rest. But Mrs. Aitken, slim, smartly dressed and already a grandmother, merely picked up her normal half-a-dozen activities in Montreal and Toronto and carried on her whirlwind existence as a lecturer, writer, broadcaster, cooking expert, housewife and mother.

From air to airwave is nothing new for Mrs. Aitken. who looks like any other business woman in her tailored suits and yet can be as sweetly feminine as they come.

She is just "Kate" to housewives across Canada who tune in on her two-a-day broadcasts, made for two sponsors. Her radio voice was first heard in Canada in 1933—and she boasts that she has never been late for a broadcast.

Never Loses Touch

Sometimes she's not there for a broadcast—as when she circled the world by plane last January, covering 25,000 miles in 17 days, or another time when she reported the 1947 wedding of Princess Elizabeth in London and then decided on a 10-day skip-and-jump circuit of Europe. When that happens her sponsors don't worry; she either sends a recording of her broadcast or cables back what she wants to say, and the home staff carries on.

Three of her hard-working secretaries in Toronto (she has another office staff in Montreal) were able to report that she has been on at least two other overseas trips—in 1945 to Britain and many European countries, and another time to Spain and Paris "back about 1940." Her shorter jaunts around Canada and the United States are too many to bother counting.

Though her life is apparently organized on a railway timetable —she spends half the week in Montreal, half in Toronto—Mrs. Aitken is still unpredictable and her life somewhat amazing.

When she thinks of travel she just starts out—it's as simple as that. And though she is women's editor of the Montreal Standard, she has never learned to use a typewriter. She scrawls off pages of copy in a nearly unintelligible backhand scrawl and leaves the typing to her secretaries.

She began her career as a cook and farm wife at Beeton, Ont., developing first a prize-winning flock of White Wyandottes, then entering the home-canning industry. From there she graduated to cooking and is now food and public relations adviser to a big chain of Canadian drug stores. For several years she has been director of women's activities at the Canadian National Exhibition.

If any spare time should develop in her crowded schedule, Kate Aitken can be counted on to fill it with yet another occupation.

28 Passengers In Chartered Bus Escape Injury

Twenty eight passengers of a Toronto - bound Hollinger Bus Lines chartered bus escaped serious injury Sunday evening when the vehicle in which they were travelling swerved to avoid a car and turned over in the ditch five miles west of Madoc on Highway No. 7.

Only four of the 28 passengers suffered injury as the big bus turned on its side and slid along the ditch until it came to a stop.

Injured are Leonard Thompson, St. James Ave., sprained ankle and bruised shoulder; T. Freeman, Brookdale Ave.; F. Newman, 61 St. James Ave., scalp cuts, all of Toronto, and G. Hanson, 1 Highland Crescent, Westhill, glass cuts in his left forearm.

Passengers of the bus were members of a Toronto Crusaders club which had spent the weekend at a resort in the Renfrew district along the Ottawa river. They had left Toronto Friday evening and were returning Sunday.

Driver of the bus H. Woolley of Toronto stated he had been forced to swerve the bus to avoid hitting a car which drove onto the highway from a sideroad. His right wheel caught in the soft shoulder of the road and pulled the bus into the ditch.

Police stated the driver of the car was Charles Whytock of Madoc.

The injured passengers were given first aid at the scene of the accident and then after a further check at a Madoc doctor's office, were allowed to return to Toronto in another bus.

THWARTS ROBBERY ATTEMPT

Toronto, June 2 (CP)—The timely arrival of an employee to pick mail thwarted an attempted robbery in a city sub-postoffice Tuesday. James Craig, of Toronto, entered the building and found the outer and dinner doors of the station smashed. There was no one in the building but he found a "Jimmy Bar" on the floor.

Police say they believe a lookout saw Craig drive in and the gang fled.

Claim Poplar Log Caused "Miracle"

Big River, Sask. — (CP) — French - Canadian lumberjacks claim a miracle saved a small coffee shop in this northern Saskatchewan district when forest fires practically licked at its doorstep. The wooden structure was left untouched but a box of glass jars six feet from the building were completely fused by intense heat.

The lumberjacks explain the "miracle" this way. According to legend, "balm of Gilead," or black poplar, has special significance because it was used for the cross on Calvary and is therefore sacred. In the construction of the little coffee shop, at the fork of Green and Dore Lakes road, builders used one log of black poplar.

Two Performers Fall 45 Feet From Trapeze

Baltimore, June 6 — (AP) — Two aerial performers fell 45 feet from a trapeze to the ground Friday night while more than 10,000 circus spectators watched. Rene and Madeline Rousseau of France, performing as "the Geraoldos" were operating without a net. In hospital it was reported that Madeline suffered a serious back injury and her husband had a fractured ankle.

No Gourmets Here Says Gus at End Of Hotel Career

Winnipeg (CP) — Jules (Gus) Gusberti has no high opinion of the eating habits of Canadians.

"In Canada, they merely eat to live; in Europe they are gourmets," he says.

However unpalatable Canadians may find this opinion, they'll agree the man who offers it is not making a snap judgment. Mr. Gusberti has retired after 26 years as maitre d'hotel of Winnipeg Royal Alexandria. Since 1923, he has clicked his heels, snapped his fingers and flicked his diagonal black eyebrows over every meal, whether for four or 400 guests.

Gus came to Winnipeg in 1935, but has made four return trips to his native town of Lugane, Switzerland. To him, distinguished eating means the serving of wines and liqeurs. He considers temperance resturants "barbaric."

A waiter in Europe and a waiter in Canada are quite different things. "In Europe, you serve a long apprenticeship; you know every dish on the menu; you speak at least three languages; you are never clumsy or careless."

In short, Gus considers a waiter should be an artist — and a maitre d'hotel a supreme artist.

ANCIENT RAILWAY CAR

500,000 Britons Had to Cancel Sunday Trips

London, June 6 (CP)—Nearly 500,000 Britons Sunday had to cancel trips for the Whitsuntide holiday because of the rail strike on most north-south lines.

Engineers and firemen staged their third consecutive "Sunday only" strike on lines connecting London with England's north country and Scotland.

They are protesting a summer work schedule which requires some of them to spend nights away from home.

Out of 981 engine workers on the affected section only 106 reported for duty today.

The strike threatened to spread. Representatives of 800 engineers and firemen working out of London's Paddington Station voted to bring in the western region of Britain's Railway system next Sunday until agreement is reached during the week.

Railway officials said the strike almost completely stopped rail traffic in the northeastern region. About 40 main-line, long-distance trains and 250 local trains were cancelled.

Without Approval

Two Labor party chieftains deplored the strike, which is without union approval. Herbert Morrison, Deputy Prime Minister, said the strike "is a pity and it is unfortunate." Sam Watson, the party's president-elect, said the strikers "may be rocking the boat." While passenger stations were bleak and deserted in the northeast of England, holidaymakers took to the road and flocked to seaside resorts.

Meanwhile, the Canadian Pacific Steamships Company Sunday decided that the Empress of Canada, which arrived in Liverpool Friday from Montreal with 650 passengers, will carry most of its 4,693-ton cargo back to Canada when the liner sails Tuesday.

The company had hoped to unload the cargo, which includes wheat, flour and bacon, with voluntary workers. Regular dockers are on strike in sympathy with the walkout called by the Canadian Seamen's Union in Canadian ports and on Canadian ships in foreign ports.

Hong Kong Stands Out Like Beacon Amid Disorder, Poverty of Asia

By TOM LAMBERT

Hong Kong, June 5 — (AP)—Amid the disorder, poverty and darkness of Asia, Hong Kong looms up like a million - candlepower beacon.

To anyone arriving from Shanghai, Seoul or Tokyo, Hong Kong seems unreal in its order, its apparently unlimited stocks of goods, and its wealth.

This British colony is a little worried now. The Chinese communists are headed in this general direction, and they may decide they want the island that Britain acquired more than 100 years ago.

Hong Kong is not too worried, however. Only a handful of its men have answered a call to enlist in volunteer defence corps.

The Conservative Daily Telegraph puts Hong Kong's position this way:

"Communism is the foe of democracy, but there is no reason why Hong Kong "should not also display a willingness to win and hold-their (the reds) confidence."

There should be "no appeasement or supplication," the Telegraph hastens to add, but:

"Overtures based on traditional friendship between Hong Kong and China and recognition of their mutual interests may do much more than a display of bristling bayonets in winning from the communists their respect and their willingness to live in peace with this colony."

This sort of talk contrasts with the cry to defend Hong Kong and with the well - advertised assignment of more British ships, planes and men to the defence forces, which are stronger in prestige than in numbers.

Although the reds showed no hesitancy in shooting up Royal Navy ships on the Yangtze in April, they may think twice before tangling with Britain over Hong Kong.

To a new arrival, however, this colony's wealth and its law and order are more impressive than talk about defence.

This glittering spot also is the East's greatest displaced-persons centre. Here one may meet a Latvian newspaper man from Peiping, a French engineer from Tientsin, a Chinese Nationalist official from Nanking, a White Russian from Shanghai, and countless others, including many wealthy Chinese refugees from communist - occupied areas.

The communists are here too. They even throw an occasional cocktail party in a plush hotel.

Yes, Hong Kong is "different" as it sits and trades and watches the war and hopes for the best.

Mosquito Bites Useful At Last Make Men Work

By CHARLES B. LYNCH

Churchill, Man. (Reuters) — Mosquitoes in moderate numbers actually cause men to work more efficiently during summer in the Canadian North, according to a study made by Dr. D. C. Williams of the department of psychology, of the University of Manitoba.

Dr. Williams' survey was made at the request of the Canadian Army, as the starting point in intensive research into the problems of conducting military operations in the Arctic during the brief summer season.

Prior to his study, it was felt that biting insects in summer were as great an obstacle to Arctic military operations as bitter cold is in winter.

But his report states that, when men used modern insect repellants the presence of mosquitoes actually reduced time lost from the job. Dr. Williams adds that this result was contrary to all expectations.

Subjects of the study were a group of United States Army construction engineers, working at Fort Churchill last summer. U.S. troops were used because of their unfamiliarity with the Canadian North which, it was assumed, would enhance any effect which might be found.

Attempting to explain the surprising results obtained, Dr. Williams states:

"First, clothing was a generally adequate defense against biting, and this was supplemented by the use of head nets and standard repellents, which are also efficient protectors. This combination of clothing and repellents has eliminated the problem of serious physical injury by biting insects.

Wind Relieves Attack

"The cool prevailing wind off Hudson Bay made for a generally low and highly variable insect attack, which is presumably easier to bear because of the frequent relief from irritation.

"Despite this, however, the mosquitoes are plentiful at Fort Churchill. They light on clothing and occasionally on exposed skin surfaces. At any time during their presence, they may bite.

The result is mild apprehension and consequent annoyance."

What appears to happen is that men become tense under these circumstances, according to Dr. Williams. They cannot flee the area, and the annoyance is not enough to cause hysteria. Therefore, the tension finds its outlet in "the activity in progress," in this case construction of a building at Fort Churchill.

The survey included tabulation of time lost by slapping, brushing and scratching, measured against the work accomplished. All interruptions of five seconds or more were recorded.

The report states: "The index of mosquito presence and aggressiveness consisted of a count of the number landing on a stationary man's back in five minutes."

The report shows that the presence of mosquitoes had no effect on "poor" workers, whose efficiency was the same whether or not insects were present. On "good" workers, presence of mosquitoes led to increased efficiency.

With no mosquitoes present, it was found that good workers lost 65.2 seconds during every five minutes' work. With mosquitoes present this was cut to 45.3 seconds.

River Gauge-Reader Flooded With Calls

Mission, B.C. (CP)—He has probably the longest temper in British Columbia and the busiest telephone (record established June 10, 1940).

And he has a plea to make to residents of every town in the lower mainland area:

Please, he asks, PLEASE don't 'phone him now that the water is rising again at Mission.

Joe Poirier, who has charge of tabulating the water levels of the Fraser River gauge here, says that last June, when flood waters were at their height, there were days when his telephone rang continuously for as long as 12 hours at a stretch and then went on ringing intermittently right around the clock for the rest of the 24 hours each day.

And now the water's rising again. He fears the river less than the 'phone.

"The only thing that stopped me going nuts last time was my wife helping me," says Joe, a chunky, cheerful man with a sun-tanned face and a trace of his native French-Canadian accent. "We take this 'phoning in shifts. With my wife to share it we see it t'rough again."

As bridge-tender for the Canadian Pacific Railway, Joe stands by at the Mission bridge, ready to stop cars when trains come through or to swing open the span for river traffic. He doubles as gauge-reader for the government as well.

LOST BOTH HANDS, WRITES OF FIGHT AGAINST HANDICAP

(By The Canadian Press)

"When I woke up I had no hands".

Thus begins the autobiography of Canadian-born Harold Russell, who lost both hands in a wartime accident and went on to overcome his handicap and assist other amputees.

His story, "Victory in My Hands" (McClelland and Stewart), is a gripping recital of the problems — both physical and mental—which faced him after a defective fuse in an army demolition charge blew off his hands. How he triumphed over his misfortune is an inspiring lesson.

Born in North Sydney, N.S., Russell moved to Cambridge, Mass., with his parents when a boy and enlisted in the United States Army soon after Pearl Harbor. He rose to be a sergeant-instructor in the paratroops when the blast tore his hands to shreds and changed his whole future.

For months he was in hospital, wondering if he could ever live a normal life on "the outside", and worrying over how his girl friend would react when she found out about the "ugly steel hooks" he would have to wear for the rest of his life.

However, as he learned to do more and more with his hooks some of his self-confidence returned. Later, the army asked him to make a movie short, demonstrating for other amputees how handicaps could be overcome.

A Hollywood director saw the film and signed him for a feature picture Sam Goldwyn later produced. It turned out to be what was chosen the best picture of 1946—"The Best Years of Our Lives", which depicted the rehabilitation of three war veterans.

Mr. Russell received two acting awards for his role, that of a handless sailor-veteran. For the last three years, he has travelled the United States and Canada in Red Cross campaigns, government loan drives, hospital benefits and racial-tolerance campaigns.

Northeastern Ontario's timber country is the setting of Jessie McEwen's latest novel "Taltrees". (Ryerson) a picture of life ruled by lumber interests and the transition to a new era.

Jessie McEwen, born and brought up in Bannockburn, Ont., knows the timber business firsthand. Both sides of her family were associated with the lumber trade in Ireland, Scotland and Bavaria and later established themselves in Ontario and Michigan. Her love for the woods and knowledge of the personalities which fill the bushland are integral parts of her writing.

"Taltrees" is a simply-told story of timber dynasties and the domineering force of the individualists which rule the kingdom. Cooperative interests and demand for better working agreements shape a new mode of life and threaten to break the influence of Michael Goldie, a benevolent tyrant whose stern rule continued to be felt years after his death.

Romance, rivalry and ambition blend to make "Taltrees" another portrayal of the absorbing Canadian scene.

Spiders and Bees Anticipated Man In Telephone, Air-Conditioning

Written for The Canadian Press
By PERCY GHENT

Telephone—rapid-transit systems? Both are strictly modern ideas, from the human viewpoint. But ages ago, the orb spider combined both and the combination worked and still works perfectly.

That telephone line of the orb spider is a silken thread pulled to the right tension, and leading from the centre of the web to some hiding place where the spider waits or even slumbers. When an insect strikes the web, the line vibrates enough to bring the spider to the alert. She—the female of the species is more brainy as well as more deadly than the male—then uses her telephone line for a rapid run to the web's centre. The dinner which rang its own gong is located and disposed of as appetite dictates.

Air-conditioning is another up-to-the-minute notion of man. Or is it? Honey bees knew all about it when the world was much younger than now. They maintain a constant temperature and regulate the airflow that their larvae may develop unhampered by severe fluctuations, and that the honey in storage be preserved properly cured and in perfect shape.

Certain bees are assigned to the production of body heat by muscular exertion; others, the fanners are stationed on the hive floor and by steady wing vibration at the right speed, create and maintain the needed and exact degree of air circulation required.

Insulation- Another modern application for health and comfort. Yet the praying mantis has been using insulation methods with 100 per cent success all down the ages. She uses the thermos-bottle principle. Her eggs are surrounded with a frothy mass of bubbles—well surrounded. Be the night cold or the day hot, the tender eggs have adequate protection and keep the precise temperature demanded for development.

Owls Benefit Farmers

In all parts of Canada where hay and other fodder crops are grown, the meadow mouse is a destructive factor—or would be to a disastrous degree were it not for those often unappreciated friends of the farmer, the owls and other animals who feed on mice.

Says Prof. A. F. Coventry, University of Toronto biologist, says the situation has been reduced to approximate figures. One screech owl in the wild, for instance, is believed to consume 1,000 mice in one year. During the same period each mouse would eat 22 pounds of growing hay or other cattle fodder. This would represent a total of 11 tons of such food per year per 1,000 mice. On this basis the owl saves the farmer from 2½ to five cents every time it swallows a mouse.

But we must stop before drifting too far into the dizzy realm of higher mathematics. That realm is where the mice really shine. It has been estimated that the progeny of a single pair, multiplying with the well-known enthusiasm of the species, and barring all accidents—including owls—would number anywhere from half to a round million mice.

Fortunately, as Burns puts it poetically, "The best-laid schemes o' mice an' men, gang aft agley."

Problem of Arab Refugees Big Headache in Palestine

Nazareth, June 6. (AP)— The Arab refugee from Israel has practically nothing left here to which he can return — whatever the outcome of world discussions as to his fate.

There is no tendency to belittle the humanitarian problem of the several hundred thousand Arab displaced persons, victims of the war in Palestine.

But neither is there any serious belief in Israel that the answer to that problem will be found inside the new Jewish state.

There are three reasons apparent here for that: one is theoretical, one practical, and one political.

Create Jewish Homeland

The purpose to which this new nation is straining every effort is to create a Jewish homeland, not a minority state. There is no intention to bar Arabs, nor treat unjustly the 75,000 already here.

But they do not constitute the chief problem. That is how to absorb Jewish immigrants at a rate that would double the 800,000 Jewish population in Israel in five years.

The second is even clearer. The stone or mud plaster home the Arab once had here is not just standing empty, awaiting his return. In many cases, it either has been demolished, or it is occupied now by Jewish immigrants.

One of the few large Arab refugee concentrations inside Israel is this largely Christian Arab city of the Well of Mary and the Grotto of the Annunciation.

It is here that the third, political, factor is seen. For this all-Arab city that was once the home of Jesus is turning to communism.

With refugee Arabs packed into every possible living space, Nazareth is swollen from its normal population of 7,000 to more than 20,000.

Large Red Vote

Although the communist party polled less than three per cent of the total popular vote in Israel's legislative elections, the communist vote in Arab Nazareth was 50.8 per cent.

Communism in Nazareth is not strongly ideological or actively pro - Russian. But members of the party parade the bustling little market streets under the red flag with the hammer and sickle.

There are questions as yet unanswered: If 100,000 more refugees came back to Israel from their camps of misery and discontent, how much would they strengthen the communist vote in the next elections

Suntan Does More for Morale Than for Health Say the Experts

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

New York, June 6 — (AP) — That golden bronze suntan is mainly just for good looks.

So far as health goes, a suntan itself doesn't do much for you, say the experts. But like lipstick for women, it helps morale.

You do get benefits while acquiring it. One is vitamin D, from the sun's action on your skin. Another may be the sun's effects in helping to clear up superficial skin ailments.

Other benefits come from the fresh air, fun and relaxation while getting the tan. After that, there is the psychological kick of looking tanned and fit. A tanned skin is perhaps healthier, says one authority, and appears more resistant to some infections. It also means you can stay out in the sun longer.

Only a small part of the sun's rays, the ultraviolet rays, do the work of giving you vitamin D, the suntan, sunburn or freckles.

Sunburn is caused by the shorter ultraviolet rays. They break down tiny blood vessels just beneath the skin, resulting in tight red skin, or burn. The mechanism is the same as a burn from the kitchen stove.

The longer ultraviolet rays do not cause any burn. They penetrate deeper into the skin. There they act on a pigment, melanin, and bring it to the surface as tan.

The heat you feel while basking in the sun comes from the infra-red rays, which have nothing to do with either tanning or burning.

The best place to get a sunburn or suntan is in the snow. Water is the second best reflector, and sand the third.

Many sunburn victims are fooled by cloudy days. They don't realize that just as much ultraviolet comes through clouds as through a clear sky.

If you're just starting out on acquiring your summer tan, most authorities advise you not to stay exposed, without protection, for more than 10 or 15 minutes the first day. That's the limit under a noon-day sun.

Canadian FARMS PROSPER

... under LIBERAL government

THERE ARE just no two ways about it — farmers are always better off with Liberal governments at Ottawa. Look back over the years. From 1896 to 1911 under Laurier ... from 1926-29 under King ... and again from 1936-48 ... Liberal governments have given Canadian farmers good times. And always, under Tory governments, the farmer has seen prices tumble and markets fade away to nothing — like after the First Great War under Borden ... and during the early 30's under Bennett.

There are many reasons why farmers prosper under Liberalism, but the two most important ones are:

(1) The Liberals believe in two-way trade with the world, creating export markets for Canadian farm products;

(2) The Liberals believe in building high purchasing power for labour, creating greater home markets for farm products, at good competitive prices.

These fundamental Liberal policies pulled farmers out of the hopeless bog they were mired in during Tory "protection" and low wages in the 30's.

Throughout the war, Liberal subsidies, bonuses and premiums encouraged farmers to tremendously increased production and profit. The Liberals promised that when the war ended they would not allow high production, speculation and deflation to knock the bottom out of farm prices.

And they kept that promise! The Tories and the Socialists scoffed, but in 1945 the Liberals courageously established the Agricultural Prices Support Act. A floor has been set under prices of potatoes, apples, beans, honey, dairy products and other farm produce ... protecting farmers against profitless toil.

Meanwhile, Liberal policies have spread prosperity over the land. Employment is high ... industrial wages are at record levels ... Family Allowances put extra millions into circulation every month. With this record purchasing power, Canadians are buying more of everything that stems from the soil. No wonder gross farm cash income is four times what it was ten years ago!

Truly, Liberalism has led Canadian farmers to prosperity and security. Now Mr. Drew says: "It's time for a change." A change to what? Back to conditions that existed under past Tory governments? Farmers will say: "No sir — never again!" They will look to Liberalism ... in the future as in the past ... to give them constantly increasing prosperity and security.

Hard-Hitting Giants Take Lead in National Loop Race But All Eyes Are on Cards

By JOE REICHLER
Canadian Press Sports Writer

The home-run socking New York Giants today lead the pack in another tingling National League pennant race. But the team everybody is watching are those old stretch runners—St. Louis Cardinals.

Not given too much of a chance because of their aging veterans and lack of reserves, the Redbirds have surprised by picking up steam at a time nearly everyone believed they'd wilt.

Two weeks ago they were in seventh place. Today, they are in fourth place, only 1½ games behind the pace-setting Giants.

The Cards made it two in a row over Boston Sunday, defeating the Braves 8-1 and dumping them into second place, one-half game behind the winning Giants. Al Brazle spaced eight hits for his sixth victory.

A two-run first inning homer by Sid Gordon, followed by Walked Cooper's four-bagger with on, was more than Larry Jansen needed to subdue the Cincinnati Reds 6-1. The tall righthander allowed four hits, but lost his shutout in the fifth when Johnny Wyrostek banged him for a solo round tripper.

The cellar-dwelling Pittsburgh Pirates dropped Brookyn into third place, a full game from the top, defeating the Dodgers in a 10-inning tussle 5-4. Ralph Kiner's 13th homer of the season broke up the overtime battle. Rex Barney, who had relieved in the eighth inning when Pittsburgh tied the score at 4-4, was the victim. Murray Dickson was the winner.

Phillies Divide

Philadelphia and Chicago divided a doubleheader, the Phils winning the opener 7-2 and the Cubs coming back to eke out an 8-7 triumph in the nightcap. Righthander Hank Borowy pitched a five hitter in the first game. Del Ennis and Willie Jones backed him with home runs.

The Cubs blew a 6-0 lead in the second game, but won in the ninth when Harry Walker, ex-Phil scored.

The American league-leading New York Yankees split a doubleheader with the Browns in St. Louis. The Yankees made it four in a row winning the opener 6-4 but the Brownies ended an 11-game losing streak winning the second 7-6.

A five-run seventh, highlighted by Billy Johnson's three-run homer off Bill Kennedy, enabled the Yankees to overcome a 3-1 deficit. Vic Raschi won his eighth game against one defeat with a seven hitter.

Dick Kokos slammed a homer with two on to feature a six-run, fifth-inning attack against Yankee loser Fred Sandford and Joe Page in the second game.

The Tigers earned a split with Boston Red Soxs, coming back to win the second game 11-5 after Boston copped the opener 5-3. Homers by Ted Williams and Matt Batts, each with one on, helped Joe Dobson win over Virgil Trucks.

Biggest of Season

A crowd of 53,857—biggest of the season—saw Vic Wertz clout a pair of homers and two singles to lead the Tigers to their second-game win.

Cleveland Indians lost both ends of a doubleheader to Philadelphia Athletics 3-0 and 4-2. The A's had some sensational relief pitching by Bobby Shantz and Charley Harris. Shantz pitched one-hit shut-out ball after relieving starter Bill McCahan in the third inning of the opener. Harris entering the night cap with the bases loaded in the third, allowed the Indians only three hits and no runs.

Eddie Joost homered in each game, his 11th and 12th of the year. His 11th came in the third inning off Bobby Feller, who lost his fifth game against one victory. The double loss dropped the Indians into seventh place.

Washington and Chicago White Sox split one-run decisions, the Senators winning the opener 7-6 and the White Sox taking the second 5-4. Capped by a home run by Cass Michaels, the White Sox rallied to overcome a 4-1 deficit in the nightcap.

George Bamberger, young righthander of Jersey City Giants appears headed for his best season in the game.

The 23-year-old pitcher, who has never won more than 13 games in his pro career since 1946, already has won six games for the International League Giants.

He turned in his sixth triumph as against only one setback Sunday as the league-leading Giants swept a doubleheader from Baltimore Orioles 6-5 and 3-0. Bamberger blanked the Orioles on five singles.

Brilliant relief pitching on the part of another young righthander, 20-year-old Bob Hansen, helped the Giants take the opener. Hansen relieved Andy Tomasic after the big righthander tossed up a pair of two-run homers to Al Cihocki and Frank Mancuso in the second inning.

The victories enabled the Giants to move three games ahead of the runner-up Buffalo Bisons who split a twin bill with Rochester Red Wings.

Bisons Take Opener

Buffalo took the opener 6-5 scoring twice in the ninth to win. Frank Trechock belted a three-run homer for the Bisons and George Byam one with the bases empty. Catcher Jim Bucha slammed a two-run homer in the second inning of the nightcap.

The third - place Montreal Royals climbed to within a game of Buffalo by taking a doubleheader from last-place Syracuse Chiefs 4-3 and 5-4.

Sam Jethroe socked a two-run circuit drive in the seventh to sew the first game up. In the nightcap the Royals finally won out in the seventh on a walk, error and wild pitch.

Toronto Maple Leafs also won a bargain bill to remain within one-half game of the Royals. The Leafs downed the Newark Bears 4-1 and 11-2. Home runs by Al Garbowski and Lew Heyman featured the opening game triumph. Jocko Thompson, with help from Ed Wright, picked up his third straight win.

Oscar Judd of Ingersoll, Ont., coasted home in the finale. The Leafs clinched the game with six runs in the seventh and final inning. One of the runs came on Garbowski's second homer of the day.

Ont. Amateur Baseball

Big George Carruth picked a good time to smash a grand-slam home run Saturday.

The Brantford Red Sox' rightfielder waited until the seventh inning for his circuit clout that gave the Red Sox a 6-2 decision over the London Majors in an Intercounty Baseball Association senior tilt at London. The Red Sox had been hanging onto a slim 2-1 margin when Carruth stepped up to bat.

In other intercounty games, the Red Sox defeated St. Thomas Legion 8-6 in a free - hitting night contest game at St. Thomas; Kitchener Legionnaires edged out Guelph Maple Leafs 4-3; Waterloo Tigers downed the Legionnaires 2-1 at night at Waterloo and Stratford Nationals drubbed St. Thomas 18-1.

In a Nickel Belt League game, Sudbury Shamrocks won a 12-inning slugfest from Copper Cliff 8-7 at Sudbury Sunday.

In a Niagara District tilt, St. Catharines Stags had an easy time defeating Niagara Falls Bugays 12-7 at St. Catharines.

At London, Joe Ladensack, starting London pitcher, made only one mistake before Carruth appeared at the plate. He threw a home - run ball to Normie Hann in the second inning.

It was a little easier for the Red Sox that night at St. Thomas. They drove into a 3-0 lead in the second inning, collected one more in the third and sixth and then got three runs in the seventh. St. Thomas got one run in the sixth, three in the seventh. St. Thomas got one run in the sixth, three in the seventh and two in the eighth.

Relieved in 8th

Angelo Torti pitched seven innings for the Red Sox and was relieved in the eighth by Bill Gibbs. Cook relieved St. Thomas hurler Bill Wagner in the seventh frame.

At Kitchener, it was southpaw pitching of Bobby Keegan that made the difference. After two hits and an error in the first innings, he retired Leaf players in order for the next six innings.

The Legionnaires got one run in the first and fourth innings and two in the second frame. The Maple Leafs got two runs in the eighth inning and one in the last.

Legionnaires ran against stiff opposition at Waterloo. Augie Herchenratter, last year's batting champion, singled late in the game to score the winning run.

The Tigers came from behind a 1-0 score in the second period to slam in two quick runs off pitcher Carl Fischer, and then managed to hold on.

At Stratford, it was Vern Richardson who hurled Nationals to the lop - sided victory. He limited St. Thomas to four scattered hits.

Scores Lone Run

St. Thomas scored its lone run in the third inning on doubles by Bill Cunningham and Frank Slack. Nats rallied in every frame but the fourth and sixth, getting six runs for as many hits in the seventh inning.

At Sudbury, Ray Puro and Eldon Carmichael turned in outstanding efforts to help defeat the Redmen in the 12th frame. Puro singled after two were put out and then raced home as Carmichael belted a double.

At St. Catharines, the Stags drove into a 4-0 lead in the first inning, added one more in the third and fifth and then added three more in both the seventh and eighth. The Bugays got four runs in the sixth, two in the seventh and one in the eighth.

In the Intercounty League tonight, Galt clashes with Guelph and London meets Kitchener in night games.

In the Nickel Belt loop, Creighton meets Frood.

Commissioner's Reinstatement Of Mexican League Jumpers Receives Mixed Reaction

Washington, June 6 — (AP) — Major league baseball today debated a possible far - reaching effect on its pennant races from the abrupt reinstatement of a score of Mexican League jumpers.

In the face of damage suits from several of the punished players Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler announced the sudden reinstatement decision.

Exactly how valuable the players will be to their respective clubs is a question. But several could give a real boost to already threatening teams in both National and American Leagues.

Chandler extended an offer late Sunday to all the major and minor league players who skipped to Jorge Pasquel's outlawed Mexican League three years ago, to reinstate them in organized baseball if they so desire.

Chandler said the players need only to write to the president of their respective leagues — Ford Frick of the National League and Will Harridge of the American League. Upon the receipt of the application in his office at Cincinnati, Chandler said the player will be put back in the league concerned automatically.

George M. Trautmann, minor league boss said late Sunday night he will follow Chandler's lead and reinstate "the four or five players" who went to Mexico.

The various owners and managers who may help themselves to a pennant with a reinstated Mexican Leaguer were naturally delighted with the move.

Express Delight

The players reached expressed extreme delight over the action. It was learned, however, that the three players who now have suits pending in New York for damages suffered by Chandler's five - year suspension, plan to continue their actions.

Danny Gardella former New York Giant outfielder is suing organized baseball for $250,000 and two former St. Louis Cardinal pitchers — Max Lanier and Fred Martin — are suing for $2,500,000 from the Cards. Both suits were based on the legality of baseball's "famed" reserve clause.

Lanier, now with Drummondville of the outlaw Quebec Provincial League, said Sunday night he plans to "continue my fight against organized baseball despite my re-instatement.

Martin, Gardella, Harry Feldman and Adrian Zabala of the Giants, and Fred Martin of the Cardinals, also have been playing in the Quebec League.

Gardella's lawyer, Frederick A. Johnson, announced here that Gardella will not apply for reinstatement.

Owen Given Credit

Chandler, incidentally, gave catcher Mickey Owen of the Brooklyn Dodgers considerable credit for the reinstatement action, pointing out Mickey had visited him and requested the reinstatement, and had urged Martin, Lanier and Gardella to drop their suits.

Chandler also emphasized that the major league clubs are not obligated to keep the reinstated players. They will be reinstated to all the rules of baseball, he said, and under such rules can be optioned or waivered.

Chandler, in a formal statement, said his action was taken at this time "because, after three years, it seems a fair thing to do, and because the threat of compulsion by court action now has been removed by recent unanimous decision of the circuit court of appeals in the Martin and Lanier and Gardella cases."

1. As you swing the No. 1 wood club from the address position carry it along the direction line for about a foot before you start up and around. Notice the dotted lines of the hands and shaft and that at hip-high position the wrists have not yet started to cock. The hands should not reach the fully cocked position until the hands have reached the top as pictured. Notice that both hands are under the shaft, the left arm is ramrod straight and the right elbow under the shaft and close to the side. Our player has swung a bit beyond the horizontal at the top of his backswing which is O. K. for a good golfer, but the beginner will get better results if he doesn't swing below horizontal. Our player has completed his hip and shoulder pivot so that his back is toward the hole. His head will remain fixed in the address position until he has swung down and started his follow - through. Then, and only then, will his head turn to watch the ball play.

C.A.H.A. Relaxes Regulations for B.C., Maritimes

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York, June 6 (CP)—British Columbia is the favored province in amateur hockey, with the maritimes a close second—mainly because delegates to the annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association were generous on the question of imports.

Regulations on imports for the two provinces were relaxed at a full meeting of the association last week. The subject cropped up again Sunday night when other provinces tried to climb on the bandwagon. In each case, they received a firm "no."

Here's the lineup on the subject::

British Columbia and the Maritimes will receive six senior imports for each of their clubs but the West Coast Province alone has been granted four branch-to-branch imports for junior teams. In each case it is more than the rules stipulate.

The Thunder Bay branch, granted four imports at a Saturmeeting of the resolutions committee, withdrew its motion last night after the maritimes, Alberta Saskatchewan, Quebec and Ontario came up with a similar request. Manitoba alone stood pat on the policy of no imports

E. W. Connolly of Sydney, Maritime A.H.A. Secretary-treasurer, told the meeting that if the Maritime clubs didn't receive four juniors "it would probably mean we won't be in Junior 'A' competition this year."

Motion Defeated

A motion by Ontario which would permit each branch to introduce no more than six resolutions and association officers no more than three at future annual meetings was defeated.

George Panter of Gravenhurst, past president of the Ontario association, pointed out that more than 60 resolutions were introduced at this meeting, "many of which were absolutely needless."

"We've held meetings every day and late into the night and our minds have been so fogged by fatigue I'm afraid we might have passed some resolutions that shouldn't have been introduced at all."

Delegates termed it "undemocratic" and turned it down.

A resolution asking that a club losing a player to a professional team may make a replacement within 15 days, was carried after a tie vote was broken by president Al Pickard of Regina.

Decides Motion Cheap

Delegates decided a motion by the British Columbia branch asking that C.A.H.A. rule books be printed by a commercial firm was "pretty cheap" and decided against it.

J. J. McFayden of Galt, Ont., declared that "with an association of our wealth of more than $100,000 assets, it is a pretty cheap way to go about getting our rules printed."

Change in rules designed to eliminate "ganging" in the corner zones and to improve stickhandling and team pay was defeated at a Saturday meeting.

The change suggested by Quebec, was in the form of an amendment to regulations that would make the attacking blue-line control icing the puck tactics, instead of the present red-line area.

Asks Year Trial

George Slater of Montreal, a member of the C.A.H.A. rules committee, asked that the switch over be made on a one-year trial basis. He said Clarence Campbell President of the National Hockey League, is against the change.

"Mr. Campbell said he was sure that the N.H.L. would not accept it because clubs in the league preferred the ganging attack style of play," Slater said.

George Dudley of Midland, Secretary-Manager of the C.A.H.A., opposed the change on the grounds that "we people who go to hockey games want to see action and they won't get it if this amendment is carried."

Slater said a change has been adopted by professional and amateur leagues dealing with major penalties to goal keepers. Rules call for a penalty shot but this has been discarded and a major penalty will be awarded against the offending club with the team captain designating which player would serve out the five minutes

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, June 6—(CP)—What makes a good ballplayer? Well, most baseball authorities differ on just what it takes to become a top - notch big leaguer, but Paul Richards appears to have a few definite ideas on the subject.

Richards, former star catcher for the American League Detroit Tigers and now playing coach of the Buffalo Bisons of the International League, told Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll recently that although a player may be skilled in the fundamentals of the game, he may not be a good ballplayer.

As the Buffalo pilot pointed out to Dink: "After all, whats the use of being able to run and throw, if you don't know where to run or where to throw? Those things are just as fundamental as the mechanical side of the game, and you have to learn them early.

"Some players are born with that knowledge and never have to acquire it. They are the 'naturals' who do everything right subconsciously but the majority have to be taught."

Richards also has his own views about pitching.

"Some guys throw a ball that does a lot of things," he said. "It may sink, or it may take off in the air, or it may break in or out like a slider. It's all in the way they release the ball from their fingers. But they aren't good pitchers until they know just what the ball is going to do and which way it is going to break."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Some bridge bids of today should go into the deep freeze for the time being. Laying around in their present state is not good for them. In a little while they begin to smell.

Of these include responses to opening three bids. By three bids I mean in a major suit. They are in the class known as one-less-than-game bids. What goes for them goes for openings of four in a minor.

The true requirement for an opening of three in a major is eight tricks, a practically solid seven card or longer suit, and a sure trick outside. The seven carder should have A K Q or any four honors.

If these requirements are accepted, the responses are defined in clear terms. They are: Pass with less than two tricks; go game in it with two or more tricks; invite slam with two sure tricks.

The two tricks needed for help to game may be in any form; short cards, or high cards, or a high and a short. The sure tricks to invite slam may be aces, or K Q combines, or A K of one suit.

As for trump support, enough for a re-rebiddable suit is handy; but one trump in responder may be sufficient. And even one trump card in partner may not be absolutely necessary.

How does partner with two sure tricks invite slam. By bidding four no-trump if he has two aces and a king. With not the qualities for four no-trump, he suggests slam by any bid other than four in the suit.

For instance, south opens with three hearts when north holds this hand:

♠K Q 9 8 4
♥8 6 5
♦A 6
♣J 7 6

The response by north is three spades. It does not show desire to play in spades. It promises a biddable spade suit in a hand that contains at least two sure tricks for slam help.

Such are the true needs for three bids and responses. But many use three bids for weakness and their responses may mean almost anything. Until they standardize, put it on ice.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 6 (AP)—Frank Sinatra will mark his 10th anniversary in show business during a concert engagement June 25 at Atlantic City's steel pier.

He has asked his fan clubbers all over the world to send him post cards depicting their home towns. After he reads them, the cards will be sent to children's wards in hospitals.

Now a $1,000,000 industry, Sinatra has come a long way since he decided to abandon sports writing for singing 10 years ago.

Notes of Notables

Gregory Peck has been reading "The Glass Menagerie" script and he may do the film after "12 O'clock High." That would add up to a high-voltage cast. Already set are Jane Wyman as the daughter and Jack Carson as the caller. Helen Hayes and Tallulah Bankhead are being sought for the mother role.

Canadian - born Carson is warring with Warners: He objects to being the studio's utility man while other male stars get the acting plums. Carson, a native of Carman, Man., would like to do one high comedy, one low comedy and one drama a year. But he hasn't been given a drama since "Mildred Pierce."

Tough Guy

Ray Milland, who has the fishing bug, takes off soon for Balboa and ocean fishing and then east Yellowstone and trout. Ray asked for some photos of his action scenes in "Copper Canyon." It seems his son is a Gary Cooper fan and Ray wanted to prove he can be as rugged.

McDonald Carey has penned a movie script filled with gore. It's not surprising, since he got his acting start on Arch Oboler's air thriller, "Lights Out." He says they used to rehearse the show in a huge room with only one candle burning.

Sam Goldwyn may shelve his "Earth and High Heaven," for which he paid a heavy sum. He can't get a workable script, and there have been too many other films on intolerance. The book, a best-seller, was by Gwethalyn Graham of Montreal.

Admiral Nimitz Given Job As Administrator of Plebiscite

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Lake Success, N. Y., June 3 — (CP) — A top commander of the Second World War is assigned to lead one of the most significant quests for peace attempted by the United Nations.

He is Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, one - time commander-in-chief of the United States Pacific Fleet and Chief of Naval Operations.

His new job: Administrator of the proposed plebiscite to settle the dispute between India and Pakistan over the princely state of Kashmir.

Since his appointment last Mar. the 64-year-old Nimitz has been studying the history of the conflict and previous attempts at large-scale plebiscites.

Hard Job

This one will be the first in U. N. history. It will determine whether Kashmir should become part of predominantly - Hindu India or predominantly - Moslem Pakistan.

Sir Hari Singh, Hindu ruler of Kashmir, rich princely state in the northern part of the sub-continent, ceded his country to India in October, 1947, after Britain gave dominion status to India and Pakistan.

About three - quarters of the 4,000,000 inhabitants of Kashmir are Moslem.

The Texas - born Nimitz is expecting to have a tough job preparing the polls for the vote. Kashmir is on the slopes of the Himalayas and the majority of the population lives in almost - inaccessible villages.

Canadian Help

Another major problem will be to teach the unlettered Kashmiri about voting and the principles involved in the plebiscite.

Nimitz' right - hand man in the educational field will be Brian Meredith, formerly with the international service of the CBC in Montreal. Meredith has been a radio officer in the U. N. for the last two years.

Four Canadian Army officers now are in Kashmir as members of the commission supervising the truce which last March ended months of bitter fighting between Indian troops and Moslem tribesmen.

Oshawa drove in two runs in the first inning, one in the third and four in the seventh while the Petes got both runs in the eighth.

Ma took me downtown with her, and on the way down in the buss she said, Oh dear, I believe I've forgot to bring my shopping list.

And she quick opened her bag and looked in and poked one finger around, saying, I knew it, it's not here, oh shaw, how could I of been so stupid.

And she closer her bag and opened it and I said, Aw G, ma why dont ou look on the brite side, like you're always telling me to do? and ma said, There's no brite side to forgetting a shopping list that I've been adding to all week for land sakes.

Sure there is ma, I said Now you'll have to remember everything just from memory, and that'll give your memory sutch good exercize that you'll be sure to take our list the next time, and it's libel to be sutch a long list it would be impossible to remember everything on it just from memory, So if that's not a brite side, what is it, ma? Which just then she gave an exter poke in here bag and found her shopping list hiding in a folded up exteer hankerchief.

Local Set Picks up TV Broadcast From Rochester

Strange goings on in the air these days. Anything and everything can happen when it is the least expected. At least that is the way Eugene Hitchon puts it.

Friday night he installed in his home a new television set to be ready for opening of the new T-V. station in Rochester on June 11th On Saturday morning he turned on the set just for practice on how to operate the set to his liking and then the unexpected happened Clear as spring water and without the least bit of trouble the Rochester station appeared on the screen.

There was no commercial broadcasting being sent through but apparently the station was doing some testing and stuck the camera out the window.. A perfect view of a through street could be seen and also two side streets with the busy Saturday traffic on them. In fact, the reception was so clear that clothes could be seen blowing in a stiff breeze almost two full blocks away.

Testing On Reduced Power

One reason that this was so unexpected was the fact that at the present time Rochester is testing on reduced power. Another is that Belleville is not in the range that is considered good for television reception. Fifty miles is considered just about the limit for reception that is almost flawless. From 50-70 miles is the range where reception is not guaranteed. Belleville is on the fringe or 70 mile limit and yet the reception is close to perfect.

With such good reception as this one cannot help but wonder how television will look when the camera is used under brighter light with station operating at full power. Very poor reception is received from the Buffalo station at the present time and owners of television sets that will receive Rochester should have something really worthwhile looking at on June 11th when the station begins it broadcasting.

Expert Ham Operators

This is not what takes up a lot of Eugene Hitchon's time when he is at home at 116 Cathrine St. All those wires and paraphernalia on the top of his house are just not for the birds to sit on. Mr. Hitchon is an expert ham. By ham is meant an amateur radio operator. All of Mr. Hitchon's interest in radio is not confined to his store. Many a long winter evening has been spent by him and his family talking to other hams at stations all over the world.

Sitting beside his transmitter is a small filing box. In it are calling cards of stations all over the world that the operators send to each other, when they establish contact. One of the cards that Mr. Hitchon takes most pride in though is from a station on the Southern tip of Greenland which is only a stone's throw from here compared to some of the stations he has reached south of the equator.

At a desolate outpost in Greenland there is a handful of men stationed there to take weather observations and yet they have acquired more friends than can be imagined. There is only one thing they do to keep up their morale and that is to talk on the ham band most of the day.

In summer Mr. Hitchon does not bother too much with his radio set but in the winter time he and his family would rather sit and talk to the world.

Albert College Graduates Urged To Practise Ideals Taught in Classes

In keeping with the tradition of over half a century the Baccalaureate service of Albert College took place at Bridge Street United Church on Sunday morning. Impressive in its quiet dignity and simplicity the service was attended by members of the Board of Governors, the Faculty, the graduating class, the student body and their friends.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Bert Howard, D.D., and Mr. E. B. Warriner, Chairman of the Board of Governors introduced the speaker the Rev. W. Harold Young M.A., D.D., who is secretary of colleges and secondary schools of the United Church in Canada.

In his introduction Mr. Warriner described Dr. Young as "one who has a creed that tells us to open our hearts and let God in." It was fitting that the guest speaker was chosen during the last war to head up the work with selections of chaplains for the army, navy and airforce, and he had made a great contribution to the morale of the men in the services. He was a man who believed that education is properly carried out was a spiritual revolution of one's life.

Set up Standards

Dr. Young directed his remarks mainly to the students and especially the graduating class of twenty-four. He told them that after their school years had finished they must be conscious of the fact that their school expects something from them. "There is a set of standards and a tradition which the student feels he must carry out and exemplify in his life. Some will go into the professions, some into business, some will be home makers. What does Albert College expect you to do? There are three things which are deep in the Albert tradition, and the first is excellence.

"Over ninety years ago the men who founded Albert College as a church school did so with the idea that out of its young people would come men and women who would work in life and excel in the world, who by dint of strenuous endeavor would excel in whatever field of work they chose, the professions, business, home and even in inconspicuous tasks.

Taught to be Christians

"It is expected that they will be Christian men and women. It is a church school, and because they are graduates of it and have been instructed in the Christian faith they will be expected to be better men and women. When you go into the world where lower standards prevail you will find a great need for people of the Christian life. In whole areas of the world the general standard of life is low, beginning in our own towns and cities and extending all around the globe. Your lives should show that you are unmistakably and irrevocably in the company of men who have lined up with Jesus Christ.

"The Albert tradition means that you will go out to live for something that is bigger than yourself. The main trouble today is that a great many people have nothing outside their own self interest to live for. They are concerned with getting ahead, with getting a raise, with having a good time, without thought of anyone else. People are after what they can get with a deadly seriousness and they get only what is to their advantage, the rest of the world can suffer. Never in the history of the world has there been any great living on that basis.

Great Issues to be Faced

"There are great issues to be faced, great needs to be served, and great living is to be found by living for things that are bigger than oneself, by serving some great cause. More truth, more beauty, more healing and more God comes to such a life. The tradition of the school speaks, and may you answer, and come to the discovery that true glory comes only in service to man and in devotion to Christ."

The musical offerings were in charge of the organist Mr. Alec Gordon who played "The Bell Tower" for the Prelude and "Fanfare D'Orgue" for the recessional. The choir rendered "Gloria in Excelsis'. and Miss Muriel Clarke contributed a vocal selection, "My Heart Ever Faithful."

Former Buddies 34th Battery Hold Enjoyable Reunion In Armouries Over Weekend

There were "sound or revelry by night" and daytime over the weekend when upwards of 200 ex-members of the 34th Field Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery held their first annual reunion in the Bridge Street Armouries.

Grey-thatched veterans of the First World War, men who fired the old eighteen pounders mingled with their younger comrades of the "twenty-fives" in what is said to be one of the most enjoyable get-togethers of any war organization ever held here.

They came from all parts of the province and the Dominion. From faraway Kentville, Nova Scotia, came Lieut. George Ruffee, one of the most popular officers of the 34th Battery and who commanded the unit at the close of the war and brought it back to Canada. Lieut. Ruffee was accorded a rousing welcome by his former gunners many of whom had not seen him in a half a decade.

From Winnipeg and some parts of the United States emerged these former comrades of the unit that was the only complete one to represent Belleville in two great wars.

Registration of members and their wives and sweethearts took place at 10 o'clock Saturday morning under the supervision of the 34th Battery (Active) Association secretary Jimmy Matthews, Mrs. Matthews and President Douglas Storke. Veterans were supplied but berets with the official pin of the association upon registration.

Get-Together

From twelve noon until three o'clock there was a general get-together with old comrades greeting one another in an atmosphere of military camaraderie. Old pals long apart met and clasped hands as only fellow veterans of a military unit can. Reminiscences flew thick and fast and many historic battles, and events were told and retold. It was a great day for the "34th".

Following the general greetings and meetings gunners from the "outside" were taken on specially conducted tours of the city. They were shown the points of interest especially the city's new industries and housing projects.

At 6.30 the "troops" sat down to a sumptuous banquet served by a group of "gunner" ladies under the supervision of Mrs. Jim McKenna. A number of the ladies of the Army, Navy, Air Force Auxiliary assisted in preparing and serving the meal.

Ex-Mayor Harry Rollins was master-of-ceremonies and kept the party a gay one with his lively manner. He introduced the special guests present most of whom gave brief addresses. Present at the head table were Lieut. Col. T. Y. Wills, former officer commanding the battery, the Right Rev. Monsignor J. V. Nicholson, V.G., Major the Ven. Archdeacon Arthur Smith, wartime padre and rector of St. Thomas Church, Major Kenneth Graham of the Salvation Army and Lieut. George Ruffee. The addresses were brief and to the point with the veterans as a whole being congratulated on the occasion of their first reunion and the success of the affair. President Doug Storke formally welcomed his guests as head of the newly-formed battery association.

Entertainment Provided

Entertainment was provided between speeches and shortly before nine o'clock the banquet was over and the floor cleared for the dance which followed. The Rhythm Ranch Riders held forth with swing and sweet music and the gunners and their guests enjoyed dancing until midnight.

The grand prize went to a member of the 34th Battery, Gunner "Moose" Shaughnessy.

12 Fatalities During Weekend In East Canada

(By The Canadian Press)

Twelve fatalities were recorded throughout Eastern Canada during the weekend. They included eight violent deaths — one a suicide — in Quebec and four in Ontario.

In addition the bodies of seven persons drowned previously in various waters were recovered.

Frederick Struve, 35, of Princeton, N.J., first mate of the tanker Bidwell, died shortly after he was hit by a handwinch which broke its mooring. At Ste. Anne de Bellevue, 66-year-old Napoleon Lassonde was drowned while fishing. Camille Beaucage, 63, of Stanhope, was found dead in a rooming house. Police said an inquest will be held.

Germain Petit, 25, of La Sarre, Que., was drowned while driving logs in the St. Maurice River, north of Sanmaur, Que.

At Ottawa the body of a stillborn infant was located at the edge of a cliff. M. J. Pickering, 29, of Renfrew, Ont., was killed when the automobile in which he was riding collided with a truck.

A picnic at Woodbridge, near Toronto, resulted in death to six-year-old Garry Pitney. He was drowned while swimming in a pool. At London, Ont., 44-year-old Walter Nowakowski was fatally injured when knocked from his bicycle by an automobile.

PUBLICLY-OWNED PROJECT UNDER NO DANGER--DREW

States Aim of Govt. Would be to Make Them More Efficient

(By Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Moose Jaw, Sask., June 6 (CP) — George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, told a political rally Saturday that publicly-owned enterprises such as the Canadian National Railways, the CBC and Trans - Canada Air Lines are in no danger under a government his party would form.

"Our aim is to make them more efficient," Mr. Drew said.

He devoted much of his address to replying to statements made in Stratford, Ont., Friday by Prime Minister St. Laurent, and said he would have to "forgive" the prime minister because he had no experience in public life until a few years ago.

Mr. St. Laurent had expressed concern over the fate of the C. N. R., the CBC and T. C. A. should a Progressive Conservative government take office.

Mr. Drew said a Conservative government passed legislation in 1920 which led to the formation of the C. N. R. and established the Canadian Broadcasting Commission, the name of which the Liberals changed to Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

In addition, a Conservative government had laid plans for the establishment of a transcontinental air service, and had proceeded to build emergency air fields for its use.

Believe in Expansion

The Progressive Conservative party believed in the expansion and extension of air services. It opposed the amalgamation of Canada's two major railways. The C. C. F. party would amalgamate them, but, said Mr. Drew, it was "ridiculous" to suggest that the C. C. F. would operate two systems under one government, with offices of the railways across the hall from one another.

Mr. Drew spoke in support of Mrs. Leila Smiley, Progressive Conservative candidate in Moose Jaw and one of the few women candidates in the election. Ross Thatcher, C. C. F., held the seat in the last House.

During the weekend, Mr. Drew spoke also at Swift Current, Sask., and en route to Brandon, Man., made brief platform appearances with Mrs. Drew at several Saskatchewan points.

Two Placed In Custody For Vagrancy

One invitation to get out of the district apparently was not sufficient for Paul O'Connor and Fernand Dournival, both of whom gave their address as Montreal.

Saturday morning the two men were picked up on the Trenton-Belleville highway by provincial police and, having no visible means of support, were asked to move along.

But shortly after midnight Sunday police learned the two men were still in the district and a brief search located the men — asleep in a haystack five miles west of the city. The two were returned to the city and this time charged with vagrancy and placed in custody.

Drought hits hard at Ontario farmers and gardeners. J. M. Monson (left) with 22-acre garden on the Queen Elizabeth Way, St. Catharines, shows how lack of water has dwarfed crop of peas. Plants should be twice as high. Harry Greenwood, Niagara Peninsula fruit inspector (right), compares strawberries from drought-stricken garden with those from irrigated soil. Irrigated berries, on right, are twice as large.—Globe and Mail.

ST. LAURENT WILL SPEND DAY IN HIS OWN RIDING

Claims He is Playing Political Role to Make Contribution to Unity

Quebec, June 6 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent campaigns today in his home constituency of Qubec East, whose previous representatives in Parliament were Sir Wilfred Laurier and Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe.

Mr. St. Laurent returned to Quebec Sunday and spoke for an hour to a big French-speaking gathering at St. Apolinnaire in Lotbiniere county. He will spend the next five days in his native province.

Mr. St. Laurent told his St. Apolinnaire audience which waited out a thunder-storm to hear him that he was paying a political role to make a contribution to national unity.

He criticized Progressive-Conservative party advertising in French-language newspapers in Quebec which tended to "foment disunion" and was "neither advantageous nor dignified and not a way to win confidence."

The Liberal party was opposed to appeals of race, language and religion.

"If we can't convince our citizens that we can render real services and contribute to the progress of the country, let us be replaced by others," he said. "We will be happy to return to our former occupations."

Mr. St. Laurent noted the Progressive Conservative party slogan "LOL- Liberate Ottawa from Liberals," and said smiling that in Ontario the initials stand for "Loyal Orange Lodge."

Not Many Socialists

He referred to the Progressive Conservative party as "our principal adversary," discounting the influence of the Social Credit party and of the CC.F. Mr. St. Laurent said: "There are many socialists among the Canadian population."

At a time when many peoples have lost their right to vote freely, Canadians should consider it a privilege and a duty to share in the choice of a government June 27, he said.

Prior to entering Quebec Mr. St. Laurent made a swift, four-day tour through Western Ontario.

Speaking at Hamilton Saturday night he championed the right of labor to organize and act collectively but cautioned that labor "can have no greater self-interest than to place first the interest of all citizens."

Earlier in the day he visited Kitchener, home town of former Prime Minister King, Preston, Galt and Brantford, a city of 40,000 which lined its main street to give him the largest street reception

JUDGE RULES LAWFUL PRIZE

Hamilton, Bermuda, June 6 — (CP)—Chief Justice Sir Brooke Francis of this British island colony said Sunday 10 registered letters containing an estimated $2,800,000 in currency were seized in 1940 were "lawful prize." The letters, containing European currency bank notes and securities, were seized by censorship officers from an aircraft passing through Bermuda from New York en route to Portugal

Two Rescues Made By Harbor Patrol

Toronto, June 6 (CP) — City harbor patrol officers figured in two rescues Sunday in which a sailboat and two canoes capsized along the waterfront.

James Gordison and Jack Pilner, both of Toronto, were rescued when their canoe capsized in choppy water off the west-end Sunnyside breakwater.

In the centre waterfront area, patrolmen rescued two sailors from the Queen City Yacht Club after their sailboat dumped off Toronto's Centre Island.

Polish Luxury Line Batory Allowed to Sail

New York, June 6 (AP)—The Polish luxury liner Batory, on which Communist Gerhart Eisler fled the United States, was scheduled to sail today as United States officials concluded, questioning of the captain and crew.

Of the 683 pasengers who arrived on the Batory Saturday, 111 remained in custody of immigration officials pending further investigation.

A life raft flare broke into flames under the stern of the Batory at its Hudson River pier shortly before 6 a.m. today. A police launch extinguished the flare.

Observers said the flare—a type which ignites upon coming in contact with water—apparently was tossed from the deck of the liner A federal security detail was on duty on the pier at the time.

Four crew members were taken off the ship under armed guard Sunday. They and Captain Jan Cwiklinski were grilled for several hours at the United States immigration offices but were returned to the liner late Sunday night.

Results of the questioning were not made public.

Captain Cwiklinski, who had been accompanied to the immigration service offices by Polish Consul General Jan Galewicz, told reporters the officials had been "very kind, very polite."

An immigration official said the captain and four crew members were singled out from the 351 crew members for added questioning because they would have had "the most to do" with Eisler on his bail-jumping flight aboard the Batory when the ship last left here May 6.

Immigration hearings open today at Ellis Island for the 111 passengers detained there. Many of them were listed as cases of "doubtful U.S. citizenship."

N.S. Election Campaign Hits The Homestretch

(By Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, June 6. (CP)— With but three days to go, Nova Scotia's June 9 provincial election campaign has hit the home stretch.

As such, it now hits the fore after taking a back seat to vote-hunting tours staged in the Maritimes by federal party leaders.

Shortly after the date for the provincial contest was announced, the federal battle was set for June 27.

With two, and sometimes three federal leaders in the province at one time, the provincial contest was overshadowed. But since the Ottawa chieftians have departed, the provincial campaign really hit stride.

Liberals, in power in Nova Scotia since 1933, went to the people mainly on their government record. To back up Premier Angus L. Macdonald they used the slogan "all's well with Angus L."

The 1945 election saw Mr. Macdonald re-enter provincial politics after a wartime tour of duty as navy minister and the Liberals at that time used the slogan "Angus L. is back."

The Progressive Conservatives did not win a seat in the 30-member legislature in the 1945 election.

The C.C.F. formed the two-man opposition to the 28 Liberals in the last House.

37 Seats in Contest

A total of 37 seats will be contested Thursday. Seven seats were added under a redistribution passed at the 1948 legislature and proclaimed on dissolution of the House, April 27.

During the campaigning, Robert L. Stanfield, fighting his first election as Progressive Conservative leader, has consistently attacked the Liberal record on such points as liquor policy, industrial development and financial arrangements with the municipalities.

In a speech at New Glasgow last Thursday, Premier Macdonald said the Liberal government has a record of "promises kept". He offered a five-year $100,000,000 Public Works program, including contributions to construction costs of Canso and Halifax Harbor bridges.

Russell Cunningham, C.C.F. house leader in the last legislature, has based his campaign on a platform calling for additional cabinet ministers, and expansion of power and telephone facilities under public ownership.

Polling Thursday will be from 9 a.m., to 7 p.m., A.D.T. (8 a.m., to 6 p.m. E.D.T.)

PC Rally Told Quebec Govt. Behind Drew

Amqui, Que., June 6. (CP)—Provincial Treasurer Onesime Gagnon Sunday told a Progressive Conservative rally here in this Matapedia-Matane riding town that "the Quebec Provincial Government has a program of close collaboration with the Drew Government when it comes to power."

The senior minister in the Cabinet of Premier Duplessis, and Acting Prime Minister since Premier Duplessis went on vacation a few weeks ago, made the statement at a rally for Adelard Fortin, official Progressive Conservative candidate in the June 27 election here in this Gaspe Peninsula riding.

With Provincial Treasurer Gagnon on the platform was provincial minister of Fish and Game, Dr. Camille Pouliot, and Donald Fleming, Progressive Conservative member for Toronto-Eglinton.

Mr. Gagnon told the meeting that George Drew had been "a faithful ally" of Premier Duplessis in the defence of provincial autonomy and that the present federal election was a continuation of "the same battle".

768 Candidates Now Nominated For Election

(By The Canadian Press)

A total of 768 candidates has been nominated to date across Canada for the federal election June 27, an unofficial compilation by The Canadian Press showed today.

A week remains before the official nominations close in the 260 constituencies which will elect 262 members to the new House of Commons. Two constituencies, Halifax and Queens in Prince Edward Island, each return two members. The 262-member total in the new House is an increase from 245 in the last parliament, due to redistribution and entry of the new province of Newfoundland.

So far the Liberals have nominated 257 candidates, the Progressive Conservatives 233 and the Conservatives 233 and the C.C.F. 163. Bringing up the total are 51 candidates from the Union of Electors, 50 in Quebec; 23 Sosives; 13 Independents; five Independent-Liberals; three Independent Social Credit; one Nationalist-Independent and one Labor-Farmer.

FRONTIER U.

By Oren Arnold

That really flustered big Ken. He actually had told Polly that the day before. Moreover, he had meant every word of it.

"Well," he began anew, lamely, "the fact is, circumstances have kind of run away with me lately. I do study, and I don't have dates. Don't misunderstand me." The big fellow had gone intensely serious now. It was becoming more and more apparent that he was girl shy. He had been safe enough in a crowd, but alone under desert stars, with two exquiste girls turning personal attention on him—!

"Why Pal-mer!" Joy cooed.

"I was trying to say," he paused to swallow. Wherever had the mood of hilarity flown? He was a little desperate now. "I was trying to say that I have no distaste for girls. It's just that they aren't worth—that I haven't the time—"

"Oh, so!"

He had slipped sadly, and realized it! Polly and Joy laughed outright at him. Joy sat in the middle here, and all at once she moved as close to him as she could wiggled her shoulder in snuggly fashion under his big arm.

"Palmer-walmer dar-ling, what would ums do if some old naughty girl that wasn't worf um's time just up and kisses ums? Hmmm?"

"Oh!" Ken groaned, to himself.

Polly saw now that he was suffering. "Please stop the car, Ken," she begged. "It's—there's a view here, from the hilltop!"

There was a view but neither Ken nor Joy saw it. Joy Kathryn Boone was dealing misery to a man. A shy man.

A moment ago Polly McMurray had connived with her, had been a part of this. Now, unaccountably her emotions did an about face. Resentment swelled within her. But her tongue was tied.

Automaticaly Ken stopped the car as asked, but the halt didn't distract devilish Joy. When Ken turned the motor switch, he glanced right to see Joy Boone's lips pursed invitingly there in the night glow only a few inches from him.

Joy Boone! THE Joy Boone. America's most renown young beauty. A multi-millionairess, a dare-devil adventuress known coast to coast. Many a man both older and younger than Ken Palmer would willingly have sold his chances a heaven for this opportunity to kiss Joy Boone. Polly knew.

Polly felt her heart pounding, which made her angry. "Look, the big dipper!" she tried to interrupt. "And the North Star."

She may as well not have existed.

The odd impromptu drama there beside her was prolonged silence. Finaly poor Ken began to stammering.

"Palmer!" Joy taunted him, low tone. "You refuse to kiss a girl! And you, yourself said I was pretty! Said you were lucky to be out with us!"

"I—yes!" He fairly croaked that.

Joy laughed. A low, tinkly, musical laugh. "It's good, Palmer. You're okay, really. I—I'm glad you didn't!"

"Glad I—didn't?" He was incredulous, whispering. Apparently both Ken and Joy had forgotten Polly.

"Glad, Ken! I will call you Ken, now. I like you. Honest! I just wanted to punish you some more. And learn something. It was sweet about the contract. Good fun. You tore up yours, Ken. I'll tear up my copy as soon as I get home. Hmmmm?"

He didn't know what to make of that. He just nodded, staring out the windshield. There was no hint of levity here now; only a charged, potent kind of quietude. Polly saw Joy's hand touch his, and saw Ken's big right close over Joy's dainty left in unconscious gesture. He squeezed it just once and then let go. He was breathing deeply.

"It's a fine night, after the rain and all," he finally said, matter-of-fact.

"Yes," Joy breathed.

Nobody spoke again for half a minute. Then—"Hadn't we better go back?" Ken asked. "It's, uh, sort of late and all."

"Yes," Joy breathed again. "Yes Ken."

Ken started the car and turned it around. During their slow drive back toward Paradise Ranch, the mood was altogether different from that on the way out. The three young people spoke now in super-polite tones, looking straight ahead. Their feeling of comradeship had vanished as quickly as it had come. They talked only of the landscape, the distant lights, the music of the Mexicans, the delicious food.

Once Polly glanced down, though. This expensive new sedan was wide, and while Joy's left side was pressed against Ken Palmer, there was a matter of four inches between the girls. It may have meant nothing; probably, Polly told herself, it was just to happen so.

But she couldn't make herself believe it!

When they parked and started back toward the lighted house, Joy hanging on Ken's elbow, Polly felt a deep, inexplicable misery which she couldn't explain. She lagged behind a step or two, angry at herself. She didn't understand things. Didn't understand Ken Palmer, didn't understand Joy Boone. She, Polly, was just a western ranch girl, admittedly lacking the sophistication of the east. She could see that Ken had been on a spot this evening, and she was indignant at the way his shyness had been played on, but—but —

She had to go off alone, to get control of tears that came from sheer confusion.

"Thank you very much," Ken Palmer was saying, "but I do not know how to dance, Miss Boone."

Joy looked at him, arms akimbo, there at the entrance of the McMurray home again. She spoke in mock tone of exasperation.

"No? Then what were you doing out on the floor with Polly when I first saw you a while ago? Stringing beads, or working mathematics problems, or—?"

Ken blushed, at that. "Oh, no! I—the fact is, Polly was trying to teach me! We—I was just walking. B-bluffing!"

Joy laughed. "For goodness sakes! The only man I ever asked to dance with me, can't!"

She might have said more, but their presence had been discovered and other boys and girls came to them. Ward McMurray was first.

"If your chauffeur doesn't feel up to it," he began, grinning, "I'd sure like to shake my boots with you, Miss Joy!"

She danced away with him waving farewell to the group. "Does every man call every girl 'Miss' out here?" she asked.

"Why, some. Until we get over being scared. It's a custom Among the ranch folk anyway."

"I like it. I like everything out here!"

"Sa-a-a-ay, that's great! I'll tell dad. He and Mr. Palmer are hosts, you know. Where's Sis?"

"Why—" Joy looked around. "I thought Polly was with us."

"You dance like a dream, ma'am."

"Now now!"

"I mean it." Ward leaned back to look at the slender blond person in his arms. "I don't pay compliments I don't mean."

"I believe that Mr. McMurray."

"You could call me Ward. We don't do any mistering out here."

"You just do a lot of 'missing'!"

He smiled broadly. "All right, then. Joy. All right?"

"Sure—Ward!" She giggled a bit in sheer exhilaration. "You are nice! You even have crinkly hair, As black as Polly's."

"Aw!"

"I see Tootsy—that's Miss Carlson, remember. Why, she's dancing! Look!"

"Well?"

"But—Tootsy doesn't!" Joy stopped short, to stare. "She never has!"

"Guess I'm seein' double, then," Ward said. "It's her. She, I mean. With Dr. Palmer."

They moved on, swaying and twirling and stepping gracefully, but they watched the older couple too.

"I never knew Bettina Carlson to dance before in all my life!" Joy declared.

"You've known her always?"

"Well, no. She has been my secretary for three years, though."

"Hmmm! Bet she's got a past!"

"Hush!"

Ward grinned. "She's a little pink this evening, isn't she?"

"Let's go over there, Ward, Come on."

Miss Carlson, it turned out, was indeed a little pink. Pink with pleasure. She greeted her young employer almost too excitedly. And for that matter, Kenyon Thomas Palmer, Ph. D., himself was flushed.

"Most exhilarating!" he declared, applauding the music as the dancing stopped. "A lovely ranch home you have here, Mr. McMurray. You must be proud of your parents."

"Yes sir, I am. You folks having a good time?"

"Delightful!" Bettina supplied.

Joy was staring at her, close-up. Joy went "clk-clk-clk" with her tongue at Bettina, then said, "Toot-sy! And you're the one supposed to look after me!"

Miss Carlson was hard put to maintain dignity and still explain. But it didn't matter. Nobody was standing in ceremony at this night's celebration. The orchestra leader came near them now and shouted, "Git yore pardners for a Paul Jones!"

Ward had to explain that. "You two follow right behind Joy and me," he invited, "and you'll catch on. It's a group dance. Lots of parading and sashaying, and more fun than riding broncs. Unbend, Dr. Palmer, unbend!"

Big Ken Palmer, son of the university president, had watched the talking and laughing and general festivity from his spot beside the door, after Ward took Joy away. Now, though, he felt out of things. In truth, this evening had been alternately exciting and distressing to him. It was the first party he had attended in years, and it was different from any he had ever known. He had just ended a strange little adventure with two of the prettiest girls in christendom, one of them nationally renowned, and the effects of that still sang within him, still disturbed him. Joy Boone was yonder dancing now, so he turned to go outside and try to think.

"Alone in the semi-darkness for a mement, he met Polly McMurray walking back toward the house.

Coming Election May Set Record in Popular Vote

Ottawa (CP)—Canada's popular vote may hit a new peak—it could roll over the 8,000,000 mark— in the June 27 general election.

It will be the 21st general election since Confederation and a steady increase in the number of voters has taken place in every contest since 1900.

This year a new and historic factor has come into the picture Newfoundland has entered Confederation, bringing with her another 175,000 potential voters. In addition, there has been a steady post-war flow of immigrants who, after one year's residence in this country, may exercise the franchise.

The popular vote in 1945 general election totalled 5 246,130, including 359,078 service votes, out of a potential 6,952,445 voters registered. Based on natural population increase, immigration and union with Newfoundland, preliminary surveys indicated there would be more than 8,000,000 eligible voters this year.

Though the rise in the popular vote was slow in the early years of this century, there was an increase of 4,293,634 in the number of ballots cast in the 1945 election over the 1900 election.

In 1900, a year in which women had no franchise, the vote total was 953,496. The increase since then reflects the extension of the vote to women, the heavy rise in the country's population and generally-increased interest in government.

In 1904, when the main election issue was the trans-continental railway problem, the vote rose to 1,030,186. It jumped again to 1,173,856 in 1908, when tariff problems joined with the railway issue to sharpen voting interest. The thorny question of reciprocity with the United States pulled the voters out again in 1911 and the vote total climbed to 1,307,528.

Three factors in the war election of 1917—the proposed union government, conscription and the women's franchise—resulted in the sharpest rise in the popular vote up to that time. The ballots totalled 1,883,329, including some 250,000 or more soldier votes.

Women voted for the first time in the 1921 general election and their ballots swelled the total to 3,119,306—1,235,977 more votes than were counted in 1917.

The rate of increase slowed down in 1925 and 1926 elections, in which the main interest stemmed from tariff, trade and constitutional questions. In 1925, the popular vote totalled 3,168,412 and in 1926 it inched up to 3,273,026.

The depresion years brought with them the simmering problem of unemployment and focussed the attention on Canada's domestic economy. The popular vote climbed to 3,992,481 in 1930 and then swung over the 4,000,000 mark for the first time in history in 1935, when 4,406,854 ballots were cast.

The 1940 election was Canada's second wartime election and 4,620,260 voters turned out to cast their ballots.

Teetotallers Hammer Bill To Lengthen London's Revelry

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London — (CP) — London's playboys died a generation ago, but "gilded spivs" and "black market buccaneers" live on.

So said James Hudson, teetotaller and Labor member for Ealing. He told the House of Commons that a bill enabling London night clubs to provide drinks up to 2:30 a.m. was an invitation to spivs "with bulging purses."

Phrases such as unheard-of hours, cesspool, Babylon, speakeasies and bogus clubs were heard in the hard-hitting debate.

Stephen Davies, Labor member for Merthyr Tydfil, said it was a "filthy idea."

"I am a proud father of three very charming and comparatively young daughters," he said. "I should feel humiliated if I knew that any one of them would frequent places of this kind. They would be letting down the (Labor) movement in which they were cradled."

Home Secretary Ede defended the bill in a tolerant, good-humored speech.

He said that he is a teetotaller himself and intends to remain one.

"I do not feel called upon to go out and enjoy these facilities," he said, "but I would not imagine that everybody would want to spend their nights with me when the House keeps sitting till four and five o'clock in the morning."

If the house refused to pass the bill, three things would happen: the tourist industry would suffer, late drinking would be driven into channels and police would be tempted to accept bribes.

Present laws, which require night clubs to close at midnight, encourage people to seek police "connivance in all sorts of underground activities," Ede said.

He denied that there was anything alien to Labor party ideals in trying to brighten London's night life.

The Times of London agreed. In an editorial gently chiding members for language which made Hansard "read almost like a report of the Dail," it said the average Briton is content to shuffle off to bed before midnight.

"Wild horses will not drag him out, throttled by a white tie, into an establishment . . . where, in exchange for a mountainous heap of pound notes, he must suffer noise, heat and overcrowding."

But, The Times concluded, the gallant minority who make revelry in the small hours can not hope for applause.

"If they were doing overtime it would be bad enough; that they desire to enjoy themselves is beyond defence."

No 'Czechoslovakian Catholic Church,' Says Archbishop Beran

Prague, June 6 — (AP)— The Roman Catholic Church Sunday served notice on the communist government of Czechoslovakia that there can be no "Czechoslovakian Catholic Church." Archbishop Josef Beran, fighting for the life of the Roman Catholic Church in Czechoslovakia, told a throng of thousands in St. Vitus' Cathedral "There can be no true Roman Catholic Church without its head in the Vatican."

Elaborate System Protects Ballots

Ottawa — (CP) — Elaborate safeguards make sure that the ballot you mark next June 27 actually goes into the ballot box the way you mark it. They also make sure that you don't take your ballot and give it to somebody else.

It's an unbeatable system, designed to prevent election frauds by voters or by candidates and their supporters. The ballot itself is only one of the many precautions taken to ensure that when the Dominion's voters go to the polls next month, their political opinions are accurately recorded.

Each ballot is numbered and the number is printed on a removeable counterfoil. When a voter receives a ballot, his name is written down with the number of his ballot beside his name.

The ballot the voter brings back to the deputy returning officer must bear the same number — in other words, it must be the same ballot. The identifying counterfoil is ripped off before the ballot is put in the box, eliminating any possibility of identifying it again.

The system also prevents a supply of blank ballots from getting out of the polling booth into the hands of an unscrupulous campaign manager who might mark them for his candidate and bribe voters to put them in the box. Without the safeguard of the numbered counterfoil, a bribed voter could bring back a blank ballot and give it to the campaign manager who could use it to bribe another voter.

Ballots Initialled

Each ballot, too, must be initialled by the deputy returning officer in charge of the poll. He does this in the presence of witnesses, before the poll opens. And he must account for all unused ballots.

In each constituency, the returning officer is given a supply of special paper some four weeks before the election for printing ballots. It comes to him partially printed, with the ballots numbered.

Both he and the deputy returning officers must be able to account for all the ballots — how many were used, how many were spoiled and how many left over. And the whole procedure, from the initialling of the ballots to the counting of them, can be watched carefully by scrutineers for the candidates.

The scrutineers can challenge any potential voter and force him to prove his identity or make an oath that he is entitled to vote.

The Dominion Elections [illegible] which lays down all these [illegible]lations has one more clause to discourage electoral skullduggery.

It provides for a fine of up to $2,000 or two years in jail for "corrupt election practices."

Cripps Supported By Labor Party On Wage Policy

Calls Britain Most Virile Of Democracies in World

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Blackpool, England, June 7 (CP)—Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, today won backing from the Labor party for his policy of holding wages at existing levels.

Sir Stafford defended his policy of high taxes and no increases in wages before the party's annual convention.

After he spoke, the conference rejected by an overwhelming majority a resolution the constructional engineering union asking the government to remove restrictions on wage boosts.

Sir Stafford, who has been called the "iron chancellor" because of his stern economic policies, said:

"Let us face the situation, not as we should like it to be, but as it is. You cannot possibly find any solution to our present problems by juggling with money, incomes or finances or fiscal measures.

"We need, and must have, more and more efficient production if we are to solve our difficulties without loss of standards."

Sir Stafford said the Conservatives on one side and the Communists on the other are spreading propaganda in an effort to convince Britons that the United Kingdon is a suffering and decadent country on the verge of collapse.

"It is wholly false. We are the most virile democracy in the world."

Sir Stafford's speech followed a plea by Lord Strabolgi for an autumn general election on the grounds that it would be better to get it over before the coming "economic blizzard" breaks.

Cripps Optimistic

Sir Stafford was more optimistic. But he said the country has not yet reached the top in its uphill economic struggle.

"Somehow or other — if we are even to maintain our present standards—we must balance our dollar trade within the next three years, because we cannot manage without the dollar imports.

"Under our four-year plan, we hope to reach a balance by the middle of 1952, when Marshall aid will stop. We shall, indeed, have our work cut out to do it."

The powerful Trades Union Congress, which with its 8,000,000 members is one of the mainstays of the Labor party, has been unhappy with Sir Stafford for refusing to lower the stiff retail

Drift of Youth From Church Causes Concern

Kitchener, June 7 (CP)— The problem of young people who drift away from the church about the time they become high school seniors is causing concern to officials of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

The question was raised Monday night at the church's 75th general assembly by Rev. J. S. Clarke of Toronto, who said he placed the responsibility for the situation upon the entire membership of the church. Too few church members have a sense of responsibility for teaching, he said.

Mr. Clarke, the church's general secretary of the Board of Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies, said the duty of providing children with religious education often is left almost entirely to a few Sunday School teachers. The result of that policy could be seen in the loss of the teen-aged groups from the church.

"At a time when they are called upon to make great decisions, they are leaving the church," he said. "Some of the causes lie beyond the sphere of the church, but there are factors and causes within the church which are partly responsible for it.

"We try to teach too much of the moral life and Christian character and not enough of Jesus Christ. When children are brought to church for baptism, it isn't only the parents who take vows to bring the child up in the admonition and nurture of the Lord. Vows are taken at the same time by church members, who are the household of faith and the family of God."

Provincial Voting One Week Away In Br. Columbia

Victoria, B.C., June 7. (CP) —With but a week left until the June 15 British Columbia election, final "campaign punches" were prepared today.

The issues are reminiscent of the 1945 campaign. There is little change.

Premier Byron Johnson and his coalition forces warn against socialism as sponsored by the C.C.F.

Both Mr. Johnson, a Liberal, and his finance minister, Progressive Conservative leader Herbert Anscomb, have referred steadily in campaigning so far to expansion plans disclosed in the last legislature. Mr. Anscomb, finance minister in the coalition government, also has challenged the C.C.F. to remove the controversial three-per-cent sales tax if that party is elected. The coalition claims that the C.C.F. would drive out capital if elected.

Both the sales tax and Bill 66—the latter enabling negotiations between the cabinet and the aluminum Company of Canada—have been hit hard by C.C.F spokesmen.

They say the tax is aimed at the working people and the proposal to allow the Aluminum Company of Canada to build a $300,000,000 industry in B.C. is giving away B.C. resources.

In provinnce-wide tours, both Mr. Johnson and C.C.F. leader Harold Winch have ignored federal issues.

The electorate has a choice of [illegible]39 candidates for the 48 seats in the legislature.

The coalition—made up of Liberals and Progressive Conservatives —and the C.C.F. will contest every seat in the 41 ridings.

Social Credit has 16 candidates and union of electors, a breakaway group from the Social Credit League, 12. There are two Labor-Progressive party candidates and eight independents.

BIG-4 MEETINGS END IN DEADLOCK ON BERLIN ISSUE

Open Sessions Will Be Resumed at Paris

Paris, June 7 — (AP) — The Big Four today resume open sessions on the Berlin deadlock after secret meetings in which they failed to agree on reuniting the splintered former German capital.

It is expected the ministers will explain the positions on Berlin which they set forth in the three secret sessions.

Since Monday each delegation has been studying two rival projects for restoring unity to Berlin. One was submitted by State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States, the other by Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Russian foreign minister. Britain and France support the American proposal.

Informed sources said the four ministers bogged down during Friday's secret talks over the use of the veto in any Four-Power supervision of Berlin's city government.

These sources said the Russians want to restore the Allied kommandatura, as it existed before the blockade.

This would mean wide kommandatura powers and the veto right for each of the four occupying nations on all of that body's decisions.

The West wants to hand over more authority to the German administration and limit the veto to essential matters involving security or changes in the city charter.

Failing to agree on Berlin the ministers will turn next to the German treaty and the Austrian pact, the remaining items on their agenda.

Some sources feel, however, that the ministers will take advantage of the remaining time to establish a deputies commission for Germany to continue the machinery of the Foreign Ministers Council.

Mighty War Base Decays In Jungle When Yanks Leave

By LESLIE BRODIE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Lombrom, Manus Island—(CP) Australia's efforts to recommission this once powerful naval base as an advanced outpost for Commonwealth defence are running up against a powerful force —the jungle.

Widespread desolation and decaying ruins are all that remain of the base the United States used to mount the big offensive that carried the Allies to victory in the Pacific war.

The island is in the Admiralty group, about 150 miles south of the equator and 240 miles northwest of the eastern tip of New Guinea.

The wharves around Seeadler harbor, where the world's largest fleets could be serviced, are rotting and falling into the sea.

Roads linking the various camps have been allowed to deteriorate to such an extent they are now almost impassable to automobiles. Only jeeps and geared trucks can be relied upon to make the journey from Lorengau to Momote. At the height of wartime activities this road was a near speedway.

The Royal Australian Navy has established its base here at Lombrom where it hopes to develop a yard capable of repairing and refuelling ships should Australia again be forced into war.

As yet the navy has no ships at the island and has to rely on visits from a naval L.S.T. to bring stores in from Australia.

Only One Aircraft

The R.A.F. has taken over the famous airstrip at Momote. However, it is better off than the navy because it has one aircraft—a Catalina flying boat used for air-sea rescue work.

Both services are in token strength and are only strong enough to maintain their own immediate needs without expanding into a defence outpost.

Men on the island, both government officials and service personnel are outspoken critics of the government's policy of not encouraging the Americans to keep the base going.

(Australia's external affairs minister, Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, declared that the presence of U.S. forces on Manus in peacetime encroached upon Australian sovereignty.)

Shortage of labor is one of the main reasons for the neglect of Manus. The Australian government took over from the Americans last September and has had great difficulty in getting men to go to the area.

The government has sent up 40 Balkan immigrants arrived from Euroupe to work on the base, but they are too few in number to make an impression on the work that must be done before the place can again be termed a naval base.

Canada's Industry Makes Only About 6 Cents Per Dollar Sales CMA Told

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, N.B., June 7 (CP)—For each dollar of goods it sells, Canadian industry makes only about six cents, the Canadian Manufacturers Association was told today. About three cents of this is paid in dividends.

The figure was reached from replies to a questionnaire by more than 800 firms, with total annual sales of more than $3,500,000,000 and employing 400,000 people.

The result was set out in an address by Hugh Crombie of Montreal, chairman of C.M.A.'s education committee.

Mr. Crombie said, in part:

"Members were asked to state what money they had received during their last fiscal year, both from sales and from other sources. They were also asked to state how they had spent the money, how much was paid out in dividends and how much was kept for improvement and expansion. Surveys of public opinion in Canada indicate that the average person thinks that manufacturers make a profit which may be as high as 32 per cent. The same people say that, while this is far too much, they would regard a profit of 10 to 15 per cent as not unreasonable.

"Actually it is only 6.2 per cent. That is all the manufacturer has left after he has paid his employees, his suppliers, the government and other legitimate claims, and also has set aside funds to pay for the replacement of his machinery and equipment when it wears out.

PARCHED GRAIN, PASTURE LAND BADLY NEEDS RAIN

Some Sectors Have Not Been Severely Affected by the Drought

Toronto, June 7 (CP)—Cooler air moved over southern sections of Ontario today but no rain was forecast to dampen parched grain and pasture land throughout the area.

Although some sectors have not been severely affected by the drought, authorities estimate that the dry spell is costing Ontario's agricultural industry $5,000,000. a day.

Officials said crops were standing up well in Dufferin county and can probably hold out for a few more days. Reports from southwestern Ontario said that section has just started to feel the effects of the hot, dry weather, but damage is not extensive.

Elsewhere in Ontario, however, the heat and drought have combined to shrivel berries, slow progress of spring grains and wither pasture lands.

In the London area, officials said lack of moisture was beginning to tell on winter wheat and alfalfa crops. Rain within a few days would save the crops, they said.

In more central and eastern sections, hay is drying up and farmers have forecast a short crop. The straw crop may be sparse also because of the slowing effects of the drought on growth of the grain.

Beans, peas and similar crops were badly in need of moisture in all sections. Drying pastures threaten milk production.

Youthful Gunman Robs Fruit Merchant of $600

Hamilton, June 7 (CP) — A youthful gunman and his masked accomplice, who forced their way through the rear door of a fruit store, Monday night, escaped with a bag containing $600 and $200 from the proprietor's pockets.

Victim of the robbery was John Bolus. Scores of persons passed along the street while the robbery was in progress.

Police said Bolus was setting garbage outside the rear door of the shop at 11.55 p.m., when one man walked up to him with a revolver, and a masked companion accompanied him into the store.

Bolus was directed to get behind the meat counter at the front of the store and to "stand still and you won't be hurt."

While the gunman trained the weapon on Bolus, the masked man probed the store. Mr. Bolus turned over a paper bag containing $600, and the masked man insisted: "You have more money than that."

Mr. Bolus was then directed to turn out his pockets which netted the pair another $200.

They warned him not to move and left by the rear door, escaping through a dark alley.

MUNICIPALITIES SHOULD HAVE FAIR SHARE GAS TAXES

Mayor Bourque of Ottawa Pleads Province Should Pay Equitable Allotment

Quebec, June 7 — (CP) — Mayor E. A. Bourque of Ottawa said today that provincial governments should aid Canadian municipalities by a "fair and equitable allotment" of the gasoline and automobile taxes, and a share of other taxes.

"Municipalities contribute extensively towards roadways that link highways and in many other ways . . . and it seems reasonable that the province should pay a fair share," he said in a paper prepared for a panel discussion on municipal finance at the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalties.

"The question . . . is how and where can we find new sources of revenue to keep up with increasing expenditures?" he said. ". . . Our citizens are becoming more exacting. They expect more services and better services and, in the case of certain municipalities, the demand for improvements and services has risen beyond all expectations with a resultant increase of property tax to an all-time peak."

The Ottawa chief magistrate said he felt that the housing shortage is a matter of national importance which should be financed by the federal government because municipalities are not in a position to undertake housing.

Sydney, Australia, June 7 (CP) —Claire Wallace, Toronto radio commentator who fell and broke her left hip in Melbourne last Friday, is reported to be resting comfortably.

Miss Wallace who was making a quick tour of Australian centres when she was injured is expected to undergo an operation to set the hip. The operation will keep her in hospital for about six weeks.

Mrs. Gerald Young of Kemptville, Ont., was about to board the 9.30 p.m. ferry here Sunday for Prescott, Ont. when her plans were changed. At 10 p.m. she gave birth to a son in an Ogdensburg hospital.

VICTIM LIKE FLAMING TORCH DIES IN VANCOUVER

BURIED 20 MINUTES

Crown Point, N.Y., June 7 — (AP)—A three-year-old boy yesterday was buried under three feet of sand for 20 minutes and survived. Harold Woods was unconscious when he was dug out of a sand-pit after a bank gave way.

Artificial respiration was administered for 15 minutes before he was revived. His condition was reported "good."

FLINTON PUPILS FIRM IN DEMAND FOR PRINCIPAL

Will Try to Complete Education Elsewhere

Flinton, June 7 (CP).—Spokesmen for the 50 striking pupils at the Continuation School here said today they will not return to classes until the principal, Keith MacEwan, is reinstated although it may mean losing credit for the school year. Flinton is 50 miles northwest of Kingston.

They said they will try to finish heir education elsewhere if the three-member Kaladar township school board won't reconsider its dismissal of the principal.

MacEwan said today: "The children know what is right and are doing it. They are sensible, intelligent boys and girls. They know an injustice when they see it."

He said he has placed his case in the hands of the Ontario Men Teachers' Federation and has been told by lawyers "that the board isn't legally constituted." He quoted lawyers as saying the board must represent the township although "all members of this board are from Flinton."

Rev. Stephen May of St. Paul's Church said he supported the pupils because "there must be an injustice or the students wouldn't be striking."

Board members, who are meeting tonight, have said MacEwan was dismissed on the recommendation of their school inspector. They were critical of discipline in the school, of MacEwan's teaching methods and of his alleged lack of co-operation with other teachers.

On Leave From 'Lab' Harry C. Coppel Awarded Ph. D.

Syracuse, N.Y., June 7. —Two Canadian entomologists were among the four men awarded Ph.D. degrees Monday morning by the New York State College of Forestry, here in commencement exercises of Syracuse University, of which the college is a unit.

Harry C. Coppel, son of Mrs. A. Coppel, 88 Shade St., Galt, was awarded the degree in climax to two years of study at the college while on leave from the Dominion Parasite Laboratory at Belleville. Dr. Coppel's thesis was "The Role of Parasitoids and Predators in the Control of the Spruce Budworm in British Columbia."

The second doctorate to a Canadian was awarded to Reginald Balch of 248 Brock Avenue, Toronto, who is on the staff of the Forest Insect Laboratory, Fredericton, N.B.

Promising Treatment for Peptic Ulcer Coats Stomach 'With Protective Layer'

By FRANK CAREY

Atlantic City, N.Y., June 7 (AP)—A new and "distinctly promising" tablet treatment for peptic (stomach) ulcers was reported today to the American Medical Association.

It involves use of tablest containing two chemicals—sodium carboxy-methylcellulose and a small amount of magnesium oxide. The tablets are designed to combat acid in the stomach.

Dr. S. P. Brasow of the Hines Veterans Hospital, Hines, Ill., and Dr. M. A. Spellberg of the University of Illinois School of Medicine made the report with several other colleagues.

They said the tablets serve to coat the lining of the stomach "with a protective layer" and "buffer" acidity for a prolonged period of time.

"It is believed that no other drug or method known will have an equal, all-round effectiveness in most ulcer patients.

"It would seem that our new preparation ranks among the best of the group of drugs available for ulcer therapy and deserves a wide trial and critical follow-up.

"Theoretically, in laboratory experiments, and practically, in clinical use, it has been shown to be distinctly promising."

The doctors described tests involving 105 patients treated by the new method and 100 patients treated with an aluminum hydroxide preparation, one of the standard treatments for peptic ulcer.

Druing a one-year follow-up 23 per cent of those treated by the new method had relapses necessitating hospital care, while 34 per cent of those receiving the aluminum preparation had relapses.

At the end of the year, 61 per cent of the patients treated by the new method were entirely free of symptoms as gainst 40 per cent in the other group.

75, Including Crew, Men, Women and Children, Aboard

Craft Develops Engine Trouble, Drops Into Sea

San Juan, Puerto Rico, June 7 (AP)—A plane jammed with Puerto Rican men, women and children bound for the United States crashed in the Atlantic early today and 47 persons are missing and feared dead.

Officials said 75 persons, including a crew of five Americans were aboard the two-motored C-46 plane. The United States coast guard reported 28 known survivors.

Nineteen of the passengers were small children or infants, and 19 were women.

The plane left San Juan a few minutes after midnight and two minutes later radioed back requesting permission to make an emergency landing. Then nothing more was heard from it. Officials said apparently it had trouble gaining altitude because of an adverse wind.

The coast guard announcement said 28 of those aboard had been rescued by 7 a.m. E.D.T. almost six hours after the crash. The bodies of two adults and a child were recovered.

The airline's agent in San Juan said those aboard included 53 adults, ten children between two and 11 years of age, five children under two and five crew members.

Attaches at the airport said it was raining hard when the plane took off.

Although there were 73 persons aboard the craft, 15 of them were children, and this may have made the total weight within the 10,000 pounds cargo capacity of these planes.

Account of Crash

One of the passengers, Juan Rivera Leon, 31, gave this account of the crash:

"The people were nervous, due to the great number aboard, even from the start. As soon as the plane crashed I started passing the jackets around. There were more than 60 available plus five life rafts. However, no rafts could be inflated in time so none were used. I passed around only 17 jackets."

He said many of the passengers were afraid to leave the plane and go into the water.

"I stayed till the water was to my knees then dived," he said, adding that at that time over half of the passengers were still aboard.

The plane sank within six minutes after the crash. Salvage operations are expected to begin later today.

Capt. D. H. Dexter, in charge of the coast guard here, said he did not believe more than the 28 known survivors would be found alive.

Search by air and sea craft was pressed.

Twenty-six of the survivors swam to small islands and reefs, and crews of rescue craft braved death in the churning and

Wants to Know Why Russ Agent Allowed to Skip

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

Washington, June 7 (AP) — Representative Harold Velde (Rep. Ill.) said today President Truman "owes it to the American people" to explain why Russian agent Andrei Schevchenko was allowed to skip the United States without prosecution.

Velde is a member of the House of Representatives un-American activities committee.

The committee Monday heard testimony that:

In 1944 and 1945, Schevchenko tried to get wartime secrets of jet propulsion and plane design by bribing employees of the Bell Aircraft Company at Buffalo, N.Y.

The employees fed him with doctored information under the eyes of the F.B.I., with payoffs in cash.

The Russian left the country early in 1946. No attempt was made to arrest him.

The witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Francey of Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Loren G. Haas of Buffalo.

It was Velde who popped a question that brought from jet engineer Haas a statement that he helped the F.B.I. build an "air-tight case" against Schevchenko but his efforts were "passed off" with word that "Mr. Byrnes at the state department says we can't tough him." He said he got that information from FBI agents, whose names he cannot now recall.

At the time of which Haas spoke, in 1945, James F. Byrnes was Secretary of State. He now is in a Washington law firm. To a reporter who asked him about Haas' testimony, Byrnes said:

"Never did I tell any official of the government not to arrest anyone. That is not a matter for the Secretary of State, but one for the Department of Justice and the F.B.I."

Jet Plane Scrapes Top of Low Hill, Pilot is Killed

Hamilton Field, Calif., June 7 (AP).—A jet-plane pilot from the United States Air Force base at Williams, Ariz., was killed in a spectacular crash four miles northwest of here.

The plane crashed about three minutes after it took off, the Air Force announced. It apparently scraped the top of a low hill, about three miles from the take-off point and plowed through a 125-foot chicken house.

The chicken house exploded and burned, destroying some 2000 chickens.

The plane sheared off an oak tree, leaving a wing hanging on a broken limb and other parts scattered in apple and peach trees of an orchard.

Policies of Liberal Govt. Defended by Hon. Paul Martin At Rally Held at Collegiate

The only way to judge the sincerity of a government is by its record of past achievements, a representative gathering of Bay of Quinte Liberals were told at a Liberal rally held in the Belleville Collegiate auditorium Monday evening.

Speaking in support of Liberal candidates, Frank S. Follwell for Hastings South, and Gordon Bell, Prince Edward-Lennox, Hon. Paul Martin, Minister of National Health and Welfare, said that Canadians were not going to be fooled by the rash promises of Progressive Conservative party leader George Drew.

He said that Mr. Drew, as premier of Ontario, back in 1944 had opposed family allowances and now was promising to increase pensions and allowances.

The speaker stood firmly behind the policy of the Liberal government and of his own department in establishing old age pensions, family allowances and other social and health measures which were benefiting the people of Canada.

270 Millions Annually

Family allowances alone meant that 270 millions were distributed annually among four million children, giving many of these people better opportunities. From the day family allowances went into effect school attendance had increased because these benefits were not given to any child under 16 years not attending school.

Mr. Martin referred to the recent Liberal victory in Newfoundland and prophesied a Liberal sweep in Nova Scotia where provincial elections are being held this week. This was a forerunner for a Liberal victory across Canada in the federal election June 27th.

The election issue was narrowing down to issues between the leaders of the two old parties, according to Mr. Martin. He said the C.C.F. party leader had said the Liberals would have the most seats while Mr. Drew was quoted as saying Mr. St. Laurent would form a government "with the assistance of some other party."

Says Drew Opposed

Referring to the family allowance program as "having the undying support of the people of Canada," Mr. Martin asked his listeners to remember Mr. Drew's opposition when the bill was introduced. He said Mr. Drew now claimed he had never opposed family allowances.

He charged that the Progressive Conservative party was trying to "woo" Quebec province by an alliance with Duplessis and asked his listeners to compare the attitude of the "tory" party of 1944 with that of today.

Quoting from a radio broadcast of Aug. 3, 1944 by George Drew, then Ontario Premier, Mr. Martin said the Progressive Conservative party leader had said Ontario paid half the federal taxes.

"But I assure you the government of Ontario will do everything possible to make sure the family allowance bill does not go into effect," Mr. Drew was quoted as saying. "It is not this bill alone, but the whole principal involved that we intend to resist."

"Now," Mr. Martin said, "Mr. Drew says he will improve family allowances and increase pensions."

Sought in 1927

Old age pensions were brought in by the Liberal government in 1927 against Conservative opposition in the Senate. Recently the basic pension had been increased from $30 per month to $40, three quarters of which was paid by the federal government.

Mr. Martin urged supplementary pensions by the provinces to bring old age pensions up to $50 per month.

He doubted Mr. Drew's promise to increase pensions, pointing to the move of the Ontario government one-and-a-half years ago to increase pensions to $40, but accompanying the bill with a means test which meant only a small percentage of Ontario pensioners received the $40 pension.

"As result the Province of Ontario actually spent one million less on old age pensions than it did one year ago," said Mr. Martin.

"Our old age pension scheme is not perfect. It is not all we want to see it but it compares favorably with that of any other country."

Satisfactory relations between the provinces and the federal government were declared necessary for good government. The Liberal government was stated to be most likely to have good relations with most of the provinces. "Is that not a satisfactory solution to the old age pension scheme?" asked the speaker.

Reviews Health Program

Turning to the health program of the Liberal government, the speaker said that under the constitution health was a matter for the province. The federal government had no desire to supplant the provincial health measures.

But he pointed out that health is actually the wealth of a nation and declared that every person, whether poor or rich, had the right for the best medical and hospital care.

Ten months ago Mr. Martin said he had indicated Canada was short 65,000 hospital beds and had inaugurated a program which in five years would see 40,0.0 hospital beds built. Today 13,000 of those beds had been provided.

The speaker also referred to federal measures assisting in cancer research. He said it was a serious thing that 16,000 persons in Canada die each year of cancer.

The federal health program has made three and a half millions available to the provinces on a per capita basis to assist in cancer control.

Claimed Not Socialism

"This is not socialism as some people may say, but just ordinary common decency," he said. "There is no reason why anyone should not have the very best of medical care."

"I am proud of our cancer program which has seen 57 medical cancer research projects being carried on as result of funds made available by the federal government."

In conclusion Mr. Martin said Canada was a free nation and yet these social reforms had taken place.

"Canadians are enjoying the highest prosperity. No country is more envied, admired or respected than the country to which you and I belong," he said. "This is due not only to the character of the people, but also to the wise policy adopted by the government which has worked for unity, security and freedom."

Former M.P. for Northumberland county, William A. Fraser of Trenton, introduced the Minister of Health and Welfare, and called upon the electors of Hastings South to vote Follwell on June 27th.

Speaker Asks Question

He asked the merchants and businessmen of Belleville if they had not benefited by the fact that the R.C.A.F. had been established in the district and asked what a Conservative gorevnment had ever given Belleville. He said he felt he had the right to ask—to demand—that the people of Hastings and Belleville elect a representative on the government side. "It was not in the cards for a Conservative government to be elected," he said.

Mr. Fraser predicted that notwithstanding the alliance between the Progressive Conservatives and Duplessis and Houde in Quebec, the Tory party would not elect 10 members in Quebec.

Appreciation to the guest speaker was expressed by McLean Haig of this city.

Herbert McCabe, president of the Belleville Liberal Association, and Mayor Kenneth Couch, Trenton, shared duties as chairmen for the evening, the latter referring to Frank Follwell, Liberal candidate for Hastings South, as a man who was "keen, alert and sober, a man a city could be proud to have as its mayor and as its candidate."

Refers to R.C.A.F.

He said the Liberal government had done most for Hastings county, referring to the RCAF, which he said means much money for Trenton and Belleville.

He warned electors to be wary of Progressive Conservative leader George Drew who, he said, could be expected to do business in the future as he had in the past. He referred to the cocktail bar question and stated the policy of Mr. Drew "if the people did not like certain legislation was to "ram it down their throats anyway."

Mrs. Herbert McCabe, regional president of the Women's Liberal Association, introduced women officials of the Liberal organization seated on the platform.

Don Baxter, M.P.P., for Prince Edward, spoke briefly on behalf of Gordon Bell, Liberal candidate for Prince Edward-Lennox. He said he had watched the spirit of George Drew in the Ontario legislature in such things as the charitable gifts act. Such things made him work to see that a man such as George Drew never became premier of Canada.

Refers To RCAF

He referred to the federal health program stating that this measure was now at a point where Canadians just could not take a chance in a change of government.

Mr. Bell also spoke briefly stating there was a trend in North Hastings which predicted a Liberal win for Hastings South. He urged electors to get out and vote Follwell

Frank Follwell, Liberal candidate for Hastings South, stated he needed no introduction to the audience.

He referred to the records of the Liberal government and to the present prosperity of the country. "To preserve that prosperity you must elect a Liberal government, and to do so you must elect Liberal candidates."

Mr. Follwell pointed to the Liberal program of housing and referred to the Integrated housing and also wartime housing in Belleville, both of which had been inaugurated by the Liberal government. An additional 100 veterans' houses were planned for the city, he pointed out.

Referring to a recent advertisement of the Progressive Conservative party which stated it was time for a change, Mr. Follwell urged it was "time for a change in Hastings South." After nine years it was time for Hastings South to elect a candidate with the government.

Duty To Vote

"Individual rights for all people is the Liberal platform," Mr. Follwell concluded. "It is the duty of the people to vote, and to vote in the best interests of the country. If you do that you can only vote Liberal."

It was not all speech making at the Liberal rally. Four new Canadians, members of the Batawa String Quartet, favored with musical numbers that had a different swing. Tony Ficklisky, Jerry Vachuska, with violins. Frank Tiamsa, guitar, and Felix Ulgas, accordian, played polkas, waltzes and tangos, traditional in Central Europe.

As a final number violinist Jerry Vachuska played Schubert's Serenade dedicated to the guest speaker of the evening, Hon. Paul Martin.

Geranium Nearly Seven Feet High Still Growing

Mr. M. Jones, 20 Murney Street, stroked a ruminative chin and cast a puzzled look at a giant geranium in his home that refuses to stop growing.

"If it keeps at its present rate of growth I may have to cut a hole in the roof," he mused.

The geranium measures six feet eight inches in height and was grown from a slip two years ago.

The plant produced blooms last year, but apparently it is so busy growing that it has not the time to bother with blooms in 1949. At least none have appeared thus far.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, June 7—(CP)—Prices slid downwards under steady selling pressure today. Gains that were chalked up late last week after Tuesday's sharp break were almost wiped out in an early burst of selling. Industrials slipped slowly reflecting a decline in New York and base metals were down following further reductions in the price of zinc. Golds also lost.

Losses in industrials appeared quickly at the opening and then held as trading slowed. The market dipped following Monday's dip in New York. The exchange here was closed on the King's birthday. Papers led the downtrend as losses ranged up to two points and several issues sold at new lows.

Consolidated Smelters was down 2 1-2 at 84 in a weakening base mtal list. The group held at a standstill at the half-way mark. International Nickel and Golden Manitou sold at new lows.

Senior golds were fractionally lower while juniors showed declines ranging up to 10 cents. Dome lost 1-4 and Lake Shore was down 3-8.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, June 7—(CP)— Prices were 25-50 cents higher for the week on steers and bulls in trading on the local livestock market this morning. Prices were about the same on other grades. Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing service were: cattle, 1,100; calves, 420; hogs, 400; sheep and lambs, 110. Held over from Monday were 1,700 cattle.

Liberals Elect Officers and Poll Captains

Mr. Gordon Bell, Liberal candidate in Prince Edward Lennox, addressed a joint meeting of the Picton Women's Liberal Association, and the oung Liberal Association and Young Liberal Association town hall of Roblin's Mills.

The speaker was introduced by Mr. Donald Baxter, M.P.P., while Mr. Ross Roblin, president of the Men's Liberal Association for Prince Edward moved a vote of thanks and confidence in the candidate.

Mrs. H. J. Fletcher discussed the influence of women in the home and the part that they may play in developing better government.

Election of association officers followed the various addresses. Mrs. Paul Wycott was elected president of the Women's Liberal Association for Ameliasburg. Secretary Treasurer is Mrs. Bruce Foster.

Mrs. Don Jones was nominated president of the Young Women's Liberal Association and Miss Margaret Roblin, secretary treasurer.

Mrs. C. McDonald East Moira St. Wins Refrigerator

Dollar bill hoarding optimists of the city and district can begin to part with their cash again with all the old misgivings, because the lucky drawing of Stradwick-Valleau Limited, has produced a winner.

Mrs. Clinton H. McDonald, 45 East Moira Street, walked into the store at 1:15 this afternoon and purchased a brand new electric refrigerator with dollar bill C/M 7124546, the number chosen Monday evening.

Mrs. McDonald is not just sure where she received the bill but she thinks it was either in Kresges or the Thompson House Furnishings Store. She has had the lucky bill since Saturday afternoon. She had not taken the contest seriously and only had to search through a dozen or more bills to come up with the right one.

6 R.D. Upset Trenton Soccer Team 10-0

6 R.D. defeated Trenton 10-0 in a scheduled Bay of Quinte Association Football League over the weekend. The game was the first appearance of the Trenton team and they showed a lack of practice.

Trenton started the game pressing and during the early minutes looked as though they would give the airmen a soccer argument. But they faded after the first R.D. score. However, observers felt that with more practice the Trenton team will be able to give a better account of itself.

6 R.D. was composed mainly of old country players and on their showing should prove dangerous contenders for the league title.

Angus, a former England schoolboy international scored five goals while Helyer, Trenton player, unfortunately scored against his own team.

Scorers were Wall, Kendall, Helyer (own goal), Law (2), Angus (5).

The teams—

6 R.D.—Wadmore, Whyte, John, Johnston, Wall, Hughes, Law, Miller, Angus, Barron, Kendall, Evans, Fletcher, Witt.

Trenton—Jarvis, D. Helyer, L. Helyer, Martin, E. Helyer, Taft, Cill, Silver, Terril, Brown, Campbell, Lytle, Rushnell, Jones.

Police Court

Drunk Driving Charge Brings 7 Days in Jail

The morning court session before Magistrate T. Y. Wills was comparatively brief today with the proceedings being completed in little more than 20 minutes. A large majority of the cases were settled out of court, only a few drunks, a drunk-driving charge and a speeding charge being dealt with during the court session.

A Front Stret motorist paid a total of $14 for speeding on Dundas Street West, the amount including a fine of five dollars and nine dollars court costs.

Police officers stated they had clocked the acused doing "40 to 45 miles per hour" on Dundas Street after having run through a red light at the corner of Bridge and Coleman Street.

The accused pleaded not guilty to the speeding charge claiming his speedometer at no time had registered over 30 miles per hour.

"You better have your speedometer checked," commented Magistrate Wills as he assessed the fine, and costs, including two witness fees.

Another motorist pleaded guilty to a charge of drunk driving and was sentenced to seven days in jail. No evidence was offered on the charge of dangerous driving, police stating no accident had occurred.

Three drunks who were given jail sentences for imbibing too freely, completed the court.

treacherous seas to pick them off and carry them to the mainland.

Two were plucked from the water.

The known survivors included both adults and children.

The plane, en route to Newark, N.J., via Miami, was operated by Strato Freight, Incorporated, a charter service with headquarters at Bradley Field, near Windsor Locks, Conn.

Capt. Dexter said the plane was unable to return to San Juan airport when the engine trouble developed, and it crash-landed 150 yards off Point Salinas. The point is four miles west of here on the north coast of Puerto Rico.

Help is Called

All available United States Coast Guard, Air Force, Army and Navy planes and ships in the vicinity were called into the search for possible survivors, bodies and the exact location of the sunken plane.

Large surface craft could not get in among the dangerous rocks and reefs that dot the sea.

Two or three bodies had been found shortly after dawn, Capt. Dexter said.

Three Coast Guard ships and two navy ships were in the immediate vicinity at that time.

Nine Less Than Worst Toll

New York — The possible loss of 45 persons in the crash of a charter plane today near San Juan, Puerto Rico, was nine less than the death toll of the worst commercial plane diaster in recent years.

May 30, 1947, 53 persons were killed in the crash of an eastern airlines plane near Port Deposit, Md.

Near Bogota, Colombia, 53 persons were killed and 150 injured when a plane smashed into a crowd July 24, 1938.

Feb. 15, 1947, 53 persons were killed in a plane crash also near Bogota when an airliner hit a cliff.

The heaviest death toll ever recorded in a plane crash occurred Aug. 23, 1944, when 54 persons were killed, 35 of them children, as a United States plane crashed in England.

Aug. 1, 1948, an air France flying boat disappeared between Martinque and French West Africa with 52 persons aboard. They were never found.

purchase taxes in his 1949-50 budget. The taxes range as high as 100 per cent on some items.

Must Find Money for Services

"The government would like to knock off the purchase tax just as much as you would," the Chancellor of the Exchequer said. "You as individuals can perhaps afford to urge that. But as supporters of the government you can't, because we are responsible for finding the money for existing services."

Earlier in the day Prime Minister Attlee told the 1,480 delegates to the party's 48th annual conference that Britain's "steady" foreign policy is showing results.

"Today, more than before, Britain stands out as the rallying point for all the democracies that are real democracies and not veiled autocracies," he said.

"We regret that Burma and Eire have left the Commonwealth. We rejoice that India, Pakistan and Ceylon — Asiatic countries now free and equal members with the others — remain in the Commonwealth."

Attlee Receives Ovation

The prime minister, who received one of the biggest ovations of his career, declared that the economics of Britain were very heartening.

Herbert Morrison, deputy prime minister and government leader in the House of Commons, said the party and the government are not going to become embroiled in internal Irish politics.

He spoke after several delegates demanded "fair electoral methods" in Northern Ireland.

Voters in Northern Ireland recently returned to power the Unionist administration which opposes fusion with the newly-proclaimed Republic of Ireland and instead upholds continuance of Northern Ireland as a part of the United Kingdom.

The question of Britain's economic position is one of the key issues before the conference.

Several local labor constituencies have been pressing for a supplementary autumn budget to reduce some of the provisions affecting the cost of living and the purchase tax. These local sentiments were expected to be strongly echoed at the conference by the trade unions.

The budget, labor unrest and coming elections have caused the party conference to focus its attention this year on domestic rather than foreign affairs.

PRAYERBOOK ANNIVERSARY

One of the most precious books in the world is the Book of Common Prayer, the four hundredth anniversary of which is being observed this week and the next two weeks. In the Anglican communion special attention is being given to the celebration for the book has occupied the hearts of the British people for centuries. A product of the long history of the church it preserves its appeal and no one can foresee the day when it will lose its inspiration, for the varied vicissitudes of life have contributed to the making of this unique work. Outside of the Church of England the Book of Common Prayer has had a profound influence. Its devotion, its dignity, its aptness in every phase of life endures and it remains one of the enduring memorials and proofs of a nation's spirit.

It is one of the happy events of this age to witness so much interest in and the recognition of the spiritual value of this book. The words of its prayers, the sentiments which it enshrines are for the world, it is written in the choicest English, rich with the inspiration of ages of time and of a religious people.

SOMETHING TO DO

Newspapers have drawn attention to the statements of physicians and psychologists that many aged persons who are deemed "hopeless" cases are victims of the disease of not having anything to do. It would seem a strange thing in this busy work-a-day world that there should be persons who have so missed the lessons of modern science as to make the mistake of taking life so easy that it loses its attraction. Christian Science Monitor quotes Dr. Howard A. Rusk of the New York University Department of Rehabilitation and Physical Medicine who refers to the success of "day centres" for the aged in New York City, where the participants do some of the work, all of the government work and find social life. It is pointed out that the incidence of mental illness among these folk is far below the average for their age as a whole and of course the expense of taxpayers is far less for hospitals and institutions to house them.

It is written in the laws of nature and human nature that life is activity. Programs which take care of the minimum material needs of the aged but leave them in a sense of frightened inactive isolation are self-defeating, Dr. Rusk says.

Work is life's way of living and happy lives are built upon such a normal condition.

CIRCUSES

Circuses change little, remarks the Woodstock Sentinel Review and asks "Why should they?" Most people would agree on a negative answer, there is no need for a change for the circus as it has developed is an institution which sums up all of the appeal that is possible to make to men, women and children. In fact the circus is really a world in itself, and an abbreviation of the real world into a program which for thrills outdoes the ways of nature. Nature is full of changes and has a myriad of appeals. And the circus is like nature, it has learned the art of entertainment so well that it knows the nature of the appeal of every attraction, how it appears to the young and the middle aged and the old.

"If there has been little change it is not a mark of either old age or decadence but a certificate to the fact that here is one thing in the way of entertainment that had long ago reached the heights of near perfection, and was, therefore, not subject to improvement," the paper notes.

"The years have not dimmed grandfather's love of the thing nor the thrill that grandson gets from it. If there has been any change it is principally by way of making it a more genuine business enterprise.

Circuses have proven the test of long years, they have faced new problems but that does not interfere with their vitality.

Some of the very younger generation have not seen circuses such as used to fill the urban centres with crowds from the entire countryside. What has happened is that the transportation of a circus is a very big matter in these days, but even that fact has not ended the life of the circus which is as fresh as ever.

The circus is like a story and picture book in motion and real life is thrown into it. Great circus builders gathered the elements of their assemblage of things strange and odd and striking and left their marks on this institution for ages.

CHEER FOR MRS. POST

Once more I sing of Emily Post,
Friend of the hostess and the host,
Who tells to every social set
The rules of proper etiquette.
Now, reckless drivers she regards
As those who'd cheat their friends at cards.

The well-bred person, she declares,
Heeds safety rules for thoroughfares.
Who cuts the light or fails to stop,
The gravy from his plate would mop;
And who, while driving, risks a life,
When eating peas would use a knife.

The courteous lady at the wheel
Her fits of anger won't reveal.
Howe'er annoyed, by night or morn,
To scold she'll never sound the horn.
Says Mrs. Post: "She'd be too proud
To play the 'fishwife' coarse and loud."

With cheers should Mrs. Post be hailed.
She may succeed where cops have failed.
Her little book the trick may turn.
From her good manners fools may learn.
Who breaks the safety laws, says she,
Would pick their teeth in company.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A STORY OF SIN

One of the great novels of American literature is The Scarlet Letter, by Nathaniel Hawthorne. In a story laid in seventeenth-century Boston, Hawthorne traced the consequences of a sinful act on the lives of the characters of his book, thus producing both a fascinating tale and a penetrating study of the problem of sin.

Hawthorne illustrated two universal principles in his novel. One is that the consequences of sin are more important and far-reaching than the sinful act itself. In The Scarlet Letter, the initial sin had been committed before the start of the story; but the consequences and ramifications profoundly altered the entire lives of the characters. The other principle is that the guilt which comes from sin may be a means of grace or a means of far greater evil, depending on the individual concerned.

One of the characters in The Scarlet Letter, through open confession and repentance, became a far better and stronger person than she had been before. Another, far less guilty in the beginning, cherished and enlarged his sin until he became a veritable fiend in his wickedness. Since all of us sin and no one is innocent, we should, like Hawthorne's heroine, strive to make our failings not ignoble retreats but minor setbacks from whose experience we can gain the ultimate victory.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

The ancient Greeks noted the fact that a war was always followed by a period remarkable for the effeminacy of the young men. Various explanations were offered. The effeminate trend was partly blamed on the returned soldiers themselves who went in for soft and luxurious raiment in reaction against armor and the rough leather garments of the soldier.

The women had to take some of the blame, especially in respect to the boys, the protective instincts of motherhood trying to make girls out of the boys so that they would forget war.

The same thing is happening all over North America right now. Shortly after the war, those gaudy pyjama - type shirts in pastel shades and later in floral prints began to appear on the men in Hollywood; and soon spread far and wide. The necktie, one of the last badges of manliness, was simply chucked aside. The fashionable made bared his throat like a girl.

The next step was slack suits in imitation of the women's slack suits. And last year the sight of gentlemen in mauve ensembles was not at all unusual. Neckties went completely out of hand. The bigger and more garish the necktie, the more it looked like a feminine drape, the better.

"You will find it hard to buy a plain, ordinary pair of swimming trunks. They've all got lilies and petunias on them.

Right now, a man can dress in any flowery, outlandish garb he likes, so long as he does not look like either a soldier or a man.

The effeminate trend has finally reached the lowest level — the rowdy, toughie, corner-boy type. In most of our cities and towns now you will see the zoot-suiters wearing Nile green, rose or yellow trousers, draped. Draped means they are fetchingly caught up at the ankle. As a slight sop, some of these zoot-suiters wear short crew haircuts. But most of them wear it wavy.

I suppose it is part of the cost of war.

German Says Communism In Soviet Zone Marching Down Same Path as Hitler's Nazis

Berlin, June 7 — (AP) — A German Protestant leader charges the Communist regime in the Soviet zone is marching down the same political path the Nazis followed under Hitler.

Bishop Otto Dibelius, chairman of the German Protestant Council of Churches, said in a Whitsunday letter that the Russian zone is substituting "political forces" for law.

The message was distributed to hundreds of pastors in Berlin and in Russian-occupied Brandenburg which surrounds the city.

The evangelical bishop said German Christians started their fight against the Nazis with an open declaration of Pentecost weekend 15 years ago and "now the time has come for the church to speak" again.

He attacked what he described as:

1. The "disappearance of tens of thousands of men and women and the very, very young" since the Russian-backed Communists took control of Eastern Germany in 1945.

2. The Soviet-created people's police through which the bishop said "the Gestapo of unblessed memory has been regenerated."

3. "Inner untruthfulness and hostility to the Christian gospel."

Mackenzie's Column:

Moscow Getting Set to Take Major Hand in China

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Moscow at long - last apparently is getting set to take a major hand in the development of a China that rapidly is coming under control of the Chinese communist armies sweeping down from the north.

Thus far the Russians have maintained a studied, hands-off attitude. Now, however, a responsible East European diplomat in Paris says Deputy Premier Molotov of Russia has been placed in charge of Russia's policies in the Orient. This informant predicts an early shift in Moscow's attitude of "aloofness" towards the Chinese reds.

Molotov's appointment in itself would lend support to this forecast. The time has come to start organizing that vast country as the keystone of red influence in the Orient.

Cool at First

Heretofore Russia has played a very cautious game.

Moscow's caution may have been due largely to the fact that Mao Tse - Tung, Chinese communist leader has exhibited nationalist tendencies which don't fit in with Russia's edict that the sovereignty of communist countries must rest with her. In short, there has been much speculation abroad whether Mao was developing into another Yugoslav Tito who would refuse to recognize Moscow's supremacy.

Whether this does indeed represent Mao's attitude remains to be seen. He always has practised fierce expropriation of holdings of landlords and the redistribution of land to the peasants.

When critics say his party is out for agrarian reform only he explodes:

"Make no mistake about it. Ours is a party of communism."

He has stated that once the Chinese communists are in power they will deal equally with the Soviet and the western democracies. Maybe he will, but Russia lies right up against his northern border. America, he considers his chief foreign enemy because of her military aid to the Nanking government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

The betting, I should say, is that Moscow intends to eschew strong - arm methods for the present and try to bring Mao, whole heartedly into the Soviet fold.

CANADA,S

"In other words, he has only slightly over six cents out of the dollar to cover dividends to shareholders and those funds which he must retain in his business for future expansion and the creation of more goods and more jobs.

"If net profits amount to just over six cents out of the sales dollar where does the rest go?

"In the first place, the manufacturer pays out more than 40 cents to his suppliers for materials. Then he pays out about 24½ cents to his employees in wages, salaries and employee benefits. Next he must pay the Dominion and Provincial tax collectors about 14½ cents to cover excise, sales and income taxes.

"With 21 cents left, nearly 11 cents are required to cover other expenses, including shop and office supplies, office administration and selling expenses, municipal taxes, maintenance and repairs, charitable donations and interest on bonds and loans.

"One of the 10 cents left the manufacturer sets aside more than three cents for depreciation to cover the cost of replacement to buildings, machinery and equipment which wears out or gets obsolete. Even this is not enought as replacements costs today, in most cases, are far greater than when existing facilities were installed.

"This leaves 6.2 cents which is our net profit. But this amount is not all paid out to the shareholder by any means. The future health and growth of the business require the company to hold back 3.2 cents to cover expansion in the business, unfortunate losses, bad debts or other unforeseen contingencies. So the poor shareholder gets the three cents that is left and even on this amount he has to pay taxes.

"This is all he gets for loaning the company the money which it has used to buy tools of production. No wonder many investors prefer to put their money into government bonds and get a three per cent return with no risk...

"Even if the three cents paid to shareholders were cut in half, the price of a one dollar article would only be cut to 98½ cents. Surely no one will think these profits are the reason for high prices. The 6.2 cents of net profit are the red cells of the life blood of our industry; they make our dynamic free economy tick. We are certainly not apologizing for them. They just couldn't be much lower."

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE GREEN GRASS

You only have to study history to learn that there have been many who have predicted the tragic end of the world. Go back to the Middle Ages, to Europe after the Napoleonic wars, and meditate upon the thinking of the world during and after our recent world wars.

It is true that the world is now full of fears and that we are engaged in a cold war, but for a great many thousands of years there has been a God looking over things as they occurred upon this earth, and though they looked black at times, each Springtime has brought about its green grass, and the same flowering and return of the songsters have been ours.

It seems to me that the green grass has an eternal story of its own to tell. There is so much of the prophecy of permanence to it. How it reflects many a truth, and withers many a falsehood. What a strange looking world this would be without its green grass!

And isn't it strange that the grass and most of our trees and foliage are green? What a covering and what a background to the other arrangements in nature! A field of poppies, of blue bells, of golden rod, in a setting of this green, what a perfect sight! He who created this world was an Artist, and He is not going to see His masterpiece wantonly wiped out.

In the midst of all our fears and anxieties let us not fail to take note of the perpetual continuity of all the forces in nature. The sunrise has never failed us yet, nor the green grass. The song of the nightingale is just as beautiful as in Shakespeare's time. The robin of my childhood is the robin of my maturity—and how very welcomed.

Tyrants, dictators, war lords, and neurotics have had their brief reign of terror and destruction, but there still remains in the world a silent spiritual force that will inevitably over-balance these evil forces and set mankind on the road to a better and happier day. Every green blade of grass is a blade of faith!

QUININE AND VITAMINS FOR EXAMINATION JITTERS

The main ingredient in my prescription for examination jitters in quinine, but at the same time every candidate preparing for an examination of any kind, school, college physical test, practical test of skill or ability, about the results of which he or she is worried should supplement his or her regular diet with an optimal ration of vitamin B complex months or even weeks or days before the examination time. This is the "tonic" par excellence, nature's own tonic to nerves, heart and digestive tract.

Examination jitters begin three or four weeks before examinations as a rule. Like typhoid fever its onset is insidious, but it grows worse day by day, reaches about 106 at zero hour and almost paralyzes the victim, until he or she runs hurriedly over the questions and estimates how many he can hit for a passing mark. This is the crisis—termination of the attack and quick recovery—as in pneumonia.

Unlike drugs which produce wakefulness or cerebral stimulation or excitement and are too often used by students preparing for examinations, quinine in moderate doses is practically harmless. Indeed it tends to build up the red corpuscles.

All I know, of course, is what I read in letters from students who have followed my instructions. If the student has had previous experience with examination jitters and therefore is capable of judging he or she almost invariably reports favorably if not enthusiactically upon the effects of the treatment.

If one is fortunate enough to have better-than-average nutritional condition, vite, before he or she faces examinations, then the quinine alone is sufficient — he or she should take one grain of quinine sulfate, in pill, capsule or tablet, three times a day, before, with or after meals, for three or four weeks before the examinations, or even for just a few days if one gets a late start. Continue this right up to the last meal.

For the great majority of students, whose nutritional condition is on the low level of that of most Americans today, vitamin B complex, is, as already indicated, a natural tonic. Natural because it is present in natural food—but little remains in the refined, purified" products the manufacturers and millers permit the American people to eat. Tonic because it improves the "tone", the resiliency, the vigor of firmness (as opposed to flabbiness) of the smooth or involuntary muscle throughout the body—heart muscle, muscle coat of arteries, muscle coat of stomach and intestine, and improves or maintains function. Incidentally, carefully controlled tests of school children, conducted by scientific investigators in New York, showed that children who received a daily ration of vitamin B1 (thiamine) to supplement their ordinary diet learned faster, retained what they learned better and received better marks in examinations than children who received no extra vitamin.

DREW CHAMPIONS PARTY'S STAND ON ALL ISSUES

Says Canada Faces Disaster Unless the Exchange Problem is Solved

(By Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Brandon, Man., June 7 — (CP) — Canada, a country which wishes to increase its sales to the United States but does not want to "lose other markets that are open to us" faces disaster unless the exchange problem is solved, George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said Monday night.

Mr. Drew devoted much of his address to the question of trade, but digressed to attack Justice Minister Garson — as he had done earlier — over the issues of the 1945 — 46 Dominion-Provincial Conference.

The Progressive Conservative leader spoke in support of John Bracken, whom he succeeded as party leader last October.

Mr. Drew said "no amount of pretence" by Trade Minister Howe will conceal the fact that Canada is losing her overseas markets, and added that Canada's trade with the United Kingdom dropped $67,000,000 in the first quarter of this year and still is dropping rapidly.

Mr. Drew said he spoke in Brandon constituency on a night marking three anniversaries — the King's Birthday; the anniversary of the death of Sir John A. Macdonald, Canada's first Prime Minister and "a Conservative who stood for responsibility of parliament"; and the 75th anniversary of the City of Winnipeg.

On the Dominion - Provincial issue, he said Mr. Garson was claiming that old age pensions, health insurance and other social security measures were threatened by a Progressive Conservative government.

Mr. Drew said that as leader of the Progressive Conservative government of Ontario he had advanced proposals far ahead of those of the Dominion government, and added, "Every honest person knows that."

Britannia Ave. Wins Battle Of the Fence

Toronto, June 7 — (CP)—Britannia Avenue Monday won its battle of the fence.

Chief Inspector Davison Sutherland of the City Works Department announced his department has decided against opening the shady, dead-end street in North Toronto so that heavy trucks could cross a lot into a transport yard.

Citizens set up a picket line around a fence at the closed end of the street earlier when a movement was afoot to open the thoroughfare pending paving of another street. Men and women defied a bulldozer operator to run them down. They draped a Union Jack over the board fence.

OVERRATED CAMEL

It is doubtful whether camels, as many suppose, can go without water for a week without great discomfort or physical danger. Two or three days is believed to be the limit.

Cochrane North Votes Wednesday In By-Election

Cochrane, June 7 (CP)— Cochrane North votes Wednesday in an Ontario Provincial by-election to choose a successor to John P. H. Carrere, who died in a level-crossing smash last October before he could take his seat in the legislature.

The contest is a straight fight between Marcel Leger, Progressive Conservative, and Roy Kenny, C.C.F. The Liberals, who held the seat for 12 years before they lost it a year ago to the Progressive Conservatives, decided against running a candidate.

The Progressive Conservatives, led by Premier Frost, have made their campaign theme "Keep Cochrane North in the Government Ranks." E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. leader, and other speakers for his party have asserted in campaign addresses that the government seeks a Cochrane North victory as an endorsement of Progressive Conservative policy.

Election officers travelled by airplane to Albany on the western shores of James Bay to set up the most northerly poll in the province.

A campaign party of Progressive Conservative candidates flew to Moose Factory at the southern tip of James Bay, and to Moose River Crossing, Fraserdale and Island Falls, communities between Moose Factory and Cochrane. It was believed the first time candidates ever visited the northerly points during a provincial by-election campaign

LOUIS ST. LAURENT, Prime Minister of Canada

Canada's great Leader

At the polls on June 27 the voter must ask himself, ahead of anything else, who should be head of the government.

In Louis St. Laurent, Canada has a great national leader.

That he had high abilities of the mind was proved by his career in law. That he had wisdom in cabinet, unique gifts in parliamentary debate and a quick grasp of large affairs became clear as soon as he entered the Government. In international affairs, as one of the original advocates of the Atlantic Pact, he made himself a world figure who spoke out as no Canadian before him, in the councils of the nations.

He also revealed an understanding of ordinary people, because he is one of them.

This warm and essentially simple human being is the real St. Laurent, the product of the small town, of humble beginnings, hard work, a big family and the friendliness of country neighbors.

In blood, language and instinct he combines the qualities of two great races.

To the voter it is equally important that St. Laurent is the leader of a truly national party, with proved strength from coast to coast, the only party which can hope to form a stable government after the election. His character, his ability and his achievements have made him the leader of all the Canadian people.

Dr. S. Russell in Convocation Address at Albert College Urges More Students Enter the Ministry

Brilliant sunshine sparkled on picturesque Albert College as the students and their friends gathered for Convocation Day on Monday afternoon. In this lovely setting the processional wound its way into Memorial Chapel, the graduates leading, with the girls in traditional long white gowns and gloves, each wearing a corsage of a red rose, followed by the students, the teaching staff in gowns and hoods, the Board of Governors, and guests. Mrs. Mary Conner Deacon played the processional march on the organ. Below the platform spring flowers and banked ferns enhanced the beauty of the little chapel.

The ceremonies were opened with an invocation by Rev. Gordon Siscoe, followed by a vocal rendition of the Lord's Prayer by the college choir.

Rev. Dr. Bert Howard in presenting the Principal's report expressed his deep appreciation of the Chairman of the Board, Mr. E. B. Warriner, to the Board itself for its superb loyalty; to his colleagues, the members of the staff for their loyal efforts to help the students; to the men and women who are responsible for keeping the school running and who are sometimes overlooked; and to the student body who sometimes had found it hard to adjust their lives to fit into the school life. He told the students that perhaps they would not be able to place an evaluation on their school life until later in life.

Day of Happiness

The Valedictory address was made by Miss Margaret Dyer who said that this was a day of happiness and pride of achievement, but also sadness at parting. She expressed the gratitude of all the students for their years at Albert. It had been more than a school, it was a home. She mentioned particularly the morning chapel talks which had given them help and inspiration for the day. The athletics had provided competition and interest. Graduates from Albert were filling important positions in the world and she hoped this class would do as well. She wished for the school an even greater success in the future.

On behalf of the graduating class the President Tom Yates presented Dr. Howard with a cheque for the purchase of a school trophy to be presented annually to the student having the best athletic record in the school. Dr. Howard thanked the class for this gracious gesture.

In presenting a shield in recognition of distinguished service, Dr. Howard called on Rev. Gordon Siscoe, M. A., D.D., to receive it. Dr. Siscoe is General Secretary of the United Church in Canada; he is also an executive of the Canadian Council of Churches and was one of the major speakers at Amsterdam. He has done much for the economical movement to bring Protestant churches together in evangelical union. In accepting the award Dr. Siscoe expressed himself as highly honored. He believed one is not born to be a leader, but opportunities come to those who take what is at hand. "Some of you," he told the students, "may have the privilege to be leaders in some walk of life."

In introducing the guest speaker, Rev. G. Stanley Russell, M.A., D.D., Mr. E. B. Warriner stated that more thought is being given today to study groups among young people where nuggets of spiritual gems were unearthed. Dr. Russell, he said, was the trustee of a mighty spirit governed by the power of Christ which he shared through his sermons and articles in the press. He prophesied this distinguished author and pastor was destined to a wider service.

Gifted Speaker

Dr. Russell is an arresting speaker with a disarming wit which immediately captured the attention of his audience. His discourse was laced throughout with amusing anecdotes dramatically related in true rhetoric style, and he proved a happy choice for Convocation speaker, his listeners responding to every change of mood. It was the first occasion he had visited Albert College, he said, and he was profoundly impressed with the architecture of the buildings and the spirit within. Although he had never met Prince Albert after whom the school was named he had had an encounter with Queen Victoria when he was a small lad on a country road in his native Scotland. He described that meeting with vivid recollections.

"Those who have received prizes have distinguished themselves," he said in the course of his remarks. "Those who did not receive prizes have still made contributions in their work and lives, and if they honestly work they will make a great contribution.

"You are going into the world to build. It is a nasty and unpleasant world at times. When I started out the world did not have autos and aeroplanes and radios and consequently it was a much happier world. You at Albert, have inherited a tradition. A tradition has to be created in Canada because it is a new country, and in five hundred years will be a strong and mighty one. I don't believe that there is anything the United Church is doing in Canada more important than what is represented at Albert College, bringing young people together in a common life, and I am quite sure that you will make the tradition worthy.

Must Strive For Beauty

"Your task will be to build things that are beautiful. Look at the expressions on the faces of people driving cars. There is no politeness, no friendliness, no courtesy. Canada is raw. We need the refinements in thought which the classics give us. With beautiful speech, beautiful buildings and pictures we, can rise above the common level. We must strive to find and create the beautiful, not only in exterior things but in the way of living. We are learning the hard way that racial prejudice is futile. White skin is an accident and no credit to anyone. Jesus Christ was an Asiatic. Try to create beauty in your conception of your contribution to the life of the country.

"Never think lightly of the church. It is the greatest and strongest thing in the world, nothing else in the world has united peoples of all nations. The United Nations has not done it. When you find domestic unhappiness you will discover that in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred the home has lost contact with the church. It is beyond my comprehension why vocational guidance councillors who analyze you never seem to say your job is the ministry. There is no life so satisfying or complete."

Mr. John Deacon accompanied by Mrs. Deacon contributed three vocal solos. Mary Vivian, vice-president of the Students' council presented Mrs. E. N. Baker with a bouquet of roses.

Special Award to Team

A special award by the Board of Governors was made by E. B. Warriner to the senior basketball team, coached by Mr. John Hayman, who have placed first for three successive years at the Queen's tournament in Kingston. Each member received a green windbreaker with a championship crest.

Three students, John Merkley, James Taugher and Larry McCaughey (in absentia) were given extraordinary awards in recognition of their contributions to the athletic life of the school for five years. each was given a wool blanket with the crests he had won stitched on.

Diplomas were given to the Commerce Department by Mr. J. S. Hayman, and to the Secretarial class by Miss Irene Loftus.

Following the distribution of the prizes and scholarships and the recessional a reception was held in Ackerman Hall where the students, teachers and their guests mingled in happy fellowship and enjoyed a luncheon.

Outside partings were said and cameras clicked to keep fresh the recollections of this memorable day.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

By Beatrice Fairfax

Etiquette Problem of an Illegitimate Child

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am an illegitimate girl. Most of my friends don't know it.

I want to announce my engagement to a wonderful fellow from a nice family.

How should I word the engagement announcement for the paper or should I put it in at all? Also, how should I have the wedding invitations written? I don't think it sounds proper to put my mother's name with "Miss" in front of it.

"Discouraged"

Dear "Discouraged":

There are so many points about this problem of yours that you have not told me that it is a little hard to know exactly how to advise you.

For example, I am wondering what your mother has been calling herself all through the years. Has she been using "Mrs." Or has she been going along with her maiden name? If she has always referred to herself as "Mrs" I would certainly use that designation in announcing your engagement and also in the wedding invitations.

Another important point that would enter into it is whether or not your fiance knows of the situation. It so, why not talk it over with him and see what you both feel would be the wisest thing to do?

In general, it would seem to me, that, under the circumstances, complications could best be avoided by not sending out any engagement announcements to papers at all, or any formal wedding invitations, unless of course you are having such a large wedding you would have to do so. It would be far better just to announce your engagement, and later issue invitations to your wedding, by writing informal notes.

Unless you care to send me further details, I am afraid this is all I can suggest.

Glad to Send a Personal Letter

Dear Miss Fairfax:

If I wrote you a letter asking for advice, and enclosed a self-addressed stamped envelope, could you send me advice without printing it in the paper?

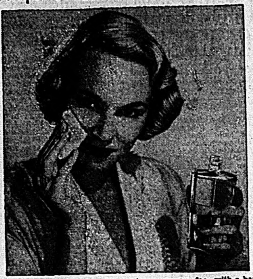
"F. D. L."

Dear "F. D. L."

Yes, I certainly could and would. I am always very glad to send a personal reply when a reader requests it provided, of course, the problem is legitimate, sincere, worthy of serious consideration, and that it falls within my province.

I might add here that a request for a personal reply is always necessary where readers do not wish their letters published. I am often asked not to publish a letter but merely an answer to it, keyed so that the writer will understand. This, however, is impossible for me to do, as it is against the policy of the column to print an answer to a letter without printing the letter itself. In all cases where correspondents wish their letters withheld from publication, they should send a stamped, addressed envelope so that I can write them personally.

Wise Complexion Care Now Helps Avoid Future Trouble



In the morning, pat a little skin freshener on your face with a handy cotton square to remove all traces of the cream you have applied the night before.

By HELEN FOLLETT

Young women may have their beauty griefs, but they never worry about wrinkles, and that is where they make a mistake. To be sure, their faces are as smooth as velvet, but what guarantee have they that they will stay that way? Little eye lines can appear in the twenties. The flesh is delicate there and crinkles easily, especially if vision is impaired. It is never too early to make an effort to keep the facial areas in tip-top condition. Sometimes they take care of themselves pretty well, but not always, especially if the skin is thin and rather transparent.

No matter how late it is, how far beyond your bedtime, don't retire without giving your complexion the care to which it is entitled. Remove make-up with a cleansing oil or thin cream. Wash your face with fairly warm water and a bland soap. If there are the slightest signs of dust filled pores, use a complexion brush, which will not only give a more perfect cleansing but will stimulate the blood streams, put pink carnation blooms in the cheeks. Rinse, dry, and apply a heavy emollient. In the morning, pat in skin freshener with a handy cotton square to remove every trace of cream.

Just so you won't overlook the beauty requirements of your neck, spread the cream far down on your throat. Do gentle up and down strokes with the head tilted backward.

Sweep lightly over the cheeks and along the jaw line, starting at the tip of the chin, working upward and outward. Place the first finger on the inner corners of the upper eyelids, pass it along gently to the temples, do some circles there, come back under the eyes to starting point.

Rotary motions on the forehead will keep it smooth and the texture of the skin fine. Then slap and pat. Do five finger exercises from the collar bones up to the top of your forehead. Cream your ear lobes and the flesh just in front of them where early wrinkles sometimes appear.

Fashion Flashes

Very slim lines characterize some of the smartest of the current dress crop. Tiny navy and white checked silk taffeta makes a slim frock, its line broken by a full skirt flounce that is weighted at the heading to give it emphasis. Bodice has a full frame collar cut wide and low.

For all but the really big gala evening, the ankle-length evening frock seems to be the popular choice. A beauty of a dress is of flower-printed organza-clusters of purple violet with green stems, leaves and a garland ribbon design in green on grayish white. The cap-sleeved bodice is very snug, has a deep plunging narrowing neckline and closes to the waist with tiny rhinestone hooks and eyes. Moderately full skirt is ankle-length.

Making an appearance at smart resorts is the two-piece dress of hand-loomed imported linen boucle, a yarn that is very lightweight, cool and washable. A sailor styled dress in navy has a separate dickie-bib striped in white and pink that snaps in under a large middy collar.

Very newest of the topper family uses yards and yards of fabric. Shoulders are completely padless and the sleeves are cut in one piece with the body of the coat which ripples into many full folds in back and is softly curved.

Flowers don't bloom on every hat. Indeed, some of the smartest owe their all to pretty ribbon trims. Natural Milan straw makes a curved, off-face bonnet trimmed to one side with many loops of pink taffeta ribbon satin in pink.

It's wonderful to see how cottons are dressed up with find dressmakers details. Mauve-blue iridescent cotton with a tweed-like weave makes a charming dressmaker suit. Violet-hued cotton velvet edges the softly curved petal collar and the pocket flaps of the snug jacket which closes with a long row of tiny self-covered buttons and velvet-piped buttonholes. Skirt is slim.

BEAUTY

Careless Shampooing a Menace To the Hair

Clean hair has luster. When it is not properly and thoroughly washed it is seized with melancholy. It slumps in its tracks, one shaft clings disconsolately to another, and there is no health in it.

Many women who fancy that they have a clean crest never have had it entirely free of soap scum. The surface of the shafts are dull, carry a grey shadow. The growth does not stay in curl and, within three days after the shampoo, it looks as if the cat had licked it Then there is a terrific bawling about the horrors of oily hair. It may not be excessively oily. It is just burdened with debris that is never thoroughly removed.

The hair can become so gummed with soap deposits that soap will not remove them. Beauticians will testify to that. Home shampooers, getting discouraged, drag wearily into shops for professional treatment. Sometimes it is necessary to use a liquid dry cleaner. What is more surprising, the color of the hair may change, resume the natural shade that never had a chance to display itself in a state of shining cleanliness. A dark-haired girl may find that her thatch carries beautiful auburn glints, while the drab-headed one may come out fairly golden.

Beauty shop owners are complaining bitterly over the fact that many customers who had their regular fortnightly appointments for shampoos and wave set have ceased to seek professional services. There are reasons, several of them. The short cut is easier to wash than the flowing shoulder-length bob that was with us for so long a time, or pigtail-length tresses for the uppity arrangements.

Distributed by King Features Syndicate

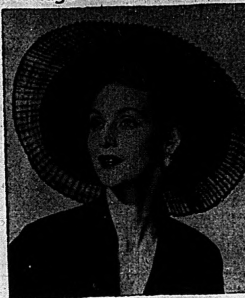
There are many women whose hair is never entirely free of soap scum.

A few pin curls will put the cropped thatch in order. Home shampoos and pinning are time-savers. You do it and go about your house-hold affairs instead of boiling under a dryer. Also, there is the matter of money. With an eye on the grocery bill almost any woman of moderate means is now looking for a way to save pennies as well as dollars And beauty shop charges are higher.

Cosmeticians, seeing which way the trade wind was blowing, have offered shampoo agents in various forms—liquid soaps, oils, creams. If you prefer the soap, dilute it somewhat. Nearly always it is a bit thick and heavy, difficult to distribute.

No matter what is used, there should be two applications, each one followed by a rousing rinsing with a strong current of fairly hot water flowing from a bath spray. Long hair requires three applications, with plenty of friction. It is a good idea to use the spray before applying soap or cream, so as to remove surface dust. And, of course, the hair should have a thorough brushing before anything is done.

A Huge Black Picture Hat



By PRUNELLA WOOD

This big black hat with the capeline breadth is made entirely of black baku straw, even to the fluted edge which gives a flatter shadow to the model. The hat has no crown whatever . . . but it still makes the hat all-straw, which is unusual for millinery of such diaphanous aspect. For your cool summer sheers.

Problem: Too Many Bridal Showers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it really proper to invite the same group of girls to 4 or 5 bridal showers? And if a girl is invited to 4 or 5 showers is she obliged to go to each and to bring or send a gift for each occasion?

T. L.

It really isn't good taste an it really doesn't make good sense for the same group of girls to gather for so many showers for the same bride-to-be. Unless, of course all concerned have unlimited time to give to such occasions, and have well-filled purses. But today under usual circumstances, most girls are busy in their various occupations, and most budgets are limited. And if there are too many bridal showers given for the same girl and attended by the same group of her friends, there certainly is a loss of informal charm and gayety.... the occasions take on a "forced" air.

A girl who is invited to so many showers for the same guests of honor need feel no compulsion to accept all the invitations the first one or two should be enough.... and if she regrets the invitation, she need not send a gift.

Dress for Guests at Mid-Summer Afternoon Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My two nieces are to have a double wedding, in church on a Sunday afternoon at five o'clock, in the last part of July. The brides are to be dressed in formal bridal attire, (dresses with long trains), and the reception is to be held in a well-known hotel. Please tell me the correct attire for my mother (72 years of age), my brother, and myself. There are so many points of view about this that we would appreciate your decision.

R. A.

For the mid-summer wedding in the afternoon your mother would be correctly dressed if she wears; a street-length afternoon dress, perhaps the so-fashionable-this-year sheer, of a color most becoming to her, perhaps a lovely shade of blue or possibly gray (only, please, if gray is becoming to her) or the soft new-champagne shade; a small hat, in harmony with her dress; harmonizing accessories. Your mother may like to wear an ensemble: street-length dress and matching jacket. Your brother may correctly wear a dark business suit, preferably dark blue; white shirt; four-in-hand tie. (Of course, if he wishes, he may follow the formality of attire of the groom and his attendants.... but men guests don't often do this at today's weddings).

If the weather is very warm on that July afternoon, and the groom and his attendants are to wear dark jackets and light trousers, your brother may also wear this summer-wedding attire. Or, if they are to wear all-white suits (very fashionable at summer-afternoon weddings nowadays) he may wear an all-white suit also. And for you: a street-length afternoon dress of a suitably cool material, probably also a sheer material; of a shade most becoming to you, though not to dark or too brilliant: small or large hat, to harmonize: light gloves; small afternoon purse.

Reception Not in Their New House

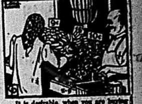
Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are going to have a small wedding this summer. My fiance and I have just bought a new house. As my home would not be convenient for the reception, would it be all right to hold the reception in our new home?

B.

It would be in much better taste, would avoid all possible criticism, if you plan to have a small reception at some other convenient place, or if this isn't possible, to have no recepion at all ....and then, after you have returned from your wedding trip and are settled in your new house. to have a gathering of relatives and friends. Perhaps a party in the nature of a housewarming.

Wife Preservers



It is desirable, when you are buying fresh vegetables for family meals, to choose those of medium size and regular shape.

PRIME MINISTER CAMPAIGNS IN HIS OWN RIDING

Answers Questions on Indians, National Flag and Commonwealth Relations

Quebec, June 7 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent Monday night campaigned in what he called a "family atmosphere" among his Quebec east constituents whose earlier representatives in parliament were Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe.

Tonight Mr. St. Laurent will speak again in Quebec at the annual banquet of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and municipalities.

His address was interrupted by two or three questions and in replies he expressed his views on the question of Canadian Indians, a Canadian flag and commonwealth relations.

The Prime Minister said the Progressive Conservative party has "practically no program but devaluation of the Canadian dollar" and that would create "chaos" in the Canadian economy within a year.

He said Social Credit opponents and the C.C.F. "have no hope of forming a government" and independent candidates could not form one.

About a campaign "rumor" his role is to carry the Liberal party through the election and then retire in favor of External Affairs Minister Pearson, he said:

"At the convention last August, it was Louis St. Laurent who was chosen. It is Louis St. Laurent who will be Prime Minister after June 27."

To Administer Affairs

Answering a question about the fate of Canadian Indians, Mr. St. Laurent said he believed the Canadian government would continue to administer Indians affairs despite sponsors of a separate Indian nation.

When someone shouted "au diable L'Empire Brittanique, (the devil take the British Empire)" he replied it was an inappropriate remark at a time "two ideologies are splitting the world" and "frank collaboration" is required among peoples on guard against dangers to their democratic way of life.

The Prime Minister told another questioner he favored a Canadian flag that would "create union rather than disunion" and any other measure demonstrating the adulthood of the Canadian nation.

He hoped the present election campaign would be the last in which issues of "race, religion and language" were raised. His feeling was that Canadians want a "Canadian election with Canadian issues and Canadian candidates."

SEARCH CONTINUES

Hundreds of volunteers converged on Eastman, Quebec, during the weekend to aid in the widespread search for six-year-old Michael Fontaine who disappeared in the Eastern Township region on May 31. He has been the object of one of the largest searches in Quebec history. Even the parish priests have been taking part. Here Rev. Paul Tourigny leads one search party in the Shefford Country Uplands. They carry a portrait of St. Anthony of Padua, patron saint of the parish.—(CP Photo.)

Trent Valley Juvenile Ball Loop Organized

Marmora — At an enthusiastic meeting held in the Legion Hall, Havelock, on Friday evening, the Trent Valley Baseball League was organized.

This league at present is made up of teams of Havelock, Norwood Campbellford and Marmora whose players will be of the juvenile age limit and although not affiliated as yet with the O.M.B.A. will play under that association's rules.

Harold Kennedy of Havelock, presided at the meeting, the business of which was of preliminary nature with a meeting arranged to take place in the same building next Friday at which the following matters will be considered on its agenda.

The election of officers will be carried out, the deferment being due to the expectation that other towns will seek to enter teams in this meeting. The drawing up of the schedule will be possible then.

The entry fee for each team has been set at ten dollars. Names of umpires from each team are to be submitted.

To Play Round Robin

At Friday evening's meeting it was decided to make up four teams of older players in the towns now represented in the league with a view to playing a round robin series at Havelock on July 1. The business at next Friday's meeting will be enacted by representatives numbering two from each team. It is hoped that there will be representatives from other towns in Hastings county which were represented in the Trent Valley Hockey League so as to make the new loop a good sized one and to bring baseball back into the place it should occupy in the Trent Valley area as served by hockey.

Bulldozer Operator is Defied, Can't Fight Women, Children

Toronto, June 7. (CP)— The "Battle of Britannia Avenue" moved into a second phase today when "operation bulldozer" was halted by some 60 persons—most of them women—who defied a bulldozer operator to run them down.

The battle started Friday when a trucking company received approval from the city for construction of a temporary roadway into their premises. The roadway was to run from dead-end of Britannia Avenue.

A picket fence at the end of the street was to have been razed Friday but angry residents set up a picket line. They say they have 'the best-kept street" in the city and don't wish 10-ton trucks on the street, "endangering the lives of their children and keeping them awake all night."

A bulldozer started digging today, but Aldermen Alfred H. Cowling and Charles Rowntree jumped into the hole.

A spokesman for the man directing the work said:

"If you don't move, we'll run you down."

Cowling replied: "Over my dead body".

The bulldozer operator moved his machine away after saying:

"I can't fight that stuff —women and children".

Observers said police were present but did not interfere.

Belleville Edges Kingston Club In Golf Match

Kingston and Belleville golfers battled it out over the Cataraqui Golf and Country Club course Sunday afternoon in an intercity invitation match. The visiting golfers edged out the local lineup by one point.

The first flight foursome started out at 1.30, followed by the remainder at five-minute intervals. Play was keen throughout the afternoon and some excellent cards were turned in. The weather was ideal and guests and hosts alike enjoyed the afternoon's play.

Following the match the Belleville team members were entertained at a dinner at which President A. C. Hanley of the Kingston Club welcomed the visitors. Short speeches were also given by Dr. George Faulkner, Belleville captain, and Col. Jack Manuel, acting Kingston captain, and J. L. Joss of Belleville.

High honors went to young Bill Miller of Belleville, who topped all other golfers and turned in a 68 card. The youthful golfer's performance throughout the match was steady and many of his shots bordered on the sensational. He received the prize for the best net score. Dr. Joe Pidutti of Kingston and "Dunc" Thomson of Kingston received prizes for their respective 70 and 71 net scores. "Bud" Little of Belleville was also a prize winner. Prize to the most honest golfer went to Col. W. T. "Buster" Phillips.

SIGNS OF CRACKS IN SYSTEM SAYS C.C.F. LEADER

Claims Government Must Adopt Realistic Trading Policies

(By Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Moose Jaw Sask. June 7.—(CP)—M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said Monday night the Liberal government called a federal election in June instead of waiting until the Fall because it saw an impending recession and was powerless to do anything to forestall it.

Addressing a political meeting here, Mr. Coldwell said there already are signs of cracks in Canada's economy and asserted the Dominion will continue to lose her overseas markets unless the government adopts realistic trading policies.

As a result of the war, many of Canada's overseas customers had found it necessary to trade on a bilateral basis. But the Liberals had opposed this method of trading and Canada was losing many of her overseas markets.

The Dominion would have to adopt these trading methods to keep her position in world trade.

Mr. Coldwell replied to statements which he said were made by Prime Minister St. Laurent and George Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader, about the C.C.F. Railway policy.

"Both Mr. St. Laurent and Col. Drew said last week that the C.C.F. favors amalgamation of the railroads. This is completely and wholly untrue."

The C.C.F., if called upon to form a government, would bring the Canadian Pacific railway under public ownership and maintain it as separate unit competing on equal terms with the government-operated Canadian National Railways.

Organized Baseball Wonders What to Do With Surplus Talent of Mexican Jumpers

New York, June 7. (AP)—About recoverked from the impact of Commissioner A. B. Chandler's "Amnesty" pronouncement, organized baseball wondered today what to do with [illegible] score of players tossed back [illegible] lap.

[illegible] seems certain the major leagues will be able to find regular employment for no more than a half-dozen—10 at the most—of the athletes now forgiven for running off to the Mexican League in 1946.

St. Louis Cardinals stand to reap the best profit here, getting back a couple of potentially first-rate pitchers in Max Lanier and Fred Martin and a capable infielder in Lou Klein.

Brooklyn Dodgers also should gain some benefit from Mickey Owen, the 33-year-old catcher whose persistent pleading with Chandler had much to do with getting the ban lifted, and Luis Olmo, an outfielder who hit .313 in 1945.

Roberto Ortiz, 32-year-old outfielder, may be a welcome addition to Washington Senators. The Giants possible could find use for infielder George Hausmann and pitcher Harry Feldman.

But the rest of the list of reinstated talent provides a largely unknown quantity, with most not figured to have a look-in in today's stepped-up major league play. Many of them were war-time replacements or veterans already on the road down.

Other factors enter into the picture. How many of the banished players will make the necessary bid for reinstatement?—Chandler says they must apply formally. How sharp will they be after three years of virtual inactivity?

In Drummondville, Que., where he has been playing in the independent Quebec Provincial League, Lanier acknowledged he was "not in good shape".

"I've been living in Flordia and I'm not used to the late Spring here," he said. "But I haven't got a sore arm and I figure I'll be in top shape soon."

Ready for Majors

Lanier, however, praised two other Mexican League jumpers now playing in the Quebec League with him—Sal Maglie and Roy Zimmerman, former Giants. He said they were ready to step into the majorsnow .

Maglie is a pitcher. Zimmerman is an infielder who has 19 home runs in the league.

Condition of the returning athletes raises no immediate problem for the club owners, however, because the commissioner has fixed it so they won't have to make a quick decision.

The 25-player limit will be made elastic for the benefit of the wanderers. The clubs may keep their full foster, plus the reinstated talent—for a "reasonable" period of readjustment.

Meanwhile, applications for reinstatement are coming in. President Ford Frick of the National League reported yesterday he had received word from pitchers Fred Martin, Harry Feldman and the Giants' Adrian Zabala.

There will be no reinstatement request from Danny Gardella, the former Giant outfielder, said lawyer Fred Johnson.

The lawyer said, Gardella is going ahead with his $300,000 damage suit against baseball, now pending in federal courts, and will forego Chandler's "welcome home" sign in the meantime.

The $2,500,000 suit filed by Lanier and Martin also will be pursued, said John L. Flynn, their lawyer, who added he planned to push for a quick trial.

AUTO RACES LIVEN EAST SECTOR BERLIN

Only a few miles inside the Russian sector of Berlin, for the first time since the occupation of Berlin, there were auto racing competitions between enthusiasts from both the east and west Berlin sectors and a lively crowd lined the course for the event. With fans looking on, one of the cars is shown speeding past the Russian war memorial which sports a Russian tank topside. Though the races lacked glitter that attended pre-war racing in Ber-lin, it was a small step towards the back-to-normal movement in the German capital.—Central Press Canadian.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, June 7 — (AP) — The furore about the reinstatement of baseball's Mexican League "jumpers" recalls one of the warnings handed out a few years ago by the late W. G. Bramham, when he was minor league boss ... the "Jedge," fearful of an attack on the legality of the baseball contract, said: "The trouble with baseball is that our club owners will not stop, look and listen ... Ruthlessness will inevitably meet with resistance, and baseball cannot depend upon the judiciary closing its eyes to the invasion and disregard of the rights of others and the law of the land that has been written to preserve the rights of others, simply because the trial judge is a baseball fan."

Herb Jannusch, sports editor of the Kankakee, Ill., Journal, claims the Jersey Joe Walcott - Ezzard Charles fight publicity is being handled by Tom, Dick and Harry ... The press agents are Tom King at Walcott's camp, Dick Mastro at Charles' camp and Harry Mendel for the International Boxing Club ... Safe Bet Canada Will Send Team To World Tourney

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, June 7 (CP)—One of the safest bets in hockey today is that Canada will send a club to the world amateur championships at London next winter.

It is up to the discretion of executive officers of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to settle the question and there's little doubt among officials that a Canadian team will answer the roll call when the championships start. "It's practically a cinch we'll be there," an informed source said.

The issue was one of the big subjects of debate at final sessions of the C.A.H.A.'s 32nd annual meeting Monday, prompted by a resolution that the Edmonton Waterloo Mercury Club, western Canada intermediate champion, should be considered a candidate.

No Discussion Reached

..No definite decision was reached, and nothing is expected until August when the association executive meets. Delegates, emphatic on the point Canada "would lost prestige" if she bypassed the tournament, weren't in a hurry to climb out on a limb for the Edmonton outfit.

The meeting, held here at the invitation of the United States Amateur Hockey Association which held its 12th annual session at the same time, drew about 100 amateur and professional officials from every association on the North American continent. It was probably the largest gathering of officials in years.

Nearly 70 resolutions were introduced at the C.A.H.A. pow-wows, ranging from minor rule changes to alterations in the constitution.

John F. Ahearne of London, C.A.H.A. overseas representative who organized the Wolves' tour, and Max Silverman of Wolves who lost out to Czechoslovakia in the world tournament, presented their reports.

Ahearne gave an accounting of the tour and Silverman said that reports the Canadians were unpopular in Europe "were obsolutely wrong."

Received Courteously

"We received courteous hospitality all over Europe, except in the British Isles," Silverman told the meeting. In an interview later he said that hotel accommodations in London for the players was "not all that was to be desired."

The January session probably will be taken up with arrangements for next year's Allan and Memorial Cup playoffs. At that time they will deal with a written request from Frank Selke, general manager of Montreal Canadiens, that the best-of-seven Memorial Cup final games be split between rinks in eastern and western Canada, instead of playing all games in the west one year and in the east the next.

Delegates said they would give "utmost consideration" to Selke's bid.

Financial Report

A financial report of this year's Allan and Memorial Cup championships showed that the four clubs reaching the finals received a total of $35,625 from the C.A.H.A. for expenses. Payments were made on a basis of $625 a game, largest ever given.

At Monday's concluding session it was decided that only clubs from leagues or Senior 'A' status will be allowed to compete for the Allan Cup. A resolution to this effect was passed after a complaint by Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Senior Hockey League was reviewed. Last season the Senators were forced to play St. Joseph D'Alma of the Chicoutimi-District Intermediate League before proceeding to the eastern Canada final against Toronto Marlboros.

FORSAKES AMERICA

Because he "fell in love with Germany" when he was there as a soldier in 1945, Daniel F. McCarthy, Jr., of Hyde Park, N.Y., (above), 28-year-old ex-G.I., plans to renounce his American citizenship and become a German. McCarthy is currently being held in the army stockade at Frankfurt, Germany, charged with illegal entry. He said he likes the German people and their simple way of life. Back at home, his mother, Mrs. Catherine McCarthy, said what her son needs is a good, old-fashioned spanking. —Central Press Canadian.

Closest of All National League Pennant Fights Has Even Loop Prexy Surprised

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

This tightest of all National League pennant races has everybody going round in circles. Even Ford Frick, optimistic president of the circuit, never dreamt it would be like this.

With one-third of the season almost out of the way, a mere half game separates the first four clubs.

At the moment, Brooklyn and New York Giants share first place. St. Louis and Boston are only a half game behind, with the Cards holding third place by .002 percentage points over the Braves.

The Dodgers took advantage of defeats by New York and Boston yesterday with a 5-1 night-game triumph over Pittsburgh to deadlock the Giants for the top rung. Don Newcombe, recently brought up from their Montreal farm, pitched the Brooks into the deadlock.

The big negro righthander, making his fourth big league start, hurled a four-hitter against the Bucs. He struck out 11, high for the league this season. A wild pitch in the eighth cost him a shutout. In the meantime, the Dodgers collected 8 hits off loser Bob Chesnes, including home run by Duke Snider, a triple by Gene Hermanski and doubles by Hermanski and Newcombe himself. A three-run fifth inning, featured by Gil Hodges' bases-loaded single, broke up a scoreless pitching duel.

Pitcher Scores Winner

Howie Fox pitched and batted Cincinnati to a 4-3 victory over the Giants. He not only scattered eight hits for his second triumph over the New Yorkers, but singled in what proved to be the winning run in the sixth. Johnny Wyrostek had provided him with a 3-0 lead in the third with his sixth home run behind two runners. Sheldon Jones was the loser.

The high-flying Cards made it five victories in their last six road games and 12 out of their last 14 starts by thumping the Braves, 7-3. Two three-run innings—sixth and ninth—did the trick. Enos Slaughter's sixth home run helped. Red Munger, who needed help from Ted Wilks in the eighth, was credited with his third victory. The loss was charged to Warren Spahn.

The American League action resulted in Detroit losing its undisputed possession of second place, and Cleveland moving past Chicago into sixth place.

The Tigers were nosed out, 10-9, by the Boston Red Sox, who overcame a 5-2 deficit with flurries of three runs in the seventh and five in the eighth. At that, the Tigers almost caught them with three in their half of the eighth and one in the ninth.

Relief Pitching Saves Game

Only a superb relief job by Ellis Kinder saved the game for Bostno. He relieved winner Tex Hughson in the ninth with the Tigers one run behind, men on second and third and nobody out. Kinder walked Johnny Groth purposely to load the bases, and retired the next three batters without allowing a further score.

Vern Stephens' 14th home run of the season, tying him with team mate Ted Williams for the league lead, was the big blow for the winners. It came with two on in the seventh. George Vico also hit a three-run homer, his coming in the eighth for the Tigers. The loss dropped the Tigers into a second place tie with idle Washington.

The Indians, with manager Lou Boudreau playing third base for the first time since his minor league days, exploded for nine runs in the eighth inning to come from behind and defeat the Philadelphia Athletics 11-5. A home run by Joe Gordon, four singles and five bases on balls comprised the big inning.

HORSE DISQUALIFIED

Fairmount Park, Ill., June 7 — (AP) — Parison finished first in the one-mile trot, fourth race of last night's Grand Circuit card, but was disqualified for blocking in the back stretch and placed last by the judges. It was the first such incident of the meet.

Parison, driven by Jake Foster, ran too close to Wilson's Sailor Boy, causing the latter to break. This caused the disqualification and placed Mary C Song in the winner's position after having finished second. She paid $4.40 for $2.

ENGLISH GIRL FIRST IN CIVIL AIR DISPLAY

Bembridge, Isle of Wight, England, June 6 — (Reuters)—Anita D-Ray, 19-year-old London show girl, placed first Sunday in the interclub race of the first international civil air display to be held in Britain since the war. Piloting her light plane over the three laps of the 10-mile course, she edged out a Belgian, Jos Emperour.

Kitchener Wins Baseball Game On One Bingle

By Canadian Press

Kitchener Legionnaires showed their fans last night how to win a ball game on only one hit.

They were limited to one safety by London pitching but came up with a 2-0 decision over the Majors in a Senior Intercounty Baseball League game at Kitchener. Although they got two hits, the Majors failed to score.

In another Intercounty tilt, Galt Terriers defeated Guelph Maple Leafs 8-2 at Guelph.

In a Nickel Belt game, a homerun by Bill Huntley in the seventh inning when two men were on base gave the Frood Tigers a 10-7 win over Creighton Cubs.

At Kitchener, Jain Bain got the only hit for the Legionnaires when he tripled in the fourth inning with no one on base. He scored on Roy Tredgett's bunt.

An error by second-baseman Gord McMackon gave the Legionnaires their first run in the third after pitcher Louis Fisher walked Ross Doherty and Bobby Schnurr. McMackon put Schnurr out on a hit by Sichewski but threw the ball over first base and Doherty raced home.

Fisher passed five men and struck out four. He was taken out for a pinch hitter in the eighth and Joe Ladensack finished up.

Went The Route

Manager Schnurr went the route for Kitchener. He gave up both hits in the first inning, and walked four men and struck out six the rest of the way. McFadden and Fisher got the hits for London.

At Guelph, Tex Kaiser's home run with two men on base in the first inning started the Terriers off. He also hit a double and a single in five appearances at bat.

Jeff Shelton did the pitching for the Terriers and limited Guelph to five scattered hits. Marty Philp hurled for Leafs.

At Sudbury, the Tigers drove in five runs in the first inning, three in the third and two in the seventh. The Cubs scored three runs in the first frame and four in the fourth.

Hugh Colby started on the mound for the Tigers. He was relieved by Glenn Seely in the fourth inning. Hurler Snug Myernich was charged with the loss.

No games are scheduled in the Intercounty loop tonight. In the Niagara District League, Niagara Falls Bugays clash with Welland Kicks. In the Nickel Belt League, the Shamrocks meet Coniston.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Out of the welter of suggestions that crop up from time to time regarding ways and means to improve baseball in this neck of the woods, comes up a bright and shining thought. The Old Lady of the Moira has been panned mercilessly, and rightly so, for her apparent inability to field a baseball club that should rate with those of Oshawa, Brockville and Peterborough.

• • •

In an anteroom bull-session the other night, prior to the meeting of the master-minds of the Belleville District Baseball League, Prexy Malcolm Robb came up with an idea which we, at least, think is worthy of study and consideration. Deploring the lack of battery material here, the loop president bobbed up with the suggestion that a school for pitchers be conducted here during the winter months. A coach, who knows whereof he speaks, and what he does, could be imported to conduct the school which could be held in the Armouries or some other building.

• • •

The proposed school would be held for the benefit of not only potential city Hal Newhousers but also those of the immediate district. Someone also popped up with the suggestion that the school could include catchers, which is another excellent idea. Just where the funds will come from is a problem to be considered, but the general idea, we think is worthwhile. As far as coaches are concerned, or in other words, who would be brought here in that capacity, could be a professional baseball player. Phil Marchildon's name was mentioned as were others.

• • •

Interest in the ancient and honorable pursuit of track and field soared upward locally over the weekend when six boys from the city ran off with four places at the Dominion Interscholastic Meet held Saturday in Montreal's Molson Stadium. The local lads, Merle Massey, Bob Locke, Jim Dowsett, George Ewald, George Locke and Don Carter, were among the 673 athletes from 59 schools taking part. There were representatives from schools from Winnipeg to New Brunswick.

• • •

Individual hero of the piece was Jim Dowsett who sprinted away with the 440 yard dash from 18 other runners in the Senior Boys division. Trailing Dowsett closely was George Ewald who came off with third place in the 880 yard run, and second in the one mile. He was led to the wire both times by a fleetfoot from Oakville who set new Canadian records in the process. George Locke jumped into third place in the running broad jump, with young Don Carter, a junior, finishing 6th. Merle Massey qualified in his first heat in the 100 yard dash, open class, but was eliminated in the semi-final when running against Don Stonehouse the eventual champion in both the 100 and 220.

• • •

The boys were trained for their races by John Bennett of the Northern Electric Company, at the twice weekly practice sessions which he holds Tuesday and Friday at the Fairgrounds. Mr. Phillips, a teacher at the Collegiate, accompanied the High School stars to Montreal.

• • •

Allen (Joe) Kelleher will soon be doing his stuff for the Wellesville, Mass., baseball squad, a farm team of the Brooklyn Dodgers, it says here. The youngster received a letter the other day from Chief Coach Dick Fischer of "Dem Bums" asking him to keep in shape and ready himself for diamond action. It is likely the lad will get notice to report in the immediate future.

• • •

The soccer team wearing the colors of 6 R. D., R.C.A.F., swamped the Trenton entry in the Bay of Quinte Association Football League by a 10-0 score in a loop fixture on Saturday. It was the first game for the Trenton entry and the score does not by any means indicate the difference between the teams. The town lads played a plucky game against their more experienced opponents most of whom have Old Country soccer experience. Angus, a former England schoolboy international, fired home five goals for 6 R.D. and was easily the star of the game. Experts predict a brilliant future for the 6 R.D. team. Trenton, too, will be heard from before the season ends.

• • •

Ring fireworks of the crowd-pleasing variety appear to be a certainty at the Memorial Arena next Friday night, when Sandy O'Donnell, the mat roughian who has been having things considerably his own way of late, will bump into a topnotch, capable opponent in the person of Mike Sharpe, the Hamilton Hurricane.

• • •

Fans will recall how the wild and wooly O'Donnell used his rough-house tactics to the limit in defeating Sliding Billy Hansen last week. With the fans clamoring for the O'Donnell hide, it was obvious that a particularly formidable opponent would have to be signed up as his rival next Friday if Sandy is to get the trouncing that would bring joy to the heart of many a mat fan.

• • •

Accordingly, Mike "The Body" Sharpe, was singled out as the rival most capable of turning that trick. Mike has just returned from a successful campaign in Texas and Missouri, where he racked up the enviable record of fifteen victories in seventeen matches, with only one loss and a draw. Consequently, the sharp Mr. Sharpe looms as the man for the job of trimming O'Donnell.

• • •

The semi-final will have Tug Carlson, the blond speedster who made a big hit here in recent bouts, going against towering Wee Willie Davis. Carlson says the fearsome Davis reputation doesn't disturb him a little bit and plans to use his speed and tricky strategy to befuddle his huge, smashing opponent.

• • •

Al Lovelock, a terrific Texan from Houston, will show his wares in the opener against Mike Mihalakis. Lovelock is a highly-rated grappler who aims at main bout tests.

Norm Thompson Earns a Draw With McFater

Toronto, June 7 — (CP)—Norm Thompson of Brockville fought to a draw with Toronto's Alan McFater in the main event of an amateur boxing card last night. Thompson had decisioned McFater once in their four meetings.

The decision wasn't completely satisfying to the crowd which favored McFater but the Brockville belter's manager, Joey Bagnato, was elated with the verdict. "The Deacon (Promoter Deacon Allen) promised us McFater again next week." said Bagnato. "I don't think he'll let us have him now, but he'd better."

The deadly efficient McFater hasn't got such a going - over for a long time as he got from Thompson last night. But when real hard punches were thrown, Thompson was mostly on the receiving end.

Thompson started out carefully but in the second round fired some effective left jabs that had McFater stymied. However, McFater rallied in the third and 4th. Both boys slugged it out in the fifth and final round.

Homers Score All Runs as Bears Defeat Toronto

(By The Associated Press)

Charlie Keller, erstwhile slugger of the New York Yankees, has begun the long climb which he hopes will land him back in the major leagues.

The convalescing outfielder, who was optioned to Newark of the International League three weeks ago, made his first appearance in a Bears' lineup since 1938 last night, and didn't fare badly at all.

Keller played the whole game in left field and cracked out a single in two official time at bat. He grounded out to first and walked on another occasion. He had no chances in the field.

Keller had no direct part in the Bears' 2-1 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs. The hitting laurels went to young Hank Workman, who blasted his sixth home run with one man aboard in the sixth to account for all Newark's runs off Nick Strincevich. In the meantime, Duane Pillette held the Leafs to five hits including a home run by Skippy Roberge.

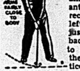
Wes Westrum, husky Jersey City catcher, broke the league record for home runs with the bases full in a season when he crashed his fourth grand - slammer of the campaign to lead the Giants to a 10-6 victory over Buffalo. The triumph increased the Giants' first place margin over the Bisons to four full games.

Baltimore's Al Widmar won his eighth game as the Orioles defeated Rochester, 8-6. He allowed eight hits as the Orioles got 11 off four Redwing hurlers.

John Hetki held Montreal Royals to seven hits in hurling Syracuse Chiefs to a 5-3 victory. Dan Bankhead, who started for the Royals, was the loser. Ed Shokes drove in the winning runs for the Chiefs with a pair of singles.

Better Golf

By Sam Snead



LEAN SLIGHTLY FORWARD
ARMS FAIRLY CLOSE TO BODY

I like the golfing form displayed by today's pictured player at the address position. You'll do well to imitate all of it except one small error. The error is in the stance. The player's left foot is pointed too much toward the flag. His toes are almost equidistant from the direction line. The left toe may be just an inch or so back of the right to slightly open the stance. Notice that our player's head is turned slightly to his right. This is because it is easier to hold the head in this position throughout the backswing and the critical part of the downswing. Notice that both legs are rather straight but not locked back of the knees. As our player continues his backswing his head will remain in this same position. His hips will pivot about 45 degrees at the most, while his shoulders will pivot 90 degrees, so that at the top of the backswing back will "face" the hole. head will remain in fixed position. And that is vitally important for the head is an anchor for the swing.

Above are pictured two of the Kokomo Clowns who will be performing in a twilight contest at Batawa and a floodlight game at Belleville next Wednesday, June 8th. Elmer, a real country boy, is a skillful 3rd baseman and committed only three errors all last season.

Electrics Edge Picton 5-4 In Tight Struggle

Big Vern Goyer, centre fielder for the Northern Electric baseball team, hitched up his pants and galloped merrily from first base to the plate last night to score what proved to be the winning run for his team, after pitcher Frank Dyer and first baseman D. Miller of the Picton squad elected to kick the ball around. The Electrics nudged the Picton squad by a 5-4 score.

It was a nip - and - tuck ball game up to this point in the 8th innings. Pitchers Dyer for Picton and the veteran "Chuck" Barriage had battled it out for seven innings with the score tied at two-all.

In the eighth session Picton slammed out three solid clouts from the bats of Dyer, Drury and Booker and it appeared to be in the bag for the boys from "Spain".

But the Electric bats came to life in their half of the innings. Four hits rattled off their bludgeons with James, Wardhaugh, Goyer and Carson contributing the clouts. The score was all tied up when Goyer came to bat. He smashed out a single. Dyer attempted to pick him off first base and threw wildly. Goyer galloped to second and streaked for 3rd. First baseman D. Miller of Picton heaved the ball wide of third in an effort to nip Goyer and the big fellow rhumba'd home with what proved to be the winning run.

A Pitchers' Battle

For seven innings it was a pitchers' battle. Dyer and Barriage had let the different oppositions down with seven and five scattered hits respectively. Then came the break. Picton on two consecutive hits by D. Miller and Dyer aided by another clout after two were retired, by Booker sent two runners across the plate and it appeared to be all over.

But Electrics pounced on the Dyer shoots in their half of the inning and aided and abetted by the two Picton errors squeezed out a one-run margin victory.

Dyer struck out eight Electric batters while Barriage whiffed six. Neither pitcher issued a walk. Zimmerman, Picton third baseman hit an inside - park home run when his line smash in the fifth that got past Vance in Electric's right field rolled to the track. The run tied the score at two - all. Picton had counted once in the first while the planters sent two runners across the plate in the same innings.

Perry led the Picton attack with three hits, a double and two singles. Dyer got a double and a single. Mulverhill, a newcomer smashed out a triple for the Electrics with Carson, Huck, Reeves and James getting a pair each.

No Harsh Laxatives in Two Years!

Man Finds Relief With Famous Cereal

If you are nagged by constipation worries, read this unsolicited letter:

"Constipation cost me plenty of money for strong remedies! But since I started eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly over two years ago, I haven't had to take any laxative. Doing fine, feeling fine! Wish everyone troubled as I was by constipation would try it." W. J. Riley, Molson, Manitoba.

Constipated due to lack of bulk in your diet? You may find relief from sluggishness and taking harsh laxatives. For natural results, try eating an ounce (bowlful) of crisp, tasty ALL-BRAN every day, drink plenty of water. ALL-BRAN is a delicious regulating food, not a purgative. Try one package and if it doesn't help you, you can get double your money back. Simply return empty box to Kellogg's, London, Ont.

Jockey Killed As Horse Stumbles Leaving Gate

(By The Canadian Press)

Jockey Joe Molbert, 29, of New Iberia, La., was killed Monday when his mount, Carolina Star, stumbled leaving the starting gate in the seventh race at Suffolk Downs and stepped on his chest.

Officials at the track said it was the first fatal accident on a New England racing strip in 16 years that horse racing has been a legal sport in the area.

The touring Scottish International soccer team, third of four old country clubs billed to play here this season, arrived at Toronto Monday. They will play an Ontario major league All-star squad Wednesday.

The team is composed of most of the squad which defeated England 3-1 in the deciding game for the international title several weeks ago. Members of the team will be guests of the city of Toronto at a civic luncheon today.

Belting Normine Thompson of Brockville, Ont., fought to a five-round draw decision against Toronto's Alan McFacter in the main event of an amateur boxing card at Toronto.

Thompson, who decisioned McFater once in their four meetings, started out carefully but in the second round fired some effective left jabs that had McFater stymied. However, McFater rallied in the third and fourth before both boys slugged it out in the last round.

James J. Parker of Barrie, Ont., fighting at 194 pounds, scored a five-round decision over Killer Riggs, 230-pounder from Kitchener, on an amateur boxing card at Toronto.

Riggs lumbered around the ring in pursuit of the speedy Barrie boy. Parker, working at a safe distance, kept pounding away at the Kitchener fighter's stomach.

Derek Insin of Stratford, 118 pounds, outpointed Frank Morris of Toronto.

For the feature bout, Les Steinhilber of Toronto, 149 pounds, banged out a five-round decision over Russ Barko, 149 pounds, of Hamilton.

Willie Pep, world's featherweight champ, easily out-punched Luis Ramos of Puerto Rico in a 10-round non-title bout at New Haven. The titleholder, looking fast and shifty, emerged unscratched in his first test since he regained the crown from Sandy Saddler last February.

Pep, weighing 131, scored consistently with sharp punches to win every round. Ramos, 128, proved an elusive target.

A heart attack killed Red Jerry, the horse which dropped dead Saturday during a race at Thorncliffe Park.

Dr. J. B. Chassels announced at Toronto Monday that an autopsy revealed the heart condition in the horse P. E. Albert bought for $10,000.

The fall of Red Jerry at a turn of the $5,000 Bryan and O'Hara Handicap, sixth and featured race of Saturday's opening card at Thorncliffe, caused a pileup of horses and jockeys. A mare, Halchess, was so badly injured that she had to be destroyed. Four riders suffered minor bruises and two others escaped injury.

At Rochester, N.Y., Larry Simons, 146 3-4, of Welland, Ont., knocked out Oliver Phillips, 143 1-4, of Buffalo, N.Y., at 1:43 of the fourth of a scheduled six-round boxing bout.

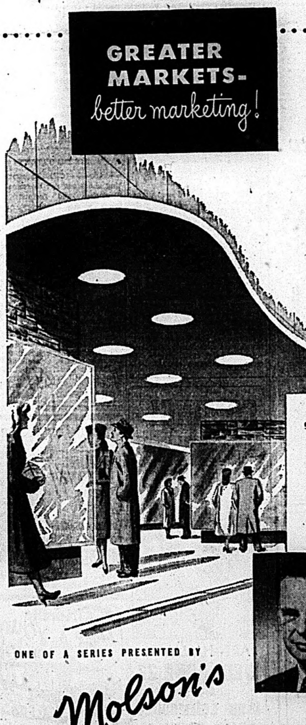
TODAY WE LIVE IN A GREATER CANADA



The stores of Canada tell the story.

Smart new fronts and clean, bright interiors; up-to-the-minute facilities for faster, easier, more convenient shopping; modern displays and smartly packaged products: all are the visible symbols of Canada's modern merchandising progress.

Canadian distribution methods are more effective, more efficient than ever. Recent advances in marketing have been as remarkable as those in this country's record-breaking production and the development of natural resources.

The whole vast field of merchandising today presents new and greater opportunities for successful Canadian careers.

"Imagination in business knows no geographical boundaries.

In this young and vigorous nation originality, based on sound thinking, pays off. To the young Canadian who is willing to raise his sights above the conventional, and work hard to make his vision come true, no country today offers greater opportunities for success than our own", says Hedleigh Venning.

HEDLEIGH VENNING

began his career as a junior salesman in 1926. From the beginning, he became aware of the opportunity awaiting the application of imagination and creative thinking to any job. A keen student of modern packaging, an enthusiastic and energetic worker, he is now vice-president in charge of sales of Shirriff's Limited, one of Canada's larger food product companies; a great believer in scientific marketing and a leader in the field of selling and advertising.

Clubs are trumps. Your south hand is now in the lead. Take all six of the remaining tricks. Do it against any defence.

Your dummy hand in north has two tricks with trumps. Your two red aces are good for two more. Where is the danger? West may get a heart and neither opponent may block a spade.

Your two spades could be ruffed in dummy. Or sluffed on the two dummy trumps. But such a plan would lose a heart to west. Opponents must first feel the squeeze in some manner.

For a squeeze to operate, opponent cards must be reduced to as few as possible. So, some more tricks must be taken for this purpose. Opponents must be trimmed down to the squeeze position.

A couple of diamonds and a trump lead will start something. East and west will have to let go of something in the majors. What each must hold will be a problem. Even if they see each other's cards.

Meantime you will have a problem of your own. There is a question of what you will discard when dummy leads a trump. There is also the small matter of anticipating entries.

You can enter the dummy by ruffing spades. Or by overtaking diamonds. You can re-enter the south hand by overtaking a dummy heart with the south ace. Or diamond queen with the south king.

Without looking at the cards held by west, you might think of leading a dummy heart for a finesse of south heart queen. This, of course, is a last resort operation for any good player.

These are probably the thoughts you are already considering. Take none of my hints as directing the correct solution. With the cards confronting you, bring your own ideas to a winning conclusion.

Carry on.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 7. (AP:— What's wrong with the movies? Free-thinking Bette Davis comes up with an answer to the oft-heard question:

"Hollywood tries to combine entertainment for both kids and adults in the same picture. The result is a movie which isn't suitable for either."

She looks less like Bette Davis and more like a vivacious Spanish dancer these days, because of her black wig for "Beyond the Forest".

"That's what the English pictures have over the American ones," she continued. "They make pictures for children only and pictures for adults only.

No Emotions

"Kids like any kind of picture, whether they understand it or not. But it stands to reason that the gangster and murder pictures they see have some influence on them. The movies glamorize crime and criminals, and kids are very impressionable.

"On the other hand, we don't have honest adult pictures on the screen, either. In the last 10 to 15 years movies have become so restricted that today it is impossible to portray true emotions on the screen.

"I'm not making a plea for dirty movies—just honest ones."

Miss Davis declared that censorship is more severe on women than men in films.

"Movies are a combination of entertainment with teaching. If there is a moral or lesson to learn from a picture, it should be presented subtly.

Bevan Accused Of Threatening War, Blood Bath

Westerham, Kent, England, June 7 — (CP) — Winston Churchill Monday accused Health Minister Aneurin Bevan of threatening "civil war and a blood bath" if the Conservative party is returned to power in Britain.

Addressing a mass meeting Sunday in Blackpool on the eve of the Labor party's annual conference, the fiery Bevan, who often crosses swords with the opposition in parliament, said:

"If there is a Tory majority in the next election, (Britain) will have said the road to progress by means of democratic government is closed . . . All the roads are closed except the roads to tyranny and oppression . . . except the roads to civil war."

Churchill, in a formal statement issued at Chartwell, his country home, called on "the prime minister and the Lord President of the council to repudiate this assault upon democratic government."

Old Country Letter:

Britain's Battle to Produce Gives Lift to Country Fairs

By DON GILBERT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, June 7 — (CP)—Britain's battle to produce more food has brought boom times to home agriculture — and a great popular lift to country fairs.

All manner of people flocked to a show at Ashton Park near Bristol to see in the flesh the animals that hold promise of a bigger meat ration or more plentiful supplies of milk, butter and cheese.

There were land owners, farmers, market gardeners — the growing community of those who have acquired an acre or two and have gone into food production in a small way — and plain country dwellers who traditionally pay a call when the fair is on.

They watched herdsmen parade around the ring the thick - set beef animals, the 11 breeds of graceful dairy cattle and the scrubbed bacon hogs. They looked over the 15 breeds of sheep and plodded through the farm layout where the agriculture ministry is demonstrating how to grow better grass.

Plenty of Beef

They watched stockman Sidney Downes groom his two - ton Hereford bull. Free Town Bystander, prior to leading him into the judging ring.

Guernseys, the "golden butter" breed, vied with Jerseys and Ayrshires in dairy cattle classes. The Guernsey supreme championship went to Sir Briam Mountain. Canadian - born Lord Beaverbrook copped a third prize with an Ayrshire heifer.

There were goats in the show too. Their milk is used for ice cream as well as for cheese and for medicinal purposes.

Young farmhands demonstrated a gasoline - operated sheep - shearing machine.

An old - time shepherd wagered one of the youngsters that with has hand shears he would do a better job than the mechanical clippers. They went to it. Both had the fleece off in the same time — eight minutes.

FIT IMPORTANT

Montreal—(CP)—Improper fitting shoes are apt to cause both headaches and footaches, says the Shoe Manufacturers' Association of Canada. Housewives should not wear sloppy wornout shoes because they throw the body out of balance. To work efficiently women need correctly fitted shoes.

INTERNATIONAL SANCTUARY

Fort Francis, Ont. — (CP) — More than 3,500 tourists come each year to see the bird sanctuary begun nine years ago by Eric Ericson, local storekeeper who came from Sweden in 1927. Among his birds are two Australian black swans, believed to be the only ones in Canada, as well as Canada geese, Egyptian, Russian and Chinese geese. Coins thrown into a wishing well pay for the sanctuary.

Prize Fighting on Par With Cock Fighting, Falcons Committee Told

By ALLAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, June 7 — (CP)—Britain's prize fighters ducked in dismay. A member of parliament said that for law - making purposes, they're about on a par with fighting cocks and falcons.

Thomas S. Collan, once a keeper of game-cocks, told a Commons committee he can't understand why people want to stop cock-fighting when they don't raise a hand against boxers bashing themselves silly.

When a big fight comes to town, Scollan said, everybody gets excited.

"Someone over the wireless tells you how often the other fellow gets knocked down and covered with blood, and everybody sits in his home gloating, especially if it is an Englishman who knocks out an American."

The point came up on discussion of a bill to stop baiting of animals. Specifically, it will be unlawful to keep "any animal trained or prepared for use in fighting or baiting."

In all seriousness, Scollan suggested the bill apply to boxers and wrestlers, since man is animal. The Labor member for Renfrew West added that he had grown up near the Renfrewshire Kennels and couldn't understand why fighting among humans was any better than fighting among game-cocks.

R. T. Paget, Labor member for Northampton, said if the bill became law it would involve complications for the R. A. F. because falconry was an R. A. F. trade.

Kenneth Young, replying for the Home Office, said the legal interpretation probably would be that the word "animal" in this case would not include a human being. It was doubtful whether a single comprehensive definition could be found for the word.

The committee adjourned without reaching a decision.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was thinking to herself after supper, saying to pop, I'm dying to see prunella Riley in Hearts Without Flowers.

If it's really so vital to your health, I'll brake down and take you, though personally I feel I can live long and comfortably without ever seeing Prunella Riley in anything, pop said, and ma said, Theres one difficulty, that's the only complication. I meen I sent in my name and fone number to the Qluention Box program, and this is the night for it, and if they call our number and ask me some simple question and I anser it correctly I'll win a perfect flood of prizes including a summer cottage on any lake I choose ti name, but naturelly if they call our number and I'm not home to anser, the whole thing will end rite then and there, she said.

My dear, I'd ask nothing better than to stay home with you in the shade of a nice quiet telefone, but I owe it to my conscience to explain the facts of statistics to you, pop said. In the ferst place, hundreds of thousands of names and telefone numbers have been sent in, so your name and number have just one painfully thin chance out of all those. In the 2nd place, even the simplest questions have many incorrect answers. A simple question is, what's the color of your tooth brush? What's the anser? he said.

Pink, ma said. Or no, I'm thinkinbg of my last tooth brush. I'd say it's a rose color, or is it yellow? she said, and pop said, There you are, I mean there you're not. At a conservative estimate, you have one chance in half a million.

Well, is that as mutch chance as as anybody elts has? ma said. Just anser yes or no, she said, and pop said, Yes.

Then I'll stay home and wait, ma said, My conscience is cleer.

And he changed his shoes to his suippers looking as if he felt better instead of werse.

Election Victory Formula Sought By U.K. Labor

Blackpool, England, June 7 (CP)—The British Labor Party's biggest annual conference, which aims at finding a formula for victory in next year's general election, opens here today with a background of industrial unrest.

The "Sunday Only" rail strike, which threatens to spread next weekend and the shipping tieup on west-coast ports, comes at a time when the government is most anxious to avoid any threat to its prestige.

The Labor Party is counting on the conference to give a pre-election demonstration of political and industrial solidarity.

Party leaders have streamlined plans for the five-day meeting which will face the two main issues of economic policy and the program by which the Party hopes to win another five-year term.

Interest is focussed on Tuesday's debate on the government's wage and price stabilization policy, basis of the recovery plan.

Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, faces the task of rallying the rank and file to continued support of his "recovery-through-austerity" program.

The conference today was slated to consider a special national executive report on the recent expulsion from the Party of two Labor members of parliament, Konni Zilliacus and Leslie Solly.

The conference was preceded by intensive behind-the-scenes activity by leaders to ensure that the draft of the second five-year plan is steered safely through its two-day debate Wednesday and Thursday.

[illegible] VICTIM CARRIED TO TESTIFY IN COURT

SWEEPS WINNER

Alex McKee of Toronto holding a ticket on Amour Drake, second place winner in the Derby Saturday, will collect $40,000 from the Irish Sweepstakes. He was the largest Canadian money winner identified immediately after the race was run. He is shown here with Myrtle Hebert, also of Toronto, who won $23,193 from the Army and Navy Sweekstakes based on the same race. Miss Hebert credits her rabbit's foot with the win.—(CP Photo.)

Laundry Wagon Driver Wins $38,655 in Sweep

Montreal, June 7 (CP)— The Saturday story of fortunes won in the sweepstake on the Epsom Derby carried a punch line for Florian Deneault, 32-year-old laundry wagon driver who will reap a harvest of $38,655.

Deneault was notified earlier in the week by the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans Association of Canada that he had drawn a ticket on Moon Dust, a non-starter in the Derby and worth only $400.

What he didn't know was that the association was trying to notify him that there had been an error and he actually held a ticket on Nimbus, winner of the English classic.

He was out on his laundry route when the radio and newspapers announced he had won top prize. He told reporters that it was all an error, that he actually held a ticket on a scratched horse and remarked "better the $400 than nothing; but there is quite a difference."

There were no reporters around when he received the confirmation of his winnings.

Serge Tulpanov (shown centre in box in uniform), chief of the Soviet Information division, is surrounded by members of the Russian secret police as he takes control of the meeting.—Central Press Canadian.

Senate Committee Approves North Atlantic Pact

Washington, June 7 (AP) — The 12-power North Atlantic Pact under which an attack on one member would be regarded as an attack on all, Monday won the unanimous approval of the United States Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Chairman Tom Connally (Dem. Tex.) said the committee's action "will have a tremendously beneficial effect on the world situation." He predicted the Senate will ratify the alliance overwhelmingly. Canada, Britain and Belgium have already ratified the Pact.

The committee's 13 to 0 vote for the treaty came on the fifth anniversary of the Allies' D-Day assault on Europe, and as State Secretary Acheson was in Paris for the Foreign Ministers Conference was nearing an agreement on a report recommending state ratification of the Pact was relayed to Acheson last Saturday, and in a telegram Connally received from him Monday the Secretary said:

"The encouraging report of the Atlantic Treaty has just reached me and has given us all a tremendous lift."

FRONTIER U.

By Oren Arnold

"Oh," he said. "You—didn't come in with us."

"No." She stopped.

"I— look, Polly, would you mind walking out with me a ways? To talk? I don't want to take any more dancing lessons."

She turned to walk slowly beside him. "You'd better," she said, flatly. "You'll need them."

"Hunh?"

"Joy Boone dances a great deal, I imagine."

"Yes. I was thinking about her. It's what I want to talk about."

"Oh you want to talk about her to me." Polly's tone should have sounded a warning, but Ken Palmer was inexperienced.

"Yes. I—look, Polly, what do you make of tonight? In the car, I mean?"

Polly looked straight ahead at the desert! They had halted out under the stars beside a rail fence. "I don't think anything of it."

"I don't understand, either. I hoped maybe you could help me."

He said that almost pleadingly. Polly was suddenly touched. After all, Ken Palmer was just a big kid, she realized. Somebody's brother. Helpless, like Ward. No her brother Ward had more savvy, but —

"Oh Ken, of course I will if I can!" she said that impulsively, but quietly. "I mean, don't see anything to be concerned about. Joy is—is a very vivacious person, isn't she? She can be ever so important to Frontier University, too; remember that!"

"Yes. But—"

"She just likes to be entertained. You must—uh, talk to her, Ken. You are perhaps too bookish and scholarly. Too bashful."

He contemplated that. Should I have—kissed her?" he spoke in genuine awe.

Polly didn't answer at once. Finally she murmured, "I didn't say that. I didn't say that, Ken!"

She avoided looking at him. Instead, she found herself nervously fingering the buckle of her belt. It was a belt of palomino leather, hand-tooled beautifully by her brother Ward with desert flower designs, and it matched the leather "beanie" which he had tooled for her too. The "beanie" was a saucy thing topped off her ebony curls. It and the belt in turn matched the tooled tan slipper she wore. Her dress this evening was no "formal" but was a gray linen on which were stamped numerous cattle brands in brown, as if burned there. It was all a truly novel costume, a "western" that was infinitely becoming to Polly, making her look nearer sixteen than the twenty-one she was. Even Dr. Palmer had told her admiringly that she looked like a senior in high school rather than in college this evening.

But she wasn't thinking of her appearance now. She was still worried about the confusion in her heart.

"Out here in the West, Ken," she began, presently, "people are different, I guess. They act and talk more—direct. They aren't afraid of anything. Of anything, Ken! We like our men to make up their own minds, and then act as they feel is right. Independence is the word, I guess. Ward does his own thinking. So do my boy friends. You see, it's—"

"Polly!" Ken held out a hand, in sudden distress.

"Oh, I hate to chide you, Ken. You really are nice, and I want us to be friends. Honest I do, so very much!" She revealed something o fher emotional intensity here. "But Ken—don't you see?"

He looked at her, and was quiet. "No," said he.

Her lovely lips, crimson even here in the star glow, crimson and full formed and luscious with youth, took on a little pout of determination. She inhaled, and let the air out in a little sad, resigned sigh.

"Then, Ken, I can say only this—you better go talk to someone you can understand! You and I are not really old acquaintances anyway, you know. You are all in a whirl tonight, I can see that much. But you better ask somebody else to explain it. Somebody you can get along with. You better ask—Joy!"

She walked abruptly away from him then. Alone, she began quietly crying. That made her mad all over again. She hadn't wanted to cry this evening; she had wanted to have a gay time. Darn it, why did she have to get personally involved in things? Why had a mere strange boy and strange girl so stirred her up inside?

Something told her the future not only held, more tears, but a deal of close-to-the-heart fighting as well.

It was entirely characteristic of Joy Boone that she should make a two-way splash when she came to Frontier University.

"First thing, she had to make headlines by dropping out of a thunderstorm," Polly McMurray said to her brother, Ward. "Then she had to hire the college president's son for a chauffeur. Imagine!"

"Okay Sis. But why be so worked up over it?"

Polly glared at him. This was Sunday after the big barbecue and dance at Paradise Ranch. "I'm not worked up!"

"Heck you aren't! Strung tight as a banjo. You got to remember she's Joy Boone. The one and only. The world expects her to do things."

"Well, she does!" Polly had to smile now.

"Sure. 'Swhy we like her. Isn't it?"

"Of course, Ward. Joy is a very somebody. I don't blame all you Arizona boys for acting a trifle ga-ga last night."

"Hey, hold on!"

"But after all, there were six hundred Frontier girls present! You men apparently saw only one of them. You!"

Ward had been platting a horse's tail, to give it a wave. But he turned now to his sister. "Maybe you have a point there, at that. Still the Boone person is definitely a boon. Know what I mean?"

"Yes. Yes, Wardy. Yes-s-s!"

He grinned at her.

Their conversation was, in effect being duplicated in at least a thousand other places about Phoenix and Frontier U this day. The local newspapers of course had covered the airplane excitement and then the big social doings at Paradise. Astute reporters had gotten the whole thrill of Joy's advent into Arizona society missing none of the fun.

It all gave the eastern girl a send-off for Monday. morning Literally everybordy on the campus knew her and she had to pretend she knew them. She was spotlighted with prominence here, but she was accustomed to that whereever she lived.

By Friday she had quite upset the gossips again. Far from being "just another pretty face," she had preven herself brilliant Old Dr. Peabody in English Literature 310 said that her insight was remarkable, and Miss Hannelly the mathematics dean said that the new Boone girl was quickest of all pupils she had known. She was doing well in music, and she found time to spend an hour each day at the college rifle and pistol range.

Dr. Palmer, president, watched the matter with interest.

That earnest educator also had noted the lavish way in which a rancher will spend his money on something he likes, and had seen Joy Boone spend generously on things she wanted. Somehow, he told himself, that golden flow could be diverted unselfishly to the advancement of learning; somehow he could tap that generosity for the benefit of the school he had sworn to serve.

'Frontier has limitless possibilities," he said, in his first address to the student body. 'Phoenix has no other university and is growing rapidy, destined to be the capital city of the southwest. Its Frontier should be a co-educational school, unhampered by political or other affiliation. I pray for your help in bringing this about. How? I cannot say. We who work here must find an answer."

Polly McMurray got to know Dr. Palmer well because he and his son Ken drove out to Paradise Ranch three times in the first two weeks of school. The third time they brought Bettina Carlson with them. This was Sunday again.

"How is Joy, Miss Carlson?" Polly asked, that afternoon.

"She is fine, honey. Don't you see her often on the campus? I had hoped you two might be friends."

"Oh, we are!" Polly hastened to assure her, almost overdoing it. classes together, and she is awfully busy. I imagine."

"She's the new thrill in society," Ward put in. "Eh, Ken?"

'Quite so. Quite!"

"You talk like you knew!" Ward grinned at him. "They do say you and Joy get along."

Ken blushed at that. He had been ill at ease in Polly's presence ever since that night of the barbecue. He glanced self-consciously at her now and got the full effect of Polly's brown eyes, big and beautiful. He felt that they were accusing him.

That was because he really had been seen with Joy Boone a great deal. All at once, now, it occurred to him that he may have overdone companionship with her.

"See here, Polly," he began, lamely, "you don't think that I—I—?"

He was frowning a bit, in his own confusion.

"That what, Ken?"

"I mean—well about me and Joy. Look, I want you and Ward to be my friends! It's just that Joy and I—" He halted again, finding his words inadequate.

Polly spoke quietly. "You don't have to a apologize to me, Ken! What on earth made you think so?"

That didn't help the serious young man. "It's just that she and I—well look, Joy overwhelms one. And—"

They had been in the patio of the rambling Paradise ranch home, and as they walked through the broad arch that formed the central entrance way, they saw a horseback rider approaching.

"Hello, who's big black is that?" Ward asked, seeing the horse first. "And the—sa-a-a-ay!"

La Linea, Spain (AP)—An Englishman fought bulls here Sunday and the fans liked him so much they carried him on their shoulders from the bullring to his hotel.

Salem, Ore. — (AP)—A Marion county prisoner sawed at the jail bars for five hours yesterday and then dropped from a window at the feet of Sheriff Denver Young and four deputies.

"After all this work, I meet you guys," said convict Jack O'Neill Todd as he recognized the shotgun squad.

Warsaw, Poland — AP)—Poland's hard - working peasants had a day of rejoicing today.

"Peasants Holiday" was celebrated by some 15,000,000 farmers with vodka, song, and folk dances.

Heavy rainfall and predictions of bumper crops give them cause for joy. The estimates are that the 1948 harvest of almost 11,000,000 tons of wheat, barley and rye will be exceeded. And that was tthree times the 1947 production.

Burtonwood, Lincs., England — (AP) — The United States Air Force today formally accused Donna Delbert, the cutest music hall fire - eater in Britain, of leading a double life.

The airforce asserted that Dorna, with her hair cut off, is private Delbert Hill of Philadelphia, a deserter since 1945. Hill was ordered to appear before a general court martial Friday.

The fantastic masquerade came to an end April 7 at Newcastle.

Acting on a tip from an undisclosed source, British police picked up the 36-year-old Hill at a theatrical boarding house where he stayed between turns on the stage.

Hill was hefty but fetching in women's clothing, a shoulder - length hairdo and plucked eyebrows. A girl assistant in the fire-eating act said she had been with him for months without suspecting the truth.

"Donna Delbert, demon fire - eater," was Hill's billing.

Police Nags to Get Hard Work--No Pomp

Halifax — (CP) — Halifax police horses, nursing an ill-concealed yen for splendor and ceremony, won't lead the parades when this port's bicentenary celebrations move off in June.

They'll be working too hard. "Be handling the crowds," remarked Police Chief George Fox.

The seven steeds, all natives of Ontario except for a lone Maritimer, haven't missed many celebrations. But next month they will perform a less colorful though more important duty.

Halifax is one of four cities in Canada with a mounted police division. Vancouver has seven mounts; Montreal and Toronto, 45 each.

The division was formed in 1942 to extend patrols to outlying districts — parks, cemeteries and sparsely-settled areas. In charge is Sgt. J. H. Power, only one of the original patrol. Six horses were obtained from Ontario in 1942 and six constables ,made up the original force. Some time ago another horse and constable were added.

The original group was trained by M. B. (Dick) Swicker of the Halifax Riding and Driving Club. The horses have carried out a wide variety of duties. They have led funerals and helped remove cats from trees.

The horses work a 36-hour week. They begin work at 8:15, knock off at 4:15 and have two hours for lunch.

"They get a day off every week," says chief groom John Corkum. "Makes 'em easy to get along with."

The man on horseback is always in the public eye. "Good publicity for the force," says Chief Fox.

GORE

Gore.—Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fox were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Bush of Consecon on Sunday evening.

Mrs. Rhoda Sager of Gananoque, who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Brickman returned home on Saturday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Brickman accompanied her and spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Kirby of that place.

Mrs. A. Pulver and Sheila Margaret of Peterborough, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb. Pulver this week.

A large number attended the music festival at Massassaga Church on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redner accompanied the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willett Black to Kingston on Sunday to see Mr. John Lattimer, who is seriously ill.

35 NATIONS REACHED AGREEMENT

Harry Bate, newspaper cvorrespondent covering the second Canadian International Trade Fair for the Mercantile Guardian of London, received word from England that his two-and-a-half-year-old daughter Therese was seriously ill. Therese asked daddy to send her a doll from the Trade Fair. Trade Fair exhibitors heard of this, and though they come from 35 different countries their hearts beat as one. Harry Bate was deluged with gifts for Therese, which have been flown to England. Here we see happy Harry, holding a walking horse given by a United States toy exhibitor, dolls from Czechoslovakia, Canada and England, a doll's chair from Singapore, and a purse from Scotland. He is flanked by Royal Canadian Mounted Police Constables Jim McGray of Bedford, N.S., and Jim Hornett of Calgary, Alta.

Flinton School Pupils Back In Classes Pending Action By Men Teachers' Federation

Kingston, June 8 (CP)—Pupils of Flinton Continuation School returned to classes today, pending action by the Ontario Men Teachers' Federation on behalf of principal Keith MacEwan. The federation refused to act in the case unless the students called off their strike and returned to school.

"If no action is forthcoming," one informant stated, "the pupils will strike again.

The students went on strike last Friday in protest against action of the school board in forcing MacEwan to resign. They picketed the school and homes of members of the three member board and carried placards expressing their disapproval.

If the school board will not rehire MacEwan parents of the 50 striking pupils may start legal action to unseat the board members, said Mrs. Cecil Casey, one of the parents.

"We have been given legal opinion that the present school board is illegally constituted," Mrs. Casey said.

A meeting of the board scheduled for Tuesday night was not held. No explanation was offered by members.

400,000 TO VOTE IN NOVA SCOTIA FOR LEGISLATURE

Liberal Premier Seeks Fourth Mandate Since Year 1933

Halifax, June 8. (CP)—Nova Scotia's 400,000-odd voters elect their 21st legislature Thursday.

Premier Angus L. Macdonald will seek his fourth mandate on the Liberal record since 1933. He has led the party for 16 years with the exception of a five-year term in the federal cabinet as Minister of National Defence for Naval Services during the Second World War.

Progressive Conservative Leader Robert L. Stanfield, making his first bid for a provincial seat, leads a full slate of 37 candidates with the slogan "the tide has turned". His party was not represented in the last House.

The C.C.F. which formed the two-man opposition in the 20th legislature, has campaigned on a platform of increased social benefits. Its house leader, Russell Cunningham, issued the party manifesto calling for two additional cabinet ministers and expansion of hydro and telephone facilities under public ownership.

There are 21 C.C.F. candidates in the field, full slates of Liberals and Progressive Conservatives and an Independent-Liberal.

Premier Macdonald closed out his campaign Tuesday with an address in Kentville while Mr. Stanfield spoke in the rail town of Truro.

Federal Leaders Pay Visit

Provincial campaigns were strengthened by visits from National leaders of the three major political parties. Prime Minister St. Laurent, Liberal; George Drew, Progressive Conservative and M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F., carried federal campaign banners into the Maritimes last month preparing for the forthcoming Dominion general election.

Seven seats were added to the 30-seat house by a redistribution bill passed in 1948 and proclaimed at dissolution of the House, April 27.

Nova Scotia has had 14 administrations since it entered Confederation in 1867. Ten of these have been Liberal and four Conservative. With the exception of a Conservative government from 1925-33, the province has elected Liberal rule since 1882.

Polling tomorrow will be from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. A.D.T. (10 a.m. to 8 p.m. E.D.T.).

Electronics Hobbyist Tries to Monitor Radio Potential of Human Mind

South Union, Me., June 8 (AP)—In a gadget-crammed farmhouse garret, a young electronics hobbyist is trying to monitor the radio potential of the human mind.

He says he can show that a physical effect can be broadcast by thought. He believes electronic brain waves are responsible.

Walter E. Linwood, 31, has been at it 15 years. He is tinkering with a device which he says indicates the mind can control animate or inanimate objects by electronic principles.

"Let's get this thing out of the carnival and into the laboratory where it belongs," Linwood said in an interview. "It promises a rational answer in electronics of such phenomena as clairvoyance and telephathy."

Clairvoyance is ability to "see" things happen without being present. Telepathy is unaided communication between minds. Whether either exists has long been a subject for scientific controversy.

Linwood's device is a simple—and familiar—apparatus.

Three ranks of common pins bristle point-up from a card. Thin oblong slips of paper teeter on the pinpoints. It is the same gimmick many a party-goer has glowered at, trying to spin the papers by force of mind.

"You don't have to stare at the slips or concentrate with clenched hands and furrowed brow," Linwood said. "All you do is fill your mind with the thought the slips will move, and have confidence they will."

He tried it. In each case, one or more of the paper slips revolved in a slow arc on its pinpoint. Several times, but not every time, Linwood "called his shot" and the designated slip turned as much as 180 degrees. Watchers couldn't tell whether the spinning was caused by Linwood or by light air currents.

Linwood said he has made the slips 'spin steadily' when unflustered by skeptical onlookers. He thinks an atmosphere of doubt or disbelief creates "interference" for the brain's electronic signals.

Linwood claims adequate research can bring from the mind "undreamed-of possibilities in practical, workable electronics."

SOVIET DEMANDS FLATLY REFUSED BY CONFERENCE

Wants Voice Equal To Other Three Powers

Paris, June 8 — (AP) — The Foreign Ministers Conference faced a continued deadlock today, with Russia demanding a voice equal to that of the combined three western powers in the control of Berlin.

This proposal for a fifty-fifty voice—actually one power equalling three — was flatly rejected Tuesday by State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States as a device for imposing the will of one occupying power on the other three.

Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky of Russia had proposed, pending the election of a Berlin city government, that the Soviet commander appoint 50 per cent of the personnel of a German commission to run the city and supervise elections.

Vishinsky said this would be "fair and equitable." Acheson said it would not, on the basis of population or any other standard, reminding that West Berlin had two-thirds of the population. He said also that the Soviet - sponsored S. E. D. party had received only 19 per cent of the vote in the 1946 election, and therefore 25 per cent voice for the Russians in the control of Berlin would be generous.

The Western ministers urged adoption of the United States plan to give Berlin's administration the leeway enjoyed by Vienna where the city administration can do as it pleases unless all four of the occupying powers disapprove.

Vishinsky, who spoke two hours against the United States proposal, said he wanted to continue his speech today.

Search Every Boxcar For Trespassers and Arrest Ten Persons

Toronto, June 8 (CP)—Ten persons, including three juveniles were arrested by C.N.R. police Tuesday as the officers made a search of every boxcar at Toronto's Don and Bathursts St. railway yards.

All were charged with trespassing. One of the juveniles was also charged with having an offensive weapon after police found a large knife in his possession. Most of the men caught gave addresses in the Maritimes.

World Trade Negotiations Outlined to Manufacturers By Manager of CMA Dept.

St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, N.B., June 8 (CP)—Growing popularity of customs unions make it hard to understand attacks of imperial preference, the annual convention of the Canadian Maufacturers' Association was told today.

R. N. McCormick, manager of the C.M.A.'s traffic department, said in a report that the criticisms were especially hard to fathom "when one remembers that no attack has been made on preferences" between non-British countries.

"It almost seems like a case of 'what we have we hold and what you have got we want,'" he added.

Mr. McCormick recently returned to Canada after attending the International Trade Conference which opened at Annecy, France, April 8.

He said proposed customs unions reported in various stages of negotiations are as follows:

Benelux, short for Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg; South Africa-Southern Rhodesia; Denmark, Norway and Sweden; Colombia, Venezuela, Ecuador and Panama; France-Italy; Lebanon-Syria.

"The setting up of these customs union," Mr. McCormick commented, means that each country in the union will secure a much wider domestic market than it would otherwise enjoy.

In regard to recent import restrictions by South Africa, Mr. McCormick said:

"Permits on essential imports will be issued on the basis of 25 per cent of 1948 imports from the sterling area and one-sixth of 1948 imports from the dollar area. On the face of it, it looks like discrimination."

"The general purpose of T.A.T.T. is to reduce tariffs and ultimately to eleminate other barriers to trade. This process, however, can be negatived by a country which resorts to currency control of various kinds.

Mr. McCormick dealt at length with possible competition from Japanese goods.

"In December the Association learned that the United States had approached the United Kingdom and certain other governments with a proposal to extend most-favored-nation treatment to Japan.

"We stated that the threat of competition from Japan in manufactured goods is a very real one as there were already instances where Japanese textile products were laid down in Canada, freight and duty paid, at prices much below the Canadian bare-factory cost of similar and competitive lines.

"When the agenda for the Annecy session was issued it included an item entitled "most-favored-nation treatment for occupied area." No mention was made of Japan but all delegates know that Japan was the occupied area in question. Some delegates are of the opinion that the item will not come up for discussion."

Permanent Controls Imposed On Private Industry in U.K. If Labor Returned to Power

—MORRISON

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Blackpool, England, June 8 — (CP)—Britons were notified today that if Labor is returned to power in the next general election permanent controls will be imposed on private industry in the country.

Herbert Morrison, deputy prime minister, made this point today at the Labor party's annual conference.

An act giving the government the same peacetime grip over industry and manpower that it held during the war expires in 1950. Morrison said a re-elected Labor government would pass a "permanent and revised version" of the law.

He outlined to the conference a program to nationalize six more industries if Labor gets another term in office—meat wholesaling and cold storage, sugar refining, cement making, most life insurance, "all suitable" minerals and water supplies.

Speaking with the fervor of an evangelist, Morrison received an ovation greater than that accorded Prime Minister Attlee Tuesday.

He repeated warnings of other government leaders that hard times still are ahead for Britain.

"Wages and salaries must march in step with production. Nobody must have the illusion that he can get things without earning them, that the state is a magical organization that gives things away."

He declared: "Private industry cannot any longer be allowed to go just any way. Private industry or finance which indulges in anti-social conduct will be pulled up sharp by a Labor government."

"Fight of Our Lives"

Morrison said the "next election will be the fight of our lives" but predicted a Labor victory.

Rank-and-file speakers, including several Labor members of parliament, appeared generally satisfied with the election program but criticized several details. There was criticism of high pay for top administrators in state-owned industries and of the way the industries are being run.

UMBRELLAS FOR ALL TIMES

Toronto, June 8 — (CP)—Umbrella salesman Alex Godineau of France picked a bad time to display his wares at the International Trade Fair — right in the middle of Ontario's worst drought in years. There is one consolation, however. Godineau said he has some types not meant for wet weather, but can be carried at all times.

Britain's Effort Consistently for Peace--Alexander

Hong Kong, June 8. (CP)—Defence Minister A. V. Alexander said today Hong Kong's small garrison and proposed reinforcements are not all Britain has available in case the Chinese Communists threaten this Crown colony.

Asked by reporters what Britain would do if the colony is attacked, Alexander said "we will deal with the problem when it arises."

"Our objective is to maintain as friendly as possible relationships with whatever is the government of China," he said.

'No one has struggled as consistently for peace as His Majesty's government, and we will endeavor to continue to do so," he said.

Asked whether a direct attack on the new leased territories on the Chinese mainland would mean war, Alexander replied:

"What usually happens when an attack is made? We would have to look into the circumstances under which the attack was made.

"If an attack were made on orders, we would deal with such a position as it arose."

He said he had come to Hong Kong because this is a part of the world in a condition of flux and difficulty, and naturally as defence minister he wished to study the situation on the spot.

Asked whether sea, land and air reinforcements planned for the colony would be sufficient for its defence, he replied "these are not the extent of our resources."

Southampton, England—(Reuters)—Further reinforcements for the Hong Kong garrison will sail Friday aboard the troopship Empire Trooper, it was announced today. These will include the Royal Artillery Regiment and a part of a company of the Royal Army Service Corps.

BIG TROUT BOSSES CARP

Paris, Ont., June 8 (CP) — A big brown trout in the Grand River here not only bosses carp around but gives fisherman the run - around. Residents have noticed the big fish chasing the lazy - type carp near the bridge. Attempts to hook the trout have been unsuccessful — so far.

CSU MEN PICKET U.S. EMBASSY IN LONDON

Protest Intervention Of U.S. Influence

London, June 8 — (CP)—Striking Canadian seamen, who said they were protesting United States intervention in the Dominion's trade unions, Tuesday night picketed the United States Embassy in London.

The 35 pickets, involved in a strike which has paralyzed one-fifth of Britain's shipping, paraded in front of the Embassy on Grosvenor Square and the nearby United States naval headquarters in the heart of London.

Bud Doucette, 26, former quartermaster of the Beaverbrae, one of the strike - bound Canada ships, said the group, all members of the Canadian Seamen's Union (T. L. C.), were protesting intervention by the American Federation of Labor in Canadian trade union politics.

One of the posters, carried by the seamen, who said they would continue picketing until they received a reply from the United States Embassy, said:

"American government, keep your hands off Canadian trade unions."

Doucette said the A. F. L. has threatened to boycott all British ships because of the support the C. S. U. strike has received from dockers in a number of British ports. The A. F. L. has often charged the C. S. U. of being dominated by communists.

The C. S. U. called its strike, which now has reached world-wide proportions, March 27 after ship operators in Canadian east-coast ports signed a working agreement with the rival Seafarers International Union (A.F.L.).

British dockers refused three weeks ago to unload Canadian vessels involved in the strike at Avonmouth. Nearly 12,000 stevedores in Avonmouth, Bristol and Liverpool have since then walked out.

Princess Margaret To Make Private Visit to States

London, June 8. (AP)—Princess Margaret will make a "private visit" to the United States this Autumn, a source close to the royal family said today.

An official spokesman at Buckingham Palace commented: "We have nothing to say at the moment."

Private sources said the Princess would visit Washington, probably as the guest of the British Ambassador, Sir Oliver Franks.

"The visit is purely private," the source said. "There is no question of Princess Margaret persuading her father whether she may go to the United States. The King has never opposed her trip there."

This referred to published stories that the King's younger daughter wanted to make the visit but was trying to get her father's permission.

Corrupt Nationalist Regime Leaves Bad Taste in Shanghai

Shanghai, June 8 (AP)— The Chinese Communists have received a pretty good press since Shanghai's fall. That might make some wonder abroad if the reports are written under duress.

They are not. There has been no official pressure on foreign correspondence, and no censorship.

The only difficulty in reporting the Shanghai story is that it is hard to see important Communist officials.

Why then the good press?

Let two shipmasters who frequently made the Shanghai run answer. They were interviewed Sunday at Seattle.

Captains T. H. Mithassel of the China Mail and B. W. Joyce of the Island Mail said conditions in Shanghai now would be better because "they couldn't be any worse."

The condoned corruption, maladministration, and all-round ineptitude of officials was of such proportions that it was hard for anyone who wasn't here to believe.

Against the fresh memory of this virulent rot and chaos, the Communists were bound to look good.

The new broom, while sweeping clean, may get polluted by the filth it sweeps up, yet there's evidence the new regime is trying to get at basic reforms.

The Communists so far have been meticulously correct. They appear to be sternly honest. They berate what they call foreign imperialism, but they haven't laid a hand on any foreign national or his property.

"For the first time since I have been in China, I discussed business with a government official without one wrod,hint, suggestion or gesture toward an under-the-table private greasing "pay-off," one trader said.

Hardest-Hit Areas Bruce Peninsula, Caledon Region

Ontario Hay Crop Estimated At About 25 P.C. of Normal

Toronto, June 8 — (CP) — Severe frosts reported during the night brought further damage to Ontario crops as the drought entered its 14th day and temperatures took a nosedive.

Farmers in the Caledon area were hardest hit by the frost with temperatures dropping to 14 degrees below freezing. Heavy frost covered the fields and rooftops and ice had formed on small ponds in the district. Spring crops in the Barrie-Bradford area were reported set back 50 to 60 per cent.

Many fields of newly-planted tobacco were feared ruined and fruit trees and vegetables also suffered heavy damage in the St. Thomas and Port Stanley district where four degrees of frost were reported.

Serious damage was also reported in the Bruce Peninsula area with more cold weather expected today. Tomatoes, beans, potatoes and root vegetables were hard hit.

At Agincourt in suburban Toronto wells on many farms have gone dry and farmers have resorted to trucking supplies of water in an effort to save their crops.

From Port Hope to St. Thomas

Causing a $5,000,000 - a - day damage toll, the main drought area is in Southern Ontario. It extends from Port Hope, about 60 miles east of Toronto, to St. Thomas. areas south and further west are faring somewhat better. The dry area reaches northwest to Lake Huron and the Bruce Peninsula.

Officials said that in the Toronto and Simcoe areas, where the drought is severe, farmers are losing hope their crops can be saved.

Some farmers claim their fields are so dry nothing less than 48 hours of rainfall will be of much help.

The hay crop, valued at $78,833,000 last year, has been estimated to be nearly 25-percent of normal. Some hay crops are being cut already by farmers in an effort to save part of the harvest.

In Halton county corn has failed to germinate and in Peel county crops are scanty because of parched soil.

In the north, residents are warned that, although the forest fire situation is under control, danger of new outbreaks remains high because of the dry spell. Some 38 forest fires were brought under control in the last five days.

Paris, Ont., June 8 (CP) — A male pheasant has taken over the job his two female companions refused to do—hatch 13 eggs. Although the male is doing a fine job, his owner, Mrs. L. Clarke, doesn't know whether he will continue it. The males usually kill chicks if left in the pen with them.

San Juan, Puerto Rico, June 8 — (AP) — Searchers used flares today to scour murky, sharp-ridden waters where a transport plane crashed Tuesday. At least 54 of the 81 aboard are believed to have perished.

United States B-17 bombers dropped the flares to aid Coast Guard and Navy craft press the pre-dawn search for some 20 persons still missing.

Capt. D. H. Dexter, in charge of the United States Coast Guard base here, said he did not believe any more would be found alive. Twenty - five of the 27 saved themselves by swimming to shore.

There were 19 children and six crew members aboard the chartered plane which crash landed in a rainstorm Tuesday, after radioing back it had engine trouble. The ship had just set out for the United States.

By last night 27 survivors and 34 bodies had been fished out of the rocky waters where the plane sank. All the passengers were Puerto Ricans.

Most of the passengers aboard the C-46 were bound for Miami, Fla., and Newark, N.J.

The plane fell in deep water just off the coast about four miles from the San Juan airfield.

Voters Have Right To Know Terms Of Agreement

Newmarket, Ont, June 8 (CP)—Canadian voters have a right to know the terms of any agreement between George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and Premier Duplessis of Quebec, if such an agreement exists Health Minister Martin said here Tuesday night in a campaign address.

"If Drew and Duplessis have an agreement, we have a right to know what it is," He said. "An alliance is understandable but not an agreement."

(In Quebec, ministers of Mr. Duplessis' cabinet have spoken publicly in favor of Mr. Drew and his party candidates in that province. J. D. Begin, the Union Nationale party's organizer-in-chief, said May 23 that "In 75 per cent of the Quebec federal ridings Progressive Conservative party organizers are Union Nationalizo organizers.")

"Every voter in Canada should know what the agreement is so he or she can judge what Drew's policy and conduct of government would be if he were elected," Mr. Martin said.

Dr. Paul Foster, a recent graduate of Ontario Veterinary College, will open a practice in Belleville and surrounding district. He is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Dunam N. Foster of Bloomfield, Ont.

Say Boy Beaten, Refused to Submit To Indecent Act

Although suffering from a "beating-up" administered after he refused to submit to an indecent act, a 'teen-aged boy, who resides with his parents on Herchimer Avenue, retained sufficient presence of mind to get a good descrpition of his unknown assailant.

The father of the boy told police that shortly before eleven o'clock last night, his son was going home, when he was accosted by the stranger. The stranger made suggestions and when the boy refused, he was offered money.

Again the lad refused to comply with the stranger's request, and he was immediately set upon and beaten.

The boy, however, got a good description of his attacker and this was forwarded to police by the father of the youthful victim.

Reckless Heaver Of Bottle Will be Getting Summons

There are times when pitching control can be too good. This applies to those who heave their liquor bottles out of speeding cars, as well as baseball pitchers.

Yesterday Arthur Demorest, Purdy Street resident, was riding his bike north on Front Street when a car passed him. As it drew abreast a bottle (empty) came sailing out of a window of the vehicle striking Demorest, but causing no injuries. He jotted down the licence number of the vehicle, so somebody will likely be hearing from somebody.

Work of Planning Board Will be Curtailed if Grant Not Forthcoming From Council

The work of the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board will be seriously curtailed this year unless the $2,000 appropriation from the city is paid into the organization.

Members of city council were advised of this fact at their regular meeting Tuesday evening by J. T. Ransom, planning board member, who stated the board had been advised the appropriation from the city was not forthcoming.

He said township of Thurlow had agreed to pay $600 and Sidney $400 toward the planning board. Unless the city made its contribution the board would have to go out of business for the year.

Mr. Ransom went on to say that the board had a considerable program lined up for this year and had intended spending about $1,500 in the field and on plans.

"How long can you function with the $1,000 which was received from the townships?" asked Mayor Storey.

"The thing is that we cannot plan unless we have assurance that the money from the city is forthcoming," was the reply.

Set Up In 1947

Alderman Armstrong noted the planning board had been set up in 1947 to draft out a plan of land use and land values with the view of city expansion. "The planning board area took in the area five miles outside the city," he said. The object of the planning board was to designate property for industrial and housing use.

"Why is it that the city was to pay twice as much as the two townships combined when most of the work of the board is in the county?" asked Mr. Clarke. He was told that this amount had been considered a fair share for the city.

A letter from Freeman Burrows, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, regarding payment of the city share toward the planning board, was read in council. The matter was left for consideration by the finance committee and town planning committee.

Bombshell Tossed Into Local Housing Picture in Council By Chairman Health Dept.

The Department of Health at Toronto may not grant approval for the construction of 100 veterans' housing units on the county home property south of Dundas Street.

This was the bombshell tossed into the local housing picture Tuesday evening by Glencoe E. Thompson chairman of the local Board of Health, who stated it had been brought to their attention that sanitary sewers running into the bay at the foot of MacDonald Ave., may cause an objectionable odor for residents, who may move into the proposed housing area.

"The Board of Health is not trying to throw a monkey wrench into the proposed housing program for veterans," assured Mr. Thompson as he addressed council on the matter. "It is just that we are protecting ourselves as result of the matter having been brought to our attention."

Mr. Thompson said that Alderman H. G. Allin, as chairman of the Industrial Commission, had brought the matter to the attention of Dr. A. E. Berry of the Department of Health.

Mr. Thompson went on to say that if Dr. Berry sanctioned the construction of houses in the area from a health standpoint, then the housing proposal had their approval.

Council Commended

Council was commended by the speaker on its move to get the construction of an incinerator under way in the city. He said the location of the incinerator was not of great concern with the Board of Health, but contrary to a suggestion from one of the aldermen, he did not wish to "see everything placed in Foster Ward."

Mayor D. L. Storey stated council hoped to get approval from Dr. Berry for the housing project.

Alderman Armstrong noted that permission had been obtained for a temporary sewer on MacDonald Avenue dumping into the bay to serve the Parkwood Heights and Churchill Heights areas. He said this ultimately would be taken care of by a sewage disposal plant.

"This matter possibly would not have been brought so forcibly to the attention of the health authorities if it had not been for the efforts of one individual to gain a certain point," he said.

Always Receive Approval

Mr. Armstrong went on to say that thus far the city had received the approval of the department of Health for every move it had made with respect to housing.

Later Alderman Everett Liddle read a recommendation passed by the local Board of Health at their meeting on June 2nd., which referred to the sewage disposal conditions existing in the east end of the city where additional homes were planned.

The recommendation called for the matter to be brought to the attention of the Department of Health and that Dr. A. E. Berry be requested to come to the city to inspect the situation.

Council Gives Green Light For Building of Incinerator

City council at their regular meeting Tuesday evening gave the green light for construction of the long proposed incinerator plant, when they authorized that plans and specifications be drawn and tenders called for its construction.

The matter was brought to a head by the report and accompanying recommendation of a special committee composed of the chairman of the board of health, Glencoe E. Thompson, Alderman H. J. Clarke, Chairman of Finance, and Alderman "Sandy" Lummiss, Chairman of Public Works, who recommended the quarry on the north side of College Street as the location of the plant.

The city solicitor was authorized to prepare the necesary debenture by-law, while detailed plans and specifications will be drawn and tenders called for the work.

When plans for the filtration plant were mentioned Alderman Tice wanted to know if the city was still under contract with Meadows and Critoph for them to supply plans.

If we are still under contract with this firm then we will be hooked for payment for plans the same as we were for purchase of the incinerator hearth at $55,000," he said.

Mayor Storey replied the city was not going to use plans drawn by Meadows and Critoph and therefore would not be liable for payment.

Matter For Solicitor

Alderman Armstrong suggested whether the city would be liable should be a matter for the city solicitor to decide.

At the same time he forwarded a recent suggestion from Gore and Storrie, consulting engineers, that location of the incinerator in Foster Ward near the proposed site for the sewage disposal plant may be advantageous from a cost standpoint.

"Don't try to dump everything down in Foster Ward", said Ald. Tice.

"Why did you not tell council of this before?" asked Alderman Don Thomas. "The incinerator has been kicked around for the past year or more and this would serve to hold it up longer."

Alderman Armstrong replied the matter had been mentioned to him by the engineering firm only last week when they had seen in the newspaper that the city planned to proceed with the incinerator.

Accept Recommendation

Council voted to accept the recommendation of the special committee calling for plans to be drawn, subject to the decision of the city solicitor as to whether the city would be liable to Meadows and Critoph for plans previously drawn.

Speaking to the council on the matter of a site for the incinerator Cleo Colling, member of the parks board, stated it would not be in the interests of the city to have the incinerator placed on Zwick's Island.

Mr. Colling did not elaborate as to why the Island would not be a suitable location for the incinerator but stated the parks board at some later date would be prepared to give the reason.

PRIME MINISTER HAS SORE THROAT, HALTS CAMPAIGN

Advised by Doctor Not to Carry on Tour for Next Three Days

Quebec, June 8 — (CP)—Loss of voice, the price of a marathon speaking program that on occasion produced a dozen speeches a day, today forced Prime Minister St. Laurent to interrupt his election tour.

The decision to postpone his speaking engagements came as he was about to embark on three days' travel through parts of his native province around Quebec and Montreal.

An announcement by the Prime Minister's office said:

"The prime minister has been advised by his doctor that due to a minor attack of laryngitis he will not be in a position to continue his speaking tour for the next two or three days.

"The program which already was agreed upon for this period is therefore postponed."

It was understood an attempt to catch up on the campaign schedule will be made later.

Mr. St. Laurent revealed the condition of his faltering voice last night to 500 people gathered in the Chateau Frontenac ballroom for the annual banquet of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

Requirements of Library Bd. Greater Than Council Grant Members Told by Delegation

Failure of the local library board to have their annual requisition in to council before the estimates were struck resulted in the requirements of the board not being met, city council members learned last evening.

Dr. J. W. Kinnear, as member of Corby Public Library Board told council that only the regular council grant had been made to the library when actually their requirements had been considerably greater. He said a new furnace had been installed on which there was still owing nearly $700. while other commitments brought the amount owing up to nearly $2,000.

He pointed out that the library had been presented to the city which had committed itself to keep the building in proper repair. Installation of a new furnace came under capital expense and did not come under the ordinary expenses of the library board.

Sharp-Interchange

Discussion of the matter brought a sharp interchange of words between Alderman Hyde and Alderman H. J. Clarke, chairman of finance. Alderman Hyde said the city estimates had been passed in too great a hurry and that they should have waited for the requisition from the library board.

"I strongly object to the inference that the finance committee was guilty of neglect," stated Alderman Clarke. "The library requisition was not in at the time the estimates were passed."

Alderman Tice wanted to know if the chairman of finance was aware of the extra expenditure at the library at the time the estimates were passed and if he did why it was not included. Mr. Clarke replied that he had known of the furnace installation but that council last year had turned down a request from the library board for assistance in paying the account.

Board Receives Bill

Miss Beatrice Riordon, treasurer of the board, read a bill received by the Library Board from Charles L. Hyde and Son, who had installed the furnace at the library. It was indicated that the bill, amounting to $689.05 had remained unpaid since last December. The above amount was the balance due for installation of the furnace which had cost $1,400.

Alderman Hyde brought in a recommendation that the library receive an amount sufficient to pay their indebtedness but Mayor Storey wanted to know where the money was coming from.

"The city had a surplus of $2,400 last year and there is a saving in the cost of council meetings this year," returned Alderman Hyde.

"If Alderman Hyde knew as much about books as he might know, he would realize that the surplus referred to was only an operating surplus," pointed out Alderman Clarke. "At that time we still owed the bank thousands of dollars."

The matter of payment of the bill was referred to the finance committee.

Asks Tax Exemption

Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., Mr. A. L. Davis, also appeared before council, asking for tax exemption for the Y. M. C. A. building except for local improvements. He said the board was not asking anything unique as it had been the practice for such institutions to receive tax refunds for over 100 years.

Alderman Hyde recommended the Y. M. C. A. be given the usual tax refund for 1949 but the matter was referred to the finance committee.

Tabling of the recommendation brought another flurry between Alderman Hyde and Alderman Clarke, the last named Alderman objecting to what he termed as "continual interference with the finance committee by Alderman Hyde."

"If you want him for your chairman of finance, I'll resign," he said.

Alderman Hyde came back with the statement that the failure of the library board to receive the money it required was due wholly to the unfortunate system of holding council committee meetings. "Council as a whole is not informed of what the other committees are doing," he said. "Some things in the city estimates are not yet understood."

Sought Information

Thomas Rees, president of the Belleville and District Allied Labor Council, appeared before council asking information as to the amount of grant which the Chamber of Commerce had received for the current year.

He said that the Chamber of Commerce request for $2,500 and the Labor Council request for a like amount had been presented to council at the same time. They had written on several occasions asking the amount which the Chamber of Commerce had received but had not been given the courtesy of a reply. He asked for the information verbally. Council session was concluded, however, without the request being granted.

Council approval for the establishment of a bus service between Wellington and the city was given with a request that the Department of Highways grant a franchise to H. R. Williams of Wellington. Route of the bus service from Wellington would be by way of Ameliasburg and Rednersville, it was stated in the application.

No Action Taken

No action was taken by council on a recommendation from Alderman Orliff Lloyd calling for preparation of a by-law for the borrowing of $75,000 for renovations to the city hall.

Speaking to the recommendation, Alderman Lloyd stated the proposed renovation to the city hall to contain all city offices and the police station, was a step in the right direction and that the change would eventually have to be made.

City solicitor R. A. Pringle stated he was prepared to draw the by-law but he pointed out that definite plans and costs would have to be secured before sanction for the work would be given by the municipal board. The recommendation was withdrawn pending receipt of more details as to cost.

Will Close Part of Street

Council recommended the closing of a portion of MacDonald Ave. which runs into Bull Street and authorized the solicitor to prepare the necessary by-law.

A ten miles per hour speed limit was set for Parkwood Heights and Churchill Heights until a dust layer application is given the streets. The reduced speed limit is to lessen the dust nuisance.

Ben Sopher was given permission to erect a business place on Moira Street, West, residents of the area having signified they had no objection. Two building lots in the county home sub-division facing on Bridge Street were sold to the United Church at a cost of $500 each. Purchase of the property was made through the John Street Church building fund.

A recommendation from the Chamber of Commerce asking that the city meter by-law be amended to allow free parking on Wednesday afternoons was referred to the traffic committee.

Should Extend Courtesy

Another request from the same organization asking that courtesy be extended to United States tourists when they were found to have violated parking regulations was referred to the tourist and publicity committee and to the traffic committee.

Council concurred in a resolution from the city of Kitchener asking that a financial grant be given by the government to totally disabled children from six to 16 years.

Council also concurred in a resolution from Brantford calling for hydrant rental being included in the costs of fire protection.

It was also recommended that when any communications dealing with council policy is received by any official between council sessions, every member of council is to receive a copy and no other information to be given out until the matter has been before council.

Buy Fire Chief Car

Council recommended that a new Pontiac coach be purchased for the fire department through Gourley Motors, and also approved of the purchase of a new 75-foot life saving chute. The chute now at the fire hall is on loan from Bickle Seagrave and after being thoroughly examined was found to have some defects.

In the future the local building inspector will not be permitted to issue building permits for hotel installations until he has referred the application to city council. This measure was taken by council in view of the opposition which developed after the building permit had been issued for the proposed hotel on Dundas Street, East. The new regulations will not affect the permit issued, it was stated.

The silo at the county home property purchased by the city was recommended sold to G. Gordon Bailey, subject to the approval of the county board of management.

Approve Motion

Council approved of a motion relieving the fire department of the job of flushing streets. Alderman Duffy, as chairman of fire, in presenting the motion, stated that members of the fire department could not be expected to flush streets and at the same time give proper protection for fire.

"It isn't that they haven't the energy. It is just that when men and equipment are away from the fire hall they are not on call for fires," he stated.

The motion brought a suggestion from Alderman Tice that the city purchase a flusher to clean city streets which he declared were disgraceful.

City engineer Charles Mott stated the business section was swept each morning at five o'clock by the street sweeper, but merchants later swept cleanings from their stores onto the street. It was agreed that a flusher would improve conditions but no action was taken other than to refer the matter to the Public Works Department.

THREE OF RADICAL SONS OF FREEDOM SENT TO TRIAL

Nelson, B.C., June 8 (CP) — Three members of the Radical Sons of Freedom group of the Doukhobor sect were committed to trial yesterday, charged with the April 17 bombing of Peter (The Lordly) Verigin's tomb.

Committed were Peter Swetlishoff, self-confessed arsonist, Mike Barisnikoff and William G. Konkin.

SPEEDS PROCESS

Gas is frequently pumped into oil wells to force the petroleum to the surface.

Cool Spell Causes Much Discomfort, No Frost Damage

What was almost a touch of January in June descended on the city and district last night as lowering temperatures sent residents home in a more or less shivering state.

The lowest temperature registered at the Purification Plant here was 40 degrees, eight degrees above freezing.

Residents who do their own spot of gardening looked with some concern at newly-planted tomatoes, but although in some cases the plants drooped in what seemed to be a despondent manner, there were no reports of damage.

A breeze that felt "chilly" compared to the warmer zephyrs of the preceding days was not tempered by the warm rays of the sun, and many people were noted wearing light coats.

In some cases houses were cool to a degree of discomfort and some residents turned on oil furnaces to take the chill out of the air. In some cases grate fires were lighted and enjoyed during the cooler hours of last evening.

However, cheer up and don't plan too much on getting the fur coat out of storage. The weather man promises warmer weather for tomorrow with clear sunny skies. Low for tomorrow will be 44 degrees, not exactly tropical weather, but better than what has been the vogue for the past two days.

Memorial Chimes To be Dedicated At Special Service

At a special service for the dedication of the Memorial Chimes, the Madoc Legion will parade to St. Peter's Presbyterian Church. Maj. the Rev. J. Y. Fraser, Chaplain of the Toronto District, and Chaplain of Sunnybrook Hospital, will be the guest speaker.

Major Fraser was a Chaplain in the Canadian Army in Canada and overseas from 1940-1946. For three years he was Chaplain of the Highland Light Infantry. Prior to the war he was minister of Victoria Presbyterian Church, Toronto.

The service at 7.30 p.m. Sunday June 12th, also commemorates the 75th anniversary of the laying of the corner stone of the present fine building.

The minister, Rev. M. W. Heslip, will give a brief resume of this historical event.

TURNING THE PAGES OF
"CANADA UNLIMITED"

"The cod was so thicke by the shoar that we hardlie have been able to row a boat through them." With these words, in 1498, John Mason described fishing on the Grand Banks. By 1504, hundreds of European fishermen were sailing to the east coast of Canada.

Early English fishermen dried their cod on racks in the sun. This meant bases along the coast, and many settlements were founded. French, Basque, Portuguese and Spanish fishermen followed.

For 300 years, French and English fishermen maintained a rich industry. They jealously guarded the Grand Banks, the greatest fishing area in the world. And Canada's inland waters abounded in fresh-water fish, opening up new opportunities in this age-old trade.

In 1886, fishing on the Pacific Coast became important. Today, British Columbia provides half of Canada's yearly catch.

A large part of our 238 million-pound catch in 1948 was sent to many countries. Fishing and its allied industries—canning, processing, extracting meal and oils—play an important part in our lives. Yes, there's room to grow in Canada Unlimited.

DISCOVERY

There is a never-ending struggle going on between disease and the efforts of man to lift the blight of illness from mankind. How often there is news marking new steps in the progress of medicine and discovery. Few days pass without some reference in the press to some new method of treatment or some new medicine or drug against diseases which cause a heavy load of pain and take a toll of life.

Quietly and without fanfare science moves on, doctors and scientists move forward to new fields, passionately devoting themselves to the quest of some panacea or cure of human ills.

In the wide field of invention discovery advances. In the newspapers yesterday was told the story of a promising treatment for peptic ulcers by means of coating the stomach "with a protective layer." This will cheer many people. And so it is in the field of medical discovery which is large and offers full scope for the investigator and hope for man.

TOURISTS

The advance guard of tourists are here. The holiday season is ready to burst into the fulness of possibilities of which tourism is capable. The work of welcoming and receiving the guests from the country to the south is one of the most important from a business angle and from the standpoint of the creation of the spirit of good will which is the natural consequence of the exchange across the borders of the United States and Canada peoples.

Americans and Canadians tour the Dominion and the United States because it offers all sorts of possibilities of entertainment and discoveries, for to most persons only the fringe of the possibilities of enjoyment of touring in these countries has been explored.

Both the United States and Canada have learned from experience that the well-treated and well-satisfied tourist is the best advertising of Canada's and the United States' almost infinite variety of appeals. More people are touring. Where is there a lovelier continent than North America for the peoples of the two lands to fraternize in one another's country and get to know their own and the other country accurately.

The tourist is a good messenger and advertiser. He knows when he has been courteously treated, he knows good roads and hospitality, he knows such attractions as fishing and hunting and this continent despite the passage of more than four hundred years since it was discovered and began to be opened up to the first tourists, the explorers and dauntless seekers of conquest over the unknown.

On the highways and byways of these two countries will be millions in the weeks ahead, all full of the spirit of freedom and admiration of what has been accomplished. They visit people who like themselves are free.

THE PLOW AND THE TRACTOR

Turning the soil with a team and walking plow is an art, almost a lost art. Two or three generations ago it was the key to farming, and a man was judged by the straightness of his furrow, the smoothness of the plowed ground and the thoroughness with which the stubble was covered. The annual plowing match was the year's greatest festive occasion, on a par with today's community baseball tournament or stampede.

Then the sulky and gang plows came along, and the farmer rode instead of walked. Tractors supplanted horses, and no one was on the plow at all. Now the one-way disc has supplanted the plow almost 100 percent., and except for breaking sod the plow is an obsolete implement. In fact it is hard to find one anywhere in most prairie communities. —Calgary Albertan.

The tractor has changed the face of the countryside in many respects, and it has changed the tempo of farm work so that one man can do the work of two or three.

Here in Alberta, for instance, we have some 89,000 farms, down about 6,000 from the peak number some 15 years ago. On those farms there are today 50,000 tractors at work. With less farmers and more tractors our production is higher on the average than ever it was when horses were the chief source of power.

It is said that, now that power implements have taken over across Canada, the machinery on farms runs up to a bill around $70,000,000. Farming is still the largest single industry in Canada.—Lethbridge Herald.

Man perfected by society is the best of all animals; he is the most terrible of all when he lives without law and without justice.—Aristotle.

JUST FOLKS

WHY MEN WORK

Beyond the task that dreary seems
Lie every worker's fondest dreams.

His table set with wholesome fare,
The frocks his little girls will wear;

The home with pretty things aglow;
The school to which his boy shall go;

The little joys that sweeten life;
The dress and bonnet for his wife;

For all his loved ones when they're ill
Assurance of a doctor's skill;

The right to walk with head erect;
From what is offered to select.

Beyond his task the toiler sees
Achievement of such dreams as these.

The man who bought the ring, which appeared to be gold and had a stone which might be glass, took the ring to a jeweller who told him that the ring was 14 karat gold and that the stone was a genuine diamond. He placed the value of the ring between 125.00 and $150.00. Now the police are looking into the matter and would like to question the man who sold the ring to the dealer.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

AN OLD ALIBI

In his stimulating book, "The American Political Tradition," Richard Hofstadter has a chapter on "The Spoilsman: an Age of Cynicism." He quotes a railroad tycoon of about 75 years ago who wrote one of his political agents and instructed him to go and bribe a judge. "If you have to pay money to have the right thing done," wrote this man to his agent, "it is only just and fair to do it." Hofstadter makes the observation that many men who were building the great industrial empire at that time were so filled with sense of the magnitude and importance of their tasks that practically anything was justified in getting these tasks accomplished. If a judge had to be bribed or a legislator had to be bought well and good. The end justified the means.

But does the end ever justify the means? From the beginning of time men have been claiming that it does. As we look back over history, we see that the worst crimes ever perpetrated against humanity were perpetrated by people who wanted to get good things done by wrong means. Kings, to maintain peace and order, murdered in wholesale lots. Leaders of thought slew rebels who arose with new ideas.

Nothing ever justifies any means we may employ unless those means spring from the immutable moral principles upon which the life of the universe is based.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Off the record of course there is a good deal of indignation in the ranks of all three political parties over the meat heads, saps and simps who are employed in positions or some authority in the party organizations. Talk to the average loyal Grit, Tory or CCF-er these days, and you get the same story. The organization hires the darndest people....

It is the same before every federal election. And it calls to mind the story about Frederick the Great of Prussia. On his staff, to a position of great importance, the emperor appointed a general of noble family who, as everybody knew, was not quite all there. He had been born dull-witted. But in those days, family prestige took no account of a man's brains. Not only did Frederick appoint the general to one of the highest positions on his staff, but he favored the general with his close and intimate association.

In the due course, this roused a great deal of jealousy and irritation in the rest of the staff, and in the army. And when the other senior officers could bear it no longer, they went in a deputation to Frederick and with all humility protested against the employment of so dull-witted a gentleman in a situation of such authority close to the emperor.

Frederick laughed "Of course I know our friend is simple-minded. That is precisely why I employ him as I do. When I write my orders, I read them to him. If he can understand them, anybody can understand them. And my mind is at ease."

In politics, you have to keep your sights low. Too many smart characters in the organization have ruined many a political party. Old and wise politicians know this. It is better for the party to suffer a little grief at the hands of the stumblebums in the organization than to get out of touch with all the myriads of stumblebums who vote.

Mackenzie's Column: Countries Must Ratify Pact or Become Croppers

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

The foreign relations committee of the United States Senate, having unanimously approved the much-debated North Atlantic Pact, advises the Senate to adopt it as the best means of avoiding another world war and warns that failure to ratify "would have disastrous consequences abroad."

Why the emphatic language? What gives this treaty such vast importance?

The value of this historic pact lies in the fact that it is a declaration by the 12 signatories that they stand together as a unit, one for all and all for one.

The amount of military power which they can muster to back the treaty doesn't matter so much as that exhibition of determination. Actualy they represent great military power—but the thing that counts most is their decision to use it collectively in defence.

Having tentatively agreed to this treaty, the signatories — Canada and the United States, with Britain, France and eight other Western European nations—are likely to come a cropper if they do not ratify the treaty.

It would advertise a great weakness to possible aggressors, and would be an almost irreparable shock to the morale of the European signatories who have dared so greatly in making the preliminary agreement.

Brave Little Countries

It has taken great courage for countries like Denmark and Norway to make this stand in face of warnings from Moscow to lay off. A breakdown of the treaty would be wholesale encouragement to the Russian bloc to intensify the cold war.

Help For Acheson

However, Senator Tom Connally, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, predicts that the Senate will ratify the alliance overwhelmingly.

The Senate committee's approval of the Pact may well strengthen the hand of State Secretary Dean Acheson in the difficult negotiations at the Big Four Foreign Ministers' council meeting at Paris.
